Petulantly she glanced over the pages of the theatrical weekly. She noticed an advertisement. Here was a part, evidently hard to fill, which might be the chance she was looking for. Promptly at 3 o'clock she stood before the door of 308 Merchants building. But had the ad said 308 or 306? Well, there was a tall, dark, willowy girl—the kind managers somehow always choose for the best roles—hovering about; she'd better hurry. She rushed through the door of 308.

While she waited she wondered if, after all, she was cut out for an actress. She envied girls whose work she regarded as "important" who by their cleverness exerted a real influence on men and affairs. She realized within herself that she had been most unconvincing as the younger sister in "Where Are You Going?"

"Just step this way, please." Miss Briggs complied with the pleasant, businesslike request with her usual alertness and found herself seated by the desk of an elderly business man in a neat blue suit.

"Your experience?" he said. She flashed him a pleasant smile. "Frankly," she said, "I'm afraid it isn't worth very much to you. Of course, I have references. But I want a chance to do something really worth while. I'm tired of trifling with small things. I know I can make good with big ones." He looked into her keen, straightforward eyes.

"I feel you are right" he said. "It isn't usual, but start in tomorrow at 9."

"Thank you," she said. "Good day."

In the corridor two girls met for the second time. And for the first time Ruth Briggs noticed the name modestly printed on 306. A growing suspicion leaped into a conviction. She pointed a finger at the other girl.

"You got my part in the new comedy!" she said, accusingly. Frieda Barodi guipsd. Suddenly things straightened themselves out for her, too.

"You got my job as private secretary with that real-estate firm," she said. Ruth grinned.

"Want to trade?" she asked.

"No," said Frieda. "Do you?"

Ruth shook her head, happily. And arm in arm they went downstairs to enjoy an ice cream soda together.—Exchange.

Little Talks on Thrift

BEGIN SAVING NOW

(By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.)

One of the savings of Poor Richard was: "A man may, if he knows not how to save as he gets, keep his nose all his life to the grindstone, and die not worth a groat at last."

If you are not saving money today, do not make the mistake of believing that time will make the beginning easier. Even though your income may increase and your general circumstances in life become more prosperous, you will find it just as hard to save money later on. One of the most serious mistakes made by many is the assumption that at some time in the future it will be easier to save money and get ahead than it is at present. Human experience has shown that even with the attainment of a larger income, one is no more apt to save than before because when the income grows the standard of living is quite apt to rise in even greated proportion. Saving is not so much a matter of income or financial position as it is a question of inclination. Determination rather than material circumstance is the deciding factor. The man who goes along from day to day without saving is making the task harder for himself. He is paying a usurious interest for his procrastination which may some day completely crush and overwhelm him. He is undermining his character, vitiating his well and gambling his time against fate.

The saving of a small amount of money today makes one better equipped to save something tomorrow or next week. We are made stronger in character and have the inspiration of our bank account, our investment securities or some other concrete evidence of our prowess.

The hardest dollar of all to save is the first one.

One dollar saved today is worth many theoretically saved tomorrow—a day which never comes.

YOUR HEALTH

GOLF VERSUS OBESITY.

(By John William Shuman, M D., Los Angeles, Calif.)

All doctors of medicine are frequently consulted by corpulent human beings desiring a reduction in avoirdupois. They generally emphasize right off the bat that they want the doctor to reduce by medicine and not by much exercise! If they promise to take a little exercise and use the pills that the doctor prescribes it is easy sailing for all parties concerned, for the best pills are golf balls.

The too-fat man or woman gets that way often by under exercise. That is the bald truth, although an inherited tendency, habits of overeating and drinking and certain diseases may be contributing factors. No honest, knowing, regular physician will reduce an individual's weight without exercise. That is a truism. All so-called reduction cures without exercise are not only fakes but are positively harmful and injurious.

Walking, and golf demands it in bounds, in sand, mud, grass, and weeds, is a healthy, cheap, and efficient form of exercise. Golf and walking need old friends and old shoes. Few folks like to walk alone, and golf isn't done that way. As for old shoes in walking there is a reason. It's to lessen friction, the cause of corns, bunions, crooked toes, callouses, blisters, aching legs, thighs, hips, backs, head and everything.

The next tea you attend look at the feet of the fat ladies. You will see shoes which make it only possible for their owners to "sit and grin"—they can't walk in them, hence they must just sit around and grow fat. If they were to start walking in such shoes off tee number one at the country club, they would just have to sit down and roll all the way to the bottom of the hill, and after playing the tee shot of number 3, they would throw their shoes over the fence and finish in their bare feet. One good thing golf, like the army, demands, is biz, comfortable, strong, husky shoes which cure almost all of the ills of the feet. Good feet make an individual itch to use them; and one who uses the feet sufficiently just can't get fat.

In conclusion, no one ever saw a fat golfer who played the game. There is a big difference between brawn and fat. There are plenty of 190 and 200 pound golfers who would tip the scales at 210 and 230 pounds if they did not take their pills seriously.

Stories That Recall Others

Solved

"Mother, where do chickens come from" asked Joan as she munched her Sunday wishbone.

"From eggs," replied her mother.

"Then where do eggs come from?" Joan came back. Then, with another survey of the dinner table: "Oh, I know! Eggplant!"

Prize Inhaler.

Muriel had been to the zoo for the first time, and was giving her grandmother a long account of what she had seen.

"And which animal did you like best, dear?" asked her grandmother when Muriel had finished.

"Oh, the elepant!" was the reply. "It was wonderful to see him pick up buns with the vacuum cleaner!"

Not an Antique.

Two kindered spirits of college days were having lunch with a third, a young woman of about thirty-five, at her pleasant home in a small town. They were extravagant in their admiration of her old furniture, a grandfather's clock, a charming corner cupboard and some spool beds. Then their gaze fell upon a battered-looking high chair in one end of the storeroom, and they began to "oh" and "ah" about that. "Here, here!" warned their hostess. "Wait a minute! Just because that was bought for me when I was six weeks old you needn't call it an antique!"

Oil Keeps Eggs Fresh.

Bathing eggs in oil is the latest method for keeping them fresh and sterilized, according to reports from the General Electric company. Eggs at the rate of 360,000 per 10-hour day are passed through a bath of hot oil having a temperature of 235 degrees Fahrenheit. The oil is said to fill the pores in the eggshell and prevent air from entering.

Taking Census of Whales.

Even if whales had no value for blubber, oil and bones, there would be sympathy with the present enterprise of the British government in sending out two vessels—one of them Capt. Scott's famous Discovery—to attempt a census of the cetaceans. They cannot hope to count them all, but they will fire darts with the identification disks, to lodge in the hides and to be collected at a later date, as evidence of the range, age, habits and longevity of these huge mammals of the ocean.

The primary aim of the official mission is to call a halt on the extermination of the beasts that represent a survival of prehistoric monsters. Not long ago the slaughter was wholesale and reckless, as in the case of the buffalo; but even though whales no longer ascend our rivers and the fleets have ceased to go forth with their harpoons and vats to lonely seas, the whale deserves preservation; and the circumpolar lands increase in value the whale will be in growing demand as a staple article of food, locally obtainable, for an industrial population.

Soviet Trade With U. S.

The claim attributed to the American Department of Commerce that more than half of the soviet union's trade for the year was with the United States, is refuted by the actual figures. While 29.7 per cent of the soviet union's imports—more than from any other country—came from the United States, the percentages of total trade for the three leading countries were: England, exclusive of dominions and colonies, 25.7; United States, 18.4 and Germany, 16.6.

MANUEL PERRY CAUGHT AGAIN DELIVERING BEER AT NIANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 13—Manuel Perry and George Hulbert, both of Waterford, were arrested in Niantic tonight charged with transporting liquor and brought to New London and made prisoners at police headquarters. At 11 o'clock they were taken back to Niantic and admitted to bail of $1,000 each for arraignment in a justice court Tuesday. The state police obtained information that Perry was going to deliver a load of beer at a Niantic store. Officers Kennerson and Busch went to the store and awaited the arrival of the beer. When an automobile in which the beer was being transported reached the store the officers searched the car and found several cases of beer. They arrested Perry and Hulbert, the latter being a helper employed by Perry. Perry until recently resided in New London and has a police court record here for selling liquor. His last conviction in the New London court was about two months ago when he was fined $200 and costs, on each of two counts.

20TH C. V. ANNUAL REUNION THIS MONTH

Echoes of the Civil war engagements at Raleigh, N. C., Bentonville, N. C., Silver Run, N. C., the Siege of Atlanta, the battle of Peach-Tree Creek, Ga., and Gettysburg will be heard when the few remaining members of the valiant 20th regiment of the Connecticut Volunteer Infantry assembles at Grange hall, Cheshire, Thursday, Aug. 23 for the 63rd annual reunion of that honored outfit.

With the passing of the years the ranks of this regiment have thinned out until there are but a few of the old veterans able to gather and talk over the "good old days" but as long as there are two of the regiment able to be around the reunions will be held.

The committee in charge of arrangements for this year's reunion consists of Charles E. Russell of Cheshire who served in Company A of the regiment as a private, Thomas Mulligan of South Windsor who served as a corporal in Company I, and William E. Latham of Marlborough who served as a private in Compan C.

The Twentieth outfit was made up mostly of men from New Haven county and three companies from Hartford county. A few members from other parts of the state included John Huntington of New London and Joseph Lombra of Stonington. There were several members from Norwich and a few from other towns in the eastern part of the state.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPT. EMPLOYEE MISSING SINCE YESTERDAY MORNING

Waldo Beirkmaier, 23, employed in the engineering department of the state highway department office in the Thayer building, has been missing since Monday morning. He is thought to be temporarily mentally unbalanced, and the state police have been asked to be on the watch for him.

Beirkmaier, whose home is in Waltham, Mass., has been acting queerly the past day or two. Monday morning he reported for work at the state highway department office but as it was noticed that he was not well, he was advised to return to his room for the day. He left the office but instead of going back to his room on Otis street, boarded a Norwich-Danielson bus. When he left this city he had less than a dollar with him. He rode as far as Central Village on the bus and when last seen was trudging along the highway towards Danielson. He is thought to have started for Waltham where his parents reside. As far as known, all trace of him was lost at Central Village. His parents were notified of his disappearance.

When last seen the young man was wearing a blue serge suit, blue shirt and no hat. He is about five feet ten inches in height, black hair and of light complexion.

LOCAL YOUNG MEN TO ENTER SEGAL SEMINARY

Having passed the entrance examinations, conducted personally by Dr. Phineaus Churgin of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological seminary, known as the "Yeshivah College of New York," the following local young men will leave September 3rd for New York to enter the Meyer Segal seminary: Isaac Gordon, 315 West Main street, Yosef Gordon, 257 West Main street and Abner Crumb, 8 Ward street.

Five students passed the examinations which were held at the local Jewish institute, Sunday, Aug. 5th. The fifth young man who passed the examinations, Morris Saffer of 83 Washington street, hasn't decided whether he will leave this year or the following year for the seminary.

All these young men graduated from the Norwich Hebrew Institute in 1927 and took a post graduate course in 1928. Some of them intend to enter the Yeshivah, the teachers college, and some intend to enter the Rabbinical seminary. The course at the teachers college is a four year course and at the Rabbinical seminary the course is from six to eight years.

BOUND OVER TO UNITED STATES COURT

Charged with violation of the Mann act Donato Porcelli, 39, waived examination on presentation Monday morning before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson and was bound over to the September term of the U. S. district court in New Haven under bonds of $1,000, which were furnished. The accused is wanted by the federal authorities for his connection with the alleged house of ill fame conducted at North Stonington by Samuel Brogno, and which was raided by the state police. Two New Hampshire girls arrested at the time are said to have been brought to the North Stonington house by Porcelli and others.

Porcelli, who stated that he had been working in Brooklyn and arrived in this city a short time ago, was arrested Saturday evening by Capt. Thomas Murphy, when he appeared at the police station and asked if he was wanted. He was locked up until taken in charge Monday morning by U. S. Marshal A. T. Marshall of Hartford, who presented him before Commissioner Mathewson. Porcelli claims that he is innocent and had nothing to do with the house of ill fame or with the proprietor, Brogno.

In the city court Monday morning the charge of being a fugitive from justice against him was continued until this (Tuesday) morning, when it is expected that a nolle will be entered, inasmuch as a federal charge is facing him.

SUPERIOR COURT CLERK WAS UNIQUE CHARACTER

With reference to the late John C. Averill, for years clerk of the New London county superior court, the Hartford Times says:

Recent discussion of the retirement of George E. Parsons as clerk of the superior court for New London county mentioned his predecessor, the late John C. Averill of Norwich. Mr. Averill was a unique character, not well understood by all but highly regarded and well liked by those fortunate enough to enjoy his friendship. He had an encyclopedic memory and his recollection of cases in the New London county courts was astonishingly complete and accurate. It was one of his foibles never to use a notebook. He maintained that the notebook habit was destructive of memory and that the man who used such an aid could not get along without it. He maintained that the memory faculty was strengthened by using it. At any rate he used his and it was keen.

In manner Mr. Averill was somewhat brusque, except when among close friends and inclined to be irascible to strangers. He was kindness itself to those who came to know him. New reporters in court room found him somewhat of a trial. He had a clear conception of the dignity of the courts and he frequently put reporters in their places or tried to. The new man who had the temerity to ask Mr. Averill for a copy of the docket at the opening of court would in all probability be told to go back to his place and sit down until Mr. Averill could see if there were enough to go around. Eventually the clerk would come to him and bring the desired pamphlet. That was the way he wanted to do it. Reporters learned to wait for him to act instead of trying to hurry him.

In various other ways youngsters learned that they could not take liberties in the court room. He was always on his dginity and expected his dignity to be respected. An amusing story concerns him and Charles F. Green of Bridgeport, formerly secretary to ex-Congressman Jeremiah Donovan and later postmaster of the Park city, now himself being mentioned for the democratic congressional nomination in the fourth district. Mr. Green was employed by a morning paper in the eastern part of the state and arriving in the court room one afternoon, he approached Mr. Averill for information regarding the case on trial. In his customary brusque manner Mr. Averill indicated that he was too busy to bother with the matter at the moment. Mr. Green sat down and waited. As the time for the adjournment of court began to approach he observed that Mr. Averill was packing his books and papers in a trunk in which he kept them, preparatory to taking the train back to Norwich as soon as the session should have adjourned. He saw that he must get his information soon if at all, so he approached the clerk again and requested it. Mr. Averill chided him for not having come before and remarked that he was about to leave the court room and couldn't be bothered. Whereupon with the quick wit which made him one of the best newspaper men in the state, Mr. Green looked innocently at Mr. Averill and said: "Where, then, is the clerk. I am sure he will give me the information." Mr. Averill bristled. "I am the clerk," he said sharply. And again with all innocence Mr. Green said, "Oh! I beg your pardon. I thought you were the messenger." Whereupon Mr. Averill capitulated at once and supplied the information desired in a most genial manner, tacitly acknowledging that he had met his equal.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda thereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent. and now it is sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood Co. today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.

BOTTLERS GIVE BLEACHERY TEAM SEVERE SETBACK IN DUSTY LEAGUE

The United States Finishers chances for the Industrial league title fell heavily before the play of the Thermos Bottlers Monday night at the Academy with the Laurel Hill boys pulling a big surprise to win, 4 to 2. This made a gap of one and one-half games between the Bleachery and the first place Richmond Radiators. These two teams meet tomorrow night in without doubt the most important tilt of the year that will bring together Lloyd Jarvis and Lefty Dugas for the first time in the league race as hurling opponents. The Bleachery took the Ironmen in the first contest but Jarvis did not pitch then.

The Bleachery, however, not only lost ground in their dash for first place but also were set back almost on even ground with the third place Y. M. C. A. outfit who won at Hollyhock Island last night in the other Dusty league tilt. The Yers beat the Polish Citizens club in the last of the seventh, with two out, 2 to 1.

The Bleachery seemed to be "enjoying" an off-night at the Academy. They ran the bases poorly and this with mixed signals lost them chances to score and probably come through a victory. Young, Dabrowski and Dugas, the Bleachery's heavy-hitting trio, were completely silenced by Dudek, Thermos hurler and that probably accounts in some measure for the setback. The Thermos took the lead with three in their half of the second and the Bleachery retaliated with their only two runs in the other half of this stanza. The Bottlers finished with one in the next inning. Dugas and Greene provided fielding features while Dilworth tripled to open the second for the Bleachery for the longest hit of the evening.

The Y, at Hollyhock, put over the deciding tally in the final frame when Morin walked, stole second and scored on Jab Burns' single. Arico made his first pitching start in the league and pitched a nice game, allowing but five hits but his brief vacation in the last inning decided the tilt. Couture pitched well for the Y, also allowing but five safeties. Finn led with the stick for the Citizens and Couture for the winners. Fagan's long triple, however, was the feature clout of the session.

The Y and Bleachery are now tied in games but the Bleachery has the edge on games lost, so leads by a few points.

Tonight's Game

The Insilcos and Polish Citizens tangle in tonight's Industrial league contest at the Academy. Neither are very much of pennant contenders but still they can furnish some lively doings. Either Leo Jarvis or Jerry Lamphere will go to the mound for the Silvers with Al Mish or Izbicki catching while Pete Labenski will probably pitch for the Citizens with Busch catching. The game starts at 6:15, and this ought to be a fitting preliminary to tomorrow night's crucial tilt between the Finishers and Richmonds. The Greeneville team must win this game to stay in the running and the largest crowd of the year is looked for.

TILDEN NOT NAMED FOR EAST-WEST TENNIS PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—The name of William T. Tilden was not included among the members of an eastern tennis team the personnel of which was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis association for the annual East vs. West matches Friday and Saturday at Forest Hills, N. Y.

A chance that another player, possibly Tilden, will be added to the team was indicated, however, by the wording of the announcement which said: "The eastern team includes Richard N. Williams of Philadelphia, captain; Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Dr. George King, New York; Watson Washburn, New York; John Van Ryn, Princeton, N. J.; Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J.; Fritz Mercur, Harrisburg, Pa., and Teizo Toba, New York.

The announcement said the western team will be composed of George Lott, Chicago; John Hennessey, Indianapolis; John Doeg, Santa Monica, California, Alan Herrington, Neil Brown and Robert Sellers, all of San Francisco.

The schedule of matches and pairings are yet to be arranged but it was announced as probable that the two-day series will consist of five singles and three doubles matches.

In addition Miss Helen Wills, holder of the women's singles championships of England, France and the United States, will play an exhibition match Saturday afternoon with one of the country's leading men players yet to be selected.

This is a departure from Miss Wills' usual playing custom for although she practices almost exclusively with men players it is seldom that she plays special exhibition matches against men.

LOTT AND DOEG BEAT TWO EACH AT RYE

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13—(AP)—George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago member of the American Davis cup team, and Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., seeded third and fourth in the field, disposed of two opponents apiece in the eastern turf tennis championships today and joined Frank Hunter Berkeley Bell and Herbert L. Bowman in the third round.

With these stars safely past their first two tests attention centered on "Big Bill" Tilden, top seeded player, who meets J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., in his second round match tomorrow. Tilden gained the second round by default of his first round opponent.

In the women's singles which got under way this morning, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, of New York, winner of the eastern crown for the past several years defaulted so that she could prepare for the national singles championships starting next week at Forest Hills. Mrs. Mallory was top seeded player. Edith Cross, of San Francisco, who was seeded fourth, also withdrew from the field, leaving only Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of Santa Monica, Cal., of the seeded players.

Both Mrs. Chapin and Mrs. Bundy advanced to the third round today. The only upset of the play was the defeat of Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., by Mrs. Lillian Scharman Hester, of Brooklyn, by scores of 6-0, 0-6, 6-2.

Mrs. Chapin defeated Florence Sheldon of New York, 6-0, 6-1.

In the second round Virginia Rice, of Boston, defeated Violet Doeg, of Santa Monica, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3, while Mrs. W. Lamme, of Rye, N. Y., won from Marian Morrs of Boston, 6-1, 6-2.

ATHLETICS GAIN HALF GAME BY TROUNCING TIGERS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13—(AP)—The Athletics gained half a game on the idle New York Yankees today by beating the Tigers 7 to 1 in the opener of a series. It was the fourth straight win for the Mackmen and put them back into a position 4 1-2 games behind the lead.

Lefty Grove held the Tigers to two singles, which with a wild throw by Cochrane in the fourth saved the losers from being shutout. Grove also gave only one walk.

"Mule" Haas starred on the attack against Owen Carroll by driving in Bishop with a double in the first inning and later scoring on a sacrifice. He also increased the Athletics' shaky 2-1 lead in the seventh by driving Orwoll across the plate. The Athletics got two runs in this inning and three more in the eighth.

BOSTON TO SHARE IN ELIMINATION WITH NEW YORK

BOSTON, Aug. 13—(AP)—The heavyweight championship elimination bouts which Tex Rickard will stage to select Gene Tunney's successor, will be divided between New York and Boston. Sheldon H. Fairbanks, manager of the Boston Madison Square Garden, today received assurance of this fact from Rickard.

The Boston elimination matches will not be staged until November when the Boston Madison Square Garden will open in the new North station building.

Rickard's plan, according to Fairbanks, fits in particularly well with the ideas of Eddie Mack, who will act as matchmaker for the Boston garden. Mack is now conducting a heavyweight tournament for the championship of New England at Braves field and several of his star contenders are classed as contenders by Rickard, in whose hands Tunney left the selection of his successor when he retired recently.

ROSS SMASHES TWO PRO SWIMMING RECORDS

CHICAGO, Aug. 13—(AP)—Norman Ross, former world's swimming champion, today broke two professional swimming records in a one-mile swim against time at the Lake Shore Athletic club pool while training for the Wrigley marathon swim at Toronto, Canada, Sept. 5.

Ross' time for the mile was 23:32, breaking by nearly a minute the old mark of 24:11 1-5 set by Dave Billington in England in 1913.

On the way to the mile Ross smashed the three-quarter mile record which Billington established in Sydney, Australia, in 1907. His time, at the three-quarter mark was 17:34 1-5 as compared to Billington's record of 17:36 2-5

ARGENTINE POLO TEAM CRIPPLED BY INJURIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—The combination of weather and slight injuries suffered in early practice by John Miles, No. 3 and Arthur Kenny, No. 1 of the Argentine polo team have led Jack Nelson, captain and No. 2 of the visiting team, to request postponement of the start of the matches for the championship of the Americas.

In order to permit more practice for the Argentine team, the start has been postponed from Monday, September 3 to Saturday, September 8. The second match will be played on Wednesday, September 12 and the third, if necessary on the following Saturday, September 15.

In the final game played by the Argentines at Rumson, Miles was thrown and strained his shoulder, which has been slowly responding to treatment and is just rounding back into shape again. On the return from Rumson, a slight infection was discovered in Kenney's riding finger of the left hand. These two ailments, neither serious, have combined with the late arrival of Lewis Lacey from England to prevent proper practice for the Argentine team, particularly when rain washed away some matches planned.

An American test match will be played Wednesday at Piping Rock club, Locust valley, between the teams playing yesterday at Port Washington when the Blues defeated the Whites 11 to 6. The Whites will line up with Capt. A. Wilkinson at No. 1, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., playing No. 2, Malcolm Stevenson No. 3 and J. C. Cowdin, back. The Blues' lineup will include W. A. Harriman, E. A. S. Hopping, J. W. Webb and Winston Guest.

The Argentines will play at Meadow Brook Thursday against a side to be announced. The visitors will present a lineup of Arthur Kenny, Jack Nelson, John Miles and Lewis Lacey.

Another test match for the Americans will be played Saturday, sides and field to be determined.

Sunday at the Sands Point club, Port Washington, the regular Argentine lineup will be used against a side to be announced. Stephen Sanford and Capt. O. T. I. Roark will face the South American four if they arrive from London in time. Roark, No. 2 of the 1927 British international team played with Sanford this spring in London on the Hurricanes which lwon the British championship.

CARD OWNERS ALARMED AT SLUMP OF THEIR TEAM

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13—(AP)—Alarmed by the slump of the St. Louis Cardinals within a week from a lead of 6 1-2 games in the National league race to a lead only 2 1-2 games, President Sam Breadon, Vice President Branch Rickey and Manager Bill McKechnie held a conference today and announced that outstanding players on Cardinal "farms" would be recalled in an effort to bolster pennant prospects.

"We realize our situation is serious," said McKechnie, "we are going to do everything in our power to check this slump. It will be tough to cut players off the list, but the big thing is to protect our lead and win the pennant. Sentiment will have no place in our operations."

"The big blow to us," Breadon said, "was the loss of Walter Roettger, outfielder. It he had not been injured we would not have fallen into the slump."

Names of players were not mentioned, but Ernest Orsatti, Minneapolis outfielder, is expected to be one of those recalled. He was with the Cardinals part of the 1927 season and for the last month has been hitting well over .370.

After August 31 the twenty-five player limit will expire and the Cardinals can have as many as forty men on their roster.

Somerville Leads Field

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 13—(AP)—Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario, led the field in the 36 hole qualifying round for the Canadian amateur golf championship today scoring 74-71 for 145. Somerville held the amateur crown in 1926. Two strokes back of the leader came Carroll Stuart, of Ottawa, and Nichol Thompson, Jr., of Chedoke, Hamilton.

Thirty two players with scores of 163 or better qualified for the first round of match play tomorrow.

TAFTVILLE TRUMBULL STARS TONIGHT

For the bill of fare at Taftville this evening, the Fort Trumbull Stars of New London, will take the field against the Taftville A. A. in a game that should, by all accounts, furnish quite some fireworks. This will be the first showing in Norwich of the New London boys in several years, and they will find a welcome again here, as they did of old. They have a very fine ball club and have turned in some excellent games not only this season but in all the years that the club has been formed.

Taftville after cleaning up in spectacular fashion over the week-end is determined to continue their wing, and will certainly have to be on their toes to take over the fast down-the-river lads. The Stars have three moundsmen, either one of whom is capable of turning in a good game. Between Johnson, Locke and Zepp, Taftville will have to hit their mightiest to win.

If Lefty Dugas's finger is healed Manager Troland will no doubt use him in the box. With the use of his finger again, Dugas will also hit his stride with the stick, something that Taftville has felt the lose of since the injury. If Dugas isn't in shape, "Rabbit" Gauthier will do the honors. In any event the game will be air tight if the playing of the Trumbull Stars this season is any criterion. The game will start as usual at six fifteen. The lineup:

FINITE TAKES FEATURE AT SARATOGA TRACK

NEW YORK, ugust 13.—(AP)—Under a perfect ride by F. Moon, George D. Widerner's Finite captured the Water Boy handicap, a mile dash for three year-olds and up at Saratoga today. Finite, an odds on choice at 7 to 10, covered the distance in the fast time of 1:38 4-5. Sortie, the second choice, took the place by 15 lengths from Little Chief. Finite broke fast and led the field all the way. In the stretch, however, Sortie challenged. It was a hard drive to the wire but Finite held on gamely to win by a head.

Hawthorne's principal attraction, the Ascot purse, a mile and 70 yard gallop for horses of all ages, went to Mrs. R. Pollard's four year old gelding, Gold Mint. The Pollard entry, paying $41.86 for $2, beat the favorite, Hiram, by a head in a driving finish. Four lengths back came Woodlore. The time was 1:43.

G. G. Shone's Knave of Clubs made it three in a row for the meeting when he won the fourth and feature race at Bainbridge, a five and one half furlong sprint. Forenoo, a long shot, was second and Tommy Foster third. The favorite, Black Agate, quit after taking an early lead. Knave of Clubs ran the distance in 1:06 3-5, within three fifths of a second of the track record.

LITTLE CHANGE IN THE STANDING OF THE BIG SIX

(By The Associated Press)

There was very little baseball played among the members of the Big Six yesterday. Only two, Paul Waner and Harry Heilmann, got into action. Ty Cobb remained on the bench while the Athletics gave the Tigers a drubbing and the other three were idle because of the schedule.

Harry Heilmann had nothing to show in the box score for his day's efforts except three times at bat. The tail-ender not only failed to get one of the two hits Bob Grove gave the Tigers but also accomplished nothing in the field. As a result his batting average declined two points to .296. Paul Waner did a little better getting one single in four times at bat while the Pirates beat Brooklyn, 6 to 1, and lost only one point, going to .362.

The standing to date:

LEGION TEAMS CLASH IN TWILIGHT CONTEST TONIGHT

The Taftville and Jewett City American Legion teams will meet at Hollyhock Island in tonight's Junior Twilight league game. This should prove one of the banner games in the junior circuit, not only because both teams are first class outfits but it is well known that there is plenty of keen rivalry existing between the two. In their first meeting, Taftville defeated the Jewett City boys 11 to 3 but it will be remembered that Jewett City led until the sixth inning, when they blew up completely allowing Taftville to score 7 runs in one inning. It is improbable that this will happen again however, and a close, fast game is expected.

Both teams will use the same lineups as in their previous games, with Bernal and Pizzo, and Raymond or Paradis and Fontaine as the probable batteries for Jewett City and Taftville respectively.

MISS PAGE LEADS FIELD IN WESTERN WOMEN'S GOLF

INDIAN HILL CLUB, Chicago, Aug. 13—(AP)—At the end of the qualifying round of the women's western golf championship today, Dorothy Page, of Madison, Wis., champion two years ago, turned in the low score with a 77. Miss Page was four under par. Right behind the medalist was Mrs. Dalton Reymond, of Baton Rouge, formerly southern champion, with 78, while the only other player to score under 80 was Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, semi-finalist last year in the British tourney.

Another player broke par, Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, defending champion, who made an eighty.

EXONERATES DRIVER OF ANY CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Coroner Edward G. McKay, in a finding made public Monday, exonerates Charles C. Dodd of criminal responsibility in causing the death fo a 16 months old child in Mystic, July 28. Mr. Dodd was learning to drive a machine and losing control of it, the machine ran onto a sidewalk and killed Andrew Startz, who was in his mother's arms. Coroner McKay says in his finding:

On the 26th day of July, at approximately 3:45 p. m., (eastern standard time), the said Andrew Startz was standing on the sidewalk along the southerly side of West Main street, in the said Mystic, at a place about directly in front of a store owned by Orrin H. Sanford, 49 West Main street, Mystic. With him were his father, Andrew E. Startz, his mother Mrs. Gertrude Startz, and a brother Walter Startz, age about two years and eight months, all of said Mystic. They were waiting at this place to get a New London Day, a newspaper published in New London, and then intended to go to their home, and had been there at that particular place for about five minutes.

At about this time and place, Charles C. Dodd, who resides on Noank road, West Mystic, town of Groton, was operating a Model A. Ford Tudor sedan. Mr. Dodd has been a licensed motor vehicle operator of the state of Connecticut for a number of years and was the holder of a 1928 operator's license, No. 24707, and was apparently a competent driver. The automobiles which he has operated have been Ford cars of the Model T type, which he has operated for the past six years.

Shortly after 3:00 p. m. (eastern standard time), Mr. Dodd called at the service shop of Roscoe K. Burrows, of Mystic, an authorized Ford dealer in said Mystic. He had bargained with Mr. Burrows for the purchase of a Model A. Tudor Ford sedan, and came there to inquire as to whether or not his car had arrived. Mr. Burrows informed him that he had a car of the Model A Tudor type, which was ready for delivery, and invited Mr. Dodd to a ride to try the car out. Mr. Burrows and Mr. Dodd rode away from the service station, with Mr. Burrows driving. After they had driven a short way on one of the town roads, Mr. Burrows suggested that Mr. Dodd take the wheel and learn then how the car was operated.

The model of car that they were then riding in was mechanically different from the cars with which Mr. Dodd was familiar, both in construction and in the mode of operation. The new car was equipped with a hand throttle and also a foot accelerator for the control of gas into the engine, and it was also equipped with gears which engaged the engine with the car by means of a hand lever and had three speeds forward.

The type of car that Mr. Dodd was familiar with was equipped with the hand throttle only for the control of the gas into the engine, and the gears that engaged the car and the engine was operated by foot peddles for the forward speeds.

Mr. Dodd had operated the said new Model A Ford Tudor sedan on said day on some of the principal roads in Mystic, stopping and starting it many times, under the instruction of Mr. Burrows, and he did not seem to have any difficulty in operating the new car.

Eventually Mr. Dodd drove the car on Pearl street to a place at the intersection of Pearl and West Main street, about opposite said Sanford's store. He brought the car to a dead stop to allow traffic on West Main street to pass. He waited at this place one or two minutes before an opportunity came to make a left turn onto West Main street. He shifted the car properly, putting the gears into low speed and started into West Main street. For some cause that has not been accounted for, the car suddenly took up speed and seemed to increase its speed, going directly across West Main street. The car hit a Ford sedan, Model T, which was stationary and parked on the south side of West Main street headed in an easterly direction. Mr. Burrows pulled the emergency brake but it failed to stop the car. After the automobile hit the stationary car, it swerved off to the right and jumped the curbing of the sidewalk and continued across the sidewalk. Mr. Startz saw the automobile coming directly toward his wife and his children. He took hold of his son Walter and drew him out of the way, but did not have time to reach for his wife or his other son Andrew. Mrs. Startz during this time had turned to receive a newspaper from a newsboy, and Andrew Startz was standing alongside his mother.

When the automobile came up on to the sidewalk, it struck Mrs. Startz throwing her through the plate glass window of the Sanford store, and also hit the child Andrew and crushed him against the window sill of the Sanford store, killing him instantly.

Both Mr. Dodd and Mr. Burrows got out of the car and found the child under the right wheel thereof. They tried to push the car back but found it immovable. Mr. Burrows then got back into it, released the emergency brake, and threw the clutch into neutral, and the automobile was rolled back off the boy.

The child was apparently killed instantly by the impact of the automobile.

From all the evidence submitted, it appears that the automobile was in good condition at the time of the accident. There was no traffic at the time or place of the accident other than a car which was coming along West Main street in an easterly direction at some little distance from the scene of the accident.

The highway at that point is about 33 feet wide and is surfaced with concrete. The weather was clear and the surface of the road was dry at the time of the accident.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Andrew Startz was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence of any other person or persons.

WESTERLY

DROWNING OF FOUR STUDENTS REVEALS INHUMANITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 13—Propped up in bed in his room at the Westerly hospital Monday morning at 11.30 John Colohan, 4th, aged 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barry Colohan of 7704 Cresheim road, North Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa., told in his wakeful moments of his harrowing experiences of the previous night when his four youthful companions slipped off their overturned sailboat and were drowned. The party of five college men had started from Watch Hill on Sunday at 3 p. m. for a sail to Fishers Island where they landed and passed some time. He was not sure of the time of their departure on the return trip to Watch Hill as none of the party had watches. (Capt. Clarence Peckham of the Fishers Island coast guard station fixes the time of the departure from the island at 6.30 p. m. when he saw the sailing party leave the dock.) Colohan said that some fifteen minutes before it became dark a sudden puff of wind turned the boat over until the rail was awash and then the boat rolled over. As they fell overboard all climbed on the outside. An unsuccessful attempt was made to right the craft, but with the heavy wet sail the ballast shifted too fast and it became out of the question to right the boat.

Just before darkness closed in a speed boat passed them and anyone aboard must have seen them and heard their calls for help as they were almost becalmed at that time although it was dark. "You can't make the statement too strong that these boats passed us by!" he said. He thought one of them must have reported them as overboard when the boat reached New London.

Asked what their position was at the time, he said, "About a half mile from the entrance to Little Narragansett bay, for at all times we could see the Watch Hill lighthouse beacon." They discussed among themselves but could not agree as to how the tide was running and at all events the wind was blowing them off shore and he thought the distance at the time too far to attempt to swim, even though all were able to swim.

For a long time they all clung to the boat but Cottrell, tiring first, let go and soon drifted away out of sight without a word. McIlvaine was the next to disappear. After this the other two were at the side of the boat with the water around their necks. "I don't want to go through that again!" the survivor declared.

Colohan said that he had periods when he was conscious and then unconscious. It was about 6 a. m. when after it had begun to get light the last two boys had disappeared. "I thought I was seeing things, when a fisherman, at the time unknown to me took me into his fishing boat and to the Watch Hill coast guard station."

It was not until Capt. Amos E. Broadmeadow returned to the Watch Hill coast guard station that the identity of the fisherman was established, for he sailed away from Watch Hill point just as soon as he had landed the exhausted man. George Adams, 23, fisherman of Pearl street, Noank, proved to be the rescuer, who, attempting to take the boat to Watch Hill pulled out the mast and sail and came away leaving the wreckage awash.

It was this submerged boat that every effort was made to locate by a 75-footer from New London in the coast guard service and the crews from Watch Hill and Fisher's Island, for it was thought that the bodies would be found in the vicinity. Two aeroplanes were sent from Charlestown aviation field under directions from N. S. Clifford of Milton, Mass., and Ralph A. Stewart of Boston, guests at Cottrell's home in Westerly. Lieut. Robert Kamm, pilot and another aviator circled the site but their efforts as well as those of the coast guard and motor boats from Watch Hill proved of no avail.

A Westerly fisherman reports that at the time the tide was ebbing and the wind off shore so that it may be a week before the bodies are located. At 4 o'clock Capt. Broadmeadow and crew returned to the Watch Hill station having been called out when Colohan was brought in about 6.55 a. m. to make a thorough, more minute search. The Fishers Island boat returned to their station at 3.15 p. m. Capt. Clarence Peckham reporting that his crew was called out about 11.30 the previous night on receiving a message from Reds Point that a woman heard screams off shore.

Colohan said that a search light was seen during the night but it seemed miles away.

The Westerly young man, John Touchstone Cottrell, who lost his life by drowning, was the son of Arthur Maxson and Kate Virginia Hopkins Cottrell and was born in Westerly August 26, 1906. Educated in the public schools of Westerly, he attended Fay school, Southboro, Mass. His preparatory training was obtained at St. Mark's school, Southboro, from which he was graduated last spring. While at St. Mark's he was prominent in athletics and played on the baseball and football teams. In his senior year he captained the football team. Last fall he entered Yale university and during his first year there obtained high scholastic marks.

Besides his father he is survived by a sister Miss Kate Virginia, and two brothers, Arthur Maxson, Jr., 22 and Philip Whitman, aged 15. The father Arthur M. Cottrell superintendent of plant and vice president of the C. H. Cottrell & Sons company, printing press manufacturers, Pawcatuck, is on a trip abroad, accompanied by his son Arthur. An attempt was to be made to reach him by cable.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Aug. 11. Maynard Land company to Routh A. Weall of Pawcatuck, lots Nos. 66, 67 and 68, Melrose Heights.

The Westerly police were called on Sunday night to the Nooseneck hill state highway when a report was received from passing automobilists that a man was seen lying on the shoulder of the north side of the road, about a mile west of the meeting house bridge over the Pawcatuck river. Chief of Police Frank H. Brown of Ashaway was also notified that the man had been seen apparently lifeless with part of a bicycle clutched in his hand. Chief Brown searched the Hopkinton side of the bridge along the highway but reported finding no one.

Lieutenant George H. Champlin of Westerly and Motorcycle Officer Robert M. Kessel made a careful search on the Westerly side of the river bridge along the highway on foot, but were unable to find anyone. Not until after 11 p. m. were both officers satisfied that if anyone had been by the roadside he had been taken away by friends of passersby.

The steam shovel at work on the ruins of the Rhode Island hotel block, Dixon square, had reached a point Monday in the cellar basement just at the rear of the store formerly occupied by the Nestor Millinery shop, at the east side of the block. RABALM QUICKLY RELIEVED MY SUNBURN SUFFERING

"Last week-end we went down to the shore. We spent practically all day in bathing suits, and as we were not used to it, you can imagine the terrific sunburn we got. By the time we got home late Sunday night, we were in agony—faces, shoulders, neck, arms and legs, red and almost raw, and so tender to touch them was agony. We just dove for the Rabalm jar, and believe me, we were never more grateful for anything in our lives. It seemed to help the moment it touched the skin. It was so soothing that long before morning we were able to get some sleep, and now, three days later, my skin is in a normal condition again."

Rabalm requires no painful rubbing in. Just smooth on lightly. Quickly relieves pain and restores skin to normal condition. Will not stain linen. Pleasantly fragrant. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

NOANK

BALL NINE AT FALL RIVER LOST, BUT SCORE WAS 4 TO 2

The dance hall nine went by bus to Fall River, Mass., Sunday morning to play the Red Men's team at MacLane field. Arriving there at noon they put up at the Royal hotel. It was 3 o'clock when Umpire Jackson said "Play ball". A crowd of 600 fans had gathered to brave the cool wind that swept the field. Coach Billie Crane put in his star right-hander, Keith Ebbetts to pitch and Battleaxe Bracci to catch. Coach Fred Larkin for the Red Men was looking for his Indian chief Full Moon to do his stuff on the hill with Oil Brady catching. Ebbetts, for the dance sheiks of the fishing village got himself in a bad hole in the fifth inning by walking the first two men up and Second Baseman Shorty McBride laid down a bunt that made the bases full; he was working hard and using the snicker ball, but it was not breaking right. Happy Ed Grant lifted the apple over the fence for a home run, making the score 4 to 0 in favor of the Red Men. Chief Full Moon was working good with the dope ball and had the latters sawing the air; but two errors got two men on bases with one out and walked the next man, filling the bases and Smiling Frank Muse a sure hitter and the fielders getting back to the fence and with two strikes on him he got hold of the ball that seemed a mile in the air sailing for the left field wall. Deer Redfern started for the wall and made a great one-hand catch. It was good for three bases and with a good throw he caught the runner at the plate, getting an ovation from the fans. The final score was Red Men 4, Dance Hall Nine 2. Chief Full Moon struck out 10 men and allowed 4 hits. Right Hand Ebbetts was found for 10 hits and fanned 8 men. The final game will be played in the fishing village.

St. Joseph's church Sunday morning was packed, with people standing out to the street. Over 300 came from Groton Long Point and the village to hear Rev. Father Thomas P. Mooney's farewell sermon telling them that he has been with them for four years and found the people of the church and the summer people always ready to help in all church work. Father Mooney said he was sorry to leave the village, after getting to know every one. He is going to Bridgeport to take over a new church, leaving this week. The appointment came from Bishop Nilan of Hartford. Father Mooney said "I will always be glad to see anyone from Noank in Bridgeport at my church. My place here and in Mystic will be taken by Rev. J. H. Kennedy of New Haven. That is my home town. I have known your pastor for years and I know that he will be the right priest for this church. When the young hurricane hit this part of the country recently, at Groton Long Point the transformer on the hole back of the orchard that gives power for the big pump which supplies water to the point was struck by lightning, putting the pump out of commission. Foreman John Morrison of the Groton Long Point Water company was called by telephone coming over and getting the gasoline engine working so to get water, using the new water tower for the first time. So people were not left without water. Linemen from Groton came over Saturday and put in a new transformer. The post office at the point was hit. Lightning striking the corner of the building tearing off some shingles and knocking three bottles of "Ketchup" to the floor.

POETRY

To a Fleur-de-Lis

Dust are Tyre and Sidon,
Cities of long ago,
Over their ancient splendor
Softly the grasses blow.

And the clew to Tyre's rare purple
Is a secret that bides unguessed.
Hid from our modern wisdom,
Falls to disturb its rest.

Yet never more regal beauty,
Ancient or new, could be
Than nature fashions each spring-time
In the folds of a fleur-de-lis.

—Frances Crosby Hamlet.

Poem

There is no rhyme that is half so sweet
As the song of the wind in the rippling wheat;
There is no meter that's half so fine
As the lilt of the brook under rock and vine;
And the loveliest lyric I ever heard,
Was the wildwood strain of a forest bird.
If the wind and the brook and the bird would teach
My heart their beautiful parts of speech
And the natural art that they say these with,
My soul would sing of beauty and myth
In a rhyme and a meter that none before
Have sung their Love, or dreamed in their lore.
And the world would be richer one poet more.

—Madison Cawein.

DANIELSON

QUINEBAUG GENERAL STORE HAS CLOSED ITS DOORS

DANIELSON, August 13—For some unexplained reason, the Quinebaug store, on the Brooklyn highway was closed Saturday night and will remain in that condition for an indefinite period. The rumor gained circulation in the borough this morning that the store fell into bankruptcy, but a check up proved the story to be unfounded. The Quinebaug store is one of the few remaining general stores in this section. It was established over a half century ago, and before the growth of Danielson, supplied the villagers with all the necessary provisions. Business has been transacted in the store over two score years in the large three story building, only a few hundred yards across the river on the west side. Such supplies as shoes, groceries, meats, drugs, crockery and many other household needs were stocked and for several years a grist mill was operated in the rear of the store, it being discontinued some years ago.

The Quinebaug company, operators of the retail house said today that the place of business will remain closed for an indefinite period, giving no reason for the suspension of business operations.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Dr. Elizabeth Ingraham, of the state board of health her assistant will be at the Killingly High school prepared to examine all children of the town of pre-school age. Mrs. Reed said her co-workers in the various villages of the town reported a large response from the mothers. The children will be examined free of charge and especial attention will be devoted to the teeth with a cleansing of the teeth being given each child examined.

In the borough court this morning before Judge W. F. Woodward, George Gates of Danielson pleaded guilty to a charge of breach of peace. He was fined $1.00 and costs. Gates was arrested Sunday by Officer Strand of the state police barracks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hawthorne of New York city are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Thomas of Maple street.

That shad and salmon were once taken from the Quinebaug river at Danielson, was today called by many a yarn of fishermen of the days of yore. In Monday's edition an item relative to these species of fish being taken from the river in days long past was printed and today numbers inquired as to its source, but the origin was not made known. The story stated, these fish were in abundance before the sewage drained into the stream and poisoned the waters driving the fish back to the ocean. Others in possession of information on this subject are asked to forward their opinions on the truth of the matter to the local Bulletin representative.

The service battery, Danielson's military unit will leave here on Wednesday morning at 4.30 a. m., with its quota of 20 enlisted men and the large company trucks with its destination set as Tobyhanna, Pa., for the annual two weeks' encampment. It is expected that the soldiers will be on the road for 2 and a half days before they reach the artillery range of the 192nd field artillery, near Scranton. Lieut. Gordon J. Gale will be in command of the outfit. Lieut. Gale stated this morning that upon the departure of the troops a number of promotions in the enlisted ranks will be made.

At the state police barracks today, there are three brand new motorcycles for use of the officers in maintaining order on the highways. Work on the Brooklyn highway continued today in a much faster manner than has been seen during the past week. The builders were engaged today in removing another house in the path of construction and were working from the Brooklyn side towards Danielson.

In Attawaugan, the new highway was opened this afternoon to traffic from the intersection known as the four corners to the northern side of the Five Mile river bridge. This additional stretch of highway speeded up the movement of traffic resulting in less time being lost at the stops. The contractors continued on the remaining half of the road laying the concrete to a point near the Stone Garage.

THREE BEFORE COURT FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, August 13—The campaign being conducted by the Putnam police to free the highways of motor vehicle operators driving under the influence of liquor brought three drivers before the city court this morning. The first violator was George Brookes of Pineville charged with operating while under the influence of liquor. Brookes was arrested by Captain Jarvis Sunday afternoon, after his car struck a post on Union street. Brookes pleaded guilty to the charge and fined $100 and costs. Judge Geissler, remitting three-fourths of the amount. Brookes offered a testimony in his defense, saying that he was tempted by three bottles of beer and the reaction made him sick and caused him to lose control of his car.

The second offender presented was Joseph Larrow of Putnam, arrested by Officer Joseph Page Sunday evening, after offering the policeman a tussle which resulted in Officer Page losing his temper and placing Larrow in the city lockup where he spent the remainder of the evening. Larrow was charged with several counts in addition to the more serious one of operating under influence. He was defended by Attorney Irving H. Miron, who entered a plea of guilty to the first offense and offered a plea of nolo contendre to the minor offenses, stating that Larrow's condition was responsible. Officer Page testified Larorw used vulgar language and threatened to fight with him in the event he offered to place him under arrest. Officer Page said the Larrow car attracted his attention on Front street as it travelled in a zig-zagging manner. Judge Geissler overruled the plea of nolo and found Larrow guilty on both counts, imposing a fine of $100 on the charge of operating under the influence, remitting half the amount and adding a fine of $10 for breach of peace, including costs of $12.14.

The third offender was James Ryan of Putnam, charged with operating under the influence. Ryan was defended by Attorney Miron and through his counsel entered a plea of not guilty. In speaking of Ryan's character, Judge Geissler said it was Ryan's first offense and as much depended upon the outcome of the case he would continue the case for a period of six months, his behavior during that time, determining whether the case would be brought up again.

It was learned today that the democratic city leaders have been for several weeks organizing forces for the coming campaign. An "Al Smith" club has been organized and the leaders have set Tuesday evening Aug. 14, as the date for the open meeting when the plan of campaign is to be made known. The democratic town committee today passed flyers about the, city asking the attendance of its party members at the meeting to be held in the Forester's hall on Marshall street. Since the republican forces began extensive canvass of the city several weeks ago it slowly brought out the minority democrats to combat the action. Today it was forecasted by several that the largest democratic gathering ever witnessed in Putnam will be seen Tuesday evening, when the first gun of the campaign is fired in this district.

Carl E. Jonnenson, for years a resident of Thompson, died at his home in that village Sunday after a brief illness. Mr. Jonnenson was 63 years of age. A native of Sweden he came to the United States an immigrant and soon after his arrival located in Thompson, where he has since resided. Accompanied by relatives the body was taken to New York, where funeral services and burial will take place.

Early morning risers have directed their attention to the large New York to Boston express busses of the New England company's lines passing through Putnam. The large coaches are of a two decker style. The service is direct and carrys passengers, who have made reservations.

A Boston to Hartford freight train was derailed near Pomfret this morning as the result of backing into an open switch. The large engine hauling the freight cars lost its hold on the steel rails and was aground for several hours, before a wrecker reached the scene and replaced it. During the time the locomotive was inactive several of the passenger express trains were delayed at this point, being forced to run over different tracks from Putnam to Pomfret.

With republican organization plans completed in Windham county, Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam, vice chairman of the republican state central committee, is to visit the towns and cities of Tolland county in the interests of party organization. Miss Byrne stated today that she will begin her drive in the 35th senatorial district during the coming week. The central meeting place being Willimantic—the workers will gather at the Nathan Hale hotel where luncheon will be served and immediately after the lunch a meeting will be held and Miss Byrne will address the women and will organize the first unit of the Tolland County Republican club. Miss Byrne said this afternoon that she will also visit Norwich and later will be in New London continuing her party organization in the support of the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

The 4-H club, a rural children's organization connected with the Windham County Farmers' association has completed plans for a three day encampment at Camp Woodstock, the Windham county Y. M. C. A. camp at Black Pond. The purpose of the encampment is to provide camping opportunities for the children of the rural districts. The movement is being sponsored by the Farmers' association and it is intended to provide three days of camp life for each farm boy and girl in the county. Mrs. Marion Standen Watson, head of the 4-H club work in the county is director of the camp, and with her assistants the boys and girls attending will be afforded all the features of camp life, provided at the camp. A bulletin has been circulated by Mrs. Watson outlining the programme which may be obtained at the local farm bureau.

Members of the Putnam Rotary club will have as their guest at luncheon today, Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, noted band master Lieutenant Commander Sousa and the members of his world famous band are making a golden anniversary tour of the nation and are to appear at the Bradley theatre in Putnam Tuesday afternoon. The "March King" will not arrive in Putnam in time for luncheon, but will be here to address the Rotarians, before he begins his programme at the theatre.

It was learned this morning that Donald Johnson of Providence, son of Prosecuting Attorney and Mrs. Eric H. Johnson, is recovering from a recent operation. The younger Mr. Johnson, has been confined in a Providence hospital in a serious condition.

People out in the country were remarking Monday about several anxious looking young men practicing something in secluded lot. All sorts of wild contortions were noticed. Occasionally a man ran somewhere—not far and didn't seem to have any particular destination. Some kind of rolling pins waved aimlessly in the air searching for something which they didn't find. It was explained that it was the single men, getting ready for Thursday night's game.

Chatterer Hides

Be quick of wit and quick of eye;
Pray ne'er give up, but always try.
—Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was having a bad time. Back and forth, from side to side of the roof of the house of Paddy the Beaver he dodged. Redtail the Hawk quick of wing quick of eye and hungry, was doing his best to catch Chatterer. Chatterer was getting out of breath. Every minute he was growing more tired. He was beginning to get wholly in despair. He knew that his strength wouldn't last as long as the strength of Redtail the Hawk, and he knew by experience how patient and persistent Redtail could be.

"I've got to hide," panted Chatterer to himself. "I've got to hide, even if there isn't any place to hide. I must rest, and I must get my breath. Yes, sir, that's what I've got to do."

All the time he was dodging and racing around the big domelike roof of the house of Paddy the Beaver. Now, as you perhaps know, Paddy's house is built of sticks and sods and mud. His roof isn't smooth. This is especially true in summer. There were sticks sticking out here and there. Most of them were small sticks. Finally Chatterer discovered that one very good-sized stick projected from the roof just above the water. It gave him just a wee bit of hope. The next time he was on that side of the roof he took a good look at it. That was all he had time to do before Redtail swooped.

Chatterer dodged around to the other side of the roof. Redtail was right after him. This time when Chattere dodged around he went faster than he had gone at any other time. Yes, sir, he did so. He went around that roof like a little red streak. Straight down to that big projecting stick he ran and darted under it. There he flattened himself against the under side.

Hardly had he had time to catch his breath when Redtail the Hawk came around on that side. He was all set to swoop down and pick Chatterer right off that roof. Yes, sir, he was all set to that. But he didn't swoop down and pick Chatterer up. He blinked those hungry eyes of his. He blinked several times. He swung around in circles. He swung 'round and 'round that house so that he could see it from all sides. There wasn't any Chatterer. Look as he would, he couldn't see a sign of Chatterer.

Redtail tried the effect of a sudden scream. He suspected that Chatterer was keeping perfectly still somewhere and he hoped that a sudden scream would make Chatterer move. It didn't. There was no sign that there was any one alive on that roof. Then Redtail began screaming with disappointment. He looked this way and that way, hoping to see Chatterer swimming, that he might take him out of the water. But Chatterer wasn't swimming. No, sir, Chatterer wasn't swimming at all. In fact, he seemed to have just vanished right into thin air.

Lower and lower circled Redtail. Down, down he came, until finally he perched on the very top of that house. But even from that point he couldn't see anything of Chatterer. Of course, if Chatterer moved, even ever so little, those sharp eyes would have caught that movement. But Chatterer simply dug his claws into that stick on the underside of which he was hanging, and made himself just as thin and flat as he could. He even pressed his tail against it so that the wind wouldn't blow his tail. And all the time he was holding his breath, or trying to.

For a long time Redtail sat on that roof and all the time Chatterer remained clinging flat to the under side of that stick just above the water. It gave Chatterer the cold shivers to think how easily Billy Mink might swim up underneath him and grab him. But Billy didn't, and finally Redtail gave up and flew away. Not until Redtail was not even a speck in the sky did Chatterer come out of his hiding place.

HIGH MONEY RATES RESTRAINED SPECULATION IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—Trading in today's stock market continued under the restraining influence of high money rates. Speculators for the advance made several efforts to rally the general list, and succeeded in marking up about a dozen specialties to new high records, but they failed to attract an outside following, final quotations were decidedly irregular with gains and losses fairly evenly distributed. Total sales fell well below 2,000,000 shares.

Call money renewed at 7 1-2 per cent the highest rate since the first of the month, and held firm at that figure. Banks called about $20,000,000 in loans but were easily replaced. Time money was again 6 1-2 per cent bid for all dates with a slightly larger volume available at that rate. With sterling exchange close to the "gold import" point, hope was held out in some speculative quarters that a return flow of gold from England was likely, but banks expected little immediate relief from this quarter.

Commission house comment on Secretary Hoover's acceptance speech was generally favorable. Most of the day's trade news also had a bullish tinge, but it apparently was offset by the growing uneasiness over the credit situation. General Motors July sales of dealers to consumers were 177,725 cars, as compared with 134,749 in the same month of last year, an increase of 31.9 per cent. The National Dairy Products reported earnings of $3.50 a share in the first half of 1928 as against $3.13 a share on a smaller capitalization in the first half of 1927.

Speculative interest in the commodity markets was divided between the break of $2.50 a bale in cotton futures, part of which was recovered, and an advance of about 4 1-2 cents a bushel in wheat futures.

Leadership in the stock market was divided between Chrysler, which ran up nearly 4 points to a new high at 96 3-8 and then eased to 93 7-8, and U. S. Steel common, which closed nearly a point higher at 143 3-4 after having touched 145. Chrysler, which is believed to be under the sponsorship of a powerful pool, was bought on reports of expanding earnings. Unconfirmed rumors of another stock dividend later in the year or a segregation of non-steel producing properties accompanied the buying of steel. General Motors closed fractionally lower at 182 1-4 after a brief spurt to 184 3-8.

Warner Bros. Pictures A was again the spectacular individual feature, soaring 7 points to a new high record at $4. Other issues to move into new high ground included National Cash Register, Brockway Motors common and preferred, Dodge Bros. preferred and Loft. On the other hand, Cluett Peabody broke more than 6 points to 59 and was followed into new low ground by Fisk Rubber common, Cuban American Sugar, Stanley Co., Symington "A," Chicago Pneumatic Tool and several ordinarily inactive preferred stocks.

Revival of activity and strength in the New York Traction stocks was accompanied by the announcement of a $10,000,000 note issue by the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co. Heaviness developed in several of the tobacco, mail order and chemical issues.

Foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits with sterling cables slightly easier around $4.85 3-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 13—(AP)—Sharp upturns in prices for wheat toward the last today accompanied talk of immense export dealings in wheat from North America. There was also an estimate from a Chicago crop authority putting the Canadian wheat yield this season much below Saturday's figures.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm 1 1-4c to 1 3-4c net higher, with corn ranging from 1c decline to 1 1-2c advance, oats 1-8@1-4c to 1-2c off, and provisions at 5c setback to a rise of 15c.

Higher quotations on wheat came in the face of announcement today that the United States wheat visible supply showed 9,739,000 bu. increase. On the other hand, Europe was estimated to have bought 1,250,000 bu. of North American wheat today in addition to a huge amount last week, far greater than had been made public. One exporter said he alone sold more wheat in one day than all exporters were given credit for.

According to one of the most experienced statisticians in the grain trade here, the latest Canadian official figures together with additional data received today indicate that the 1928 wheat yield of the Canadian prairie provinces is 450,141,000 bu, whereas some of Saturday's estimates were as high as 550,000,000 bu. The lower forecast is based on the official condition figures applied to the average yield per acre for ten years and taking a revised acreage total of 22,902,243 acres. Earlier, the wheat market here had shown a downward trend, owing largely to extra favorable Canadian crop advices, big world shipments and 2,000,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat afloat.

Further closing out of spreads between wheat and corn helped to strengthen wheat values today and to weaken corn, especially corn for September delivery. At one time, September corn was nearly 4c lower than Saturday's finish and at a new bottom level for the season. Scattered reports of rain being needed by the new corn crop gave relative firmness to December and March contracts. Oats lacked aggressive support.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—The bond market was quiet today under the combined influence of mid-summer dullness and high money rates. Trading was slow and the volume of sales scarcely reached $6,000,000. Banks called about $17,000,000 in loans.

Reports of early public offering of new issues appeared to interest traders far more than the listed securities, among the mare $20,000,000 Commonwealth Subsidiary Corporation 5 1-2 per cent 20-year gold debentures, with the proceeds of which Commonwealth Edison of Chicago, the parent company, plans to finance investment in enterprises aside from the electric supply business. Another offering is expected to result from a $4,000,000 loan to Rheinische Bahn Co., concluded in London today by an American banking house.

Considerable interest was shown in announcement that directors of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Co. have authorized sale to a group of New York bankers of $10,000,000 6 per cent one-year notes to replenish the treasury in part for its purchase of New York Rapid Transit bonds which were issued to finance new car purchases and other capital betterments.

Price changes were small and irregular today. Oils were under pressure and Container Corp., 1s Inland Steel 4 1-2s, Paramount-Famous-Lasky 6s and others, also sagged. Cuban Sugar Co. obligations were heavy, Cuban Dominion Sugar 7 1-2s and East Cuba Sugar 7 1-2s touching the year's low levels. Dodge Brothers 6s, International Match 5s, Wheeling Steel 5 1-2s and some coppers improved.

The St. Paul issues moved in opposite ways. Gains in other 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Third Avenue 5s were offset by declines in Union Pacific 4s, Seaboard Air Line 6s and Northern Pacific 6s.

The foreign list overcame its early weakness, but gains were small.

U. S. government obligations were dull and irregular.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—The curb market was irregular today as credit tension caused considerable hesitancy although speculators for the advance succeeded in pushing a number of issues forward.

Automotive shares were a strong feature of the industrial group, Auburn Auto rallying more than 7 points in active trading, and Bendix "B" pushing up more than 6 points to a new high record. Franklin Manufacturing touched a new high in a small gain, and Checker Cab improved fractionally. Sparks Withington was bid up 3 points. Durant eased.

Warner Brothers Pictures dropped about 3 points in heavy trading, but developed strength in the afternoon and closed nearly 3 points up. Fox Theatre "A" also overcame early heaviness, and improved fractionally. Columbia Graphophone, however, lost an early gain and closed a fraction down.

A. O. Smith and A. G. Spaulding shot up about 20 points each, in scattered trading, the former touching a new high at 175. International Safety Razor "B" and U. S. Asbestos also touched new peaks in small gains. American Rayon Products gained on rumors of a merger of artificial silk companies, and Van Camp preferred was stronger on announcement of recapitalization. Adams Mills gained about 3 points. Weak spots were Carnation Milk, Chesbrough Manufacturing and Adolph Gobel, down 2 to 4 points. Bancitaly, Spanish and General and National Rubber Machine were in supply.

Mines were irregular, Noranda gaining more than a point in heavy trading. Vacuum was a feature of the irregular oil group with gain of 2 1-2 points. Reiter Foster rallied somewhat from an early decline on announcement of bringing in a 4,000-barrel well in the Seminole field. Utilities were inclined to heaviness, United Light & Power "A" rallying from an early loss.

YOUNG WOMEN AT NEW LONDON PLANT CALL OFF STRIKE FOR HIGHER PAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 13—The fifty young women employed at the plant of the Marvel Underwear company on Water street, today called off the strike which they started Saturday morning for higher wages. All have been working on the piece-work plan. The reason for the walkout Saturday was, they claimed, that the wage adjustment which went into effect August 1, was so unfair that they were unable to make sufficient money to repay them for their work, as it cut their previous earnings considerably. Some of the strikers stated today that they have not been able to make more than a dollar a day. The management of the underwear factory explains that this is due to the fact that many of the girls have recently begun work on machine sthat are strange to them. The strike was very orderly and under the new arrangement a limited amount of work will be given the girls each week on an increased wage scale.

The two sailors, Edwin Bergevin and Walter Waldman, sentenced last week for assaulting two young teachers about a month ago, began serving their prison terms yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. Bergevin is sentenced to life imprisonment and Waldman to a fifteen year term. They will do time at the navy prison in Portsmouth, N. H.

Miss Adria Cheney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George P. Cheney, of Montauk avenue, has arrived in Paris. She sailed on August 1. Plans made by Miss Cheney call for a tour of Europe until October 3, at which time she will enter finishing school in Neuilly, France.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton T. Miner left today on an auto tour of the western states which will carry them through Yellowstone National park. This makes the third trip they have taken to Yellowstone.

A picnic for the benefit of the Hebrew Ladies' Aid and Educational society was held yesterday in Waterford, and $400 was made. The success of the affair was largely attributable to the efforts of a committee composed of Mrs. Harry Socol, Mrs. Isaac Hirsch, Mrs. Jacob Solomon, Mrs. Samuel Selleck, Mrs. Isaac Goldstein, Mrs. Abraham Shapiro, Abraham Shapiro, Abraham Ribchinsky, Jacob Solomon, William Popkin, Louis Cohen and Louis Chertoff. Prize winners in the games were William Popkin, Louis Cohen, Louis Chertoff and Jacob Solomon. The guests of honor were Dr. Jacob Greenfield of New York, formerly principal of the local Hebrew school and Rabbi David Traub of New London.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Miss Jessie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hayes of Waterford and Leon Rowley, son of Daniel Rowley of Waterford. The ceremony took place July 25 in Westerly, R. I.

When members of the Fairs Harbour club hold a bridge party tomorrow afternoon at the clubhouse, the hostess will be Mrs. W. W. Smith.

A bridge party for the benefit of the ambulance fund of Home Memorial hospital is planned at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Henkle of Ocean avenue. The committee in charge is Mrs. Henkle, Miss Dorothy Henkle, Mrs. Graham Hislop, Mrs. Arthur L. Keebe, Mrs. Charles Chittendon, Mrs. E. M. Frazier, Mrs. Frank Dubois, Mrs. Ross E. Black and Mrs. E. Roland Hill.

WATERFORD JUDGE FINES DRIVER WHO HAD GIRL GUEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 13—Francis Patterson, a Tilley street youth, was presented in the Waterford town court this morning, charged with breach of the peace, and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Frederick Dimmock. Patterson was arrested Sunday night by Constable Raymond Manahan when the officer found Patterson and a young woman store clerk in a compromising position in Patterson's automobile, which was parked beside the highway and on a road that is used by many autoists. Patterson was brought to New London police headquarters and locked up for the night.

Mary Smith, 20, and Ruth Taylor and Mrs. Lillian Jones, all colored and residing in New York, were in the police court this morning, the Smith woman charged with theft and the other two with breach of the peace. The Smith girl pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs, which she paid. The charges against the other young women were nolled. The three were arrested Sunday afternoon by Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Special Agent James Daley of the New Haven railroad, upon complaint of a woman resident of Fishers Island, who declared that one of the young women had found a ring which complainant had lost in the parking space in the rear of the Soldiers and Sailors Monument. The woman told her story to Officer Daley and as the alleged theft did not occur on railroad property that officer summoned Officer Corcoran. Each of the three Negresses stoutly denied all knowledge of the finding of the ring and became insolent. All Negresses were taken to police headquarters. There they were given another chance to return the ring. Then the matron at the union station was summoned and ordered to thoroughly search the women. When their apparel was removed the ring was found secreted upon the Smith girl.

CITY IS GETTING DRY— NO INTOXICATION ARREST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 13—Not a single case of intoxication was tried in court today for no arrests for this cause were made over the week-end, something that has not happened in many months.

However, numerous cases of violation of the city's parking laws were disposed of. Richard Waite of Palmer, Mass., Arthur M. Shaw, Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. R. E. Hunter, 319 Broad street, this city; Sybil J. Newhall, Phoenixville, Pa.; Donald Dumont, 446 Park street, Montclair, N. J.; William Apotzner, 98 Prince street, New Haven; Morris Zander, 29 Longview street, Springfield, and Martha Horan, 1332 State street, New Haven, were charged with either parking overtime, blocking traffic, parking in front of a hydrant or in restricted area and forfeited their bonds of $2 or $10 because they failed to appear in court.

Joseph Boulter, about 68, died at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday night, where he had been a patient several days. Mr. Boulter, who was born in England had resided in New London many years and was formerly employed as blacksmith by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Midway. For several years he conducted a blacksmith shop on Colt and Green streets. As far as known, he leaves no relatives.

Frank DiMaggio, one of the proprietors of the Hotel Winthrop, has made complaint to the police, charging the driver of a New York registered car with evasion of responsibility. Mr. DiMaggio's auto was parked in front of the hotel yesterday and the New York driver sped away after his car had disfigured the hotel man's machine. The markers on the colliding auto were 4-N-608.

The funeral of Mrs. Florence T. Simonds, wife of Oris Simonds, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the A. M. E. Zion church, the services being conducted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

A five-ton Mack truck, laden with near-beer and soda, was damaged this afternoon when it crashed against the curbing at Bank street and Ocean avenue and overturned. Although the driver was caught in the seat, he escaped with injuries no more serious than bruises and scratches. The truck, owned by the Diamond Bottling Co., Waterbury, and driven by Paul Postey, 138 Clover street, in that city, was descending the grade of Bank street. As the truck neared Ocean avenue the driver of a coupe, the markers of which were not obtained by witnesses of the accident, emerged from the latter thoroughfare and cut across the front of the truck. Postey, to avoid a collision with the lighter auto, guided the big machine abruptly to the right, entering Ocean avenue. Before Postey could cause the truck to be headed for Bank street again, it crashed against a huge traffic beacon and then plunged across Ocean avenue, where it struck the curb and a telephone pole with great force, so that the pole was demolished and the truck overturned. Practically all of the contents of the truck were emptied upon the sidewalk or into the highway and much of the soft drinks were destroyed.

The police of the surrounding cities and the state police have been requested to be on the lookout for the stolen machine.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 13—The state police continued their drive Sunday in an effort to reduce the number of motor vehicle accidents. Officers were also stationed on all the trunk lines and as a result many arrests were made.

He was presented in a justice court and fined $5. Officer Bristol also arrested Thomas Delaney, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Herman S. Kaplan, 31 Cedar street, this city, each charged with failure to grant right of way, and after a slight collision of their cars had occurred. They also were presented in court and each was fined $5.

Wolder Kochansky, 133 Winthrop street, this city, was arrested at Salem by Officer Brown, charged with failing to heed a traffic signal. The officer had given Kochansky a signal to proceed easterly and instead of doing so, he turned his auto into the Hartford turnpike and barely escaped colliding with a machine, the driver of which had come to a stop to receive a signal to proceed. Kochansky was in court and was fined $25 and costs.

It has been decided that neither patient has suffered a fractured skull. Neither has Waismuth. John Bale and Axel Demarias, other sailors, who are also at the hospital, will be discharged, it is expected, within a few days.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Beautiful Billie Dove has a role that could hardly be surpassed for charm and effective dramatic appeal in "The Love Mart," which is now being offered at the Breed theatre. The portrayals by Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery are equally effective.

The story is laid in the early Nineteenth Century, in New Orleans and vicinity. This was a time when slave running was at its height, because congress had forbidden the importation of slaves into America. Antoinette Frobelle, a beautiful girl of aristocratic lineage, is accused of being an octoroon and is sold at the auction block. Victor Jallot, a gentleman adventurer, buys and frees her. But she comes back because she loves him and, when proved white, they are reunited as man and wife.

Pirates, slave-runners, slaves and Creole fashion-plates are among the picturesque figures in this brave tale of the old south. Gilbert Roland plays the roll of Jallott and Noah Beery is a villanous, slave-running ship-master. Other fine characterizations are supplied by Emile Chautard, Armand Kaliz, Boris Karloff, Andre Lanoy and Raymond Turner.

The settings are colorful and the direction is superb. It is a George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures and not for one moment has he permitted the action to lag.

As pure entertainment, plus beauty and admirable acting, "The Love Mart" stands out like a beacon as one of the most colorful films of the year and one that the audience thoroughly enjoyed.

Palace Theatre

And where did hoop skirts come from?

That was the question asked by Norma Shearer when she was fitted for her costumes in the filming of "The Actress," her latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring picture now showing at the Palace theatre.

The studio research department, investigating the authenticity of the costumes used during the screening of the film, an adaptation of Arthur Wing Pinero's "Trelawney of the Wells," provided the answer.

Piecing together her steel corset stays, the working girls improvised "hoops" that puffed out their skirts to stylish proportions. Dressmakers saw the attractiveness of the necessitated innovation and henceforth "hoop-skirts" became the vogue.

Miss Shearer and Gwen Lee, Virginia Pearson and Andree Tourneur, who supported her in the picture, say they felt lost when they got back to the modern skimpy gowns after working all day in crinolines. Ralph Forbes plays opposite Miss Shearer in the great Pinero drama of old English life. The supporting cast is a notable one, including O. P. Heggie, a leading actor of the stage, who makes his first screen appearance; Roy D'Arcy, Effie Ellsler, Cyril Chadwick, Owen Moore, Lee Moran and others. Sidney Franklin, director of "Quality Street," "Beverly of Graustark," "Her Sister From Paris" and other successes, directed.

The second feature is both interesting and entertaining and packed full of thrills.

Though he has been on the screen less than two years, Tim McCoy's daring horsemanship and histrionic talent have won him hundreds of thousands of picture fans. He is a real westerner, owner and operator of a big ranch in Wyoming and former adjutant general of that state. During the World war he left the ranch to join the colors and soon became a major of cavalry. He is now a lieutenant colonel of cavalry in the officers' reserve corps.

"Riders of the Dark" was written by W. S. Van Dyke and directed by Dick Grinde. Dorothy Dwan, Roy D'Arcy, Bert Roach, Frank Currier, Rex Lease, Dick Sutherland and others are in the cast.

Broadway Theatre

The much heralded stock company "The Garrick Players," opening Monday evening at the new Broadway theatre with Geo. M. Cohan's "The Baby Cyclone," a real laugh festival, has come to Norwich with a definite purpose in view. That purpose is to promote local interest in good stock production so that by obtaining the co-operation of the citizens of Norwich and surrounding towns only the best and latest New York stage hits may be presented to you at popular low prices.

In order to more fully accomplish that purpose, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stevens and Jack Dunigan, co-producers of The Garrick Players, have selected the best and cleanest stage hits available. Included among these are "Smilin' Thru", the great American love classic that will never be forgotten and "Nightstick," a melodrama spectacle of underworld life.

Will Occupy Broadway Store

Carl W. Brown, Incorporated, local Delco-Light and Frigidaire dealers have leased the store at 64 Broadway in the T. A. B. building, next to the Gilbert Furniture company, for an office and sales room for Frigidaire and Delco-Light.

This business was started over ten years ago by Carl W. Brown with offices in the Thayer Building, when farm lighting plants were practically unknown, and after a time larger quarters were secured in the Thames Loan & Trust building and for the past several years still larger quarters were occupied in the Uncas National Bank building.

The company was incorporated in January, 1925, and today has over four hundred Delco-Light users and more than that number of Frigidaire users, serving the community of southeastern Connecticut. In their new quarters this corporation will be enabled to display their complete line and render more prompt and efficient service.

The public will be welcome in these new quarters as soon as alterations have been completed which will be within a very few days.

Those who attended the opening performance last night of The Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre were more than agreeably surprised with the thorough and capable manner in which this splendid stock company presented their first show in Norwich, The Baby Cyclone.

It has been a long time since Norwich theatre fans have had an opportunity to witness a high class performance as that which the Messrs. Dunigan and Stevens have brought here. The writer must admit that it was with some skepticism that he attended the opening performance, but before the first act was over he knew that the management had scored successfully.

Rare judgment was used in selecting George M. Cohan's latest comedy effort, The Baby Cyclone. Not only is it a swift moving tonic, full of bright and breezy situations that keep one laughing continuously, but gives each member of the company a splendid opportunity to score in good comedy roles.

The plot, centering around three cunning puppies, is really too funny to divulge. The main roles are played in true Broadway style. Bob Stevens as Evans, the man servant in the Meadows home, portrays the typical English servant with a delicately comic touch. Helen Vincent, a maid in the same household, acts her role very adequately. Irving Morrow, leading man of the company, was splendid in the role of Joseph Meadows. Mr. Morrow has a splendid speaking voice which reminds us of Otis Skinner in his younger days. You will like Mr. Morrow. Richard Fehr as Doctor Herne, friend of Joe Meadows, gave an interesting and careful interpretation. Miss Sally Wall, as the hysterical young wife, gave a capable performance. Perhaps the true honors of the evening should go to Charles Mylott, who is first seen as a hard-boiled cop and later as Mr. Webster. Mr. Mylott handles both roles in a thorough workmanlike manner and his makeups were wonderful. He was the outstanding performer of the evening.

Miss Helene Wesley, leading lady, was simply charming in the role of Lydia Webster, bringing to the stage a freshness which is refreshing. We are sure that she will become a great favorite here. Peter Ferguson, dashing juvenile, in the role of Gene Hurley, the young irate husband, was simply great.

Miss Pearl Young played Mrs. Webster in a thoroughly capable manner.—McCracken, the dog fancier, was capably portrayed by Jack Byrne. George Dunigan portrayed the role of Cassidy, the Irish janitor, very well.

The performance is beautifully staged and costumed, all to the credit of Jack Byrne, director. The settings, by Charles Edwards, were colorful and pleasing to the eye. All in all, it was a splendid evening's entertainment and if The Garrick Players continue to present such first class performances we know they will become an institution of Norwich.

GASOLINE SALES IN STATE ON INCREASE

Connecticut motorists used gasoline at the rate of more than 13,600,000 gallons a month during the past year according to the amount of such sales reported to the state motor vehicle department. SOCIALIST SPEAKER SAYS CAPITALISM IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY EVILS

Fred Hurst, socialist party candidate for governor of the state of Rhode Island addressed an audience of about 75 people at a rally held Monday evening on Ferry street by the local socialist club. The speaker addressed the crowd from an automobile.

Mr. Hurst, a tall white-haired distinguished looking man based his attack on capitalism and the democratic and republican parties on the ground that they had set aside the principles of the Declaration of Independence.

He eulogized with enthusiasm the principles of the Declaration of Independence, that all men are created free and equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among them the right to alter or abolish their government and to institute a new government.

But he declared that the constitution, with its electoral college, and with the usurped power of the supreme court to set aside laws duly passed by congress and signed by the president, gave us, not a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, but a government over the people, by corporation lawyers, and for the industrial and financial masters of our country.

In industry we have no democracy at all. We are not equal, or anywhere equal in opportunity to enjoy the good things of life to our employers, or to the owners of the great corporations which dominate our industrial life.

We are not even truly free if we are workers, for while we can leave our boss one day we have to hunt or another boss the next day.

Not only does capitalism deny the principles of the Declaration of Independence but it is responsible for many other evils besides. The owners of industry want low wages and high prices so as to get high profits. The workers want high wages and a low cost of living. The class struggle that inevitably results is the social problem of our time. From it flow strikes and lockouts, low wages, high prices, unemployment and child labor. The low wages in turn tend to destroy the homes, cause race suicide, and disrupt the family.

Socialism with its program of public ownership and democratic management is the only final remedy for these evils. Socialists want to have America owned by the workers of America so that we can sing "My Country 'tis of Thee" and sing the truth.

RAYMOND JOYNT SULLIVAN KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Aug. 13—Raymond Joynt Sullivan, 23, popular and well-known local young man, was almost instantly killed about 7 o'clock this morning when he was hit by a Pierce-Arrow touring car owned and operated by Paul K. Rogers, a prominent New Britain banker and business man.

The accident occurred on the Colchester-Norwich turnpike, a few feet north of the Sullivan home, which is located about four miles below Colchester village. Mr. Sullivan had been driving his cows from the barn, on the east side of the road to the pasture located on the west side of the road. All except one of the cows had entered the pasture and Mr. Sullivan was driving the unduly animal across the road when the accident occurred.

Mr. Rogers, who is president of the City National bank, New Britain, and treasurer of the Skinner-Chuck Co., also of New Britain, was returning to that city after spending the week-end with his family at Weekapaug, who are summering there. He said he left there at 6 o'clock and it is understood he was traveling at about 45 miles an hour.

Mr. Rogers saw Mr. Sullivan on the highway and attempted to drive to the left of him. He couldn't stop in time to avoid hitting him. It was said that the car traveled 75 to 100 feet before coming to a standstill. The state highway railing was badly damaged in the crash.

Mr. Sullivan's mother happened to be standing in the kitchen window of their home and looked out just in time to see her son hit by the heavy car. She called another son, who happened to be nearby, and he assisted in removing his dying brother to the house. Dr. E. J. Howland of Colchester was immediately called but Mr. Sullivan had died before the physician arrived. Dr. C. E. Pendleton, medical examiner for the town of Colchester, Coroner Edward J. McKay of Norwich and state police from the Groton barracks went to the scene of the accident to conduct investigations.

The body was viewed by Medical Examiner Cyrus E. Pendleton of Colchester, who pronounced death due to a fractured skull and other injuries. Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich gave permission for the body to be removed by Undertakers Cummings & Ring to their rooms in this city. Mr. Rogers, who was arrested, was presented before Justice of the Peace Charles Brown of Colchester. He was released under bonds of $5,000 pending the finding of the coroner. Pictures of the scene of the accident were taken by Mr. Udell of Don Houghton's on order of Coroner McKay. The machine is owned by Mr. Rogers' mother, Mrs. Emma Rogers of New Britain.

Mr. Sullivan was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan and the late Jeremiah Sullivan and was born in Colchester, Jan. 24, 1905. He graduated from Bacon academy, Colchester, and attended St. Andrew's church. Mr. Sullivan has conducted the 320-acre farm since the death of his father in 1925 and was employed as a substitute rural free delivery carrier in Colchester and vicinity. Besides his mother he leaves three sisters, Mrs. John Shea and Misses Marion and Mildred Sullivan of Colchester, and two brothers, Jerome and Willard, of Colchester.

Mr. Sullivan's father was postmaster at Colchester for a number of years.

The sudden death of Mr. Sullivan was a distinct shock to his many friends in Colchester and elsewhere. Mr. Sullivan was well known and highly respected, his genial and pleasing disposition making for him a host of friends, who extend heartfelt sympathy to the family.

"OLD IRONSIDES" SOUVENIRS IN BOSTON STORE WINDOW

Through the courtesy and cooperation of the naval authorities of the Boston navy yard, the Reid and Hughes Co., have on display in one of their windows, a collection of articles made entirely from materials taken from "Old Ironsides."

The collection includes book ends, trays, paper weights; both useful and ornamental articles, everyone made entirely from timber and metal taken from the old historic ship.

The Reid and Hughes Co., is cooperating with the naval authorities by offering these articles for sale. The money received will go directly to the Boston naval base to be used in rebuilding "Old Ironsides." This is part of the country-wide campaign to raise money to rebuild the ship.

The collection is an interesting one, and offers Norwich people an opportunity to conveniently secure a souvenir which is not only highly prized now, but which will be even more so in years to come.

LOCAL CHAMBER TO HAVE GET-OUT-VOTE CAMPAIGN

The Norwich chamber of commerce will without doubt conduct a get-out-the-vote campaign this coming fall for the presidential campaign. Such a movement, among the members of local chambers, is being advocated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The proposed campaign has been brought to the attention of the officials of the local chamber and will soon be brought before the directors of the chamber for action.

The get-out-the-vote campaign is to be non-partisan in every sense and is aimed simply and directly at interesting the members of commercial organizations in exercising one of their fundamental responsibilities of citizenship by casting their votes in elections.

GROUP INSURANCE PLAN FOR PARK MILL EMPLOYEES

The Park Woolen mills in Connecticut including the Airlie mills of Hanover, the Assawaga mills of Danville and the Anrus Park Manufacturing Co., of East Glastonbury, has just completed arrangements with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., for additional insurance for the benefit of its employees.

These mills have for years covered without any expense to the employee, all people in its service for three months or more with $1,000 of life insurance.

The present extension of insurance benefits is contributory, each subscribing employee paying $1 a month and the company paying the balance of the cost. The new plan gives $1,000 in the event of death from any accident, provides for accidental dismemberment and temporary disability.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. maintains nursing service in all of the communities in which these mills are located and employees insured under the contract are eligible to this nursing service without additional cost. The insurance company has been active for many years in educating people for longer life and this new contract in the Park mills brings health services in the way of specially prepared health literature, expert advice on heating, ventilation, safety, etc.

More than 85 per cent. of the employees in these mills applied for these extra insurance benefits and the policy became effective Saturday, August 4th.

STRATON-SMITH WRANGLE OVER PROPOSED DEBATE

Gov. Smith Demands That Calvary Baptist Church Be the Scene—Rev. Straton States That For Obvious Reasons the Edifice Will Not Be Available, But That He Will Hire the Largest Hall He Can Secure—Gov. Smith Would Appear as the Governor of New York—Rev. Straton Contends That Gov. Smith Should Debate as the Democratic Presidential Nominee

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14—(AP)—Governor Smith today all but put his proposed debate with Dr. John Roach Straton of New York in the class of expected events that never materialize.

In a terse letter to the clergyman, the democratic presidential nominee renewed his demand that they meet face to face in Calvary Baptist church where Dr. Straton recently declared that the governor was the "deadliest foe" of the forces of moral progress in America. Smith insisted on a "yes or no" answer, and clearly indicated he would not consider the minister's counter suggestion that they come to grips elsewhere than in his church.

"I have your letter of August the ninth covering three pages in answer to my simple request that I be permitted to come to your church and there have you repeat in my presence the statements you made about me with such proof as you care to adduce and give me an opportunity to answer you before your own parishioners and in the place where you made the statements," said the governor in his latest letter.

"Your reply shows that you misunderstand the situation. I have no intention of conducting a political debate with you. I wrote you not in the capacity of a candidate or personally, but as the governor of the state of New York, whom you have traduced.

"The answer to my request to appear in your church before your parishioners under the conditions I mentioned is yes or no. Unless and until I hear from you in the affirmative, the matter is closed."

STRATON READY TO REPEAT HIS CRITICISM OF SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—The New York Evening Post today quotes Dr. John Roach Straton as saying that he is ready to repeat, in the largest hall he can find, his recent sermon criticizing Governor Smith, in the event that the governor refuses to debate with him in any place but Calvary Baptist church of which Dr. Straton is pastor.

The newspaper's correspondent at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., where Dr. Straton is staying, says that when Dr. Straton was informed of Governor Smith's letter demanding that the proposed discussion be held in the church or not at all, the minister said:

"I cannot reply until I receive the letter, but I can say this. It is a most remarkable letter that Governor Smith has written me—amazing to me. He talks about my traducing him as governor, that has nothing whatever to do with it. He wrote to me as a candidate for president of the United States and that is why he wanted to get into Calvary Baptist church.

"The heart of my reply to him will be to this effect: He challenged me to a joint discussion. I accepted. He stipulated that it be held in my own church. For obvious reasons that have been advanced it cannot be.

"But if the governor does refuse on this ground, then I will hire the largest hall I can secure and notify the governor that I am going to repeat in that hall, that exact sermon to which he objected.

"Tickets will be issued to every one of our parishioners since Governor Smith wants to reach them. The balance will be sent to republican and democratic headquarters in equal numbers for distribution. I am going to ask the mayor of the city of New York and Governor Smith as governor of the state for all necessary police and military protection and I am going to deliver verbatim that sermon. I have it in manuscript form already.

"I will add proofs of my accusations as he requested. I am assuming that Governor Smith must be present and will allow him any amount of time he wants to make rejoinders. When he finishes I will make further comment as I see fit. If Governor Smith wants surrebuttal he can have it.

"If he does not attend that meeting I have something more to say about him, whether he is the governor of the state candidate for president, or whatever he is.

"We'll show people who is going to run to cover."

The Post says that in response to a question Dr. Straton said he probably would deliver the address on September 7 or 8.

BODY OF EXPLORER HORNBY HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14—(AP)—The Hudson Bay country—home to John Hornby, explorer—was believed tonight to have taken his life. Bodies identified as those of Hornby and his two nephews have been found in a cabin on the north bank of the Lon river west of Hudson Bay, Canadian mounted police at Chesterfield inlet on the bay reported by wireless today.

The three died of starvation in a barren land where the fate of travelers depends on plentifulness of caribou. In 1926, when the three set out in a canoe for Chesterfield inlet, and in 1927, caribou were known to have been scarce.

Hornby and his nephews set out from Fort Reliance at the eastern end of Great Slave lake and an Indian reported seeing them late in 1926. Trappers brought out last word of the party, a note, written in 1926 and found at an abandoned camp read:

"Travelling slowly. Flies bad. Shot a fat buck caribou. Hope to see you down the Hanbury this winter."

The party apparently never survived the winter. Their bodies were found sixty miles below the junction of the Hanbury and Lon rivers and about 300 miles west of Chesterfield.

A search for them had been in progress since 1927.

Hornby was born in Lancashire, England, in 1878. From 1900 until the war he made numerous journeys into the Hudson Bay country and was generally credited with knowing as much about it as anyone in the world. He fought two years in the war, and later resumed his explorations in the north country that he loved.

BELIEVES THAT OWLS ARE EXCITING HIS PHEASANTS

MANCHESTER, Conn., Aug. 14—(AP)—In the belief that owls have caused the disappearance of 300 of his young pheasants, August Senkbeil, pheasant breeder, is determined that he will put a stop to the nightly disturbances and save his remaining 75 birds by standing guard at night with a gun.

Senkbeil was to have sold the birds to the state for distribution within two weeks for $3 apiece but during the past two or three mornings he noticed that his flock rapidly diminished by flying over an enclosed wire netting seven feet high, ordinarily a good protector.

Although owls are uncommon in this section the breeder is inclined to believe several have been paying nightly visits, causing the young pheasants to become excited and break away.

COOLIDGE CONGRATULATES HOOVER FOR SPEECH

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 14—(AP)—Scheduled to address the Wisconsin state convention of the American Legion at Wausau tomorrow morning, an overnight rail trip from the summer white house confronted President Coolidge tonight.

Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and by his son, John, the chief executive had arranged to stay in Wausau only two hours, leaving again immediately after his speech of acceptance.

To Mr. Hoover President Coolidge telegraphed:

"Your speech of acceptance ranks very high in political discussion. I congratulate you upon it and upon the reception which has been given to it by the country."

The message was sent after it had been said yesterday at the executive offices that the chief executive had given no intimation of his intention to communicate his impressions to the republican nominee.

INDICTED FOR MURDER OF JENNIE H. CONSTANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(AP)—David Shanks, illiterate Negro boot-black, who police said confessed slaying Miss Jennie H. Constance, Peoria educator, was arraigned, bound over to the grand jury and indicted within the space of a few hours today.

Prosecutors said every effort would be made to set an early date for his trial and that they would demand his electrocution.

Shanks was arrested last night by Evanston police after they had traced a wrist watch which belonged to the victim. The bootblack readily confessed the slaying, police said.

The prisoner was kept under heavy guard last night. Today, before a crowd of 300 persons, he calmly and dispassionately reenacted the killing at the scene.

Just 10 minutes later Shanks was arraigned and held to the grand jury without bond, charged with first degree murder. Although illiterate, the Negro objected to the charge of murder. "It ought to be manslaughter, your honor, because she was not dead when I left her," he said.

A short time later a true bill charging Shanks with murder was reported voted by a grand jury in a hearing that required only 30 minutes.

"A swift trip to the electric chair will be Shank's portion," said Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dillon.

HOOVER IS PREPARING SPEECH FOR BIRTHPLACE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 14—(AP)—Herbert Hoover turned today from appraisal of the effect of his acceptance speech to active preparation of his next enunciation of principles.

With his West Branch, Ia., speech already tentatively formulated he went at its final draft with an enthusiasm which was bringing a re-shaping of the document in which he is expected to give the people who greet him next week at his birthplace a more detailed expression of his views on farm relief, and other subjects touched but lightly in his acceptance address.

The republican presidential nominee hopes to complete his work on the speech before he leaves Thursday for a day in Los Angeles and southern California as the first stage of his return journey to the east. At Los Angeles also he will speak, but his talk there will be brief, devoted in part to a discussion of the Boulder Canyon power, irrigation and flood control project.

Even while the candidate prepared to touch off the second gun in his campaign for the presidency, echoes of the first shot continued to reach him in the peaceful quiet of his home on the Stanford university campus.

JUGOSLAVIAN PARLIAMENT ADJOURNED INDEFINITELY

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 14—(AP)—Parliament adourned today for an indefinite period after adding to the turmoil in the country by ratifying, with the majority of a single vote, the bitterly opposed Nettuno conventions with Italy.

Meanwhile, the question has been raised by those in sympathy with the Croatian opposition, whether this slim majority is sufficient to make the pact binding, alleging that the constitution calls for a two-thirwds vote for treaty ratification.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED WHEN PLANE FELL INTO OHIO RIVER

TILTONVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 14—(AP)—Two persons, the pilot and a passenger, were drowned near here tonight when a sight-seeing airplane plunged into the Ohio river. Three other occupants of the ship escaped, two by swimming to shore.

Gale Again Sweeps Southern Georgia

Weather Bureau Believes the Wind Will Reach Velocity of 60 to 70 Miles.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 14—(AP)—After isolating a 150-mile stretch of the northwest Florida coast on its journey up the Gulf of Mexico last night, Florida's latest tropical storm veered inland with hurricane force today and tonight was blowing across southern Georgia toward the Atlantic ocean.

Thomasville, Cairo, Quitman and other extreme southern Georgia towns felt the approach of the disturbance which the weather bureau believed was attended by winds of 60 to 70-mile velocity. The center was expected to pass in the vicinity of Thomasville late tonight.

Sudden emergence of the storm from the Gulf of Cedar Keys in northwest Florida together with its seemingly increased intensity bolstered the theory that the center passed so far out in the gulf last night at Tampa and St. Petersburg that those cities felt merely a lashing from the eastern edge.

Wire communications into the new storm area were going down rapidly before the advance of the gale but first reports said the damage apparently would be greater than that done by last week's storm which followed virtually the same course. Cairo on the Georgia-Florida border sent word that business virtually had been demoralized by the gale and driving rains. Quitman was darkened at noon and a high wind already had done more damage to crops than did the storm last week. Barometers fell rapidly throughout the area, warning the residents to prepare for the gale.

ISOLATION THREATENS TOWN OF OKEECHOBEE

OKEECHOBEE, Fla., Aug. 14—(AP)—Only one precarious route for travel to and from Okeechobee remained open to traffic today, while slowly rising flood waters threatened to inundate that passage and leave the town isolated.

An Associated Press correspondent who arrived by automobile after a survey between here and Orlando found Red Cross headquarters already established and caring for a few straggling families brought in by rescue expeditions attempting to reach outlying districts by boat.

Lack of communication to most of the flooded territory hampered an extensive survey of conditions, but it was established by fragmentary reports that most of the land was submerged from a point 40 miles north of here on Kissimmee river to an equal distance from Lake Okeechobee on Fish Eating creek.

The Kissimmee, flowing southward into the lake, spread out in a fan shape as it neared its emptying point. Ten miles north of Okeechobee it was three miles wide. Lake Okeechobee was showing a slow but consistent rise from flood waters. While it was believed generally that there was no great danger rof it overflowing, some apprehension was felt as headwaters continued to pour down from the territory above. Today, it was reported unofficially at the 17-foot level, a foot below flood stage.

From Bassenger came word that streets were under water, but no loss of life was expected. La Belle was in much the same situation.

Reports to Red Cross headquarters were that the town of Cabbage Bluff, about ten miles west of here, had been completely washed away. Its 151 inhabitants were saved, however, and were being cared for here.

SURGEONS MAY SEPARATE THE "SIAMESE TWINS"

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Whether a surgical attempt will be made to separate the "Siamese twins," Mary and Margaret Gibb, will be determined definitely tomorrow, it was learned today at the office of Dr. Francis P. Weston who has been interested in the case.

The announcement was made after Dr. Harold M. Hays, director of the Park West hospital, where the twins are staying, had asserted that the hospital had "no intention of allowing any surgical procedure to be attempted without having such procedure receive the endorsement of men prominent in the profession."

Dr. Weston, it was said at his office, was "not in" this afternoon, but a man who answered the telephone asserted that an announcement as to whether the operation would be attempted could be expected tomorrow. This spokesman also said that "perhaps" the seventeen year old girls would be taken to another hospital.

TOXIC MATTER FOUND IN BODY OF LOWENSTEIN

PARIS, Aug. 14—(AP)—The international mystery of the death of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, while crossing the English channel in his private airplane on July 4, today entered another phase when it was unofficially reported that toxic matter had been found in his viscera.

After his body was found on July 19, Dr. Paul, chief chemical analyst for the Surete Generale, the French Scotland Yard, undertook an exhaustive autopsy at the request of members of the Lowenstein family. It was said at the courthouse in Boulogne, according to Le Matin today, that the expert's report, which will not be made public, reveals "the existence of traces of a very characteristic toxic matter" in the viscera.

LATEST RETURNS FROM THE OHIO PRIMARY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14—(AP)—Congressman James T. Begg and Myers E. Cooper were running neck and neck for the republican gubernatorial nomination in returns from one-sixth of the state, compiled by the Associated Press at 11 o'clock tonight.

Congressman Martin L. Davey, who assumed the lead at the first in the democratic gubernatorial race, continued to increase his lead as additional precincts reported. In 1,168 precincts the vote was Davey 9,791, and Bloom 4,987. Both had the endorsement of the dry organization. Peter Witt of Cleveland, who was expected to place third in the democratic gubernatorial race, was running second to Davey, leading Bloom by about 900 votes in 1,168 precincts. The other two candidates were trailing. The vote was Davey, 9,791; Witt, 5,816; Bloom, 4,987.

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 14—(AP)—An explosion believed to be of incendiary origin today wrecked the plant of the Indiana Sanitary Pottery Co., causing damages estimated at $250,000. Police were unable to enter the building because of fire that broke out immediately after the blast, but it is believed that no one was in the building.

The plant was closed on Saturday because of a labor dispute between its operators and employes, and police are now investigating the theory that the plant was blown up by plotters.

NEW $2,000,000 SHORTAGE FOUND AGAINST TOOMBS

President of the International Insurance Company Already Under Arrest For Alleged $3,500,000 Shortage—New Charge is Brought by Clarence A. Stelle, Vice President of the Concern of Toombs and Daily—Toombs Remains in Chicago, Although He Was Expected to Surrender in St. Louis to Answer Any Charge That Might Be Preferred.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(AP)—A new shortage of $2,000,000 was charged against Roy C. Toombs, investment broker and insurance company head, today by Clarence A. Stelle, vice-president of the investment concern of Toombs & Daily.

Toombs is free under a $10,000 bond after being arrested Saturday on an embezzlement charge resulting from the alleged disappearance of $3,500,000 in assets from the International Life Insurance Co. at St. Louis, of which Toombs is president.

As a result of Stelle's charge Judge William N. Gemmill of the superior court appointed the Foreman Trust & Savings bank as receiver for the firm. Stelle asked the appointment in a petition charging Toombs with frauds which he said resulted in the exhaustion of the assets of the firm.

He declared he was informed that without knowledge of the board of directors of Toombs & Daily, Toombs in March, 1927, used his office with the investment firm to further plans to gain control of the International Life Insurance Co.

In the manipulations necessary to his project, the petition states, Toombs issued checks against Toombs & Daily for more than $2,000,000 and with the money purchased securities which the firm has never seen.

The check withdrawals, said Stelle, so exhausted the Toombs & Daily treasury that the firm cannot now meet its obligations.

Judge Marcus Kavanaugh late today dismissed a habeas corpus writ obtained by counsel for Toombs in connection with his arrest on the St. Louis charge. Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott appeared and informed the judge that the Chicago police had nothing against Toombs and had released him.

TOOMBS FAILED TO APPEAR IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch says today that one of the prosecuting officials investigating a $3,652,000 shortage in the International Life Insurance Co., declared the inquiry had developed that President Roy C. Toombs borrowed approximately $500,000 in New York on an alleged fraudulent certificate for 10,000 shares of International stock.

The prosecutors questioned W. G. Darst, secretary of the company, who stated, the newspaper said, that the stock certificate had been issued at the instance of Toombs, who told him that it would be taken up as soon as it had served its purpose.

The certificate bears the names of Darst and T. J. McReynolds, vice-president. The latter denied he had signed it. A report is under investigation that other certificates for 3,500 shares of non-existant stock had been issued.

Pending arrival of Toombs from Chicago, Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener, Attorney-General Stratton Shartel of Missouri and two assistants of the Illinois attorney-general continued questioning subordinate officials. Those questioned so far have blamed Toombs for the shortage, which was discovered by examiners representing the insurance departments of nine states.

Toombs remained in Chicago, although Sidener had expected him to surrender here yesterday and give bond to answer any charge that might be preferred. Charles M. Howell of Kansas City, one of Toombs' attorneys, said he had an appointment with Toombs for a conference here tomorrow.

BOSTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—The tale of a sea tragedy in which a number of lives were lost will be told when the Boston steamer William A. Four days later, off the western coast of Mexico, she encountered a typhoon, during which she was swept by mountainous seas. Part of her deckload was carried away with several members of the crew. EDITOR WHITE DENIES RETRACTION OF CHARGES

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—William Allen White, Kansas editor who recently made numerous charges against Governor Smith, denied in a cablegram to former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, made public today, that he had ever retracted any of his charges. The cablegram follows:

"In my case against Governor Smith, I have made no retraction. On the prostitution issue I proved my case got a conviction and suspended the sentence. I only did this because I felt that a debate on the subject of harlotry was not worthy of a presidential campaign. But if Governor Smith tries to wisecrack his way out of his record, I shall come back at him with the proven evidence.

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND INSPECTION OF ORGAN CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, August 14—A good sized crowd attended the open house and inspection of the Hutchings Organ company plant on Chapman street this evening, the attendance being an enthusiastic response to an invitation extended the townspeople to make a cursory study of one of the city's industries. There were expressions on the part of many that the organ company undoubtedly faces a bright future and its importance to the city should grow yearly under normal conditions.

In anticipation of the crowd Police Chief Thomas F. Grady had detailed officers to the scene and one-side parking was maintained on the streets surrounding the plant.

Beginning at 8 o'clock and lasting during the inspection local organists furnished a delightful program. Officials and artisans of the Hutchings company were assisted by chamber of commerce officers in conducting the inspection. One of the instruments that attracted considerable attenton was a beautiful mahogany console, containing three manuals and 54 stops which will be shipped later this week to the German Lutheran church in New Haven. The organ from which the musical program was played has 641 pipes and valves, a two-manual console and 10 stops. The console and display pipe cabinet of oak are finished in mission stain. This organ is to be shipped to Agawam, Mass.

As explained by the artisans the Hutchins organs are so constructed that notwithstanding the delicate and intricate mechanism and the numerous pipes and wires, they give a lifetime of service requiring no attention other than incidental tuning. There was an interesting display of quality products used in the manufacture of the organs. The organ contains special valves patented by Fred J. Flaherty, manager of the local plant, made of high grade kid split from the regular hide. Several of the products are "Connecticut made" including the high grade ivory used for keys and couplers and the tilting tablets that are a product of the town of Ivoryton. The wood used is secured through local dealers. The musical program was so arranged as to bring into play the rich tones of the organ, from those of great softness to those of depth produced only through wooden pipes. A workman displayed how the hand-made valves are assembled an dthe crowd marvelled at the skillful nature of the handwork.

Manager Flaherty was assisted at the inspection by the following staff of the local organization: Charles W. Ellis, connected with the organ business for 28 years; Frank Ellis, assisting his father in the fine cabinet and wood work; Frank Lilley, a former student at Worcester Tech, who is in special charge of the patened valve work; Robert Flaherty, a graduate of M. I. T., Boston, in charge of the electrical work and two assisting artisans from Springfield, Charles W. Chadwick, well known organ architect and former representative of the Hutchings company in Chicago and Sidney Madison, in organ work for some years with Mr. Chadwick. The exhibition was sponsored by the chamber of commerce and President Frank P Fenton and Secretary Earl J. Arnold of the organization assisted in handling the crowd.

Word was received today that the senior member of the silk firm which is about to locate here following a recent successful financial drive would be in this city this week to complete arrangements with the local committee for the establishment of the plant. Meanwhile one of the former Quidrick-Windham Manufacturing company, is being put into readiness. The old cotton manufacturing machinery is nearly all out and painters are now at work. In a letter sent here by the silk manufacturer who is momentarily expected here the writer states: "We assure the citizens of Willimantic who have signified their vital interest that we are bending our every effort to conclude negotiations quickly." It is understood that there has been some delay in completing these negotiations owing to the severe illness of a partner in the silk firm.

NEW JERSEY COMPANY IS AWARDED PAVING CONTRACT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 14—The contract for the laying of 4,500 yards of tarvia-lithic, a cold tar product, on Main street from the New Haven railroad crossing to and including Thread mill square has been let out to the Barret Construction company of New Jersey and Rocky Hill, it was announced today by Alderman William E. Jackson member of the street committee of the common council. Members of this comittee, comprising Aldermen Oliver L. Willard, chairman, W. E. Jackson and Arthur J. Dubreuil with Mayor Charles A. Gates have visited the Rocky Hill plant and made a thorough study of road materials and costs. The cost of the construction was not made known today but it is understood that it will be well within the appropriation. The plan of the committee is to have the street department grade the section to be resurfaced. It is believed that this can be done more economically by the department and also continue to furnish employment to local men. The Connecticut Trolley company have decided to maintain the trolley tracks that following that section of Main street from Thread mill square to the terminal near the railroad crossing. The company will bear the expense of its legal share of grading and surfacing, this being between the rails and eight inches to either side. The tarvia-lithic surface is put on cold, is easily repaired and is three inches in thickness after being rolled. After considering the advantages of the present plan the committee did not put the contract out for bids. It is expected that the surfacing work will start on or about September 1, and the grading will be started within a few days.

A portion of the paragraph devoted to The Thread City in the booklet of Connecticut recently released by the state department of agriculture reads in the following interesting manner: "One might go to the largest thread mill in this country and take the end of a silk thread, unwind it from the spindle along 32 miles of good highways into Hartford. Another thread might be stretched 30 miles into New London. While still other threads would reach 30 miles to the Massachusetts border on the north and 30 miles to the Rhode Island border on the east, all over good roads—truly Willimantic is a city of threads and good highways."

Considerable damage resulted when a Ford truck owned by Mrs. A. M. MYSTIC

ST. PATRICK'S PASTOR ADVANCED TO BRIDGEPORT

St. Patrick's church held two large congregations at the masses Sunday morning, it being the last Sunday that Rev. Thomas P. Mooney was to be with the people as pastor. He has been here for four years and the people regret to have him go. The appointments were announced last week by Bishop Nilan. Rev. Father Mooney has been assigned the work of establishing a new parish in Bridgeport. He will be succeeded by Rev. John P. Kennedy, assistant pastor of the Sacred Heart church in New Haven.

Father Mooney was born November 1, 1881, at New Haven. His early education was received in the public schools of that city. After his graduation from Hillhouse high he attended St. Chare's' college, Ellicot City, Maryland. His preparation for the priesthood was made at the Grand Seminary in Montreal. He was ordained there December 21, 1907, by the Most Rev. Archbishop Bruchesi.

Most of Father Mooneys career as a curate was spent in the Sacred Heart parish, Bridgeport. He wasc the assistant pastor there for fourteen years, from 1910 till 1924. His first pastoral appointment was to Mystic.

Father Mooney's long residence in Bridgeport has made his thoroughly familiar with that city and the problem of instituting a new parish in it. His pleasant relations with all classes and his efficient priestly work among them are the causes of keen regret at his removal. But his evident fitness for a broader field of labor calls him away.

The successor to the Mystic pastorate is a native of Southington. Born January 23, 1881. After the grammar grades he attended Southington High school. From there he went to St. Thomas' Seminary, Hartford. His clerical studies were made in the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and St. Mary's Baltimore. He was later a prefect at St. Thomas' Seminary. He was ordained by Right Rev. John J. Nilan, D. D., at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, June 29, 1911.

Father Kennedy's first appointment was as assistant at St. Francis' church, Waterbury. He remained there until his second appointment at the Sacred Heart church, New Haven. He leaves that parish to take up pastoral duties in Mystic.

His new parishioners will find an unassuming and affable priest in Father Kennedy. Undoubtedly he will endear himself to them as readily as he did to the members of the Sacred Heart parish. He will prove an able substitute for his predecessor.

At the home of Mr. anu Mrs. John Allyn, at Mason's Island, there was a pleasant gathering Sunday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, of North Stonington, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Slocum, Westerly, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Smith, Wequetequock, Mrs. Phebe White and daughter, Hattie, and Eli King, Pendleton Hill, Everett Chamolin and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Allyn, of Mystic.

The local union No. 2039, C and J. of A., will hold its annual clambake Saturday afternoon, on their picnic grounds at Lantern Hill.

Officer Veskay followed the Hudson car on the Stonington-Westerly highway from a point three-quarters of a mile west of Ye Old White House Inn. The state trooper testified that the accused had cut out of a line of 15 or 20 cars and passed a Chrysler sedan near the top of a grade while proceeding at a rapid rate of speed and he had stopped him at the Inn.

Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt of Groton appeared for Scranton, who testified that, traveling as he was toward Westerly, there appeared no "cross road" sign, the only one reading "soft shoulders." With him was his wife, Mrs. Barbara Scranton, and brother-in-law, John Moriarity, who took the stand to testify to the speed and no traffic in opposite direction. To Prosecutor McKenna's claim that reckless driving had been toned down to speeding in the complaint, Attorney Hewitt declared that even if the officer had made an error in judgment he should have blown his whistle and stopped the auto for a warning and not trailed the car. "I find the accused not guilty and order his discharge," said Judge W. A. Wilcox.

PUTNAM

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 14—Henry Beausoliel and Eugene Auger, both of Putnam, were arraigned before Judge Geissler this morning in police court charged with breaking and entering St. John's hall on Providence street and also gaining admission to the Beausolie, Brothers meat market located in the same block. The youths were arrested by Officer Benoi Durand of the Putnam police after a complaint had been entered against them.

It is alleged the boys entered the club room of the St. John's society, through a broken window, later they continued their prowling about the building and in the same manner entered the meat market. Their presence in the block was discovered before they had been inside sufficiently long enough to obtain any property.

Auger is a minor, and through Police Commissioner John M. Dean, special probation officer, he entered a plea of not guilty to the charge, as did his companion. Judge Geissler informed the boys he would give them a chance to repent their actions by imposing a sentence to the state reformatory in Cheshire and then suspending the sentence for six months, committing them to the care of the probation officer, whose report will determine whether the sentence will be carried out.

Beausoliel was represented by Attorney I. H. Miron, who claimed his client was intoxicated at the hour of the break and that he was not in a position to realize the seriousness of his offense. Judge Geissler overruled the attorney's plea and ordered the boy placed in care of the officer.

During the past few months, a number of petty breaks, such as the one committed Monday evening, have been discovered and although the past offenses were not pressed against the boys, the police believe they have cleared the source of the breaks in the north end of the city.

SOUSA DELIVERS ADDRESS BEFORE LOCAL ROTARY CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 14—A personal explanation was given the members of the Putnam Rotary club this afternoon, as to how the famous military musical number, "The Stars and Stripes Forever," was written when the author of the number, John Philip Sousa, world's premier bandmaster, addressed the Rotarians at the weekly noon-day luncheon held here this noon. The lieutenant-commander, attired in his naval uniform, was introduced to the Rotarians by Manager James Mahoney of the Bradley theatre. Mr. Sousa related his experiences of 31 years ago when he was pacing the deck of a large steamship en route to Europe, where he was to make a tour of the continent. As he walked the broad decks he seemed to hear a band playing this beautiful composition, and when he returned to New York several weeks later he placed the mental chords on paper. A few days later he had opportunity of selling his work for a price of $35, including what royalty returns might come from it, in the event it proved successful. Mr. Sousa said since then the one piece alone has netted him over $400,000. Another of his famous marches, "The Washington Post," was sold for a small premium, which later resulted in bringing him many dollars.

Mr. Sousa said, since he entered Putnam, several acquaintances inquired why he had parted with his beautiful beard, which act he attempted to explain. When finished there was a cloud of doubt in the mind of each present regarding the truth of the yarn, yet each grinned as the famous musician finished his story. Mr. Sousa said his beard left him while he was an officer aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, flagship of the Atlantic squadron, in foreign waters during the war. Word came that the allied forces were pushed square against the wall by the enemy and there was much doubt as to an allied victory, when suddenly his experience of some years ago flashed into his mind, and if carried out might greatly aid the cause. "I was touring in Germany, passing down a boulevard," said Mr. Sousa, "when suddenly the German emperor, 'Kaiser Bill,' came into sight. He saluted me, and I returned the military greeting. On another occasion, we met again, and the kaiser took especial notice of my beard. Our third meeting was not a pleasant one. Kaiser William failed to return my salute and struck obliquely off to a side street to avoid passing me, which caused me to wonder. A few days later I was driving down the first street when we met again, my car crashed the German ruler's and I had an opportunity to read his mind. I was determined he was jealous of my beard. On the ship when the message came I went to my admiral and offered to part with my beard as I was sure the war would be won when the facial hair was in the barber's pile. He agreed to allow me to make the sacrifice and shortly after the news was sent out, there came from the kaiser an appeal for an armistice. Sousa's beard won the war."

With another series of these anecdotes, the march king finished his address.

Following his luncheon, he retired to the Bradley theatre, where he directed the programme of music before a capacity house. His musicians arrived in Putnam in two special coaches added to the regular Boston to New York express, arriving here at 1:30 p. m. At the close of the programme the streets of the city rang out with tunes of his marches. By the tumultuous applause tencered at the close of each number, it appeared every patron was more than pleased with the appearance of the band of over 50 pieces.

The police are again experiencing the trouble of replacing damaged silent policemen located at the various intersections of the city. Today the "dummy" at the corner of School and Providence streets was damaged by a car driver by Perry Russell of New Haven. Russell reported the incident to Sergeant Liard of the Putnam police and informed the officer that his insurance company would make full restitution for the damage caused.

CIVIC COURTESY

It is an encouraging sign of an awakening of the sense of civic and community courtesy in the co-operation of Mayor Robbins and the chamber of commerce towards better street and directional signs in the city. Norwich has too long been a laggard in this respect in comparison with other large cities of the state where it is the usual thing to find signs that assist the motorist to find his way through the city. Norwich has several corners which the bulk of tourist travel passes and at most of these are traffic beacons which could be utilized for directional signs. Both the broad white base and the faces of the sign above the base afford available space for the painting of an arrow in conjunction with the name of some principal point towards which traffic would trend. Having a sign which the driver could read would in many cases obviate the present practice of drivers stopping at a busy corner in order to ask the traffic officer which way to go. At the Wauregan house corner, for instance, there is opportunity for giving direction by signs for Willimantic, Hartford, Worcester, New London and one or two other points which might be suggested. The broad bases of beacons in Franklin square might well be lettered to indicate routes of travel there. The beacon at Thames square could show the turn for New London and the straight ahead for East Haddam and beyond for tourists driving west, while for drivers coming from the west or south, the appropriate direction could be given. The Washington square beacon could also indicate the way to Hartford, Willimantic, New London or Worcester.

It is recognized as commendable courtesy to welcome the coming guest, but there is no lack of courtesy in making his passage through the city easy and in sending him on his way with pleasant thoughts towards the city that had had the foresight to save him from confused wanderings in its streets.

SIMPLIFYING THE ISSUE

Reports that France approves President Coolidge's declaration that the Kellogg anti-war pact will not remove the necessity of a strong navy and an adequate army are not surprising. Other nations which expect to sign the treaty of Paris this month are likely to express similar sentiments. All recognize that their renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy cannot affect their inherent right of self-defense. As Secretary Kellogg himself has pointed out, the signing of this pact will not bring in the millennium.

Furthermore, President Coolidge's statement, far from being out of harmony with the treaty, should aid in its ratification by the various powers. Some of them differ radically on limitation questions, and any attempt to adjust their views as a basis for approving the treaty might handicap the principal purpose of that pact, which is to create an atmosphere of peace, to establish a foundation for future agreements to thrust war still farther into the background. This simplifies the issue.

No one has taken a more active interest than President Coolidge in disarmament discussions. His desires in that connection are well known. But he also realizes that until there is assurance of universal limitation of armies and navies, which alone would be effective, it would be folly to lose sight of the importance of maintaining adequate equipment for self-defense. The habits of nations have been too long formed to be changed in a day.

AN APOLOGIST FOR TAMMANY

At the first opportunity for an extended speech since his nomination for vice president, Senator Robinson finds it necessary to come to the defense of Tammany hall, which he recognizes hangs as a heavy handicap around the neck of Governor Smith in the presidential race. Recognition of the same fact was apparent in the advice which Chairman Raskob gave to help Tammany as much in the background as possible and the governor's campaign managers have decided to do as little apologizing as possible. Yet here is Senator Robinson taking up the defense of Tammany in the very region where by members of its own party it is most thoroughly feared and detested.

"Considered as a whole, the record of Tammany is not so offensive," says Mr. Robinson, fairly ignoring its long continued and profitable partnership with the forces of crime and political crookedness. It was just one hundred years ago that one of its sachems, as Collector of the Port of New York, departed for Europe with a million dollars of the public funds.

With remarkable ineptness, Mr. Robinson made the crowning blunder of referring to Samuel J. Tilden as a Tammany man apparently not realizing that it was Tilden, who as a public spirited citizen broke away from the organization and when a Tammany follower "split" up its pals, eagerly seized upon the evidence and helped to put Boss Tweed behind the bars. Mr. Robinson's embarrassing mention of Mr. Tilden must have made many a Tammany man of today cringe and writhe in humiliation. They do not want to hear the name of Tilden. It has been the sorest of subjects around the Wigwam since the Tweed exposure and downfall in 1871. Tammany's unsuccessful effort to prevent Tilden's nomination in 1876 and the ousting of the entire Tammany delegation from the democratic convention of 1880 because of its continued hostility toward him.

By merely consulting any of the standard books of reference, Mr. Robinson would have saved himself from this colossal blunder. He might also have chanced upon this impartial statement in the Encyclopedia Britannica's article on Tammany hall: "The grosser forms of corruption that prevailed under Tweed did not, as a rule, prevail in later years. Instead, the money raised by and for the Hall and its leaders has come from the blackmailing of corporations, which find it easier to buy peace than to fight for their rights; from corporations which desire concessions from the city and, through corrupt police officials, from the criminal classes and gambling establishments in return for non-interference on the part of the police."

The Tammany Tiger has not changed its stripes or its tactics and no amount of apologizing can remove the Tammany taint from its candidate.

FOR JURY REFORM

New York's successful crime commission, better known as the Baumes commission, has been asked by the merchants association of that city to turn its attention to defects in the jury system. The merchants association itself, after a two year's investigation, has reached tentative conclusions. It admits that the generality of business men endeavor to avoid jury service, but it attributes that disposition to needless delays, preventable losses, hardships and annoyances now connected with jury duty. It takes the common-sense view that the average citizen of an American community will serve on juries if the pecuniary sacrifice is not made needlessly heavy and if the service is not made needlessly unpleasant.

Further, the association was astonished to find how many professions, trades and occupations are exempt by law from jury duty. It can perceive no valid reason for all the exemptions: Their existence causes reluctance to serve among the non-exempt elements since the feeling is unavoidable that they are the victims of discrimination and that good citizenship is deliberately penalized.

The present laws, as well as the methods of many trial attorneys and many presiding judges in that city, put a premium on incompetence and inexperience when juries are chosen. Talesman are not infrequently treated by laws as if the talesmen were under suspicion and the judges through weakness or indifference fail to protect harried and insulted citizens thus subjected to examination.

The Baumes commission, in which the public has confidence because of its well-established reputation for useful service, is the right body to lead in bringing about rational reforms of the jury system. Anything accomplished by it for New York would be considered sympathetically in other states confronted by the same serious problem.

LABOR'S CAMPAIGN STAND

After full discussion of the matter, the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor has decided to remain, for the present, politically neutral—that is, to give its official support to neither the republican nor the democratic national ticket. Wage workers, like other citizens, in the opinion of the committee, should vote strictly as individuals for the candidate they personally admire and the party they prefer for reasons of their own.

In 1924 the federation gave its support to the presidential candidacy of Senator LaFollette because of the radical labor planks in his platform. It is understood that the labor leaders who were responsible for that action came later to regret it.

The traditional official policy of union labor is that of political neutrality. There are republicans, democrats, progressives, socialists and independents in the trade union movement. No body of officers or trade union leaders has the power to commit all trade unionists to any ticket or to deliver the labor vote. There is no such vote to deliver. Trade unionists are too intelligent and too discriminating to be turned over in mass to any candidate.

The same is true of the farmers and of the individuals composing any other so-called class of intelligent voters in this country. Men and women in a republic are, first of all, free citizens.

MRS. FRANK REFORMS

House-to-house canvassers were the bane of young Mrs. Frank's life. She could never refuse to let them show their wares. And she always bought something she didn't need for more than she could afford to pay. Her New Year's resolution this year had been to ignore all canvassers, no matter how suave and persuasive; no matter how seedy and pathetic. And yet—"buzzz." Mrs. Frank opened the kitchen door.

"How do you do?" she asked sweetly.

"Got a present for you, lady. Take your choice, a vegetable brush or a dish mop."

"Sorry. I'm not buying any kitchenware now."

"This is free lady. You don't have to buy nothing. You get your present, anyway. Like to show you my line." Mrs. Frank hesitated, her eyes on the clock.

"Only take five minutes of your time, lady."

"All right," Mrs. Frank surrendered. The man opened his sample case and continued talking.

"We got the finest line of brushes in America. Tested and approved by Best Homemaking Magazine. Now, here's a nice little mop——"

Mrs. Frank glanced nervously at the clock from time to time. As soon as Mr. Frank finished shaving he would want his breakfast. Tick, tock, tick, tock. Four of the five minutes gone. Mrs. Frank ventured desperately.

"I hate to take up your time when I don't intend to buy."

"That's all right, lady. Glad to show my line to a nice lady like you. Some of 'em snap your head off soon's you ring the bell. As I was saying, you can't beat our line in America for price or quality. Now, heres' a nice upholstery brush——"

Mrs. Frank made a last beseeching appeal.

"I'm very busy now. Can't you leave your card and——"

"Lady, this is your only chance for a whole year," the agent explained dramatically. "We only come around once a year. How about putting you down for the mop and deliver it in two weeks, $3.85, C. O. D.?" Mrs. Frank nodded weakly, gave her name and address and then almost pushed him out of the kitchen.

"You'll find this is the best bargain you got in a long time," she heard through the closed door.

Good gracious! Only five minutes more to make Mr. Frank's breakfast! To make the toast the golden brown he loved; to fry the eggs quickly and then steam them for a second so there would be a huge pearly-pink globule on a creamy-white background.

Twenty minutes later Mr. Frank was on the way to his studio.

"Buzzz."

"I'm giving away a waterless cooker, ma'am. You don't pay a cent. Only buy two pounds of our coffee every two weeks. Fifty cents a pound. When did you say I should deliver the coffee?"

Mrs. Frank became conscious of the fact that the man was waiting for her to answer, and automatically gave her name and address. She shut the door on the salesman and it was as near a slam as she could achieve. Then she started to wash the breakfast dishes.

"Buzzz."

"I'm giving away samples of a new cleaning tablet, madam. Absolutely revolutionizes housecleaning. Will you promise me to use it? I'll come back the first part of the week and ask you some questions on the wonders it works in your kitchen." And the man bowed gallantly. Mrs. Frank took the proffered sample and started in cleaning again.

"Ding-ding." That was the front-door bell.

"I'm selling home-made Boston brown bread to help the Missionary society of our church. It's a worthy cause. Will you take two or three loaves?" Mrs. Frank couldn't get out of taking one loaf, anyway.

"Buzzz."

"I'm from the Run-Proof Silk Hosiery company and——". But he got no further. For with a loud bang, Mrs. Frank had slammed the door in his face.

"This settles it. I'm going to move to a desert island and guard the house with a whole kennel full of ferocious bulldogs," Mrs Frank exclaimed to the back of the puzzled but vanishing salesman, "and I hope I never get another bargain as long as I live."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Trench raiding, the usual forerunner of major offensives in war, has begun. Official communiques from great general headquarters of the Hoover and Smith forces announce capture of important prisoners. And both sides have put their captives to work.

Democratic Generalissimo Raskob has filched from republican ranks the personal and political services of William H. Woodin, head of two big business units, the American Car and Foundry company and the American Locomotive company. Republican Deputy Field Marshal Moses, on the other hand—and on the same day—exhibited the scalp of Robert L. Owen, with the former democratic senator from Oklahoma still under it and proclaiming allegiance to the Hoover standard.

Numerically speaking, and in strategy and tactics, this first skirmish is a draw. Let him who will estimate the relative vote getting values of these excursions and alarms. Dyed-in-the-wool republican papers gave Owen the front page; democratic ditto did the same with Woodin. Alleged or actual political independents—if any—printed both news stories side by side. Take your choice.

But aside from heralding the near approach of the coming twin storms of political campaigning, these developments served to recall that democratic scouts swarmed about Washington in the days immediately following the two conventions, drawn by vague rumors of discord in the Hoover camp. They wanted to know inmost secrets of Work-Moses relations and whether the peppery New Hampshire senator was peeved by frustrated personal ambitions or other things.

They seem to have been answered by deeds, not words, if it is a fact that Moses' cunning tongue lured Owen into the Hoover camp.

The prowling democrats professed intense astonishment that the Hoover campaign had not leaned off the ways virtually on the instant of his nomination, a fully organized, going concern. That was to be expected of the boasted Hoover genius for organization which was bound to be dinned into voters' ears by every Hoover campaign orator, they said. They had expected to be forced to make stern chase of it; what was delaying things in Hoover councils?

It now appears that the Hoover pre-convention campaign and the Hoover election campaign were quite distinct things; even in the eyes of the republican nominee himself. When Hoover gladiators rushed back from Kansas City to congratulate him on the nomination and relax a bit to rejoice, they found their chief scratching his head, metaphorically speaking. "Yes, yes," he is represented as having told them in substance. "Very nice indeed; but when a man has been nominated for the presidency, how does he go about being elected? What do we do now?"

It took a little time to get everybody together, with feet on the ground, and dope out an answer. But if the Hoover card-indexed nomination campaign is any criterion, his election campaign will not lack for organization or detailed staff work. He is not prone to assume that presidential elections or anything else of consequence just happen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Oldest Vacationer

Mr. Editor: In reading in Saturday's Bulletin, the conclusions of a writer in regard to vacation, page 4, col. 3, "Probably it is not a matter of record whose fertile brain it was that first suggested the idea of vacation. Probably it was discovered accidentally." By way of diversion, also desiring to be informed as to the possible correctness of the conclusions, this writer found in a book of history, an account, by a thoroughly reliable narrator and confirmed by two most reliable authors, who tell of an industrious worker who, most likely, had been speeding up and had made such bad production he lost his business and home. The narrative tells where he went, also his degree of success in quest of rest and the deplorable conditions he made upon his return. A careful reading will, perhaps, partly explain why so many seemingly good people prefer to go to the watering places for rest. Matt 12:43-45. Luke 11:24-26.

Pride In Tammany

Mr. Editor: "Pride in Tammany" is a meat of questionable flavor, as one looks at Governor Alfred E. Smith surrounded by stacks of old volumes, endeavoring to unearth enough that is good to offset that which is very, very bad. "Pride in Tammany" is the bent twig of youth that cannot be strengthened in the mature oak. In spite of the press of the nation revealing Tammany corruption and moral devastations Governor Alfred E. Smith, the much heralded "personality," is the ever ready vehicle to carry to the youth of the nation "Pride in Tammany."

It was this unalterable snarl in the mind of Governor Alfred E. Smith that sounded the alarm that gave voice and action to moral America: gave voice to the mothers of America and to their sons—pulpit, public and press. Protestant America is not organized, but moral America is. It is the multiplied voice of the Simmons, the Cannons, the John Roach Stratons—the voice of high womanhood, the Mrs. Shavers, that will save the youth of the nation from too much "Pride in Tammany." Silence on a moral question of national moment is a buried talent—your best talent bound and gagged in the chin cloth of cowardice. America marches on—it's strength "the strength of ten."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Tail for a Sail

Who trusts his fortune to a sail
Should not forget that winds do fail.
—Mother West Wind.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel sat on the roof of the house of Paddy the Beaver and looked longingly over at the shore. Somehow or other, he didn't want to swim. No, sir, he didn't want to swim. He had had all the swimming he desired.

"But I guess I've got to," whimpered Chatterer. "I can't fly. And the only way I can get ashore is to fly or swim, so far as I can see."

Chatterer had quite recovered his spirits, but he kept his eye on the sky just the same. He was fearful that Redtail the Hawk might take it into his head to come back looking for him.

"If he does, he won't find me," said Chatterer to himself. "At the first sign of him in the sky I'll hide under that stick where I hid before. Oh, dear, I wish I had wings. I don't want to swim and I can't fly, and here I am. It looks to me as if I shall have to stay here for a while."

Just then his eyes brightened. Yes, sir, his eyes brightened. There was a small log floating a short distance away. If only he could get on that, and then get the Merry Little Breezes to blow it ashore, he would be able to escape from Paddy's house without swimming and without flying. Looking up the pond, he saw a ripple coming down across it. He knew what that ripple meant. It meant that the Merry Little Breezes and Old Mother West Wind were coming. Sure enough, in a few moments they began to rumple up his hair. Chatterer glanced over at that little log. The ripple was lapping against it. That log was coming nearer. Yes, sir, that log was coming nearer. Chatterer's eyes brightened. He went down close to the water's edge on the side nearest that log. There he waited and watched and tried to be patient. That log moved very slowly. Sometimes it seemed to Chatterer that it didn't move at all. But it did. And, little by little, little by little, it drifted nearer.

Carefully Chatterer measured the distance. Then he glanced all around, this way, that way, and the other way, to be sure that Redtail, or any other enemy, was nowhere in sight. Then he jumped. It was a very good jump. He landed lightly on that little log. The Merry Little Breezes danced around him, and tweaked his whiskers. Chatterer promptly hoisted his tail. Straight up he held it against his back.

"Blow!" he cried. "Blow!"

The Merry Little Breezes blew. They blew harder and harder. The little log began to move. It moved faster and faster. This doesn't mean that it moved very fast, because it didn't. A log couldn't move very fast. But it moved slowly forward. The ripples lapped against it and the water washed over it and wet Chatterer's feet. But Chatterer didn't mind. He was clinging fast with his sharp claws. "Blow!" he cried. "Blow!"

And the Merry Little Breezes blew. They blew and they blew. Chatterer's tail was a sail. Nearer and nearer the little log drew to the shore. It was then, when he was almost to shore, that glancing over his shoulder, Chaterer discovered Redtail the Hawk coming back. He was only a speck in the sky, but Chatterer knew him. He was headed that way and he was coming fast.

Nearer and nearer the little log drew to the shore

"Blow, Merry Little Breezes, blow!" cried Chatterer. "Oh, do blow!"

And the Merry Little Breezes blew and blew and blew, and the little log with Chatterer on it drew nearer to the shore.

Road-Cleaning Magnets

Keeping the road clean with an electro-magnet is the new idea along the Yellowstone Trail. Nails, bolts, wire and scrap metal cause punctures, and they are all attracted by a magnet. Therefore, reasoned the road keepers, why not scour the auto road for them by means of a huge magnet?

Following out this idea, they outfitted a motor truck with a large circular electro-magnet hung from the rear, coming to about four inches above the surface of the road. From five miles of road, according to the Edison Monthly, more than 150 pounds of nails, wire and other bits of metal were caught up by the magnet, most of which had been covered by dust and invisible until dragged out by the force of the magnetic field.

GROTON BOY TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL RIFLE MATCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 14—James W. Ceil, 21, of No. 50 Allen St., Groton, a red course candidate at Camp Devens, Mass., is one of thirteen outstanding New England boys, the pick of three thousand youthful residents of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut who attended this summer's citizens' military training camps who will uphold the rifle shooting supremacy of the east against crack shots from all parts of the United States at the national rifle matches to be held August 26 to September 16 at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Major-General Preston Brown, commanding the first corps area, at the army base, Boston, under whose supervision the C. M. T. camps were held, selected the thirteen as the choice among the four thousand, it was said at army headquarters, because of their "markedly good character, sense of responsibility, and ability to become instructors in rifle practice."

Besides forming the first corps area C. M. T. C. rifle team which will meet C. M. T. C. teams from all over the country for the national rifle honors, the New England youths will toe the firing line with sharpshooters of the regular army, navy, marine corps and civilian shooting clubs, many of them marksmen of international fame.

No less than two thousand of America's leading rifle and pistol experts will participate in the big carnival of shooting events arranged by the National Rifle association. Handsome and valuable prizes and others of unique value, such as the autographed letter of President Coolidge, have been offered in profusion for the numerous matches.

Despite their youth, these C. M. T. C. youngsters are likely prospects to score against adult and veteran marksmen in the numerous matches of national prominence, say local army officers. They cite that a youth who had not passed his nineteenth birthday defeated grizzled regular army men and decorated heroes of the World War's fiercest engagements, winning the individual rifle championship of the A. E. F. after the armistice.

In the national matches last year, they also say, one of the most dangerous contenders in the classic president's match proved to be sixteen-year-old Dave McDougal, a Boy Scout from Washington.

Though the oldest of all American sports, rifle shooting, far from fading into obscurity, will see the greatest number of participants in action at the great matches at Camp Perry that has ever turned out for a shooting event, it is predicted by officials of the National Rifle association.

To the military man the national matches are a demonstration of the fact that the United States is still "a nation accustomed to the use of small arms". With this in mind a small arms firing school is being established at Camp Perry where any citizen, however green, may learn to shoot. This school opens August 26 and closes September 1. Then there will be ten days of practice for the national matches, which begin September 11 and September 16.

STATE POLICE FIND MISSING MAN AT EAST HADDAM

Waldo Bierkmaier, 23, of Waltham, employed in the engineering department of the local office of the state highway department, who disappeared Monday morning, was found wandering in a dazed condition at East Haddam, Tuesday morning. State Police Officer Lenzi of the Centerbrok barracks found the young man wandering around and took him in charge. Bierkmaier's parents were notified and went to the Centerbrook barracks Tuesday afternoon to take him back to Waltham.

Bierkmaier, who is said to be temporarily deranged, disappeared Monday morning, a short while after reporting at the local state highway office in the Thayer building. He had been acting queerly for the past two or three days and when he appeared at the highway office Monday morning it was noticed that he was not himself. He was advised to return to his room and rest for the day. He left the office but did not go to his room. With about fifty cents on his person he boarded a Danielson bus on Main street and rode as far as Central Village where the bus driver let him off.

Then he started to walk along the highway towards Danielson. It was thought later in the day that he was on his way to Waltham. All trace of the young man was lost at Central Village and how he came to be found at East Haddam is something of a mystery.

At the highway office where he has been employed he was considered a reliable employe and of a quiet disposition.

Everett Chapman of Montville and Melvin Dawes McOmber of Convoy, Ohio, took place at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Union Baptist church in Montville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the Fitchville Congregational church, in the presence of a large number of guests, the double ring ceremony being used. The decorations at the church were by Hawkins of Norwich and included ferns, palms and cut flowers.

The bride was attended by Miss Muriel Holdridge of Norwich, as maid of honor and Miss Marion Chapman, of Montville, sister of the bride, and Miss Marjorie Conover of Cleveland, Ohio, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids. James A. Dinan of New York city was best man and the ushers were William Nield of Montville and Romeyn Holdridge of Norwich.

The bride wore a period gown of white satin trimmed with Spanish lace, with a veil caught with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor was dressed in a period gown of green georgette trimmed with lace, wore a picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. ZEPP PROVES TO BE MASTER OF TAFTVILLE A. A. IN TWILIGHT GAME

The combination of Zepp's deceptive curves and the iron-clad playing of the Fort Trumbull Stars enabled the latter to give Taftville a neat trimming last night, 3 to 0, thus giving this man, Zepp, a credit for shutting out a team that is hard to defeat, let alone shutting out.

The New London lads turned in a mighty fine game in the field knocking down about every thing that came their way, and took advantage of the breaks of the game. Only one error was chalked up against the Trumbull boys and that by their shortstop which gave Taftville their only threat to score. Taftville managed to get three on, after two were out in the fifth and it looked for a minute that Taftville was about to pull the same trick that they did last Saturday and Sunday when they won the game in the last few minutes of play. But they failed to turn the trick this time and just couldn't get a run across.

Zepp had his curves working to perfection, which goes further to prove that Taftville always have trouble hitting out curves. Taftville managed, however, to drive out seven hits, but they were well scattered and did no harm.

Taftville on the other hand had a bad day. Four errors at the wrong time helped Trumbull out. Taftville presented them with two runs by a wild throw by Eccleston to first with three men on. Two men scored and if it hadn't been for that, the New London lads would have had to been satisfied with only one run. Gauthier started the game off for Taftville, but made way for Tony West in the third. The Stars only touched the latter for five hits, but three of those put the three men on bases when Eccleston's wild throw was made.

YANKEES UNABLE TO DO ANYTHING WITH ADKINS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Yankees collapsed before the fine pitching of Grady Adkins in the first game of the Chicago series here today, 5 to 2, but might have chosen a worse spot in which to lose. The Athletics again fell before Elam Van Gilder and Detroit, enabling the champions to retain their lead of four and one-half games over the Mackmen.

Babe Ruth wasted his forty-fourth home run, but stepped into a lead of fifteen games, nineteen days and eight homers over his old record pace after going through seven contests without a circuit blow. He now needs seventeen homers in forty-one games to break his record.

The game was a pitching duel until the eighth inning between Adkins and Fred Heimach, new Yankee left-hander from St. Paul. The home pitcher weakened in the last two rounds, and the White Sox slipped through the opening to a total of four runs and the decision. Redfern drove in two in the ninth with a triple after Mostil had been intentionally passed. Score:

ATHLETICS BEATEN BY TIGERS HOLD THEIR OWN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Athletics lost to the Detroit Tigers by a score of 4 to 1 today, thus losing a chance to cut into the 4 1-2 game lead of the New York Yankees, who were defeated by Chicago.

Howard Ehmke, who started for the Mackmen, was wild and ineffective. A walk to Sweeney in the first inning was converted into a run and in the third the Tigers increased the lead to three runs on a triple by Gehringer, who scored on an infield out, and a home run by Pinkey Hargrave. Van Gilder exercised his usual spell over the Athletics. A single by Bishop scored Miller in the seventh with the Athletics only run. Score:

PIRATES MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT OVER ROBINS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug., 14—(AP)—The Pirates made it two straight over the Robins here today, winning by 4 to 2. Doug McWeeny started and fell into the official blame for the defeat, his sixth in succession, four of which were scored by the Pirates. Carmen Hill would have had a shut-out but for Traynor's wild throw in the first when Del Bissonette tripled with two on to score two unearned runs after the side should have been retired. Hill gave only six hits.

Brickell's hitting and Bartell's fielding played important parts in the Pittsburgh victory. Score:

GIANTS POUND OUT BIG WIN OVER THE CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Giants overpowered the Cubs by main force in the opening game of the series here today when Root, Jones, Carlson Holley and Weinert were pounded for fifteen hits as the Clan McGraw romped off with the decision by 10 to 2. The New Yorkers failed to improve their standing in the pennant race, as the Cardinals defeated the Braves. The St. Louis lead over the Giants is two and one-half games.

While his mates were making merry with Cub hurlers, Larry Benton was turning in a gaudy effort for his nineteenth victory and his twenty-second complete game. The Sorrel-top's mighty pitching was wasted where even Roger Bresnahan might have deserted the coaching lines and won. Benton allowed the home boys ten hits, but was tight in the pinches.

Jim Welsh started the scoring for the Clan McGraw with a home run in the third. Maltreatment of the various Chicago pitchers continued at intervals, and reached its climax in the ninth when six runs were scored before a man was out.

PHILLIES EVEN SERIES BY DOWNING REDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14—(AP)—Philadelphia evened up the series at one-all with Cincinnati here today, defeating the Reds 6 to 4. Two Philly runs were scored when Southern got credit for a single when his bat connected with the ball while trying to dodge a pitch. The hit scored two runners. Score:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—"Sad Sam" Jones held the St. Louis Browns to four hits today, Washington taking the first of the series 3 to 0.

Stewart was touched for twelve hits but fast fielding behind him, including three double plays, held the scoring down. Score:

Krispies and Grahams Again

The Grahams and Krispies of Loose Wiles Biscuit company will meet this Wednesday night at 6.15 on the J. R. Martin field in the second game of the series. Manager Hoffman has strengthened his team with the addition of Eddie Woodmansee while Manager Sullivan, of the Grahams, has retaliated by signing up Ed Burt of Fall River. Jim Campbell of the Krispies has been lost to the Krispies owing to a misunderstanding concerning his contract.

Manager Hoffman is out to take the second game of the series and he has assumed the mound duty while Manager Sullivan has decided to twirl for the Grahams. Doc Maurice will receive for the Krispies while Big Boy Smith will hold Sullivan's speedballs.

Twelve Years Old Caddie Gets Ace at Putnam

Walter Zeveronie, 12 years old caddie at the Putnam Country club, Tuesday morning set what is regarded as a world's record for golfers of this age when he sunk his tee shot for a hole-in-one on the eighth hole. Zeveronie, who has been caddying only about a year, was playing with two New York golfers who are at a camp near the golf club. The eighth hole is a 149 yard hole with a water carry of approximately 100 yards and is considered one of the most difficult holes on the course, although short, because of the sloping green.

Zeveronie used a mashie iron on the hole. The ball hit on the edge of the green and trickled along the down slope to the cup. The diminutive caddie not realizing that his ball had lodged in the cup as he came off the tee was searching in the traps and the far side of the green when other caddies in taking out the pin found the ball. One can imagine the joyous antics of the lad who at that time did not realize that he had probably set a world's record.

CUMMINGS' HOMER HELPS INSILCOS WIN OVER CITIZENS

The Insilcos had little trouble in beating the tail end Polish Citizens club Tuesday evening in the Industrial league by a 12 to 3 count. A batting attack led by Hal Cummings and Chubby Gibbs rolled up seventeen hits and had the Citizens on the run almost from the start. Cummings inserted a home run in the first inning with two runners abroad while the Silvers scored another run in this stanza and added six in the second and one each in the fifth and seventh frames. The Citizens had ten hits but Leo Jarvis kept them well scattered. They scored in the first and last innings. The score:

Crucial Game Tonghit

Tonight furnishes the most important game of the league season when the Richmond Radiators, 1927 champs and now running along with a game and a half lead with only a couple of weeks to play, tackle their most persistent challengers, the United States Finishers, who are in second place by a small margin over the Y. M. C. A.

Lefty Dugas and Lloyd Jarvis are expected to hook up in a hurling duel in this engagement. Each has been a big help to his team in the early games but they have not opposed each other in the campaign to date. Both teams have some of the leading hitters of the league and a busy night for the moundsmen looms. The game starts at 6.15 and a packed gallery is looked for. A Richmond win tonight will just about decide where the pennant will rest again this year but should the Bleachery triumph the race will be all tightened up again. Both teams are expected to be at full strength.

Carl Mays is Released

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14—(AP)—Pitcher Carl Mays was given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds today. Mays came to Cincinnati in 1924 from the New York Yankees during which year he won twenty games. This season he has won four and lost two but has been afflicted with neuritis.

TAFTVILLE LOSES FIRST JUNIOR GAME

The Jewett City Legion team handed out to Taftville their first defeat in the Junior Twilight league, Tuesday evening, 3 to 2. Taftville succeeded in tying the game at 3 runs each in the first half of the seventh, but as it was took dark to continue, the game reverted to the sixth inning with the score 3 to 2 in Jewett City's favor. The game was hard fought, both teams putting all they had into an effort to win.

Paradis for Taftville and Bernal for Jewett City shared the pitching honors about evenly, each allowing four hits, while Paradis fanned eight to six for his opponent. Three of Jewett City's hits came in one inning, the fourth, and accounted for all their scoring. In spite of their defeat, Taftville is still in first place although their margin over the Rotary club, is but one game.

The league leaders scored first, tallying once in the first inning. Sydlo was safe on an error by Bozo who threw wild over first, letting Sydlo go to second. Navick fanned and Breen popped to the catcher, but Fontaine crashed a long double to center scoring Sydlo. Wilk popped to Bernal for the final out.

The next scoring came in the fourth when Jewett City counted all their runs. Kusek walked as a starter. Perry then fanned, but Fontaine dropped the last strike. Perry should have been declared out as with a man on first base and less than two out, the batter is out, whether the catcher drops the last strike or not. Perry however ran down to first and was thrown out, Fontaine to Wilk.

Kusek advanced to second, however on the play and scored a moment later on Beauleau's single to right. Beauleau took second on the throw-in to the plate and scored when Salinsky singled to right. Salinsky took second on a wild pitch. Wolkowski singled to center and when Martin threw to second instead of the plate, Salinsky scored. Bozo shot a grounder to Breen, who threw wild over first, allowing Wolkowski to go to third and Bozo to second. Paradis then sightened and fanned both Vacon and Bernal, retiring the side.

In the fifth, Taftville got one run back, on a single by Paradis, two walks and an error by Pizzo.

After Taftville had tied the count in the seventh on a walk and a triple by Breen, the game was called on account of darkness, the score reverting to the end of the sixth.

Tonight's Game

Tonight's game at Hollyhock Island will see the Rotary club and the Y. M. C. A. in action. The Rotary club is the runner-up in the Junior circuit, being but one game behind the league-leading Taftville team. If the Rotary should win over the "Y" in tonight's game, they would be only one-half a game out of first place. With the race tightening up in the Junior league, better games are promised for the remainder of the season, and tonight's game should be no exception. The "Y" has continually improved in their playing and should give the Rotary a tough battle.

The probable batteries are Weisgrabber and Drew for the Rotary and Greene and Crowell or Sadinsky for the Y. M. C. A.

STRONGEST PLAYERS TO GO AGAINST MISS WILLS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Miss Helen Newington Wills and 59 other women tennis players, whose highest ambition is to take a single set from Queen Helen were named today as the field for the forty-first annual women's national championship tournament beginning Monday on the turf at Forest Hills.

Although the collection of feminine players who will start the almost hopeless chase for Helen's crown may not be the strongest in tennis history it comes close to being the strangest.

All ages and two generations are among the 60 entered and the eight seeded players range from young girls who never before played in a women's national championship to Mrs. May Sutton Bundy who won the title away back in 1904 and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory who has been playing big time tennis for some 13 years.

Here are the eight seeded entrants announced by the United States Lawn Tennis association forming an unofficial ranking of the leading women players of the country:

1—Miss Helen Wills, Berkeley, Calif.
2—Mrs. Molla Mallory, New York.
3—Miss Helen Jacobs, Santa Barbara, Calif.
4—Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco.
5—Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chap

SHIFTS OF SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT CHARACTERIZED THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's stock market. Prices opened irregularly lower, rallied around midday when the call money rate was lowered, had another sinking spell in the early afternoon, and rallied again only to sell off at the close. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 6 points, interspersed with a few gains.

Call money was appreciably easier today, renewing unchanged at 7 1-2 per cent, dropping to 7 and finally to 6 1-2 per cent. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans soon after the market opened, but they were easily replaced. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm, with some New York dealers advancing the bid rate on 120 day bankers' acceptances 1-8 of 1 per cent.

Easier call money today was offset by the announcement that loans and investments of all member banks of the federal reserve system reached the record-breaking total of $35,498,000,000 on June 30, the last bank call date. Little hope of any immediate easing of the credit situation is seen in banking circles unless there is a drastic reduction in brokers' loans which can only be effected through a marked reduction in security prices, or large imports of gold. Sterling exchange is now near the "gold import point" but hopes that part of the South African gold sold in London today would be purchased by American bankers and shipped here apparently failed to materialize.

With the exception of the announcement that a strike vote was being taken on western railroads, most of the day's business and trade news was favorable. One of the most encouraging developments was an unusually large increase of 4 per cent in the mill operations of the United States Steel corporation, which are now around 80 per cent of capacity.

The confusing nature of today's price movements was no more strikingly illustrated than in the motor group in which Chrysler was run up to a new high record at 97 1-2 and General Motors sank 5 3-4 points to 176 1-2, the lowest price in about two months. Selling of General Motors in the face of an unusually favorable July sales statement was attributed to uneasiness over the persistent rumors of a dissension among corporation officials arising over political differences. Brockway Motor common and preferred, Eaton Axle, Dodge Brothers preferred and Motor Wheel moved into new high ground, while Hudson fell back more than 2 points.

Amusement shares enjoyed a temporary outburst of strength but the gains failed to hold. Warner Brothers B, ran up from an early low of 39 3-4 to a new high at 86 3-4 and then slipped back to 82 3-4, off 1-4 net. Paramount-Famous-Lasky closed 2 points higher at 155 1-2 but Pathe A lost most of an early gain of 2 points.

Pools were again at work in several specialties. Loft moved into new high ground on reports that merger negotiations were pending with a large grocery chain. Jewel Tea and United Dye Wood also sold at the year's highest prices. New low prices for the year were registered by the Maytag issues. Symington "A" and several preferred stocks. Weakness also was quite pronounced in Montgomery-Ward, Johns-Manville, Midland Steel Products preferred, Frank G. Shattuck and Union Carbide.

Commodities displayed a much stronger undertone. Cotton rallied about $2.50 a bale and wheat more than 2 cents a bushel on covering prompted by less favorable weather reports. Coffee prices were slightly easier, but sugar futures were firmer on reports of a better refinery demand.

Foreign exchanges were easier, with demand sterling falling below $4.83 and cables to around $4.85 5-16. Other declines were nominal.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14— (AP) — Treasury receipts for Aug. 11 were $6,472,492.17; expenditures, $21,082,708.75; balance $304,319,937.74.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—A large supply of stock from leading commission houses, reflecting a desire to reduce customer holdings under stringent credit rates, caused a general recession of prices on the curb market today. Reduction of the call loan rate from 7 1-2 to 6 1-2 per cent failed to cause any general rally.

Warner Brothers Pictures B shot up to a new high at 79 5-8, in early trading but lost most of its gain later. Checker Cab was a consistent strong point, touching a new high at 41 on a 1 1-2 gain. U. S. Asbestos also touched a new high in a like gain at 36. Other strong industrials were Electric Shovel Coal preferred, Deere & Co., and A. O. Smith, which added 25 to its 20-point gain of yesterday, touching a record peak at 200, in scattered buying. Charis Corporation gained on publication of a good earnings report.

Weak spots were Auburn Auto, Bristol Myers, Columbia Graphophone, Evans Auto Loading B, Hart Parr, and U. S. Gypsum, with losses of 2 to 3 points. Bancitaly and Fox Theatre A were under pressure and Bendix B, Adams Millis, and United Biscuit B encountered profit taking.

Mines were generally weak. Newmont dropping 2 1-4 and Noranda 1 1-4 points, although Consolidated Copper and Hollinger made small gains.

Oils eased on expectation of increased production in the Little River pool of the Seminole area where all restrictions have been temporarily removed. Vacuum closed down 1 3-4 points, Gulf 1 point, and Humble fractionally.

Utilities generally sagged, Electric Bond & Share closing down 1 point.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Value of a Name.

Everybody knows the value of a good name to an individual, but not many stop to think of the enormous value of a trademark. It has been only a few years since Liggett and Myers Tobacco company began to advertise Chesterfield Cigarettes; but from the very beginning the brand has grown—year after year, month after month—until the sales have reached an enormous volume and the name Chesterfield is worth millions and millions of dollars and is known in every nook and corner of the country. Every body knows "They Satisfy."

Palace Theatre.

She married and discovered that she was a Lady.

This may sound queer. Well it is an odd story at that. Ruth Montaigne, married Edward Edinburg, whom she supposed was just a fine looking well-to-do young man, whom she had met in Havana. The courtship was a short one—it was love at sight, and after the ceremony Edward quietly informed his young bride that she was a Lady. "Well, I trust so," she replied smiling. "Yes," continued Edward, "you are 'Lady Edinburg', perhaps I should have told you before—but I did not suppose it mattered, as you are an 'American Girl'," and Ruth smiled and said to her young husband, "Yes, an 'American Girl' and that ought to be title enough for any girl." "I quite agree with you," replied the blushing Edward, "but you know when we go home—Lady Edinburg will be the only name they will call you." "Well that won't hurt my appetite any," Ruth said—"but just you call me Ruth"—and they kissed on it. This is only one of the many incidents in the big photoplay "The Girl He Didn't Buy" which will be shown at the Palace theatre today. Pauline Garon plays Ruth, and Allan Simpson the titled gent. They are supported by Rosemary Cooper, James Aubrey, William Eugene, Gladden James, May Prestelle, and other favorite players. Dallas M. FitzGerald directed the production for Peerless Pictures Corporation.

The companion feature, "Ransom" the cast of which is headed by Lois Wilson at the Palace theatre today, claims Pittsburgh as her birthplace.

When still a small child, Miss Wilson's parents moved to Birmingham, Alabama. She studied to be a school teacher, but the stage attracted her and she went to Chicago to seek a career. Through Lois Weber she was given a small part in The Dumb Girl of Portici, which she played with such success that Miss Weber took her to Los Angeles. In Los Angeles Miss Wilson advanced rapidly and was soon playing leads with J. Warren Kerrigan and Frank Keenan.

It was but a step from the stage to the screen and the actress made it without a break, assuming the leading feminine roles opposite such stars as Wallace Reid and Bryant Washburn. Among Miss Wilson's successful portrayals are those in Alias the Lone Wolf, The Covered Wagon, Miss Lulu Betts, What Every Woman Knows, Manslaughter, Only Thirty-eight, The Great Gadsby, Let's Get Married, The Vanishing American, and The Show Off.

In "Ransom," which has been adapted from the story "San Francisco," Miss Wilson portrays a young widow engaged to a chemist, who has invented a deadly gas. The story was written and directed by George B. Seitz, Edmund Burns, William V. Mong, Blue Washington, James Leong and Jackie Combs are prominent in the supporting cast.

Today (Wednesday) is the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and is a holy day of obligation of the Roman Catholic church. The feast commemorates the assumption into heaven of the body of the Blessed Virgin, it being an ancient tradition that her body did not decay as those of other mortals. In the eastern church it is still known under its ancient title of "Repose of the Blessed Virgin Mary." At Sacred Heart church there are to be two services during the day, a low mass read at 5.30 to accommodate the workers, and a high mass at 7.30 for others of the parish.

Bunday, James L. Case, Herbert B. Cary, Edwin Hill, Walter H. Pilcher, Abner Schwartz and Max Hanover.

The committee will welcome the children on their arrival at the Central Vermont station and will conduct them to the Y. M. C. A. building, where they will be received by Herbert Cary, president of the local "Y".

Those who volunteered to take the children into their homes are requested by the chamber of commerce to go to the Y. M. C. A. building not later than 5:15 p. m., to receive their little guests. Those who care to meet the children at the station, will witness a sight which is worth seeing.

The Norwich chamber of commerce extends a cordial invitation to all Norwich citizens who wish to go to the C. V. station at 5:01 p. m., to greet the New York children.

20TH DISTRICT REPUBLICAN WOMEN HAVE ORGANIZED

Organization of the republican women of the state so there will be an active unit for the conduct of the campaign in every one of the 169 towns, a project which has been under way for ten months, will be completed before the state convention assembles in New Haven next month, according to Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the republican state central committee. The work was started during the state campaign of 1928, and has been continued since that time, with ten months of intensive work by Miss Byrne culminating within a few days when the organization of the 35th Senatorial district (Tolland county), will be perfected.

Senatorial districts have been chosen in nearly all cases as the geographical divisions of the organization, and the town units have been affiliated into district organizations. The district organizations in turn, are brought into active participation in the state campaign through Miss Byrne, who, as vice chairman of the state central committee, is the general director of the state wide campaign participation of the republican women.

One of the most enthusiastic organization meetings Miss Byrne has held, she said, was the last one, at which the women of the 20th or Shoestring senatorial district was organized. Mrs. Maude Manning of Mystic was elected president, Mrs. Hermon Hubbard of Lyme, vice president, and Miss Grace Wheeler of Stonington, secretary and treasurer. The executive board comprises one woman from each of the 16 towns in the district, as follows: Bozrah, Alice A. Bishop; Colchester, Annie Avery; East Lyme, Mrs. L. R. Bumn; Franklin, Marjorie Aver; Griswold, Mrs. Tracy; Lebanon, Mrs. George D. MacDonald; Lisbon, Mrs. Mary Leupold; Lyme, Mrs. Carrie C. Mitchell; Montville, Pansy C. Dart; North Stonington, Lila G. Thompson; Old Lyme, Beatrice H. Bamnine; Salem, Mrs. Mary Darling; Sprague, Miss Helen Eadie; Voluntown, Dr. Emily Chatfield; Waterford, Lillian A. Dolbeare; Stonington, Cornelia B. Davis.

CHANGE IN PARKING ON FALLS AVENUE

A change is to be made by Chief George Linton and the police commissioners, Richard P. Gregson, chairman, in the parking of machines on Falls avenue, off West Main street, near Thames square. The plan is to allow parking in the center of the street, which is wide and can accommodate about 20 machines. Other changes are to follow.

This action was taken as the result of complaints received by the police from residents and proprietors of stores on the easterly side of the street, who claim motorists park their machines there for all day. They are unable to park their own cars there, neither can customers.

Sergeant Myron O. Morgan and others have marked out new crosswalks on Shetucket and little Water streets, the work being done Tuesday. Men were also engaged Tuesday in painting the curbing white fifteen feet from the corners on Water and Shetucket streets. A no parking sign has also been painted on the top of the curbing.

This recommendation was adopted by the board of directors and accordingly a hotel program is now underway.

The heavy rains and the traffic made the dirt section almost impassable in some places on Friday and Saturday in spite of every effort made by workmen to keep it as smooth as possible. This temporary condition brings realization of the need of the modern highway for automobile traffic.

ANTI-SALOON CANDIDATES VICTORS IN OHIO PRIMARY

"Dry" Contestants Appear to Have Been Nominated on Both Republican and Democratic Tickets—Sole Exception Was Graham P. Hunt, an Avowed Supporter of Gov. Smith and an Advocate of Modification of the Volstead Act, Who Has a Lead of 12,000 Votes For Democratic Senatorial Nomination.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15—(AP)—Gubernatorial candidates endorsed by the Anti-Saloon league appeared nominated on both republican and democratic tickets on the face of incomplete and unofficial returns from yesterday's state primary.

Returns from all but one precinct in the state indicated that Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati business man, who carried the dry league endorsement has again received the republican nomination for governor. These returns gave him a majority of 5,568 over Congressman James T. Begg, of Sandusky, his closest rival. The vote was Cooper 259,725; Begg 254,157.

While Begg was actively supported by many leading drys the Anti-Saloon league did not endorse him.

Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Kent, league-supported candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, appeared to have won a convincing victory over Peter Witt, former Cleveland traction commissioner. Incomplete returns gave him a lead of 26,000 in a field of five candidates and his margin over Witt, his closest opponent, was growing steadily.

In the senatorial race to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Frank B. Willis, Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland's veteran legislator and exponent of the dry cause, received the republican nomination virtually without a campaign, but Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati attorney, avowed supporter of Governor Al Smith and an advocate of modification of the Volstead act had a majority of more than 12,000 votes over Senator Cyrus Locher on the democratic ticket with about 700 precincts unreported. Locher, who was appointed to the senate by Governor Donahey after the death of Willis was endorsed by the dry league.

A demand for an official count and probably an investigation of this vote appeared probable tonight when Senator Locher's headquarters here called attention to an alleged discrepancy of approximately 10,000 votes in the returns from Cuyahoga county (Cleveland). Locher's home territory.

Congressman Burton had a plurality of more than 140,000 votes over Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall his closest rival for the republican nomination.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs was unopposed for the republican long term nomination. In the democratic contest for the same office Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture, who conducted a campaign chiefly on the issue of farm relief and endorsement of the principles of the McNary-Hauzen bill appeared to have won by a 10,000 majority over former Congressman George White, of Marietta.

LEADERS OF STRIKE IN FALL RIVER SENTENCED

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 15—(AP)—Today was "strike day" in second district court here when 49 defendants were arraigned on 70 charges growing out of disturbances during the textile strike.

Nine defendants, said by the police to be leaders in the activities of the textile mills committee, which organized the strike of several Fall River mills, were given sentences of six months in the house of correction. Six were ordered to furnish surety of $1,000 to keep the peace for six months within the state. Eighteen were fined, four were found not guilty and 31 were placed on probation. A number drew both imprisonment and fines.

After he had dealt with the cases of those indicated by the police as leaders in the disorders, Judge Edward F. Hanify informed the other defendants that he believed they had been "misled and misinformed" and that if they would bind themselves to obey the law in the future he would deal leniently with them. Those who gave this guarantee were placed on probation.

Testimony presented during the several trials was to the effect that the defendants had participated in various disturbances during attempts at mass picketing at textile mills and in parades and had sung "The Red Flag Forever" and "Solidarity" while marching.

FURTHER TESTIMONY INVOLVING ROY TOOMBS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15—(AP)—Further testimony regarding use of alleged fraudulent stock certificates was taken today in investigation by prosecuting officials of affairs of the International Life Insurance Co., whose president Roy C. Toombs of Chicago, is charged with grand larceny of the company's assets.

Testimony was given that an alleged bogus stock certificate for 10,000 shares of International Life was used by Toombs in borrowing $235,000 from James Bruce of Baltimore, a vice-president of the National Park bank of New York.

Testimony was given also that three like certificates for 3,000 shares each were used in borrowing $500,000 from E. F. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern Life Insurance Co. of Houston, Texas. These are understood to have been replaced, in part at least, by genuine certificates of stock.

T. J. McReynolds, vice-president, stated his purported signature on these over-issue stock certificates is a forgery.

TO SAFEGUARD WORKERS ON TOBACCO PLANTATIONS

ROCKVILLE, Aug. 15—(AP)—State police tonight began a rigorous campaign in this section of the state against against automobile drivers not properly registered and insured to carry young workers to and from tobacco plantations. The drive is the result of a finding of responsibility into the deaths of three young workers who were burned to death here several weeks ago when the truck on which more than 30 boys were returning home, turned over.

Those arrested tonight for driving without a public license and a public registration and not having insurance for carring passengers were Omer Shook and John Stevens, Rockville; William Berett, Manchester and John Bahler, Ellington. The first three were arrested in Rockville and Bahler in Stafford Springs. They will be arraigned tomorrow.

STORRS, Aug. 15—(AP)—Announcement of two promotions and one appointment to the staff of the Connecticut Agricultural college, was made today by Acting President Charles Burt Gentry. Prof. Allen W. Manchester head of the farm management department, is made assistant director of the extension service, a position newly created. Capt. Thornton D. Case of the Tenth brigade, Fort Benjamin Harrison, has been appointed professor of military science and head of the military department to fill the vacancy of Maj. Paul Lewis Ransom, who was transferred to Washington, D. C.

SAFELY LANDED BIPLANE AFTER PROPELLER BROKE

HARTFORD, Aug. 16—(AP)—Although the propeller on his Boeing biplane broke, tearing apart the entire power section of a 500 horsepower experimental Hornet motor and hurling it 2,000 feet to the ground, A. L. MacLean, test pilot for the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft corporation, who with Experimental Engineer J. M. Shoemaker was testing the new engine, brought the ship in a 2-mile glide from a point over Rocky Hill, across the Connecticut river, and landed with hardly a jolt in a field in the Glastonbury meadows this afternoon.

When the propeller broke near the hub, the other blade, being unbalanced, tore out the motor, which buried itself two feet in the ground, missing by only 20 feet C. W. Huntoon and Albert Morgan, who were picking corn in a garden in Rocky Hill. The propeller, in two parts, landed more than half a mile away from the motor and almost a mile apart.

When the motor, weighing more than 500 pounds, left the nose of the ship, the greatly lightened ship went into a loop and completed a second loop before the expert piloting of MacLean straightened out the ship and brought it in a slightly erratic glide to the field almost two miles away.

GALE MERGES TWO LARGE FOREST FIRES IN MONTANA

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 15—(AP)—Driven on by a gale that scattered embers to adjoining timber, two large fires in the Clearwater National forest in northern Idaho and western Montana have merged, the government district forest office was notified today.

The resultant fire was described as the largest in the district since those of 1926, with 4,800 acres having been burned on Vellas creek where the flames from the Middle creek area joined those sweeping across from Johnagan.

Little commercial timber had been destroyed tonight. A crew of 170 men had formed a fire line extending three miles. There were 325 men engaged in fighting fires in Clearwater forest.

A fire that spread over 150 acres on Doris creek still was unchecked, a report here said. A crew of 50 men was battling another fire at the north fork of the Couer d'Alene forest.

MARINES VICTORIOUS IN SKIPMISHES IN NICARAGUA

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Aug. 15—(AP)—Marine forces in pursuit of the guerillas with whom they recently had a pitched combat, have been victorious in two new skirmishes. Four bandits were killed, one wounded, and five captured while the marines suffered no casualties.

Capt. Merritt A. Edson of Vermont led the marine patrol, which is now at Espanolita, on the Coco river. It was his command which clashed with the rebels 60 miles from Bocky, on the Coco river, on Aug. 7. One marine was killed and three wounded in that encounter, while ten insurgents were killed and three were wounded.

The band encountered by the marines is believed to be the main body of the remnant of the Sandino forces, which has apparently been hemmed in along the Coco river by marines on either side. Marine airplanes are flying over the region daily and occasionally drop a bomb into a camp suspected of sheltering the rebels.

HUNTING NEGRO ASSAILANT WITH TRAINED BLOODHOUNDS

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Aug. 15—(AP)—Headed by trained bloodhounds, several hundred angry white men tonight beat the brush of coast swamps in search of a Negro who killed one man and seriously wounded another.

The posse, armed with rifles, shotguns and revolvers, was reported several times hot on the trail of the Negro, said to be making his way toward New Orleans to seek refuge. Police there were said to be prepared to receive him.

The Negro, Silas Richardson, yesterday shot Chief of Police Mark Oliver and killed John Damberine, garage employe, as they entered his jail cell to search him for a key to an automobile he was charged with stealing.

Four members of the Negro's family, including his mother, were arrested when it was learned the slayer had stopped at his home after his escape to change clothes.

Three packs of bloodhounds were being used in the search.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

OSWESTRY, Wales, Aug. 14—(AP)—A son and heir has ben born to Lord and Lady Trevor whose marriage in July 1927 attracted wide attention.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 15—(AP)—Four men, including Hassan Yassin, a student's leader and former deputy, were arrested as an outcome of a disturbance at the railroad station on the departure of Makram Ebeid, a former cabinet minister, for London.

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—With three of the chief figures in the petroleum industry sojourning at Achnacarry Castle, Inverneshire, reports of an impending consolidation have become current and oil shares are the present "bright spot" on the London stock exchange.

COOLIDGE SEES HOPE FOR OUTLAWRY OF WAR

WAUSAU, Wis., Aug. 15—(AP)—Emphasizing America's earnest determination to promote international peace, President Coolidge today hailed the pending covenant for the outlawry of war as the brightest hope for peace the world has ever seen.

Addressing more than 15,000 persons at the convention of the Wisconsin American legion, the chief executive described the Kellogg-Briand pact as an international agreement which would have prevented the catastrophe of the World war had it been in existence in 1914.

Interrupted frequently by applause as he stood bareheaded under a canopy facing the grand stand at marathon park, President Coolidge pointed to the anti-war treaty as witness that America's military establishment was not maintained for any aggressive purposes.

Following his address, the president, Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, were made life guests of the Talbot Montgomery post, No. 10 and the auxiliary of the American legion. Mr. Coolidge and John were presented with red Wisconsin legion overseas caps, and the president smilingly placed his cap on his head at a jaunty angle. The crowd roared its approval and a legionnaire screamed from the stand, "Atta boy, Cal," another joining in with "the fish will be biting better tomorrow."

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY GAS POISONING

HARTFORD, Aug. 15—(AP)—John R. Webb, 30 years old salesman for the Silver Lane Pickle company, committed suicide by gas poisoning at his home, 11 Gold street, East Hartford, early this evening. His body was found at 11:10 o'clock tonight by his brother-in-law, Thomas J. Molumphy, sales manager of the pickle company and a neighbor of the Webb family.

No reason for his suicide can be assigned by friends of Webb. He had been in good health and he left no notes. His wife and child were away. He had apparently returned home from work about 4 o'clock this afternoon, undressed himself and went to bed. Mr. Molumphy had missed him throughout the evening and upon investigation at a late hour tonight, found Webb dead in bed with gas flowing from a light jet.

Medical Examiner H. J. Onderdonk pronounced death due to suicide by gas poisoning. Webb had been dead about six hours when his body was discovered, the medical examiner said.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET IN HARTFORD SEPT. 18

HARTFORD, Aug. 15—(AP)—Chairmen and vice chairmen of the republican town committees in Hartford county, members of the republican state central committee from the county, and the executive committee of the Hartford county republican organization, will meet at a dinner to be held at the Hartford Golf club September 18 to discuss campaign plans. This was decided at a meeting of the officers and executive committee of the county organization at the golf club tonight.

At the September 18 meeting, according to Mayor Batterson, who is president of the county organization, the program will be similar to that of a state central committee meeting, with each town being called upon to make a report on the progress which has been made in the enrollment of "to-be-made" voters. J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the state central committee, and Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman, will be invited to the meeting.

BARE LEGGED GIRLS WERE BARRED FROM DANCE PAVILION

HARTFORD, Aug. 15—(AP)—After nearly a score of bare-legged girls were refused admittance to the dance pavilion at Colt park here, tonight it was learned that James H. Dillon, supervisor of recreation, city park department, has decided that stocks are as essential as admission tickets for women who wish to waltz on the pavilion.

In banning bare legs from the dance floor, Supervisor Dillon said he is moved only by the desire "to keep the entertainment on a decent plane."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 15—(AP)—One man was killed and another injured, when the tri-motored plane of the Pan-American Airways, Inc., enroute from Havana to Key West was forced down in the Gulf of Mexico at 5 o'clock tonight, according to a wireless from the steamer Lizonier to the coast guard station here.

The Lizonier reported to the coast guard that three other passengers of the plane were unhurt. The name of the dead man was given as Eggston.

That of the injured passenger was not given.

George K. Morris Died Of Apoplexy

Was Chairman of the Republican State Committee of New York—Died in Hotel.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—George K. Morris, chairman of the republican state committee, died of apoplexy today in his room at the Hotel Drake.

Mr. Morris, a knit goods manufacturer of Amsterdam, N. Y., where his mills are located, had breakfast this morning with Charles D. Hilles, New York member of the republican national committee. He had returned to his room when the stroke that resulted fatally came on at about 10 o'clock. Mr. Morris retained consciousness to within a few minutes of the end. Only Dr. Richard Bull was with him when he died.

Mr. Morris' removal by death from the leadership of the republican party in this state came only a day after Lieut.-Gov. Edwin Corning had announced his resignation as chairman of the democratic state committee because of ill health.

The republican chairman, who had held the office for several years, was elected to another term last April. He spent much of his time in attending to party affairs in the state and was frequently in New York conferring with leaders here.

He came to the city last night and after visiting with Mr. Hilles this morning had planned to see other prominent republicans at the headquarters later in the day. It was believed that he was on his way to keep these appointments when he felt ill and was forced to seek his room.

HOOVER IS READY FOR CROSS-COUNTRY JOURNEY

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Aug. 15—(AP)—Herbert Hoover polished his guns today for the second salvo of his campaign for the presidency and prepared to turn his back upon the Pacific for the long cross-continent journey to Washington.

In the cool quiet of his home atop San Juan hill, the republican presidential nominee spent long hours in twisting into final shape the material he will use next week in his speech at West Branch, Iowa. At that time the candidate is expected to explain in more detail to the people among whom he was born his views on the farm relief problem.

While he busied himself in preparing for his visit to West Branch, new stops were being added to the itinerary of the journey which will take him there. Six different appearances were planned for Hoover before he finally turns eastward from California.

GOV. SMITH CONFERRED WITH JOSEPHUS DANIELS

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15—(AP)—Continuing his conferences with prominent dry leaders of the party, Governor Smith late today received Josephus Daniels, North Carolina publisher, who predicted before joining the presidential nominee, that the south would remain solidly in the democratic column in November.

Mr. Daniels, who supported the glass dry plank at the Houston convention and later announced he would support Smith, was the second of the candidate's callers in as many days to hail from southern dry ranks. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, conferring with him yesterday, and remaining an over-night guest. Glass would not comment regarding the conference.

The former secretary of the navy under Wilson submitted to questioning by newspapermen at the executive mansion just before entering the conference with Smith, who introduced him.

LANDSLIDES BLOCKED TRACKS OF RAILWAY

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 15—(AP)—Landslides caused by heavy rains, late today blocked tracks of the Southern railway on both the Asheville-Salisbury and the Asheville-Spartanburg divisions. It was believed they would be cleared early tomorrow.

Telephone and telegraph lines were out out of commission for several hours.

All streams were reported to be rising at a rapid rate and the highways were shut off.

Spartanburg, S. C., experienced a storm of great intensity. Two mills, Beaumont and Arkwright, with their settlements, were partly under water from the overflow of nearby creeks. The gas plant was under water and Spartanburg was without gas tonight.

No lives were lost as far as could be learned from meagre reports.

Vigilantes Subdue Bandits In Brazil

There Had Been Lawlessness Rivalling Early Days of American Indian Warfare.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 15—(AP)—Ten thousand vigilantes under Jose Morbeck, nicknamed "the Cecil Rhodes of South America," have ended two months of guerilla warfare in Matto Grosso by driving 2,000 disgruntled native diamond prospectors across the border of the state of Guyaz.

Reports of the trouble tell of fights in the jungle and uplands of the rich diamond fields, of night forays, burning of towns and wiping out of inhabitants of several communities.

The trouble started when natives found they had been paid in counterfeit money for weeks of prospecting work in the stifling jungles. Use of fake money had become a common practice among the irresponsible foreign adventurers who infest the region and finally the natives decided to wipe out the bogus prospectors.

A period of lawlessness followed, rivalling the days of old time American Indian warfare. There were burnings of scattered homes and hamlets and massacre of the inhabitants. Individual prospectors were ambushed and robbery and murder were common.

The governor of Matto Grosso tried to control the situation with state troops but gave up the attempt after several disastrous encounters.

Then Morbeck, uncrowned king of the district, called on his own adherents. Ten thousand rallied to him while the malcontents centered their cause under the command of a bandit chief known as "Carvalhinho," which is the Portuguese name for the sturdy water oak. Morbeck's force was too overwhelming and the bandit's 2,000 were driven into the state of Guyaz, where they were given asylum and the right to work in the diamond fields after the governor had disarmed them and exacted promises of peaceful conduct.

The diamond fields of the two states have been the scenes of "wild west" happenings ever since 1918 when a German prospector found the first gems in the Araguaya river region.

Adventurers of every stripe poured into the fields from all parts of the globe. They were far from transportation or contact with civilization and made their own laws, enforcing them in their own way. If an individual did not like the rules of a camp he was free to move to another provided his objections were not expressed too forcibly. In the latter case he was given free burial. The practice of paying natives with counterfeit money grew up among the worst elements of the prospectors.

TO BE EXTRADITED FOR HOLD-UP IN DETROIT JUNE 9

BOSTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Governor Fuller announced today that he would sign extradition papers for Frank B. Wallace, alias Gustin, of Boston, who is wanted in Detroit for alleged implication in the hold-up of the business office of the Detroit News and the murder of a policeman on June 6. The governor said that before he can sign it will be necessary to dispose of certain minor charges pending against Wallace in this state and that he understands that the attorney general's office stands ready to terminate any such proceedings by nol prosse.

Wallace was arrested here as a fugitive from justice when two witnesses to the hold-up were said to have identified him. Defense counsel sought to prove that Wallace was in Boston at the time of the hold-up.

After a hearing this afternoon requested by defense counsel, Governor Fuller issued a statement in which he said that in the opinion of the attorney general, the papers were in proper form, that Wallace is the identical person charged with the crime, that he is a fugitive from justice, that he was in Michigan at the time the crime was committed and that he is the identical person demanded by the governor of Michigan. "My duty in the matter appears to be to honor the requisition of the governor of Michigan after the disposal of the proceedings here," the statement read.

During the World war he served in the English army until he was invalided.

REV. STRATON SEES SINISTER FORCES WORKING FOR THE ELECTION OF SMITH

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 15—(AP)—The Rev. John Roach Straton, in letters to Senator Walter George of Georgia, and Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, tonight called on those democratic leaders to turn their political allegiance from Gov. Alfred E. Smith to "the moral and religious forces which will be at least sweep the south."

Appealing to Senator George as "my old-time friend and roommate during the happy college days in Georgia," the clergyman counseled him "in love and, I believe, in true wisdom" to "forget the seeming temporary advantage connected with a wrong political alignment, and bide your time even though it may mean a temporary break for you with the democratic machine as now dominated by the forces of Tammany hall corruption."

"I know the claim of party regularity upon you," the letter read, "as a public servant elected by the democrats, but I firmly believe that if you knew Smith's record as we know it un here, and could see the dark and sinister forces which are working for his election, in order that they may dominate him in the president's office as they dominated him as a New York official, you would revolt even as Senator Simmons, Senator Owen, our old chum Congressman Upshaw, Vance McCormick and a host of other true patriots who put country before party have revolted."

Enclosed with the letters were printed copies of a sermon Dr. Straton delivered at Calvary Baptist church two weeks ago some of the statements in which provoked Gov. Smith to a request that he be permitted to answer the pastor's charges in Calvary church.

"The further Smith goes as a candidate," Dr. Straton wrote, "the weaker he gets because of his record of opposition to every measure of righteous reform and his enthusiastic advocacy of every measure calculated to protect or advance the liquor interests and the forces of gambling and prostitution which are inevitably and inextricably mixed up wit hthem."

The letter explained that the copy of the sermon "which called forth from Governor Smith the challenge to meet me, which he now seems to be seeking to dodge" was for Senator George's "personal use only" so that he might understand "the justification of my charges against Smith."

"I really was led to preach this sermon," he wrote, "because my heart is literally bleeding through the divisions which have come to the south through Gov. Smith's adroit political maneuvering, and because of the deadly dangers that through these things are overhanging the entire section."

The letter intimated that Dr. Straton would repeat the sermon adding that "when I do I shall go into Gov. Smith's record in even a little more detail and cite the definite proof for my allegations."

The letter to former Secretary Daniels, who conferred with Gov. Smith in Albany today, was similar to that written to Senator George.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN GEORGIA FROM TORRENTIAL RAINS

Serious Flood Conditions Are Widespread—Estimates Give Enormous Damage to Crops, Highways and Communications—Macon Has No Train Service to Savannah, Athens or Augusta—An Atlantic Coast Line Train Has Been Marooned Near Pidcock—Only One Death Has Been Reported.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 15—(AP)—Serious flood conditions were widespread over Georgia tonight as the tropical storm which hit the state last night blew itself out in a torrent of rain over the upper watersheds of Georgia and Alabama.

Only one death was reported, but preliminary estimates gave enormous damage to crops, highways and wire communications, with several towns virtually isolated and inhabitants of lowlands along the rivers warned of possible rising waters.

The most acute situations appeared tonight at Milledgeville and Macon, Ga., where flood waters menaced sections of the residential district. The Ocmulgee river at Macon already had inundated a score of homes, and several dwellings were claimed by the Oconee river at Milledgeville.

With the water works out of commission the people of Milledgeville were restricted to use of a small supply of drinking water in a half-filled standpipe. Washouts prevented any rail service and railroad officials said it might be several days before trains can run again. Every highway except one was cut by washouts and this remaining road was threatened by floods in the Oconee, rising at the rate of two feet an hour.

Macon had no trains to Savannah, Athens or Augusta and a mail line of the Southern railway to Brunswick went out this afternoon from a washout near Cochrane, Ga.

An Atlantic Coast line train was marooned near Pidcock, east of Thomasville by washouts before and behind it. Many hours elapsed before relief parties could get across the floods to take foo dto the 57 passengers who had nothing to eat since last night.

Meanwhile unconfirmed reports from Panacea Springs, Fla., on the Gulf of Mexico, where the storm passed yesterday en route inland, said that two fishermen had been missing since high tides in the gulf submerged the island on which they made their home.

The reports told of extensive damage to crops and property, but could not be confirmed owing to lack of communication lines.

With gradual recession of waters in the Kissimmee river, the flood threat was believed diminishing in the Lake Okeechobee district of southern Florida. Several hundred square miles of fertile Everglades land have been inundated, isolating many families and wreaking damage estimated in excess of $500,000. Danger of overflow by Lake Okeechobee itself was considered averted when the floods began subsiding.

Meager reports came from the sections of southwest Georgia, southeast Alabama and northwest Florida over which the storm blew last night, but no serious damage was believed done except from rains and the high gale lashing crops.

Flood warnings were broadcast tonight along the Oconee, Okmulgee, Flint and Chattahatchee rivers in Georgia, while similar warnings were expected from the weather bureau for streams in eastern Alabama before noon tomorrow.

Rainfall over the affected area varied from two inches in Atlanta to ten inches at Milledgeville, the average being about 3.5 inches.

PHONE MESSAGE TELLS OF BURSTING OF BRICE DAM

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 15—(AP)—G. A. Clanton, chief of police at Quitman, Ga., told the Associated Press in a long distance telephone message tonight that the Brice dam, 17 miles north of Quitman, broke in three places today, sending Okapilco creek out of its banks all the way down its course to the Withlacoochee river. Residents living in the sparsely settled lowlands in the flood path had been warned in ample time to move to higher ground, Clanton said, and no loss of life was expected.

WARNS TEXTILE WORKERS AGAINST RADICAL TACTICS

BOSTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—James Tansey, president of the American Federation of Textile Operatives today called upon that organization to endorse the stand taken by its executive council in connection with the textile strike in New Bedford. The recommendation made at the opening session of the 13th annual convention of the federation here, was referred to a committee.

Immediately after the New Bedford strike began 18 weeks ago the executive body voted to take no active part in the movement, but to afford "full moral and financial assistance" to those members of the organization who shifted their union membership and are now members of the United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Unions with membership of several thousands changed allegiance in this way.

"While we regret their loss," President Tansey said in his report, "we have no fault to find with their action in deciding to change their affiliation for what they believe to be the wisest course for the benefit of their members and operatives generally in bringing success to their efforts to resist the reduction in wages."

President Tansey warned against "the radical preachings and tactics of irresponsible groups of extremists who play upon the credulity of the workers."

"We do not presume to say that everything is satisfactory with regard to wages and working conditions in the textile industry," he said. "We know there is room for improvement and we further know that this improvement can only be brought about through the efforts of policies of the legitimate trade unions."

HOPPE ATTEMPTED TO BREAK FROM DEDHAM, MASS., JAIL

DEDHAM, Mass., Aug. 15—(AP)—Norfolk county jail authorities today thwarted what they believed was a jailbreak planned for tonight when they inspected the cell of Stephen H. Hoppe, notorious jailbreaker, and found two bars in the cell window sawed off and a number of bricks removed from a wall next to another cell.

Hoppe, who is under indictment for the murder of Policeman Alfred N. Hollis in Quincy last October, was committed to the jail on May 21.

Prison authorities were informed by another prisoner that peculiar sounds were heard coming from Hoppe's cell. While Hoppe was taking exercise in the prison yard today his cell was inspected and the discovery of his preparations to leave his cell was subsequently made. The bars were in place, but were easily removable. The same was true of bricks in the cell wall.

Hoppe, who first became known to police of New England through his activities as a burglar, escaped once from the state prison at Thomaston, Me., and twice from the Vermont state prison at Windsor. His first break from the Windsor prison was accomplished on a pair of crutches while he was in the prison hospital.

Later Hoppe went to New York and had the features of his face changed by a plastic surgeon.

TEN MEN REPORTED ENTOMBED IN MINE

COALPORT, Pa., Aug. 15—(AP)—A group of miners, believed by company officials to number upward of ten, were entombed tonight in the No. 3 mine of the Irvona Coal & Coke Co. at Irvona, near here, following an explosion late in the afternoon. Company officials said at least two men were known to have escaped.

Mine rescue crews from several nearby mines were sent to the No. 3 mine and rescue efforts were started at once. The United States bureau of mines at Pittsburgh was notified and a safety car was dispatched to Irvona.

A dust explosion occurred in the third south section of the mine, officials said, just as the day shift was leaving the mine. The cause of the explosion was not known.

Coalport is in the southern part of Clearfield county, and Irvona is an adjoining mining town.

It was expected that the twins would leave the hospital tonight or tomorrow. Dr. Weston said he had decided against the operation after a conference with another surgeon whose name he would not disclose.

ANDOVER PLANT DESTROYED WITH LOSS OF $100,000

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 15—The town of Andover suffered the most disastrous fire in its history Wednesday morning between 6 and 7 o'clock, when the only manufacturing industry in the place, the Case Fibre Board company plant, consisting of seven buildings, was burned to the ground, together with finished and uncompleted stock. The loss is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $100,000, about one-third of which is covered by insurance.

John Goodman, night engineer and watchman, discovered the fire as he was leaving the plant to return to his home. He had just completed his duties and was about to be relieved by Engineer Walton, the day man. Shortly after six o'clock Mr. Goodman heard a crackling sound but thought it emanated from the fans used in the plant. He investigated but found nothing wrong. He then saw smoke issuing from the drying room of No. 1 mill near the road. He returned and with some other men went to the drying room. On opening the door it was seen that the room was a mass of flames. The employes on the scene hurriedly manned the fire fighting apparatus and dragged the hose to the brook near the plant. The flames by this time had broken through the roof and windows and ignited the other buildings. In a short space of time the area was a seething mass of flames which leaped to large bales of unfinished stock in the yard and soon they were afire. The heat became so intense that the volunteers were driven back and forced to stop their labors. At 7:30 o'clock the buildings were consumed. The fire continued through the day, burning itself out with no way of cutting water on the ruins.

The structures destroyed included two main buildings with brick walls, one 100 by 80 feet, the other 60 by 80 feet; a large wooden addition, 90 by 60 feet, four stock sheds, two 30 by 60 feet and the others 40 by 60 feet. The sheds were filled with completed and unfinished stock. Nearly 400 tons of unfinished stock in the sheds and yards of the plant were practically destroyed.

Christopher C. Case of this city who was manager and the largest stockholder, owned the plant. Other members of the concern are members of the Case family of Highland Park, Manchester. The original mill was erected by C. C. Case's father more than forty years ago. Since Mr. Case assumed the management and agency, the plant has been enlarged several times until it was one of the largest of its kind in eastern Connecticut. Business had ben quite good with the company for some time past and two shifts were operated with a working force of twenty-four men. One-third of this number were employed nights. The plat is located just northwest of the Andover railroad station.

Mr. Case had not made a decision yesterday as to his future plans. Much depends on the insurance adjustments and the decision of the stockholders of the concern, he said. Yesterday forenoon members of the company and Manager Case were on the scene. The only building left standing on the property is an old barn. In this were two horses which were removed under difficulties. At the outbreak of the fire a stiff wind was blowing from the east which caused the flames to spread rapidly. The origin of the blaze has not been determined.

REV. E. C. DRAKE ADDRESSES LARGE KLAN GATHERING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 15—Rev. Ernest C. Drake, pastor of the United Protestant church of Sterling, spoke at a meeting here Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan. It was advertised as an open meeting to which the public was cordially invited and was held in a lot on Columbia road on the outskirts of the city. The attendance was large. Persons who attended with the idea of hearing verbal fireworks were disappointed.

Rev. Mr. Drake gave what is considered a very fair address, setting forth the principles of the Klan. He said that it was not a political body in any sense of the word as it could not afford to be. A member was entitled to vote for whoever he pleased. He mentioned the fact that one of the presidential candidates was dry and the other wet and inasmuch as prohibition was one of the principles of the organization it was expected the majority of the members would support this candidate.

The Klan, he said, had nothing against the Catholic, Jew or Negro, who all have secret bodies of their own. He believed the colored people should be considered as brothers and fully entitled to the right of citizenship. It was not a question, he stated, of where a man was born for in fact we are all foreigners, but rather one in which the test is whether or not he lives up to the American principles and ideals. He did mention, however, the difference of opinion with the Knights of Columbus when an attempt was made a short time ago to drag this country into a fight with Mexico.

He brought out the fact that a number of newspapers had been down on the Klan, mentioning in particular the New York World and said that even in Windham county some papers refused to print notices offered by the Klan even when there was a willingness to pay for them. Mention was also made of the recent shedding of the Klan hoods. In this connection he stated that the use of secrecy had been considered necessary up to a short time ago. He did bring out the fact however in conclusion that the organization was firmly opposed to any connection with church and state and cited instances in history where the union in this respect had resulted to the detriment of the country where these two forces were joined.

School Supervisor Levi T. Garrison of No. 50 Selden street, John Gadarowsky of No. 6 Ash street, Miss Hazel E. Jones of No. 119 North street and Mrs. George H. Spencer, librarian at the local state normal school, are attending the New York university summer school.

Wednesday proved to be one of the hottest of the present summer season here. At six o'clock in the morning temperature readings in the city averaged sixty degrees, gradually rising until yesterday afternoon the mercury in thermometers under awnings on Main street registered from 100 to 104 degrees.

JEWETT CITY

FISHERMEN'S LUCK TOUGH FOR NINE ABOARD THE LINDY

Never in the history of the port of Stonington has any such merry and innocent deep sea fishing party cleared its historic harbor as was that which sailed Saturday afternoon on the flush of the rising tide.

The ship was the model 45-foot oil burner, "Lindy," and with Skipper Howard Burdick at the helm, a smarter craft never dropped the breakwater lighthouse astern.

The men, nine in number, all hailing from Jewett City as their home port, sniffed the cool salt air, felt the tang of the snanking breeze, and registered on the ship's log as follows: Captain Ross Cook, "Chet" Geer, Bob McKenna, Jack McKenna, Earl Hiscox, Joe Herbert, Jack McElligott, Pierre King and Duke LeClaire.

The object of the cruise, which had been all the talk for more than a month, was to make the run over to Block Island. Here the party was to stay aboard ship over night, and then, Sunday, it was the plan to make a great draft on the finny denizens of the deep.

The trip over was one of rare pleasure for the Jewett City men, and was entirely uneventful.

It is hinted that there was little sleep aboard that night, anchored off the Block Island coast.

Along toward morning Sunday, the wind began to pipe, and by sunrise a half-a-gale from the east kicked up a nasty sea, with the accompaniment of a long ground swell, that rolled across the harbor bar in a way that was keeping the big island fishing fleet bobbing about with their hooks still fast to the ground.

Along near 8 o'clock Sunday morning, Skipper Howard came to the conclusion that if the mainland was to be reached that night, a start must be made at once. After rounding out by the South Light, the full force of the high running sea swept the little vessel fore and aft. The decks were awash with the scuppers streaming like a mill race. Most of the men accustomed only to the Quinebaug or the quieter waters of Tadpole pond, were deathly sick.

Captain Burdick, with "everything" close hauled, was giving her every pound, in an effort to reach the harbor of Stonington out of sight in the distance.

The trials of the trip had just begun for out of the haze and flying spume to the leeward, loomed up a great coast guard vessel out of New London, with C. G. 231 lettered on the bow. Captain Cash in command. "Heave too, I'm going to board yer," came the harsh command, waved through a megaphone six feet long, from the officer on the bridge of the destroyer. Captain Burdick, sensing the certain disaster to lay back in that sea, asked the C. G. commander to steam over to the windward that a bit of slack water might allow the possibility of heaving to without capsizing in the swirling trough. Some heated parley followed, with an exchanging of deep sea compliments, that would have made Stevenson's Old John Silver, go green with envy.

Presently the big government vessel, evidently seeing that the "Lindy" was certainly doomed if she attempted to lay broadside to the ocean roll, hauled into the wind. Further attempts at anything like coming aboard were unavailing.

Captain Howard told the 231's skipper that he had sick men aboard whom he must get to shore, as he "hated to have to bury them at sea."

As a conclusion to a marine picture of certain excellence, the C. G. officer ordered that the Lindy proceed to Watch Hill and "come to" inside the rips.

Orders obeyed, the big rum patrol convoyed her to anchorage, and the boarding seamen found the Lindy as dry as a covered bridge in Sanara.

Meanwhile, all the elite colony of Watch Hill had been watching the marine manoeuvers in the offing, and crowded the shore and Lighthouse point, expecting to see 1000 cases taken out, and transhipped from the Lindy's hold.

Strangely enough, among the Watch Hill coast patrol that came out, was John Kaduka, a former Jewett City boy, well known by all the local men and now in the coast patrol service.

Commander Case said that a boat named "Lindy" was on his list of "suspects," but a half dozen other Lindies ply along the adjacent coast line.

The home town party arrived intact, safe and sound and dry after a real life on the ocean wave experience that wasn't on the bill of arrangements.

Postmaster William T. Crumb received notification Wednesday from Chief Clerk R. E. Bridgett, of the railway mail service, with offices at Boston, that beginning Labor day, for holidays only, there will be neither incoming nor outgoing mails at Jewett City. The mail train is to be discontinued on holidays. Mr. Crumb, when these orders become effective will not open the post office on holidays.

The Bulletins, heretofore arriving here by mail on holidays, will be dispatched from Norwich by bus or auto, to points north.

This evening all eyes will center on Ashland ball park, where the Single Blissers and Apron Strings will clash for the second game of the series. The A. S. bunch claim there will be no let up, while the tail enders are saying "We will win or die."

Heat wave No. 10 did business in the borough Wednesday, with a 92 temperature. The stores being closed at 1 p. m. as a regular Wednesday arrangement left the streets practically deserted.

Most people are getting along with the exceptionally hot summer weather in the day time, the most complaint being about oppressively hot sleeping rooms at night.

DANIELSON

LETTERS REGARDING SHAD HAVE BEEN RECEIVED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 15—Since the item appeared in this column, relative to shad and salmon swimming against the water flow of the Quinebaug as far north as Danielson, several letters have been received by the writer from some of the oldest residents of the town and all agree that the fish were taken from the river in this territory, but many do not agree to the statement that the fish disappeared because of the vast amount of sewage flowing into the river and driving them back to the ocean. An interested person today stated he remembers, when as a youth in his early teens, how his father and others drew the seine evenings in Norwich, and he further remembers the fish being taken from the waters at Danielson. It has been interesting to verify these statements during the past week since the question arose and one may find in Miss Ellen Larned's history of Brooklyn, incidents relative to shad being obtained from the water, near the present Quinebaug dam. Miss Larned states the fish left the waters as the textile dams were constructed to generate power.

WEDDING

Roth-Wilde

A most attractive wedding took place Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilde of Waureagan road, when their only daughter Miss Mildred Wilde was married to Leon Roth of East Killingly. The ceremony took place in the living room of the home which was decorated with laurel and various seasonal flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, pastor of the Waureagan Congregational church. The double ring service was used.

The bride was charming in a gown of white flat crepe, with a lace overdress embroidered with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white sweet peas.

Only the immediate members of both families were present at the wedding ceremony. After the service a reception was held in honor of the couple, and shortly after they left for a wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of Killingly high school, class of 1924 and is employed as a stenographer in the office of the Williamsville Buff company. Mr. Roth is employed in the finishing department of the Paco company in Danielson and has a host of friends here.

Today, the concrete strength testing apparatus of the state highway department was on the Attawaugan road testing the concrete blocks. The result of the work will determine whether or not the cement mixes were proper. If the operator returns a fair report the highway will be opened to the traffic. The tester travels about the section on the various concrete roads rendering such tests as was done in Attawaugan today. The apparatus is mounted on the rear of a large truck, with equipment included that places the concrete blocks under pressure.

A large motor truck parked on Main street attracted the attention of many this afternoon because of the additional pair of wheels in the rear of the vehicle. A local mechanic who viewed the gasoline wagon believes the new contention was to overcome top-heaviness.

The advance detail of the service battery, stationed at the armory departed this morning at daybreak for Danbury and then to Tobbyhanna, the artillery range of the 192d field artillery. The large motor trucks, eight in number with 20 men were in command of Master Sergt. W. A. Logee. The trucks left in convoy and expected to arrive thi sevening in Danbury, where they will join other outfits of the regiment.

A death in Brooklyn this morning was that of Alfred E. Webb, a lifelong resident of the town. Mr. Webb was 46 years of age and died following a short period of illness. Although not born in Brooklyn, he resided there the greater part of his life, working on the large farm, owned by his father, Albert Webb, who survives him.

It was announced this afternoon that state republican officials will invade this section of the state soon and will commence the organization of several republican units. The first of these gatherings will take place on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Frederick O. Armington on Main street. A Danielson unit of the Windham county republican club will be organized to supplant the Coolidge club of four years ago and all members of that party organization will automatically be carried on the roll of the new unit. The policy of the club will be similar to that of the organizations in Putnam.

At one of the local filling stations this morning there was a strange appearing automobile, bearing a most foreign looking pair of number plates. Curiosity led many to gain a close-up of the registration, which in reality was quite queer. The following combination of figures, that reminded one of an algebraic problem, were inscribed upon the plates: Q Q-66-4-666. The operation of the vehicle, while detained at the gas station informed one youth, who inquired as to the plates, that he resided in "Quite Queer." The Danielson youngster not daunted by the "Queer" answer replied, that he was going to seek further information from his geography. The driver stated that the odd appearing registration markers on his car were an international form of registration plates issued to American tourists travelling in Europe and were permissible in five of the European nations.

Joseph Veins, 62, for several years a resident of Goodyear, died at his home there Wednesday. Mr. Veins is a native of Valley Falls, R. I. Rivulets of perspiration trickled down the brows of nearly every person passing the Puritan building on Main street this afternoon, where Old Sol sent the mercury dashing up to a record of 96 degrees and at 2 p. m. was still headed toward higher points. The heat problem was lightened by the light northeast breeze that prevailed during the day.

Within a few days operations on the Danielson-Providence highway striking off Hutchins street, will be resumed by the new contractor, John Aborio of New Haven, who will commence where Eugene Gobeille left off. Confidence was expressed today of Mr. Aborio's ability as a road builder and the work will be completed within a short time. Mr. Aborio was the contractor on the Brooklyn-Hampton high, constructed about five years ago.

The brick structure of the new Brooklyn Savings bank, now under construction at the corner of Academy and Main streets is receiving many of its exterior decorations. Masons are now placing the foundations that will support the beautiful white marble columns, when the structure is completed.

With the democratic organization of an Al Smith club in the north end of the city Tuesday evening indications are at present that both parties are striving hard to carry this city and surrounding localities in the November election. The organization of the Smith forces last evening was the first democratic action of the campaign. Notice of the meetings were sent out during the past week and when roll was called last evening 111 democratic voters of the city answered their names. The meeting was opened by chairman of the democratic town committee, Edmund Dubois, who delivered the opening remarks. Mr Dubois introduced a number of leading democratic officials of the state, among them being Congressman William M. Citron of Middletown, Vincent D. Lamb of Middletown, Lawrence J. Keegan of Wilsonville and others. All delivered vigorous campaign addresses urging cooperation of the party members during the coming campaign.

It was voted to organize an Al Smith club and the following officers were elected: President, Edward Girard; vice president, Edmund Dubois; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Bartlette, treasurer, Thomas P. Ryan.

The main plan of campaign, will be similar to that already announced by the republicans, that of a house to house canvass of the various wards of the city.

John Philip Sousa, and the members of his world famous band departed for Worcester late yesterday afternoon in the special coaches added to the regular Worcester train. After their appearance in Putnam at the Bradley theatre yesterday afternoon, they returned to the special coaches where they made ready to leave "fair Putnam," as Lt. Commander Sousa termed the city yesterday.

As several of the surviving members of the old St. Mary's band of this city, famous throughout New England, sat in Sousa's audience, they remarked how excellently Mr. Sousa directed. John Jarvis, father of Captain of Police Jarvis this morning related many interesting yarns of the old band, long ago disbanded, of which he was a member. Mr. Jarvis interested a considerable gathering on the street this morning when he described the gay uniforms of the former band, which included James O'Brien and Representative William Pechie and many other of the older citizens. Both Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Pechie and many morning that with a few hours of practice their one time unit would command the attention of Mr. Sousa even today.

Prior to the divisional change, effective last January, Mr. Rawley was trainmaster of the New London division with offices in New London and previous to his appointment was trainmaster at Putnam where he resided for a number of years. Upon the change in division Mr. Rawley was again promoted and was transferred to the Providence division. Mr. Rawley spent the day greeting the railroad employes at Putnam, who so long worked under his supervision.

A late report from the Day Kimball hospital, this afternoon, regarding the condition of Mitzi Maleak and Chester Petreas, both of Killingly, said that both of the injured youths were recovering and their conditions have improved considerably. Both boys were victims of an automobile collision that occurred last week. The condition of Virginia Zaklukiervizy, who was injured by an automobile accident a few weeks ago was reported by the hospital officials this afternoon as unchanged. The five year old child was struck down by a vehicle on Main street, and since her committal to the hospital has remained in a critical condition.

The cause of the delay has not been made known. In Putnam several committees are working jointly in an attempt to bring war veterans hospital here.

SORE MUSCLES

A ROW on the lake, golf, or a strenuous morning of tennis or swimming may make your muscles sore. While Vicks VapoRub is primarily used for colds, its healing, antiseptic properties make it also an excellent rub for strains, sprains, and sore muscles. Useful too for many another "vacation-ill," such as sunburn, cuts, scratches or insect bites.

A TEXTILE SOLUTION

From the lips of one who was a child laborer in the mills at Lawrence, Mass., and has worked up to the presidency of the Dartmouth Manufacturing company, operating cotton mills in New Bedford, has come a suggested solution of the wage difficulty there over the 10 per cent. wage reduction which is keeping thousands of operatives in conflict with the police over the right of picketing and has been vainly tackled by the state arbitrators. Walter Hamer Langshaw, who was born in England in 1859 says he has not cut wages in the Dartmouth mills, but he sees that drastic measures are needed to put Massachusetts textile interests on their feet. He gives his opinion of what ought to be done. Here are his suggestions:

"Drop the notion of wage cuts. The 10 per cent. proposed reduction would be entirely absorbed by middlemen and would not increase the chances of New Bedford textiles in any market.

"Recognize that overproduction is the source of the troubles existing, less cotton being worn now.

"Junk the old plants with obsolete machinery.

"Liquidate and close plants that have not shown reasonably good results, as compared with others.

"In plants qualified to run, curtail, not by stopping part of the machinery but by shutting down entirely until production about equals consumption.

"Insist that merchandise shall not be sold below cost."

It seems hardly probable that these ideas will be accepted with any enthusiasm by either side to the textile controversy. Junked plants and closed plants will pay no dividends to owners. Nor will they furnish jobs to the men and women employes. Too many mills and too many workers seems to be Mr. Langshaw's analysis of this textile field. There is good reason for putting faith in his diagnosis of the situation. But cotton mill hands are no more willing to find new ways of earning a living than were the British miners. Therein lies a vital human difficulty in carrying the Langshaw plan into operation.

FLORIDA ZEPHYRS

The publicity department of the Florida state chamber of commerce has sent to the press a statement that "the excitement growing out of the recent zephyr causes sea-faring men and old-time Floridars to wonder what Florida is coming to." Some of us might hazard a guess. Florida seems to be coming to the point of regarding weather as does California—all of it is good. A zephyr is defined by the dictionaries as a west wind. Poetically it is any soft, mild, gentle breeze. The weather bureau classifies as a light breeze one with a velocity of ten miles an hour, while a gentle breeze may attain a velocity of fifteen to twenty miles, and a moderate breeze twenty-five miles. A hurricane blows eighty to one hundred miles an hour and that is what the south Atlantic coast had. Boats were in distress, houses were unroofed and demolished, citrus crops suffered damage running into the millions, but there was little if any loss of life. The weather bureau posted storm warnings along the coast and called the storm a hurricane. Reports of the damage done by winds and floods have come from disinterested representatives of press associations. Two years ago when Florida suffered from a hurricane, the publicity forces tried so hard to minimize the damage that the Red Cross had some difficulty in obtaining funds. The country admires the valiant manner in which Florida cleans up after a storm. It shows a great spirit of which it may well be proud but even the state chamber of commerce cannot conceal a hurricane or transform it into a zephyr.

RAILROAD STRIKE PROSPECTS

Conductors and trainmen on the western railroads, in taking an organization vote on the question whether to strike, are following a course at variance with the record of these workers' unions in the United States for some years past. In doing this they are moved by the fact that groups of railroad workers in other sections of the country have quite commonly gained increases over the wages that prevailed before 1927.

They have seen a 7 1-2 per cent increase granted to conductors and trainmen on eastern railroads by arbitration under the Watson-Parker act in December, 1926. They have beheld a like increase granted to engineers in eastern territory in August, 1927. In their own territory they have observed the success of the demands of the yardmen, who obtained the 7 1-2 per cent. in June, 1927. At that time the board of railroad mediation denied the application of the western conductors and trainmen, on the ground that the railroads of their section as a whole were making less income on their investment than railroads elsewhere, and could not afford the extra expenditure involved.

Portions of the western railroad field have enjoyed a great improvement in business since 1926, although not all the railroads have shared in it. The organizations now taking a strike vote feel in consequence that discrimination against them, amid widespread increase of wages elsewhere, is not now justified. They renewed their application for higher pay last November; the subsequent negotiations came to nothing.

The men would have a better case if they had not insisted on the preservation of operating rules providing for a specified maximum number of cars to be hauled by one locomotive, and to similar rules relating to the use of two locomotives to a single train. According to reports from Cleveland, they could have had the 7 1-2 per cent. increase on condition of letting these rules go. The rules have the air of making more labor needful to operation than strict economy would require. The roads have not been making the standard return on investment, taking them as a whole, of late years. They can improve their earnings only by economy and needless employes stand in the way of this. Apparently the men can have an increase of 6 1-2 per cent. and keep the rules in question, or can have 7 1-2 per cent. if they consent to the abolition of these rules. They are bound in either case to get a considerable increase, and what extra they might obtain by a strike hardly would justify a step exceptional nowadays in the policy of railroad workers.

DROPPING THE FLAPPER

Paris has conducted several experiments in women's fashions without having much effect on the mode in America. French designers declared, more than a year ago, that skirts must be longer, but observation brings the conclusion that American women have refused to obey. Paris now embarks upon a new campaign, one that depends for its success more upon the mind than on the clothes. Flapperism seems to be a state of mind. With boyish haircuts, brief skirts, and a general scantiness of wearing apparel came an impudent assurance. Young girls especially were affected, and their mothers and grandmothers did their best, in many cases, to emulate them. There were girls who thought it no compliment to be called nice. This was the smoking, drinking era that gave so many social workers food for thought and many platform speakers an opportunity to make a defense for the youth of the moment. Paris seeks a return to the modified Victorian era when women were chiefly of the clinging-vine type. If American girls are satisfied with their present ways, the French crusade will probably make little headway, but if popularity becomes synonomous with discretion in speech and dress, in manner and custom, the flapper, as we know her, will pass.

POLAR TRIP COSTS

The cost in lives and property of the Nobile expedition has not been estimated, perhaps because there is no way of telling how much several governments spent in trying to extend aid to Nobile's crew and the lost rescue parties. Commander Byrd has, however, given some idea of the cost of polar exploration. The first ship of three that will carry him and his party to the Bay of Whales, his base for the south pole flight, is expected to depart next week, and the rest of the expedition will set out a month later. He expects to be gone eighteen months and to build and occupy a village of six dwellings and several store houses.

In a published inventory of his equipment and supplies Byrd has stated that he will take such items as 15,600 gallons of gasoline, 25 tons of fuel, two tons of ham, three tons of bacon, 15 tons of flour, two tons of canned butter, a ton of jelly and jam, a ton of tobacco, two tons of corned beef and 500,000 cigarettes. In addition he will store about 15 tons of other foodstuffs, including fruit, eggs, coffee and condiments. It appears that not the least of the job is to provide a living for 100 persons for eighteen months, taking into consideration the fact that all their needs will have to be anticipated. Byrd has declared that the expedition will cost so much that it could not have been considered had not American manufacturers donated supplies to him to the extent of $425,000. In addition, he received cash donations, in sums of from $5 to $50,000, totalling $195,995.03.

His plane equipment consists of three large ships and a small plane for courier and quick survey work. It is probable that the total cost of the expedition will be about $1,000,000. This is far above the modest sum on which ground explorers formerly were obliged to carry on their polar explorations. It is essentially a popular enterprise, undertaken without government subsidy and purely as an expression of American interest in pioneers and their courage.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Midway in August.

The man on the corner says: Wednesday's weather was of the sort to stimulate volunteering for an Arctic expedition.

With Costes ready to fly across the Atlantic as soon as the weather is favorable it will be noted that he will carry a radio.

Not many cities are to be found these days without at least one golf course. How long will it be before they are equally well supplied with flying fields?

Japan has warned the Chinese to stay out of Manchuria and the Chinese are beginning to act as if they were ready to fight out one of Japan's orders.

A new geyser spouting water 75 feet has appeared in Yellowstone park, but inasmuch as it is a campaign year those spouting politics may furnish some exciting competition.

Paris is not so gay for all visiting tourists but the French capital carefully cultivates a reputation for gayety, which is not always sustained by facts, but makes profitable publicity.

HOPE

"Market 7780," Crutchers requested.

"Atlas Rock and Gravel," announced a cheerful feminine voice at the other end of the wire.

"Order department, please," said Crutchers; a few seconds later he was placing his rush orders for sand, reading from the pile of requisitions before him.

Crutchers was one of ten clerks in the purchasing department of the Erickson Construction company, and his day's work was a monotonous round of telephone calls. Each today was the same as each yesterday—each tomorrow a certainty.

He was 32 and for seven years had been on this same job. Many times he had seen the chance of promotion coming his way, but somehow it always failed to reach him. More than half his life he had lived alone, in rooming houses filled with people who were suspicious of friendly advances. He was a colorless person, too timid to seek friends and not interesting enough to attract them.

This morning there was a pronounced flush in his usually pale cheeks, nervousness in his movements. For, while his work piled up he thought of Miss Mary Porter, the little dark-eyed girl who had the room across the hall from him at Mrs. Kinney's. She had been there when he had moved in over a year ago, but they were still strangers to each other.

She looked so friendly. Maybe she, too, was lonely! Anyway, she could do no worse than scorn him. The prize, he firmly decided at last, was worth the risk.

He hurried home at 5 and dashed up to his room. She would be coming in from work soon. He must move quickly. First a bath and a shave, then clean clothes—his blue serge suit with its shiny spots.

Trembling, he knotted his tie and faced the door, listening for sounds in the hallway. She might arrive at any time now. He must reach the porch ahead of her.

As he grasped the knob he weakened and drew back. Would he be able to speak? His confidence melted. Perhaps he better wait upstairs and meet her in the hall. Others might see them on the porch and she might not like that. A dozen times his determination drooped and a dozen times he bolstered his courage—and waited. He could not go on like this—living in her very shadow—and never speak!

Suddenly the stairs at the far end of the hall groaned. Footsteps advanced along the hallway. He stood up and took a deep breath. Only seconds separated him from his moment of moments. Would he be able to—But he refused to think further. His hand gripped the door knob resolutely. When he heard the footsteps pause outside and a key rattle in a lock he drew another painful breath and swung open the door.

"Good evening, Mr. Crutchers."

"Why—good evening—Mrs. Kinney."

"You're all dressed up, aincha? Must be goin' some place, huh?"

"Why—yes—I was going somewhere. Where's Miss ——, the young lady that lives in there?"

"Her? Oh, she moved t'day," said Mrs. Kinney opening the door. He stared over her shoulder at a vacant room.

"Moved!"

"Yep. Say, you can have this here room now if you want it. It's lots airier than the one you got. Same price."

"Mrs. Kinney, where did she move? Did she leave any word?"

"Search me. I'd think you'd know if anybody. Livin' here a whole year—and her such a pretty thing, too! Just like my husband—if I hadn't done the talkin' we'ed never got to know each other." Crutchers retreated weakly to his room and groped for his chair by the window.

The following morning found him back on his job as usual. He sorted his requisitions listlessly and started through his routine.

"Market 7780," he said flatly.

"Atlas Rock and Gravel," announced the cheerful voice of Miss Mary Porter at the other end of the wire.

"Order department, please," said Crutchers.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Recalls Old Times

Mr. Editor: Noting in your questions on page 4, your issue of Aug. 6. Who was Daniel Douglas Home. I made mention of him in a former letter of mine of the date of May 30, 1928 and here I wish to add this mite that he at one time lived at the corner of 9th street and what is now called Central avenue. This is now brought vividly to mind through your question as noted. And in this house on one of the window panes could be seen his name that he in an idle moment had etched on the glass with a diamond and also the date. Perhaps if this particular glass has not been broken the name may appear yet. This house stood at what was called "Blumby's corner." And here lived Jack Blumby or Bromley as we knew him. And here is where "our gang" hung out. You will realize, reader, that in every town there is some favorite corner or place where the boys meet of an evening and this is so today as well as it was in those early days And another hangout or meeting place for the gang was on Boss Palmer's hay scales near to the foot of 6th street and Main. Here nearby was the cobbler shop of Henry Palmer and next door was a little old fashioned candy shop kept by an old lady named Nellie Downey. I wonder if any of you old timers can recall her. As a resume getting back to Palmer he was better known as "Boss" Palmer. If there was ever a good samaritan it was him for the little old cobbler shop was a great hang out in the cold winter days. That was typical of early days in New England and the old fellow fixed many a poor fellows boots for nothing and took his pay in promises to pay him later. And very few of the boys ever 'welched" on it. My opinion is that his good deeds are still recalled by some of the boys of yesterday and although he went over the top many years ago, still his good deeds are held in loving memory by those who knew him best and may I here quote this but with a slight change:

Lives of Good men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And by doing leave behind us
Footprints in the sands of time.

In these letters to the Bulletin that are coming through from time to time I am trying to recall some of the incidents of the yesterdays, some of which are perhaps interesting, and all no doubt are pleasant reminders of the ones who were the actors in this play called life and sometime I want to tell a story and it is true of a pathetic play in real life and the characters were an old Baptist clergyman, a tavern keeper and the villian in the play was an ungrateful cur and the other was an old and loving mother, who was a little peculiar, but was the most beautiful figure that man can ever know, a loving old mother and the scene in the eastern section of Norwich. This sketch will appear in three acts. And now I want to ask a question how many can recall the old covered bridge that crossed from Preston into East Main street in Norwich?

C. H. "DAD" SHAW

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Pomp and circumstance should mark the signature of the Kellogg anti-war treaty. It will be a moment pregnant with the hope it may hold out mankind's yearnings for assured peace may be more nearly realized.

Yet the treaty itself "just growed," like Topsy. It was born of a Franco-American interplay of wit and gesture that lacked far-reaching purpose, and the hammer that actually forged this mutual pledge to abstain from war was aroused public opinion. That is the star of hope to which it is hitched.

Mr. Kellogg loses no credit thereby. He rode opportunity with whip and spur when it came. He may yet see his public career crowned with a Nobel peace award.

It started with M. Briand's bland suggestion of June 20, 1927, for a private Franco-American anti-war pledge. That was impossible under traditional American policy of equal treatment for all, as M. Briand knew it would be, no doubt. But who can see only coincidence in the opening of the abortive three power naval conference in Geneva that same day?

France had declined to participate, for reasons wholly satisfactory to herself. The wrath of the peace-urgent press of the world fell on her head. Is it questionable that the experienced and adroit M. Briand was thinking of that, and of escape from the damning cry of militarism, when he framed his neat little beau geste of June 20?

It was so received in Washington. It caused vexation at being the butt of French political wit. A home outcry for peace action, hard to realize practically and its failure difficult to explain, might—and did—arise. So the proposal of M. Briand went to the files for months. Nobody seemed to expect concrete developments.

Except Senator Borah and peace crusaders who descended on the white house. Also, not to be forgotten, the presidential election year dawned. Political expediency domestic and international, demanded action; but what?

The state department thought it over and recalled the Root arbitration treaty with France, about to expire. It saved the day. A Franco-American peace pledge, but involving no actual treaty commitments, went into the preamble of a new arbitration treaty which was rushed through to ratification in jig time. It helped at home a lot; but, more than that, it helped Washington to a bright idea of its own in belated reply to M. Briand's little masterpiece. Why not send his suggestion back to his own doorstep redressed in multilateral instead of bilateral trappings?

Disinterested diplomats chortled. They viewed M. Briand as hoist with his own petard since France's post-war protective commitments might—and did—make so simple and world wide an anti-war project a little difficult to accept. How could M. Briand wiggle out of the corner?

Then public opinion intervened. Official ears at home and abroad were deafened by demands for consummation of a far-reaching peace pledge. Right there Kellogg saw and seized his chance. He overrode ruthlessly bureaucratic hesitancies abroad to explore strange pathways knowing himself invincibly armed with the public at his back. And because of that, this unprecedented effort to bend the will of the world to peace goes down into history bearing his name.

Gentle Art of Guest-Dodging

One Saturday Mrs. R. was leaving her home to go downtown shopping. Two ladies with suitcases were going up the walk toward the house of her next-door neighbor. Mrs. R. happened to see her neighbor alking quickly toward the street corner, where she intended to board a street car. Thinking that she would be disappointed if she missed the guests who at that moment were on her porch, Mrs. R called to her neighbor several times without making her hear.

Finally, by hurrying, she caught up with her and somewhat breathlessly delivered the news.

"Shut up, you fool! Shut up!" said her neighbor in an angry tone. "I saw them coming, and I was trying to get away before they saw me. I had planned to visit some friends in the country tomorrow, so I would not have to get Sunday dinner myself. You don't think that I intend to stay home and cook for them, do you?"

Fortunately, the street car arrived in time.

YOUR HEALTH

What Will a Drop of Blood Show?

By Mark Lewis Emerson, M. D., Oakland, Calif., Member Gorgas Memorial

Some animals have a different kind of blood from human beings. For instance, the red blood cells of a camel are nucleated, while human beings only have nucleated red cells in severe anemia and serious types of blood diseases. By stretching the web of a frog's foot under the lens of a microscope we can readily observe the circulation of the blood in the small blood vessels, showing millions of small cells that could easily be placed on the head of a pin. Most of the different cells causing disease are even smaller than blood cells and the progress that different medical laboratories are now making in blood chemistry indicates that this branch of medical science is one of the most important branches of study in diagnosing diseases.

A drop or two of blood will show some of the most amazing things known to medical science and in large numbers. Many of these can be seen under the microscope or by growing different organisms from the blood. Again there are many forms of disease manifest in the blood that cannot be seen by the microscope which give the clue to diagnosis by their physical and chemical reaction. For instance, to see if a patient has typhoid fever, a drop of blood is taken and if a certain peculiar reaction is secured, the diagnosis of typhoid fever is helped. This is known as the Widal reaction. Another blood specimen may show if one has syphilis, either inherited or acquired. This is known as the Wasserman reaction. So important are the various blood findings that almost all up-to-date hospitals have a thorough blood test made of all hospital patients and always with those desiring a physical examination.

If anyone has diabetes, the blood test will show it, and what is more important, it will show even if the person is only threatened with it. If anyone is eating too many sweets, or has acidosis or alkalosis, his blood test will show that also. If malaria is suspected, a blood test will often show not only malaria, but the particular kind. In the same way the particular kind of germ causing blood poisoning is discovered.

How about your own blood? Have you ever had it examined? Have you ever had a physical examination made, or are you simply going to wait until something happens and then see what you can do about patching it up? Go and see your family doctor and talk things over. If he thinks you need a blood examination, he will tell you so.

Stories That Recall Others

Dispelling the Doubt

Little Jane and her mother were enjoying a rest on the porch. While the conversation was lagging, the three-year-old said:

"Mother, I like to sit on the tea set best."

Visions of an elaborate toy tea set, belonging to the child's older sister, smashed by this somewhat unusual treatment were dispelled when Jane explained by saying:

"You sit with me, mother," and drew her mother to the settee.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Sweep and a Jump

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

My gain, your loss; your loss, my gain;
My pain, your joy; your joy, my pain.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Blow, Merry Breezes, blow!" cried Chatterer. "Blow with all your might!"

The Merry Little Breezes did blow. They blew with all their might. They blew so hard that Chatterer had to dig his claws into the log on which he was riding in order to hold on. Chatterer's tail was his sail.

High in the sky back of Chatterer a speck was growing larger and larger. That speck was a person. That person was Redtail the Hawk. Chatterer knew who it was. That was why he kept begging the Merry Little Breezes to blow hard. He knew how wonderfu are the eyes of Redtail the Hawk. He didn't doubt that, as far away as Redtail was, he had already seen that little log with its lone passenger. So Chatterer's heart seemed to him to be right up in his throat. It seemed to be choking him. Yes, sir, that is the way it seemed to Chatterer. First he would look over at the shore; then he would look up at that growing speck. It seemed to him that Redtail was drawing nearer a great deal faster than the shore was. Once he was tempted to jump overboard and swim, but by this time the Merry Little Breezes were sending that old log along faster than Chatterer could swim. So he remained right where he was and kept his tail spread for a sail.

Nearer drew the shore and nearer drew Redtail the Hawk. He was more than a speck now. He was very much more than a speck. Poor Chatterer! It seemed to him that that little log didn't move at all. Actually, it was moving quite fast. Time and again Chatterer was tempted to make a run the length of the log, jump into the water and swim. But very wisely he did not do this. He kept his place with his tail spread. And the Merry Little Breezes blew and blew and blew. And the little log sailed and sailed and sailed. And Redtail flew and flew and flew.

Paddy the Beaver poked his head out of water just a little way from Chatterer. Paddy didn't see Redtail the Hawk. He thought Chatterer was sailing just for fun. The spirit of mischief prompted Paddy to swim quite close and suddenly slap the water hard with that big, fat tail of his. It startled Chatterer so that he almost fell off. And it did more than that; it made a wave that almost washed Chatterer off. But, desnite his fright, Chatterer saw that Paddy had helped him. That wave had pushed the log a little faster toward the shore.

"D-d-do it again," chattered Chatterer, and took a hasty look over his shoulder at Redtail.

Paddy looked up to see what Chatterer was looking at. Then Paddy understood what was happening. He got behind Chatterer and began swimming with his nose against that old log. He was pushing that log. And now it was moving quite fast. Chatterer understood and he was very grateful.

The shore was drawing nearer faster. Redtail the Hawk was drawing nearer faster. He was almost near enough to swoop down and pick Chatterer up. Perhaps you can guess how thankful Chatterer was that Redtail cannot fly as fast as one or two other members of the Hawk family can. But Redtail was doing his best. Chatterer took one more hurried look over his shoulder. Then he lowered his tail, ran the length of that little log and, from the other end, made a flying leap for the shore. And

"D-d-do it again," chattered Chatterer just as he leaped Redtail swooped for him.

Vinegar made by the old-fashioned fermentation process is far superior to synthetic acetic acid, German scientists have found. While all vinegars vary greatly in their vitamin content, the synthetic variety is lacking in vitamin D, the important food factor that prevents rickets in children, report Dr. A. Janke and H. Lacroix, of Berlin.

Doctor Despaired of Life at One Time.

To McCoy Laboratories:

It is with a feeling of satisfaction and high esteem for your splendid tablets that I write this testimonial, as I can safely say that they are worthy of praise.

I am a transport truck driver and I have turned to McCoy's Tablets for the third time, knowing that one box does me more good than a dozen bottles of doctor's medicine, as at one time doctors despaired of my life. I happened to see your advertisement and I started to take them with the results that in two months I was able to go back to work, and now I would not be without them.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

Steel-Clad Pavement

There is an ingenious form of pavement employing asphalt or cement covered with steel plates. This embodies some interesting features.

The foundation is made in much the same manner as that for any other kind of permanent pavement, the concrete varying in thickness from four to six inches, according to the condition of the subsoil. Upon this concrete basis is set the combined curb and gutter, after which the pavement is laid thereon, which consists of a layer of cement concrete four inches thick and upon this is spread a steel-clad wearing surface of from one to two inches in thickness, according to traffic.

For the heaviest traffic the steel-clad asphalt is chiefly recommended. While the first cost is considerably more than for an ordinary pavement, the difference in price is, it is said, saved many times because of the saving in maintenance charges and because of the greater durability of the pavement.

It is claimed that there is no traffic too heavy for this pavement and that it is particularly adapted for use around warehouses, milk and produce depots, railway stations, yards, stables, garages—in fact, any place where the strongest and most durable kind of pavement is desired. The other variety of this pavement, steel clad cement, is designed for use in small cities and towns where traffic is light and where the cost is important.

TWO CIVIL WAR REGIMENTS MEET FOR ANNUAL REUNIONS

Two Civil war regimental associations, the 18th and 26th Connecticut Volunteers, held their annual reunions Wednesday at Buckingham Memorial, this city. The veterans of the 18th regiment and three of the 26th regiment were present. Many veterans, unable to be present with their comrades, sent letters of regret. A feature of the day's entertainment was the fife and drum corps brought from Killingly by Henry W. Babson, president of the 18th Regimental association. Numerous airs, popular in the 60's and 70's, were rendered throughout the day by the corps. The G. A. R. men, their guests and many outsiders who gathered about the Memorial building enjoyed the splendid programme.

The regimental associations held their business sessions separately, but joined ranks for the dinner served by Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, under the direction of Mrs. M. Florence Dean. The menu was as follows:

Soup
Mashed Potatoes
Tomatoes Corn
Roast Lamb—Brown Gravy
Bread Butter
Apple Pie
Watermelon and Coffee

Assisting Mrs. Dean on the dinner committee were Mrs. Althea Brown, Mrs. Annie Olsen, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Mrs. Harriet L. Kinney, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Nellie Bailey, Mrs. Inez Hill, Mrs. Maud Moody, Miss Gladys D. Newbury, Mrs. Carrie Prentice, Mrs. Mary Austin, Mrs. Clara Burke, Mrs. Annie Turner, Mrs. Cora Botham, Mrs. Mary Speirs, Miss Marla Briggs, Miss Lollabelle Roath, Mrs. Lena Pukallus.

Mayor Robbins Extends Welcome

After the dinner, Arthur L. Peale acted as toastmaster, and called upon several of the guests for remarks. Mayor Lee Roy Robbins extended the greetings of the city, cordially welcomed the veterans and their families to Norwich, and praised the work of the patriotic organizations.

President Horace Clift of the 26th expressed thanks for all that had been done for the veterans and urged a continued interest in national affairs. Henry W. Babson, the president of the 18th, and who was responsible for the presence of the Independent Drum corps of Killingly, spoke briefly, referring to legislation in behalf of the veterans and their families. Department President Jennie S. Newbury of the Daughters of Union Veterans, pledged the hearty support of that organization to the help of the veterans and urged more patriotic work.

Ex-Mayor Herbert M. Leroy expressed great pleasure in having them visit Norwich and hold their reunions here. Commander George C. Crocker reviewed the work of the soldiers of the war of '61, and referred to the small number now living. Senior Vice-Commander James H. Haggerty of the Grand Army of the Republic related many interesting incidents and stories and was warmly applauded. Mrs. Lillian S. Newbury, president of Clara Barton tent; Mrs. Althea Brown, vice-president of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps; Mrs. Louisa Atterbury, department patriotic instructor of the relief corps, and Edward G. Willey, a member of the 26th regiment, who were heard from, presented many ideas and suggestions along patriotic lines.

Three cheers were given to Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps and the meeting closed by the salute to the flag and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

The 26th Regimental association business session, was called to order by President Horace Clift of Mystic. Two other members were present and about 25 guests. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer after which President Clift spoke as follows:

Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen: In the 65th reunion of the 26th Regiment we meet in this Memorial building erected by the man who was governor of Connecticut during the War of the Rebellion.

The few of us who are survivors of that war may well make our bow to the ladies of the Relief Corps, who are hostesses on this occasion for our enjoyment, as, also, the several corps connected with our posts can attest.

As we meet here we materially miss the many comrades who have passed to the Beyond during past years. They are: Henry C. Wright, George Robtins, Nathen Newbury, Chas. Munson and two honorary members, William Davies and Orrin Price.

The Apostle James in his Epistle asks the question "What is your life?" and then gives the answer, "it is even as the vapor which appareth for a little time and then vanisheth away."

I have heard persons say, and it may be some of you have heard the same, "This is hardly worth the living." If this life were all, I sometimes think I might acquiesc. All of us are believers in the truth of Religion, and that informs us there is an immortal life beyond the grave, where we may meet again with loved ones gone before us. So we notice the gambols of the children around us, it reminds us of our own childhood and brings those events to memory as they pass in review before us.

We can well believe with Longfellow,

Due to the absence of Mrs. M. C. Osborn of New Haven, daughter of the late B. B. Champlin, for many years secretary of the regiment, Mrs. Walter Rehn of New London was acting secretary, Mrs. Osborn was honored with the position of secretary at the last reunion, and her absence today was deeply regretted. However, Mrs. Osborn sent in her report, which was read. After reviewing the 64th annual reunion, Mrs. Osborn said in her report:

The following deaths have been reported to the secretary since the last reunion.

Henry C. Wright in Norwich, Conn., on March 19, 1928.

George O. Robbins, Co. G, on Jan. 10, 1928; Nathan Newberry, Charles Minson, on Dec. 28, 1927; William L. Davies; Orrin M. Price.

Treasurer's Report

The financial report was submitted as follows by H. G. Peck of this city, a son of a member of the regiment, who was named treasurer last year:

Amount on hand Aug. 17, 1927	$204.03
Cash deposited Aug. 18, 1927	12.30

	$225.32
Amount paid out on Aug. 27, 1927 to Women's Relief Corps for dinner	18.00
Amount on hand Aug. 15, 1928	207.32

A collection of $16.40 was taken up. This included $5 from Dr. George Jennings of Jewett City.

Mr. Clift was prevailed on to again accept the office of president, Edward G. Willey, Norwich and Alva Morgan were elected vice presidents.

Mrs. Rehn of New London was elected secretary, in place of Mrs. Osborn of New Haven. The latter it was stated, was ill and her health would not permit her to retain the office. Henry G. Peck of this city was unanimously re-elected treasurer.

Greetings From the 18th

Greetings from the 18th regiment were extended by Arthur L. Peale, secretary of that regiment. There were remarks by Attorney Abel P. Tanner of New London, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy of Mystic, past department president of the Woman's Relief corps of Connecticut, and several others.

J.; Mrs. Gurdon Allyn, West Mystic; Mrs. Charles E. Reynolds, West Mystic; Mrs. Ella W. Geer, Jewett City; Mrs. Esther Kennedy, Jewett City; Kate J. Willey, Norwich; Mrs. John L. Douglas, Norwich; Mrs. Margaret A. Decker, Mystic; Sarah L. Clift, Mystic; Ruth T. Clift, Mystic; Hattie E. Chappell, Central Village; Ivey D. Tompkins, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Annie Jennings, Jewett City; George H. Jennings, Jewett City; Jacob Benjamin, Norwich, H. G. Peck, Norwich; Horace Clift, Mystic; and Mrs. Edna Renn, New London.

Letters read at the meeting included the following:

From Myra C. Osborn, New Haven—Am sending report. Regret I can not be with you the 15th. If any letters come will have them sent to Buckingham Memorial so you will be sure to get them.

Michael Shea—Thank you very much for the invitation to meet again for the 65th time as remnants of the old regiment.

Of course it is out of the question for me to attend, yet it is with the deepest of gratitude that I send you my acknowledgment with the assurance of my best wishes to each and all of my comrades.

Chauncey Morse, Putnam—Notice of reunion received and in reply will say that I do not think it would be best for me to attend same, as it is an all day's job and very tiresome at that. To begin with, my hearing is such that I cannot hear anything that is said and my health is not what it used to be, so that I have to be very careful about it. I had pneumonia last spring.

J. J. Jerome, Yucca, Ariz.—Your favor of recent date containing notice of 65th reunion was duly received. Thanks for the same. My thoughts will be with them at that time and I send regards and good wishes to all who may be fortunate enough to attend. If you can do so without inconveniences to yourself, please send me a newspaper containing an account of the meeting and also the names and residences of the survivors.

With kindest personal regards and hoping to see you very soon, I remain.

From W. B. Aldrich, Attleboro, Mass. It would be a great pleasure to be with you at the reunion, but it is a trip of 140 miles and it might be too much for me to undertake it. I am 85 the 26th of September. Please excuse me this time. Give my kindest regards to all the boys and to yourself.

From William E. Bailey, department president: I deeply regret that I could not accept the kind invitation extended by your president, Comrade Henry W. Babson, to be present at your 60th annual reunion at the Buckingham Memorial today.

In behalf of the department of Connecticut Woman's Relief corps, I extend greetings to you all on this occasion and wish for you a happy day together. Also please accept my personal congratulations on this, your 60th birthday.

May you continue to exist with that spirit of "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty," which has been the broad foundation of the Grand Army of the Republic since its organization and it is my wish for you all that health and strength may be given to enable you to enjoy many more reunions.

From Albert C. Greene, Danielson: Too old: am not able to attend reunion of the 18th Regiment association, at Buckingham Memorial, Norwich, Conn., on Aug. 15, 1928. I send my love to you and to all.

From Anna Lloyd Ely, Newport, R. I.: Will you kindly express to the 18th Connecticut Regiment association my great regret that absence from town will prevent my attending their reunion on August the 15th. I value their friendship and am more than sorry not to be present at the reunion.

From Albert Hempstead, Alhambra Cal.: I should very much like to be with you on this, the 60th reunion, but as I grow no younger, nor the distance to you any less, I cannot be with you in person, but very much in spirit. I am, I believe, the youngest one left, my birthday coming in October, while next brother comrade's is in the spring. I am very well, enjoying life every day and hope all of you are doing the same. May your day be a successful and happy one. Will you kindly send me the notice of the meeting as you always do.

From A. M. Lathrop, Washington, D. C.: Greetings to all of the comrades! I attended the first reunion of the 18th regiment and I regret that my physical condition will not permit my attending the 60th annual reunion.

Please accept my thanks for a report of the 59th reunion. The last member of the regiment whom I saw was James McKee of Co. E, at the national encampment in Milwaukee in 1923.

I have just passed my 87th birthday, and my general health was never better than it is at the present. As I have told you before, I suffered the loss of my left leg by amputation (from injuries which resulted in gangrene) in 1925. By the aid of an artificial leg and crutches I am able to get around pretty well. My partial blindness prevents me from doing my own reading and writing. My wife died ten years ago. I am temporarily residing with my two daughters in Washington, D. C.

I have been continuously absent from the state of Connecticut since 1872; and never made but one visit to the state since.

I am wondering whether any of the 18th color guard are still living besides myself. I went to see our flags at the statehouse in Hartford in 1919.

TWO PROMOTIONS, ONE APPOINTMENT AT C. A. C.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 15—Announcement of two promotions and one appointment to the staff of the Connecticut Agricultural college was made here today by Acting President Charles Burt Gentry.

Prof. George Herbert Lamson, head of the zoology department, has been made dean of the division of agricultural science to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Edmund Ware Sinnott, who has accepted the position as head of the botanical department at Barnard college, Columbia university. Prof. Allen W. Manchester, head of the farm management department, has been made assistant director of the extension service, a new position created this year. Capt. Thornton D. Chase of the Tenth brigade, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, has been appointed professor of military science and tactics and head of the military department at the Connecticut Agricultural college to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Maj. Paul Lewis Ransom to Washington where he is to be in charge of writing the history of the First division in the World war.

Professor Lamson graduated from the Connecticut Agricultural college in the class of 1902, receiving the degree of bachelor of agriculture, the only degree granted by the institution at that time. The following year he went to Massachusetts Agricultural college, receiving his bachelor of science degree in 1903. Two years later, 1905, he was granted his master of science degree from Yale university. Professor Lamson taught for one year, 1905-06, at Tarkio college in Missouri, receiving the appointment as professor of zoology and geology at the Connecticut Agricultural college in 1906. The same year he was appointed zoologist for the Storrs agricultural experiment station. Professor Lamson is internationally known for his experimental work with sheep stomach worm, having written several bulletins on his discoveries as to the best methods of control and cure of the disease. He is a member of the American Society of Economic Entomologists, Fellow of the American Association of Science, and an honorary member of Gamma Chi Epsilon, honorary scholastic fraternity at the Connecticut Agricultural college.

Professor Allen W. Manchester, appointed assistant director of the extension service, will assist county agents to plan their county programs of work and help in a general way to strengthe nand coordinate the extension service program as a whole. He is a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college in the class of 1903, and received his bachelor of Arts degree at Brown university in 1906.

He was engaged in farming and county agricultural leadership work until 1919 when he was appointed professor of farm management at the Connecticut Agricultural college and farm management demonstrator for the extension service. Professor Manchester is chairman of the athletic council and has accomplished much constructive work to improve athletics at the college. He is a member of the Theta Sigma Chi and Delta Tau Delta fraternities.

Captain Thornton D. Chase has been on duty at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, with the 10th brigade being detailed temporarily to headquarters 1st corps area, Boston. He is a native of California and was graduated from the officers infantry school at Fort Benning in 1923. He has been detailed as professor of military science and tactics and head of the military department at the Connecticut Agricultural college and will report for duty September 1st.

PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW FIRST AID METHODS

While accidents happen regularly throughout the year the summer season seems to bring a larger share, for children and adults are wandering farther away from their native haunts at that time, and often meet situations which end in disaster, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health. The children have been playing Indians in the back yard lot and come in bleeding and bruised from contact with jagged articles so unsuspectingly hidden by the tall grass. Johnny is trying to impress his "gang" with his prowess, but in climbing to the outer limb of the tallest tree he slips and falls and comes running in with a broken arm. The family goes to the sea shore for a few days' pleasure trip which ends in tragedy—for the baby creeps too near the open fire, where meals are being prepared primitive fashion in the open, and is badly burned—while to cap the climax, father nearly loses his life in swimming, due to cramps.

These and many other accidents can occur to any family at any time and so one should be familiar with first-aid methods to meet the various needs. A recent article by Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings, calls attention to this. He reminds us that "there are over 28,000 persons killed in the United States each year by traffic accidents, etc.—over 13,000 by falls, more than 6,000 each by burns and drowning, and more than 27,000 by other accidental means, or a total of more than 80,000 persons killed and over two million additional seriously injured by accidents in the United States each year."

He emphasizes first of all cleanliness in caring for open wounds. "Persons administering first aid should be instructed not to touch or put anything on open wounds except a dry sterile compress or bandage compress. A bandage compress which consists of several thicknesses of sterile gauze sewed to the middle of a strip of muslin, is used to cover all open wounds."

He next emphasizes first aid for hemorrhage. "Hemorrhage from a cut artery flows rapidly in spurts or fine jets, giving little time for the blood to coagulate or clot. The blood is bright red. Blood from a vein, being under less pressure, flows steadily, but it may be rapid if from a large vein. It is dark in color. Bleeding from small arteries can often be controlled by direct pressure, but it is generally best to apply a tourniquet immediately between the wound and the heart. Bleeding from a vein can usually be stopped by simply pressing a pad of sterile gauze over the wound and then elevating the part, having the patient lie down. Anything that makes the heart beat faster increases hemorrhage; hence in all cases of severe bleeding the patient should be kept in a recumbent or semi-recumbent position and as quiet as possible."

Too often one is faced with the necessity for reviving an apparently drowned person. The simplest method is the so-called Schaefer or prone pressure method. This method effects its purpose through a periodic pressure on patient's back, timed rhythmically with periods of pressure and release until normal breathing is restored. This method is described in a special leaflet, "How to Save a Life from Drowning," recently published by the Connecticut state department of health. Copies are available on request.

Dislocations and fracture of bones should be treated by placing patient in a comfortable position, then applying a bandage or padded splint to the injured part. A doctor should be summoned as soon as possible.

"Burns are treated, after removal of the clothing, by use of sterile or sterile picric acid gauze and an outer dressing to hold the gauze in place and exclude the air. The exclusion of air is important. Precautions of cleanliness should be observed as stated for open wounds."

It should be remembered that in all cases first aid methods used are only temporary and are put to use only until a physician can be summoned. First aid as a measure stops when a physician takes the case in hand. A great harm could result from inexperienced persons undertaking to treat an injury of which they know little, so first aid is only a makeshift after all, but it is a very necessary makeshift until help can be summoned. The important feature of first aid is early care of the injured part.

"CAN BE AVOIDED"

PLAGUED BY MOSQUITOES RABALM BROUGHT RELIEF

"As usual, they said it was the only night all summer they had mosquitoes, but that one night was enough for me, I'll tell the world. I counted 76 bites the next day, all over me. If it hadn't been for Rabalm I'd have gone crazy. Itch! The infernal things itched worse than any mosquito bites I ever saw. As soon as I could, I applied Rabalm to every bite and it was marvelous the way it ended the itching. Of course it took several applications and was several days before the bites had entirely disappeared, but the pain and itching disappeared almost the moment Rabalm touched my skin."

Rabalm is the result of a scientific effort to find an effective remedy for inflammation, wherever it occurs in skin or tissue. Therefore it is an excellent remedy for all kinds of insect bites. Requires no painful rubbing in. Just smooth on lightly. Will not stain clothing or bed linen. Pleasantly fragrant. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

DUGAS PITCHES BRILLIANTLY AS FINISHERS TIE FOR DUSTY LEAD

The United States Finishers drew up to a first place tie with the Richmond Radiators Wednesday evening in the Industrial league when Lefty Dugas let the Ironmen down with three hits to win 3 to 1. Dugas gave a brilliant exhibition of pitching, having the edge over Lloyd Jarvis in a tight hurling duel. Dugas fanned ten while Jaris allowed nine hits and fanned eight.

This decision places both clubs at the top with a .667 mark although the Richmond nominally leads in games. The Ironmen have won eight and lost four while the Bleachery has won six and dropped three, the one more defeat carried by the Richmonds evening the margin of two victories. Right behind these two teams are the Y and Thermos so that the league race, seemingly settled up to last night, now takes on an entirely different aspect and it looks like a stiff battle down the home stretch.

The Bleachery took a one run lead in the last half of the first inning and they were never headed. Snow opened with a drive to left field that got by Barnes for two bases to score on Dabrowski's single. In the fourth the Greenevillites made it two when Franaski singled between first and second, went to second on a passed ball and scored on Dilworth's long two-bagger to the scoreboard. The Richmonds got their only tally in the fifth when, with one out, Goldblatt singled and went the next three bases on as many passed balls. The Bleachery then closed the scoring in their half when Snow singled but was forced by Dabrowski, Crowe singled, sending Dabrowski to third and Dugas then inserted a single to score Dabrowski.

The largest crowd of the season saw the game and plenty of enthusiasm abounded.

The league sure is running along smoothly this year and what with such games as last night, fans are clamoring for a series with the New London league winner.

Jarvis and Dugas, reputed as just about the best hitters in the league in addition to their hurling duties didn't fare so well last night. Lloyd fanned on his only three trips to the plate while Lefty, outside of his single in the fifth, sent up two weak fouls. Dilworth, Snow and Dabrowski were the heavy stickers last night.

Tonight's Game

The Thermos Bottlers face a chance to get in on the pennant contending again this evening by disposing of the last-place Polish Citizens club. The Bottlers are now hanging on the edge of the first division and although it is notp robable they still can cop the pennant, Johnny Greene will in all probability go to the hill for the Bottlers while Stanley or Arico may pitch for the Citizens. The game starts at 8:15. Tomorrow night the Yers meet the Richmonds in an important tilt, one of the many to come in the near future.

TILDEN IS BARRED FROM TOURNAMENT PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—For the second time in a month, the bugaboo of "Big Bill" Tilden's closing tennis days—the player-writer rule of the United States Lawn Tennis association—today barred the outlawed ace of American courts from tournament play.

Shortly before Tilden, captain of the United States Davis cup forces, and his crack teammate, Francis T. Hunter, lost their matches in surprising straight set fashion to two youngsters in the eastern turf court championships at Rye, N. Y., the Eastern Lawn Tennis association announced that Big Bill could not play in annual East-West matches Friday and Saturday at Forest Hills.

With the statement of P. Schuyler Van Bloem, vice-president of the association and a member of the committee in charge of organizing the eastern team, that it would be "unsportsmanlike to use a player against whom charges are pending," the same situation arose that barred Tilden temporarily from the finals of the Davis cup play with France.

But unlike the situation abroad, where the decision was reconsidered and Tilden allowed to play pending the outcome of his "trial" before the U. S. M. T. A., here Aug. 24, there is no chance that the lanky Philadelphian will get into the matches. The lineup of players and time schedule for the ten contests not only omitted Tilden's name, but that of Hunter as well.

The New Rochelle star, a close friend of Tilden, and ranked second only to Big Bill in this country, declared yesterday that he would not participate unless Tilden did. Mr. Van Bloem said Hunter's name was left off the list because he had not notified the association of his intent to play up to yesterday. His committee was not informed officially, Mr. Van Bloem said, that Hunter would not play unless Tilden were a member of the team.

Tilden, accused of violating the amateur rule of the U. S. L. T. A. against tennis players writing news stories "covering" tournaments, was removed from the Davis cup team in sensational fashion just before the final matches of the challenge round in Paris. The reason for his removal without trial was the same put forth today by the Eastern Lawn Tennis association, a member of the parent body. Tilden was restored to the Davis cup play after a day or two of controversy.

SENATORS SCORE IN FIFTH TO NOSE OUT BROWNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—A rally in the fifth inning which netted two runs enabled Washington to take the second game of the series today from St. Louis 4 to 3. Braxton for the Senators and Gray for the Browns were hit freely but they tightened with men on bases.

FABER IS STAR OF WHITE SOX VICTORY OVER YANKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—The White Sox handed the Yankees a second straight defeat here today by 8 to 4, and prevented the champions from taking advantage of the Philadelphia's second consecutive loss to Detroit. The Yanks remain wour and one-half games ahead of the Mackmen.

Urban Faber, thirty-nine-year-old pitching veteran, was the particular star of the Chicago victory. Although the ancient spit-baller permitted Babe Ruth to hit his forty-fifth home run, he himself contributed a homer and a single to the White Sox cause, driving in two runs, and held the champions to eight well-spaced hits. Red, always tough for Ruth and the Yanks, never was in any real danger.

Ruth's drive put his eighteen games, nineteen days and nine homers ahead of his 1927 record. Crouse and Dugan joined the Babe and Faber in hitting homers.

George Pipgras, trying for his twentieth victory of the season, was knocked out in the third. Henry Johnson and Wiley Moore, who followed, were unsteady. Faber received brilliant support, particularly from Mostil and Cissell.

BROOKLYN MANAGES TO EKE OUT WIN OVER THE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15—(AP)—Although outhit by 12 to 11, the Robins defeated the Pirates, 6 to 5, in the third game of the series here today as Dazzy Vance got credit for his sixth straight triumph. The Dazzler gave way to Jess Petty in a Pirate flurry in the eighth, but retired with a lead which remained good.

Brooklyn acquired its winning margin in the fifth when Fred Fussell was driven from the mound by a three-run rally, started by Joe Harris' home run and capped by three doubles—by Bissonnette, Bancroft and Vance himself. The last two were off Joe Dawson who relieved Fussell.

Donie Bush, was put out of the game by Barry McCormick for objecting to McCormick's decision which cost the tying run in the eighth. Mack Hillis, Columbia, S. C., recruit, played his first game as a Pirate, fielding well and hitting a home run off Vance in the fourth. Score:

ATHLETICS FALL BEFORE TIGERS FOR SECOND TIME

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics today missed another chance to cut down the New York Yankees lead to three and one half games by dropping their second straight to Detroit by a score of six to three.

Sam Gibson and Jack Quinn battled through a scoreless tie until the seventh inning when Orwoll doubled Miller home with the first run of the game. In the eighth, however, the Mackmen contributed two errors, which with three hits, gave the Tigers four runs and enough to win.

Red Wingo clubbed in two more runs in the ninth and though the Athletics rallied in their last turn at bat they fell three runs short of tying the score.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15—(AP)—"Wee Willie" Sherdel held the Braves to seven hits in the second game of the series here today and the St. Louis Cardinals increased their National league leadership to three and a half games with a 7 to 3 victory.

Three Boston hurlers aided the advance with a dozen hits, including a home run for Bottomley with two on base. This moved "Sunny Jim" to within one of Hack Wilson of the Cubs, making his total 26. Score:

FOUR NORWICH BOYS ON NEW LONDON CARD TONIGHT

Four Norwich boys, Young McCarthy, Vic Darr, Mush Moriarty and Young Sweeney, the last three new comers to the professional ranks, will appear in the supporting cast to the feature eight round bout between Joey Duggan of New London and Pete Auginaldo of the U. S. C. G. Academy at the New London arena tonight. This is the first new talent show to be put on by Promoter Fakourey in the new arena which was opened two weeks ago with the Mays-Conley bout. There will be 40 rounds of boxing, the eight-round feature, two six round semi-finals and five four-round bouts.

Young McCarthy is slated to meet Bulldog Turner of the Coast Guard in one of the semi-finals, the other being between DePalma of New Haven and Eddie Addors of the Coast Guard.

Vic Darr clashes with Dutch Whitley of the Coast Guard in a preliminary bout while Mush Moriarty takes on Eddie Lord of the Sub Base in another. Young Sweeney of Norwich is slated to clash with Tony Lizzio of Westerly in the opener.

Farmer Hill df Westerly meets Jack Slattery of New Haven in a four-rounder which is expected to rival the feature for action. The Duggan-Auginaldo bout is expected to furnish plenty of action. Duggan is a fast boxer who it will be remembered fought in Norwich on several occasions.

CUBS RALLY IN NINTH TO SHADE THE GIANTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Cubs put on a three-run rally against Joe Genewich and Jim Faulkner in the ninth inning here today to shade the Giants by 6 to 5, evening the series at one victory for each team. The defeat cost the Giants a game in the pennant race, as the Cardinals defeated the Braves and increased their margin over New York to three and one-half games.

Norman McMillian's single with Stephenson and Grimm on base tied the score for the Cubs in the ninth and brought Faulkner to the rescue of Genewich. Fred Blake greeted the new pitcher with a single and after McMillian was caught at the plate on Beck's infield roller, Fred Maguire produced the hit which sent blake home with the winning run.

The defeat was charged to Genewich who left one man on base. Although that partcular runner was thrown out on a fielder's choice, the retiring pitcher had to stand responsible for one run, which in this case was the winning one.

In addition to tieing the game with a single in the ninth, McMillan also had a home run to his credit. Mel Ott hit one for the Giants.

OLD TIMERS AT TAFTVILLE TONIGHT

To do something unusual and to give the fans a chance to see something original in the baseball line Manager Troland of the Taftville A. A. is going to present a rather unique gathering of old and new players to cavort aorund the diamond this evening.

The names of all of his regular players, all of his substitutes, two or three worn out old timers, and one or two of his friends, were thrown into a bag. Two men picked out the names, and two teams were thereby organized to fight against each other in this evening's game. They have been christened the "Never Was'" and the "Has Beens."

Brother against brother, friend against friend, and good player against poor player, will form the two teams and the Taftville team will be playing against each other for all they are worth. A look at the lineup below will assure the fans that both teams are formed from players that they have been watching all season, but it will be a novelty to see which part of the Taftville team is the best.

Both teams are out to give each other a beating. It will be sort of a Greek meet Greek affair. It would seem by the cognomens that the "Has Beens" might be the favorites since they have been able to play while the "Never Was's" never could play. The outcome is being talked up quite heatedly amongst the two teams and they will certainly put up a good game to try and win from each other, more, perhaps, to escape the humiliation than from anything else. Six-thirty then, will see the teams take the field.

NORWICH GOLF TEAM TO PLAY STAFFORD SATURDAY

Manager Earl Mathewson of the Norwich Golf club team announces that the Norwich team will be hosts to the Stafford Springs Country club team Saturday afternoon in a club match. This will be the first team match of the season and the first with the Stafford team this year. In the last two team matches Norwich has defeated the Putnam Country club and the Willimantic Country club teams, the first by a 23 1-2 to 22 1-2 score and the second by 13 to 11.

In speaking of the Putnam Country club there is nothing too nice to say about the club, its members and its professional, Ty Andrews. When the Norwich team played there they were royally entertained and nothing was left undone for their enjoyment. The other day three members of the Norwich club played at Putnam and the same cordial welcome was extended them, Ty Andrews proving himself a most ideal host. It is this spirit of cordiality that makes one want to visit a club again and also promotes golf in eastern Connecticut.

Massie B. Miller, pro at the Norwich Golf club, is again paired with Tom Donohue of the Stonington Manor club in a four-ball match against Durham Burt of Shenecossett and Charlie Brookes of the New London Country club next Sunday. The match is to be played at the Stonington Manor course and is being widely advertised in the eastern part of the state. Those who saw the match between these professionals two weeks ago at New London know that brilliant golf will be displayed. Miller in that match set a new course record with a 68.

Golf on days like Tuesday and Wednesday ceases to be a pleasure and goes into the category of work. However, there have been a number who were sluttons for punishment and played the entire 18 holes.

SHAUTE PITCHES INDIANS TO SHUT-OUT OVER RED SOX

BOSTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Joe Shaute, Cleveland southpaw, kept Boston's eight hits well scattered today and had an easy time winning from the Red Sox, 7 to 0. Johnny Hodapp knocked in three of the Indians' runs. Griffin was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning. The outstanding fielding play was Summa's catch of Taitt's long drive into the right field corner after which he crashed against the fence, suffering injuries which led to his retirement later. START SAVING NOW AT NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY

The thrifty man or woman places money not needed for ordinary expenses in keeping with some reliable banking institution. The Norwich Savings Society for all eastern Connecticut people is just such an institution and for over a century it has stood for reliable service.

Many a small savings account has been established here and in the years following has been increased, both by additional deposits and by interest payments, until the account has come to represent a protection against adverses of later years.

When a man is young and enjoys good health his earning power is rated at the best. This, then, should be the time when he should save against the possibility of poor health in his older years, bringing of course an impairment of earning ability.

Money improperly spent can be man's worst enemy but money properly saved is every man's best friend. The saving of one dollar or more a week, during the course of a score of years, amounts to several thousand dollars. This savings account then stands as a friend in need, which never fails when called on for protection of the family.

A modern and efficient bank prides itself on assisting its depositors to find the best means of saving. Your own financial problem of course must be worked out by yourself. A bank cannot force you to save if you desire to waste. One thing a bank can do however, is to assist those of you who wish to save. A bank can suggest proper means of saving, arrange an easier way of keeping up with systematic savings.

This is the type of service the Norwich Savings Society seeks to give in Norwich. Why waste the earnings of your best years — visit our bank and let us show you how to save and build up a protecting bank account.

JEWETT CITY HOTEL FINE STOPPING PLACE

The Jewett City Hotel, Charles T. Morrissey, proprietor, is an ideal place to stop at while passing through that borough. During the past few months many radical changes have been made at the hotel and today it stands as a most modern hotel. Rooms were renovated throughout and modern appliances put in to make them comfortable and up-to-date. Every room has running water and a number of them are fitted out with combination bath and showers.

Another good feature of the Jewett City Hotel is the modern restaurant run in connection with it. Here are delightfully cooked foods and tempting menus which can do no less than delight the hungry traveller.

The Jewett City Hotel has long carried a good name as a stopping place and under the direction of Mr. Morrissey it is now far better equipped to render excellent service to its patrons.

The next time you are in Jewett City and are planning to remain for a stay, visit the Jewett City Hotel and partake of its hospitality. You will be welcomed and assured excellent service during your stay at the hotel.

PURCHASE YOUR BUILDING MATERIALS AT DAWLEY'S

When you are planning to build a new home, or any kind of structure which requires lumber or other types of building material there is one question of supreme importance. How long will the materials stand up and how does price compare with quality, are two questions to be asked.

The H. F. & A. J. Dawley Lumber company of Norwich can answer these questions for you and also show you how to save many dollars. Fine, kiln-dried, well-seasoned lumber means a sound substantial home or garage for you. This type of material will stand the test of time. When you build a home you want it to remain finished when done. This statement may sound peculiar but by it we mean that some kinds of lumber make the home look wonderful when first put in but after the test of time they shrink or warp and the home now longer has that finished appearance.

Lumber purchased of Dawley stands the test of time. It does not change after being put into your home and once the job is finished there is no second expense of making changes.

Why not visit the Dawley company at your earliest convenience and let us show you what we mean by good lumber? We can save you time and money if you are planning to build.

PLAN NOW FOR YOUR HEATING NEXT WINTER

While the warm winds are blowing and winter seems a long way off may seem a peculiar time to talk about heating plants. Thomas F. Burns of 91 Franklin street, Norwich, states that this is the real time to talk over heating matters.

Perhaps your heating plant did not function to best advantage last winter and as a result many dollars went up the chimney as the result of poor radiation. These money wasting habits of your heating plants can all be cured by an expert plumber and Mr. Burns will be only too glad to undertake the work of making your homes warm next winter.

Perhaps the changes that should be made are only minor ones and will cost but a few dollars. Sinks in the pipe lines running to or from the heater mean gathering places for water and thus bring about poor heat. A cold radiator in the winter time caused no end of trouble, besides meaning a waste of money burning coal. This trouble can easily be remedied by Mr. Burns. He will trace out the sink and relevel the pipe line and thus end that cold radiator forever.

Perhaps there are other changes you contemplated to make this summer. Bathroom fixtures, sink-room fixtures, in fact anything in the plumbing line that needs repairs or changes can be handled by Mr. Burns. Why not call him now and thus have everything done before cold weather arrives and there is an unnecessary delay during cold weather?

When you order a stone from us satisfaction in every way is guaranteed.

EASIER CALL MONEY CONDITIONS RESULTED IN STRONG BULL MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—One of the most impressive bullish demonstrations of the summer took place in today's stock market. Responding to easier call money conditions, and a grist of favorable trade news, prices of many leading issues were marked up 2 to 10 points, with at least a score new high records established during the day. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, the day's sales aggregating 2,595,300 shares.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, as against 7 1-2 yesterday, and dropped successively, to 6 1-2, 6 and 5 1-2 as a large supply of loanable funds came into the market. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm. Persistent reports were in circulation that federal reserve banks were buying bills in the open market, to ease the tight money situation which threatened the fall expansion of business, but these could not be confirmed.

The bulk of the day's trade news was favorable. Reports of unusually large midsummer steel operations were accompanied by the announcement that Republic Steel had raised the price of bars, shapes and plates $2 a ton for fourth quarter delivery, directors of the Kennecott Copper company raised the annual dividend from $5 to $6. The latest weekly car loadings report showed a gain over the corresponding period last year but was below the same week of 1926. Crude oil production showed a substantial decrease last week but fears were entertained in some quarters that the expiration of the Seminole agreement might lead to another period of over production.

Motor shares were again in the forefront of today's advance, with General Motors supplanting Chrysler as the market leader. General Motors closed 8 points higher at 184 1-2 on buying stimulated by the urgent retreat of an overcrowded short interest. Chrysler touched a new record top at 98 3-4 and then declined to 96 3-8 for a slight fractional net gain on the day. Packard crossed $1 for a net gain of more than 4 points and Studebaker closed more than 3 points higher. Brockway Motor common and preferred, Dodge brothers preferred, Motor Products and Motor Wheel all moved into new high ground.

Radio was again a spectacular performer, soaring more than 10 points to 183. American Can climbed more than 7 points to 49 1-2, the highest price since the 1926 split up, and closed within a fraction of the top. Other issues to move into new high ground included Paramount Famous Lasky, Warner Brothers A, R. H. Macy, Spang Chalfant, National Cash Register, F. and W. Grand Stores, and Jewel Tea. Sharp gains also were recorded by Montgomery Ward, Case Threshing, Johns Manville, National Tea and Woolworth.

Trading in the rails was restricted by the uncertainty regarding the outcome of the wage dispute on western roads, although good gains were recorded by Delaware and Hudson, "Katy" common and St. Louis Southwestern.

Commodity prices were mixed. Wheat dropped back more than 2 cents a bushel on more favorable weather reports, while cotton rallied $1 to $1.50 a bale. Coffee and sugar prices held firm.

Establishment of new low records by British and Japanese exchanges featured the foreign exchange trading. Sterling cable ssold down to $4.84 7-8, or close to the "gold import" point, and Japanese yen broke 11 points to 44.82 cents. Other recessions were nominal with trading quiet because of the widespread observance of Assumption day in foreign capitals.

WESTERLY

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR DROWNED STUDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 16—In the period of mourning which the Watch Hill summer colony has set, a memorial service was held this noon for John Trowbridge Cottrell, John H. McIlvain, Lloyd Bankson and Joseph Scales, the four young men drowned a few miles off Watch Hill last Sunday night. The service was held in Watch Hill Union chapel. Relatives of the youths, cottagers, hotel guests and employes of summer residents joined in the service, which opened at 12 o'clock. About 100 persons were present.

Rev. G. C. Carter of Bryn Mawr, Pa., a member of the cottage colony, conducted the service and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved families of the four young men.

The tragedy has cast a gloom over the community of Watch Hill and put a damper on social activities. The mid-week junior races for Alden yachts, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, and the regular Saturday regatta for both Alden and Herreshoff yachts have been cancelled this week, the regatta committee of the Watch Hill Yacht club announced Wednesday. Cancellation of dances planned for Friday and Saturday nights at the Yacht club was announced Monday by Secretary Robert Barrie.

There is a temporary suspension in the search for the bodies of the four Watch Hill summer visitors and companions of J. Barry Colohan, the only survivor when their 15-foot Alden type sail boat was capsized between Fishers Island and Watch Hill. Colohan has been discharged from the Westerly hospital, where he was taken in an ambulance early Monday morning, after he was brought ashore at Watch Hill by Capt. George Adams of Pearl street, Noank. Colohan was rescued from the overturned craft where he had clung for his life during the night. Colohan is now with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barry Colohan, 3rd, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Nantucket, at the Ocean House, at Watch Hill.

Search conducted by coast guardsmen from Watch Hill and Fishers Island, airplanes, private yachts and soldiers at Fort Wright, Fishers Island, came to an end Tuesday night. The opinion was expressed by coast guardsmen and fishermen of long experience along the coast that it would be useless to continue the search. The bodies of the four young men: Trowbridge Cottrell of Westerly; John H. McIlvain of Ardmore, Pa.; Lloyd Bankson of Haverford, Pa., and Joseph Scales of Louisville, Ky., will probably be found in the locality of Fishers Island after the nine-day period and the bodies come to the surface.

Three pieces of fire apparatus was called to the northern section of the town about 11 a. m. Wednesday in response to an alarm turned in from Box No. 31, Pierce and Pond streets. A fire in the front chimney of the two family frame cottage of Salvatore Fiore, at 50 Pierce street was the cause of the firemen being summoned. The house was occupied by the families of Joseph Monti and Angelo Vangeri. A line of hose from the booster tank of the Ahrens-Fox motor pumper, the first to arrive was taken up the roof on ladders and turned down the chimney. The blaze was soon out. Fire Chief George E. Egger directed the firemen while R. I. State Trooper Nolan stationed in this section cared for the auto traffic congestion.

MOST people know this absolute antidote for pain, but are you careful to say Bayer when you buy it? And do you always give a glance to see Bayer on the box—and the word genuine printed in red? It isn't the genuine Bayer Aspirin without it! A drugstore always has Bayer, with the proven directions tucked in every box:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Too Many Eggs

Laysan, in the Hawaiian Islands, is one of the most remarkable bird islands in the world. Birds of various species flock there yearly, among them being the albatross, which arrives the latter part of October and remains till the following August. The white albatross lays one egg, usually on the ground. The eggs vary in shape and coloration. Some are long—length, 111.6 millimeters, width, 62.5 millimeters—others short and very thick, in length about 100 millimeters, width 70 millimeters.

In color most of them are nearly white, with irregular patches and spots of brownish maroon at the larger end. Eggs of the albatross are said to be considered the finest of all for eating, and are said to be superior even to those of the domestic hens for this purpose.

The smaller the town the more important its leading citizen considers himself.

. . to do ALL THINGS WELL—as a pencil and five cent note book will prove

Almost every car that roams the highways and byways today is alleged to have some particular virtue in which it excels.

That you who buy these automobiles may have some basis for fair comparison, Reo makes this simple suggestion.

Try it out with each of the two, three, four, or more automobiles you demonstrate before you buy. A pencil and five cent note book can be your only tools.

After each demonstration jot down those things which impressed you most in the car you've just driven: the acceleration—the steering—the riding—the speed—the comfort—the style—or whatever the outstandingly impressive points may have been.

Do this for each car you try.

Then drive the Reo Flying Cloud of 1929 with your note book before you.

Check it on every point that each of the other cars did well. Check its top speed against the fastest of the others

Stand off twenty feet and compare the Reo Flying Cloud's lines with the handsomest of the others.

Point it up hills which only a few of the others could climb handily.

Stop it on shorter notice than the best of the others.

Pit it against the flashiest performer you've driven when the stop light turns green. Take the rough roads faster than you dared to in the easiest riding of the other cars

We know what your answer will be. For the Reo Flying Cloud of 1929 is built like the famous clipper ship for which it is named—built to do all things well.

ONLY ONE COUNCILOR AT MAYOR'S SPECIAL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 15—Mayor May attempted to hold a special meeting of the city council this evening at 5 o'clock to consider the methods adopted by Tax Collector Hibberd L. Alexander in forcing delinquents to settle with the city for taxes due. There was only one member of the council present, so no business could be done. The meeting was not even called to order for five of the members failed to put in an appearance.

Mayor May expressed himself in no uncertain terms. He alluded to the absentees as shirkers, as "pussyfooters," and declared that they shirked the duties they had taken oath to perform. Councilor Neil Twomey was the only member puresent and to him the mayor expressed his gratification at his attendance. He said the absent members who came before the voters for reelection next month would realize the opinion the voters entertained of them.

The mayor said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the procedure adopted by the city manager, through his appointee, the tax collector, in jailing a citizen for a debt of about $25 to the city of New London; committing a young man to prison because he was unable to meet the obligation of back taxes, so called, blemishing his reputation, causing him and his family humiliation and affording an opportunity to others to point the finger of shame at city officials and the board of councilors because six of its members lent their endorsement to the drastic methods of collecting taxes overdue. True, he said, taxes are an obligation upon all who own property and the money the taxes represent is necessary to pay the running expenses of the city and incidentally to pay salaries and commissions. It is also true, he said, that the statutes make certain provisions which may be taken advantage of, but it is not true that certain ones were to be singled out as victims. An extraordinary inducement of a commission in dollars and cents was the incentive.

In olden times the pillory and execution were demanded. Today in New London a commission of 4 1-2 per cent. is the incentive. The back tax collection method adopted not alone costs the 4 1-2 per cent commission, but in addition the cost of salaries of assistants in the tax department, plus the salaries of two supernumerary policemen, the cost and maintenance of an automobile, plus the proportionate cost of salaries of a few city hall officials who function in connection with the tax department. Thus it is evident that to gratify the desire to make an eleventh hour financial showing there was no hesitancy in exacting the last drop of blood, so to speak, from a somebody. This camouflage is now known as "the 4 1-2 per cent deal," recommended by the city manager and approved by six councilors, a majority of this body.

I cast the sole vote in the minority," said the mayor. "The stigma cast by the methods adopted by the city officials is reflected upon everyone who sanctioned it. It has caused much unfavorable comment among citizens and no doubt their verdict will be rendered at the forthcoming city election."

THOS. GONZALES COLLAPSES—AFFECTED BY THE HEAT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 15—Thomas Gonzales, Schoolhouse lane, affected by the heat, this afternoon collapsed on the street and for a brief time it was believed that the attack might prove fatal. Gonzales was walking along Main street at a time when the thermometer registered over 90 and at the corner of Haliam street he collapsed. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and a nurse was summoned from the Visiting Nurses' association nearby. Patrolman Augustus Ray was dispatched in the police car to where Gonzales lay unconscious and accompanied by the nurse, the man was rushed to Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital. The ride partially revived Gonzales and after being treated a short time there, he fully regained consciousness and then was taken to his home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The scenic effects in Blood Will Tell, a Fox Films production starring Buck Jones, are unusually beautiful. It was taken around one of the most thrilling and romantic towns in the west—Sonora, Calif. This picture opens a two-day engagement at the Breed theatre tomorrow.

In the days of '49, with prospectors, miners, gamblers, thieves, saloons and dance halls, Sonora was the cesspool of humanity. Once a gathering place for thousands, today it is a law-abiding community, sheltering the descendants of the early days that number a paltry few hundred.

Blood Will Tell is a thrilling picture of western ranch life, full of suspense and smashing climaxes. The plot revolves around the purchase of Buck's ranch, that he has just inherited. The ranch is sold without Buck's knowledge, causing excitement and thrills galore, and the climax comes with an unexpected smash.

Buck is supported by a cast which includes Kathryn Perry, Lawford Davidson, Harry Gripp, Harry Cording, Bob Kortman, William Caress, Buck Moulton, and Austin Jewel. Ray Flynn is the director.

A Certain Young Man, which is coming to the Breed theatre on Sunday is a picture without a ride to the rescue, a train wreck, a Charleston, a murder, a midnight swimming orgy, a flag, a mother, or any pet device to focus the attention of the audience on it, yet one that is declared to be one of the most delightful pieces of sophistication ever seen on the screen. Ramon Novarro is the star and Hobart Henley the director. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Capitol Theatre, New London.

Beginning Sunday, New London is to be favored with the world's first showing at popular prices of Paramount's much-touted aviation spectacle, Wings, the picture which has just completed a solid year's run at Broadway's Criterion, at two dollar prices.

The Capitol theatre is to play this picture which is the first telling of the air battles of our aces of the World war. Director William A. Well man, himself a war flyer has graphically and dramatically depicted what fighting in the air really means.

Through all this clear picture of the thrills and horror of war in the air and on the ground, runs the thread of romance. The two boys, Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen, are American aviators, first enemies, then buddies. Clara Bow plays the "girl next door," who like so many other American girls answered the call and went overseas. Their love story is like the underlying aria of a great opera.

The war behind the lines is not forgotten. There are hilarious scenes in Paris where folk of all nations are busy trying to forget for a little while the war and its work.

The supporting cast includes Gary Cooper, Jobyna Ralston, El Brendel, Henry B. Walthall and Gunboat Smith.

Palace Theatre

Reginald Denny, Universal's popular comedy star, tops all his former successful performances in "Good Morning, Judge," the swiftest moving and most entertaining picture of his career starting today at the Palace theatre, beginning Thursday and continuing through to Saturday.

Denny, filmdom's best-known farceur, has a role that fits him perfectly. He is Freddie Grey, young and wealthy, who falls in love with the owner of a mission for reformed criminals. The star's ability at comedy was never better shown than in this film.

William A. Seiter, who has directed so many of Denny's pictures, wielded the megaphone on "Good Morning, Judge." The Denny-Seiter combination has been responsible for such hits as "Rolling Home," "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Take It From Me," and others. Their teaming is a certain indication of the success of a production.

Mary Nolan, the American girl who starred for three years in German films, plays opposite Denny. Miss Nolan's blonde beauty has already carried her a long way in filmdom and even now she has become one of the most sought-after actresses on the screen.

In addition to the laugh-getting feature picture, five splendid acts of vaudeville are presented headed by Ferguson, Delvan & Co. The Dancers Elite, a high class dancing act, next in line our own local boys, Norwich products, Mason and Booker, followed by Mrs. Lawrence and Co., in a delightful sketch entitled "Youth." Violet Ray and Norman in "Moments of Art," and Charlotte Nelson with both voice and personality.

POETRY

The Pines

Throughout the soft and sunlit day
The pennoned pines, in strict array,
Stand grim and silent, gaunt and gray.

But when the blasts of winter keen,
They whisper each to each, and lean
Like comrades with a bond between.

And seeing them deport them so,
One almost thinks they seek to show
How mortal-like mere trees may grow.

For men, in peace time, stand aloof,
One from another, asking proof
Of lineage and race and roof.

But let the blast of battle call—
Lo! they're unquestionable comrades all,
Who side by side will stand or fall.

—Julie Mathilde Lippmann.

Baby

Dimpled and flushed and dewy pink he lies,
Crumpled and tossed and lapt in snowy bands;
Aimlessly reaching with his tiny hands,
Lifting in wondering gaze his great blue eyes.
Sweet pouting lips, parted by breathing sighs;
Soft cheeks, warm-tinted as from tropic lands;
Framed with brown hair in shining silken strands,
All fair, all pure, a sunbeam from the skies!
Of perfect innocence; O soul enshrined
In blissful ignorance of good or ill,
By never gale of idle passion crossed!
Although thou art no alien from thy kind,
Though pain and death may take thee captive, still Through sin, at least, thine Eden is not lost.

—Elane Goodale Eastman.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN HERE FROM NEW YORK FOR TWO WEEKS

Norwich people are entertaining in their homes for the next two weeks, 78 "fresh air" children from the New York tenement districts. The children, whose vacations have been made possible by the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund with the co-operation of the Norwich chamber of commerce and local people, arrived at the Central Vermont railroad station at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and were taken to the Y. M. C. A., where they were given in charge of the various people who will entertain them in their homes for the coming two weeks.

The quota which the Norwich chamber of commerce promised to place was 75 children, and vacation homes for that number of children were secured. After the quota had been filled, Mrs. John Kinnaird volunteered to take two children, provided she could get Elinor and Emily Verdon and Mrs. Susan Lillibridge also asked for David and Gertrude Scharaga whom they welcomed to their homes last year and to whom they became greatly attached.

Miss Mary E. Bundy, secretary of the Norwich Merchants' bureau, who was very zealous in her work to place the fresh air children, immediately got in touch with the New York Herald-Tribune and succeeded in bringing to Mrs. John Kinnaird the little guests she desires and also David Scharaga as the guest of Mrs. Lillibridge.

The children's arrival at the station was a thrilling event. They were all happy in the expectation of enjoying a vacation and they were received with enthusiasm by the citizens' committee composed of the following citizens: Miss Betsy Mitchell, Miss Elizabeth Huntington, Miss Mary E. Bundy, James L. Case, Herbert B. Cary, Edwin Hill, Walter H. Pilcher, Abner Schwartz and Max Hanover.

A number of people also gathered at the station to witness the arrival of the children and so did several of those who were receiving the little guests into their homes.

The "fresh air" children came in charge o Mrs. N. Warden of the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund. Immediately upon their arrival they were conducted by the reception committee to the Y. M. C. A. building and ushered into the spacious gymnasium where they were welcomed by Herbert B. Cary in the name of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. James L. Case assisted in the distribution of the children to their hosts. Each child came provided with a tag bearing the name of the person who is to entertain the child.

The meeting of Mrs. Kinnaird and her two little friends, Elinor and Emily Verdon, was of a most touching nature. As Mrs. Kinnaird entered the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium the two girls gave a scream of delight and rushed over to their kind hostess and began to hug her. Mrs. Kinnaird returned the affection.

The chamber of commerce requests those who have taken the children to detach the lower part of the tag with which the children were provided and send it to the chamber of commerce so that a correct check of all the children placed may be tabulated.

The children were quickly claimed by the people who are entertaining them, but four had an unexpected wait before their hostesses appeared. As they had not dined since leaving New York they were taken to the Mohegan restaurant by Max Hanover and provided with supper. The restaurant proprietor declined payment for the four suppers, for, as he said, "These children are guests of Norwich."

BODY OF ALLAN WHITAKER RECOVERED FROM RIVER

The body of Allan Whitaker, 9, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker of Corning road, was found floating in the Shetucket river Wednesday morning by John Gonsalf. The body was identified by the trousers and shoes the boy was wearing at the time he was drowned.

The boy met his death with his parents four brothers and sisters, when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a motorcycle driven by the late Harris Preston on Preston bridge, Jan. 23, struck the guard rail and plunged into the Shetucket river. The entire family was drowned. All of the bodies have now been recovered.

The body was found about 7:30 o'clock by Gonsalf near the Laurel Hill bridge, where he was looking after eel pots. He tied a rope to the body and towed it to the shore near Dawley's lumber yard. The body was recovered about a half mile from Preston bridge, where the accident occurred. John Bowker of the Norwich G. and E. department notified the police department, Sergt. Myron O. Morgan being sent to the scene. Acting Medical Examiner George H. Gildersleeve gave Undertaker C. A. Gager permission to remove the body to his rooms on Franklin street.

The funeral was held at the parlors Wednesday afternoon, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong conducting the service. Burial was in Preston City cemetery, beside the other members of the family. A committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Budlong.

DR. JULES JORDAN'S HYMN SUNG AT ST. PATRICK'S

Joining in a tribute of veneration and affection with invisible millions in every country circling the globe, three large congregations at St. Patrick's church commemorated the solemn feast Wednesday, of the Assumption into Heaven of the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of Christ. Low masses were read at 5 and 7 o'clock by the assistant pastors and at 8, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May offered the holy sacrifice.

The altar hangings and vestments were of white and gold and white flowers predominated in the decorations of the three marble altars and the shrines. At each service the epistle read was Ecclesiasticus 24: 11-20 and the gospel was Luke 10: 38-42, ending, "Mary hath chosen for herself the best part, which shall not be taken from her forever." There had been hundreds of confessions the previous day, so that at each mass two priests were reuired to administer holy communion: at 8 o'clock mass Rev. John J. Reilly assisted Monsignor May. Everything accentuated the lesson for the feast, from Ecclesiasticus 24: "I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypress tree on Mount Sion. I was exalted like a palm tree in Cades, and as a rose-plant in Jericho: as a fair olive-tree in the plains, and as a plane-tree by the water in the streets was I exalted."

Organist Henry J. LaFontaine, who has returned from his vacation, continued the festival note in his instrumental accompaniment to the mass, one of his interludes being the melody of the Shubert serenade to which the the Shubert Serenade to which the words of a hymn have been set. His recessional was the majestic Priests March from Mendelssohn's "Athalie." The climax of the melody came at the offertory, when Roderick F. Sullivan sang one of the most beautiful of tributes to the Mother of the Saviour, the late Jules Jordan's setting of "Ave Maria," a composition which has immortalized its writer, and which is sung the world over.

N. L. COUNTY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS MADE SPLENDID SHOWING AT STORRS

The New London county delegation at the junior short course at Storrs, was the second largest from the state; 68 boys and girls with a few leaders made up this number. The group made a fine showing in all the events during the week. These members were Mildred Manning of Franklin, Ruth Henson of Stonington and Donald Cummings of Lebanon.

Paul Koistinen, a young lanky Finn from Voluntown, showed his heels to the pack in the distance running and set the pace so that Don Cummings and Herbert Lowe finished third and sixth respectively.

The county tug-of-war team made little work of defeating Tolland, Hartford and New Haven counties to be crowned champs.

FOUND 10,000 ERROR IN WET CANDIDATE'S VOTE IN OHIO

An Official Count Will Have to Determine Whether Senator Locher, Dry, or Graham Hunt, Liberal, Will Be the Democratic Candidate For U. S. Senate—Error of Count in Cleveland Gave Hunt 10,000 Votes More Than He Received—In Allen County Hunt Was Given 547 Less Than Were Cast For Him—Latest Count Shows the Wet Candidate Leading 93,469 to 92,949.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16—(AP)—Whether Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, an avowed dry, or Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati liberal, has been nominated by Ohio democrats as the candidate for the short term seat in the United States senate will have to be determined by the official count of the vote cast at last Tuesday's primary.

Hunt, after appearing the winner by an approximate majority of more than 10,000 votes on almost complete unofficial returns tabulated by the Associated Press, saw that lead virtually wiped out today when election officials of Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) discovered an error of 10,000 in Hunt's vote, whereby he had been credited with that many votes more than he actually received. Discovery of that error and tabulation of the remaining precincts as they reported threw Locher in the lead by a bare 76 votes.

The Locher-Hunt race developed into the closest contest of the primary which was noted for the evenness of strength of many candidates. The complete unofficial returns gave Locher a total of 93,025 votes to 92,949 for Hunt.

The error in the Cuyahoga county vote was discovered by the election officials today during a recheck after Senator Locher's headquarters had challenged the correctness of the county vote declaring that there was mistake of at least 10,000 votes. The recheck revealed an error of exactly that many votes. The Locher Hunt vote in Cuyahoga county as originally announced by the county election officials gave Hunt 26,224 and Locher 12,989. The corrected vote gave Hunt only 16,224.

WET CANDIDATE LEADS IN UNOFFICIAL COUNT

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 16—(AP)—Graham P. Hunt of Cincinnati tonight swung back into the lead over Senator Cyrus Locher of Cleveland for the democratic short term senatorial nomination on the basis of a second mistake discovered today by county election boards in figures previously reported.

The Allen county election board tonight announced an official count of Hunt 1,067; Locher, 1,990, as against an unofficial total reported yesterday of 57 for Hunt and 1,990 for Locher.

On the basis of the new total, Hunt now leads his opponent by 445 votes, the revised total being Hunt, 93,469; Locher, 92,949.

HOOVER STARTS EASTWARD TO LAUNCH HIS CAMPAIGN

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Aug. 16—(AP)—With the echoes of the event for which he came west fast dying away, Herbert Hoover tonight bade his palo alto neighbors goodbye and turned eastward to launch his active campaign for the presidency.

As the last reminders of his acceptance speech came in the form of commendatory telegrams and letters, the candidate completed work on the address he will make next week at his birthplace in West Branch, Ia.

This speech will mark his first detailed discussion of some of the issues touched upon in his acceptance address and definitely will launch his drive upon the political ramparts surrounding the White House.

As he turned his back upon the cool, quiet home on San Juan Hill from which he has carried on his work for the last month, the republican candidate awaited friendly receptions that have been arranged for him in several southern California cities and in his native state.

He will make seven stops before his train passes over the eastern California border into Arizona and at Los Angeles will leave the train to make a brief address in which he is expected to discuss the Boulder Canyon power, flood control and irrigation project.

His first pause in the long transcontinental journey was at San Jose tonight at 10:20 o'clock. After five minutes there, the train was scheduled to make no further stop until its arrival in Santa Barbara at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

GOV. SMITH HAS DECIDED TO REPLY TO EDITOR ALLEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 16—(AP)—Governor Smith has decided to reply to William Allen White's charges that as an assemblyman he favored the saloon and allied interests.

Fortified by an exhaustive review of his own legislative record, the democratic nominee for president is preparing an answer, but does not know just when he will make it public.

A denial, cabled from Europe by the Kansas editor, that he had "retracted" any of his accusations, put a new light on the situation, in Governor Smith's opinion, and has served to hold up his rejoinder.

For several weeks the nominee has been going over legislative records, some of them nearly 25 years old, to check up in detail on his votes on social legislative proposals. There had been some indications that he might not reply, but today he definitely disclosed an intention to do so.

In announcing this plan of action, the governor at a conference with newspapermen mentioned the republican national committee as having made public White's cablegram. It was designed to correct what the editor regarded as an erroneous impression that he had retracted charges relating to Smith's stand on gambling and commercialized vice.

Whether the presidential nominee in his counter blast also will take cognizance of other attacks on his public record, such as those made by Dr. John Roach Straton of New York, has not been disclosed.

HORNBY WILL BE BURIED NEAR WHERE HE DIED

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16—(AP)—Their identity established by papers in the clothing, the bodies of John Hornby, noted explorer, and his two nephews, which were found in the wild Hudson country last week, probably will be buried near the cabin where they perished, officials of the Royal Northwest Mounted police said today.

Sergeant Royce, whose wireless message last Monday was the first news that Hornby's party had starved to death on the bank of the Thelon river, reported that papers on the bodies had assisted in identification. He said the three men evidently had died of starvation last winter and that the bodies were well preserved.

BOSTON, Aug. 16—(AP)—The three day heat wave still held Boston and vicinity in its torrid grip today with the official temperature reaching 95 and unofficial temperatures in sunny places going over 100. 250 POUND POLAR BEAR CUB GAVE BATTLE TO SHIP'S CREW

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—Breaking out of the ship's hold and making for the bridge at a lumbering gallop, a 250-pound polar bear cub today gave the crew of the coast guard cutter Marion a stiff 15 minute battle, radio messages from the ship revealed tonight.

The story of the ursine mutiny and resultant fight was relayed to the Associated Press by William McClintock, amateur wireless operator, of Westfield, N. J., who picked up the message from the Marion.

The bear, the ship's radio operator said, was captured yesterday while the Marion cruised in Davis Strait on a government survey of ice floes and ocean currents.

Today it broke out of its make-shift prison in the hold and put up an exciting battle in which the whole crew took part before the animal was subdued.

"When the cub broke loose," the operator said, "I made the bridge in nothing flat. The skipper gave a pretty bull-fight exhibition with a blanket until the crew got to him."

The Marion left New London, Conn., on July 10 under Commander E. H. Smith. Yesterday she was 35 miles east of Cape Walsingham, Davis Strait.

FIRE IN STATE FOREST NEAR BREMERTON, WASH.

BREMERTON, Wash., Aug. 16—(AP)—A fire raged uncontrolled in a state forest near here today while several hundred woods workers and national forest rangers fought frantically to bring it under check.

The blaze, starting yesterday, burned over 1,200 acres of logged off land before it began eating into green timber. It started in a lumber camp when the rote center of a cable line caught fire from friction. No lives or homes were reported in danger and fire fighting officials stated the flames would be brought under control before they could reach this city. The standing timber, which holds the fire, is estimated to cover 20 square miles with one side of the stand backed up against Bremerton.

In the Clearwater National forest of northern Idaho another fire was burning out of control with nearly 300 men combating the spread. A fire on Johnagan creek, about 80 miles east of Orofino, Ida., had burned over 7,000 acres.

100,000 Spectators Witnessed Launching

President Von Hindenburg Christened the 46,000 Ton German Liner.

BREMEN, Germany, Aug. 16—(AP)—Hailed by President Von Hindenburg as "a manifestation of the indestructible German capacity for work," the steamer Bremen was launched today. The octogenarian executive christened the vessel on his second attempt to break a bottle of champagne on the steel stem, his first throw of the beribboned contained failing to find its mark.

The Bremen is a sister ship of the 46,000 ton liner Europa launched at Hamburg yesterday. The similarity of the twin vessels was emphasized by Gen. Von Hindenburg's throwing arm for Miss Inez Gaessel, daughter of the director of the North German Lloyd, also failed to break the bottle on her first attempt to christen the Europa.

Fully 100,000 spectators were massed about the ways when the vessel took the water.

"I am a better door bell ringer than a public speaker," Mrs. Knight said. "The only time I ever made a speech in public was when I seconded my father's nomination at Kansas City. Ever since I was a little girl my father has been in the senate and when I was growing up in Topeka I used to go to every house in the neighborhood to see that the mistress as well as the maid voted right."

Mrs. Knight is organizing independent women's Hoover-Curtis clubs in Rhode Island.

First Leg Of Flight To Stockholm Finished

Monoplane Rockford Made 800 Mile Hop to Cochrane, Ont., in Seven Hours.

COCHRANE, Ontario, Aug. 16—(AP)—The monoplane Greater Rockford, flying from Rockford, Illinois, to Stockholm, Sweden, finished the first leg of its journey at this northern Ontario town at 2.40 o'clock this afternoon, eastern standard time, making the 800 mile hop from the American city in seven hours.

Favored by fine weather, Bert Hassell and his co-pilot, Parker Cramer, brought the ship to a perfect landing on an improvised runway. If the weather continues good they plan to take off at dawn tomorrow on the next lap of their journey, a flight of about 1,600 miles to Mt. Evans, Greenland. One other intermediate hop from Mt. Evans to Reiykjavik, Iceland, is on their itinerary. They hope to make Stockholm from Reiykjavik in a final jump.

For hours the population of Cochrane had awaited the arrival of the Greater Rockford. As the sister ship of the pride of Detroit, in which William Brock and Edward F. Schlee flew the Atlantic a year ago, came in sight out of the southwest the crowd cheered lustily. The plane circled the town before landing.

Hassell and Cramer lost no time once they had acknowledged Cochrane's enthusiastic reception, in beginning preparations for the next lap of their hazardous trip.

While curious bystanders looked on, the fliers went over each part of their ship with minute care, testing the motors and examining the home-made runway from which they hoped to hop at dawn tomorrow.

In the seven hours they had been in the air they had been sighted but once after they left northern Wisconsin, but radio messages from the plane had told the world below that Hassell was holding to his course over Michigan and Ontario.

BOOTLEGGERS PASSED OUT CARDS TO LEGION MEMBERS

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 16—(AP)—Two bootleggers were arrested today through means of cards which they were passing out to state Legion members, holding their tenth annual convention here. On the cards was the name "YD Club" with printed directions as to where to obtain liquor in their apartment. Police followed the instructions and seized several bottles of "wet goods" and took into custody Saverio Magnano, 34, and Louis Carter, 23, both of this city. They are being held for arraignment.

The convention opened this morning with 600 Legionnaires present from 104 posts of the state. The business sessions will get under way tomorrow followed by a picnic in the afternoon. The "40 and 8" will conduct their "wreck" tomorrow night.

A stiff battle for votes is expected when election for state commander to succeed Earle E. Richards is held Saturday. Foremost of the candidates are Paige Sexton, Torrington, and Oliver B. Ellsworth, Portland.

FINANCIAL SAFETY FOR THE COTTON GROWER

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16—(AP)—Plans intended to make the world financially safe for the cotton grower were adopted here today at a meeting of the executive committee of the southwide cotton council.

Decision was reached to raise $750,000 by public contribution in the 11 cotton producing states to be used in obtaining facts about the product which would enable the growers to receive a better price.

Information regarding cotton would be assembled from numerous sources and be used to determine at any time what the council considers a reasonable price for the commodity. This information would be distributed in regular monthly reports.

Judge C. E. Thomas, superintendent of banks in Alabama, is president of the council which is an outgrowth of a "governor's cotton conference" held at Jackson, Miss., last February.

The guard went on duty last night and tonight was patrolling the corridors in front of the health offices.

DOZEN CITIES AND TOWNS ARE ISOLATED BY FLOODS

Four Deaths Have Resulted and a Score Have Been Injured—Floods Are Raging in Georgia, North and South Carolina, Through Narrow Valleys Lined With Towns and Farming Communities and Crossed by Highways and Railways—A crew of Men is Endeavoring to Save a Dam Near Lake Lure, N. C., Which Was Reported to Be Leaking Badly From the Pressure of Flood Waters.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16—(AP)—After wreaking destruction in the foothills, floods from the latest tropical storm swirled toward the sea tonight in swollen rivers of Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, and added hourly to the huge damage toll.

A dozen cities and towns still were virtually isolated and unofficial estimates of the damage to property and crops, highways and railroads ran into the millions. Four deaths have resulted and a score have been injured.

The most acute situation appeared tonight near Lake Lure, N. C., where a dam across the lake of that name was reported leaking badly from the pressure of the flood waters behind it. The dam is 100 feet high and backs up millions of gallons of water which would be loosed into the Broad river should the structure give way. A crew of men was laboring feverishly to save it.

Nearly half of Georgia was affected, with one county, Wilkinson, entirely isolated because of washed out highways and railways. Asheville, N. C., had no service and only limited traffic was moving from Macon and Thomasville, Ga., where, with the floods rapidly receding, no further damage was expected if rains cease.

The tropical storm itself, which swept up from the West Indies and hammered the West Florida coast before turning inland, was dissipating over the mountains of eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina, where a low pressure area was all that remained of the hurricane blow.

The floods, unlike that which menaced the Lake Okeechobee region in southern Florida this week, are not spread over wide areas, but have wrought their damage as they raged through relatively narrow valleys lined with towns and farming communities and crossed by the highways and railways.

Milledgeville, Ga., on the banks of Oconee river, saw the stream rise higher than ever before, and tear out bridges and railway fills so that transportation was paralyzed. The water supply also was cut off.

After inundating a section of East Macon last night the Ocmulgee river fell rapidly today but bore new menace to towns further down stream as the crest rolled toward the sea. The towns of Toomboro, McIntyre and Irwinton in Wilkinson county were isolated between the Oconee and Ocmulgee and their numerous tributaries.

Pisgah Forest, N. C., a village of 200 persons, in Transylvania county was isolated, while water stood above the floors of homes in Rosman, ten miles from Brevard, N. C. Dozens of towns and communities reported houses damaged or swept away by floods.

Fears were expressed for the safety of inhabitants of Yancey county, in South Carolina who reside in the path of raging torrents now pouring down the Cane and the North and South Toe rivers. Fully a dozen rivers in North Carolina were choked with the rain waters.

Meanwhile, with danger of further flooding subsiding in the Lake Okeechobee district of Florida, Red Cross and health officials were giving careful attention to preventive measures against possible epidemics.

TWO PERSONS KILLED BY TORNADO IN NORTH CAROLINA

ABERDEEN, N. C., Aug. 16—(AP)—Two persons were killed and a score or more injured by a tornado that swept over Ashley Heights near here early today. An unidentified peach picker was killed outright and John W. Jones died of injuries. The storm wrecked several buildings and residences

SHORTAGE OF TOOMBS WILL BE FAR GREATER THAN $3,562,000

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16—(AP)—The shortage in the International Life Insurance Co. may be far greater than the $3,562,000 alleged to have been removed from assets by President Roy C. Toombs of Chicago, W. R. Baker, Kansas insurance commissioner, declared today.

Baker asserted investigation by the insurance commissioners of nine states indicated Toombs had become indebted to the International Holding Co. for about $1,000,000 through transfers of stock for which he had made no accounting.

He said the need for a thorough audit was emphasized when W. M. Hopkins, Chicago attorney, stated he held stock certificate D11,018 for 1,958 shares and asked if it was valid. Reference to the company's stock book showed the original certificate was passed in its place, marked "not used," and cancelled by perforation.

"That is only one example," Baker said "we have found 400 blank certificates missing and so far have accounted for only five."

Three additional warrants issued late today against Toombs by Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener each charge that Toombs caused W. F. Grantges, a vice-president, and W. G. Darst secretary, to sign false and fraudulent certificates for 3,000 shares of stock with intent to issue them.

OPENING LOCKS OF PANAMA CANAL FOR A SWIMMER

GATUN, Canal Zone, Aug. 16—(AP)—The huge Gatun locks of the Panama canal were opened today for the passage of Richard Halliburton, American author, who on Tuesday commenced an attempt to swim the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a distance of about fifty miles.

Four sets of great steel lock gates, weighing 1500 tons each, had to be opened and closed to lift the swimmer from the Atlantic sea level 85 feet to Gatun lake, and three lock chambers, containing 10,000,000 cubic feet of water each, had to be filled and emptied. If required as much mechanical labor to bring Halliburton through the locks as for the 40,000 ton airplane carrier Saratoga. Charges for the passage were made in accordance with the ton rate and Halliburton, weighing 150 pounds, paid just 36 cents.

Halliburton this afternoon entered the alligator-infested Gatun lake, accompanied by an army sharpshooter as guard.

The author is swimming during the daylight hours and rests at night. He expects to reach Panama in about six days.

OCEAN FRIEGHT STEAMERS WERE RAIDED FOR LIQUOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—Two large ocean freight steamers and eight Newark, N. J., resorts have been raided in the past week by federal narcotic agents in an effort to break up a large and well organized drug ring, George W. Cunningham, federal narcotic agent in charge in this district announced today.

Cunningham, who was in personal charge of the raiding parties, said that twenty prisoners had been taken and $15,000 worth of opium and opium-smoking equipment had been confiscated.

SIR GEORGE OTTO TREVELYAN, BRITISH HISTORIAN, DEAD

LONDON, Aug. 16—(AP)—Sir George Otto Trevelyan, noted British historian and former member of parliament died tonight. He was 90 years old.

One of his most noted works was a four-volume history of the American revolution. He wrote also a life of his uncle, Thomas Babington, Lord Macaulay, British historian.

Sir George was a friend of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and the latter visited him on his trip to England.

DETRACTOR OF CATHOLIC CANDIDATES WAS HISSED

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 16—(AP)—A storm of protest swept the institute of public affairs of the University of Virginia here today following an address by Dr. Albert C. Diefenbach, of Boston, editor of the Christian Register, in which he assailed the fitness of a Roman Catholic to become president of the United States because of the Catholic dogma of "primacy of church over state." The staid forum of the institute became a turmoil of shouts, catcalls and boos.

No sooner had he finished his address when John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond News Leader, jumped to his feet and declared that he was going to vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, "to show that this country is big enough not to be dictated to by bigotry."

Prof. John H. Latane of Johns Hopkins university, one of those who protested against Dr. Diefenbach's charges, declared that the defeat of Smith in the south would mean the "triumph of intolerance and hypocrisy."

"Jesuits in their palmiest day," he added, "never had the hold on mediaeval governments as our political parsons have obtained in the past eight years. If the political parsons carry the south against Smith they will set back the spirit of liberty and educational development of the south for years."

Prof. A. H. Hatton of Northwestern university said that "there is no denying that the American Catholics are put in an unfortunate position by the avowed dogma of their church," which arouses the suspicions of people for whici they can hardly be blamed.

BRITISH SUB RAISED FROM BOTTOM OF KAPORSK BAY

LENINGRAD, Aug. 16—(AP)—The British submarine L-55, which soviet authorities say was sunk in the Baltic in 1919 in an engagement with Russian destroyers, was raised today from the bottom of Kanorsk bay. The vessel was towed to Kronstatt and when opened revealed the skeletons of the crew.

B. A. Muklevich, commander of the soviet fleet, said that the skeletons will be buried with appropriate military honors unless the British government indicates it desires other disposal of them.

M. Muklevich, said that the battle in which the L-55 was lost took place on June 4, 1919. He said the submarine attacked the Russian destroyers Gavril and Azard, firing three torpedoes all of which missed. Then the L-55 rose to the surface and the Azard attacked her. A shot hit the boat, an explosion followed and the underwater craft sank instantly with all her crew.

CHARRED BODY OF WOMAN FOUND ON MOOR

CROWN POINT, Ind., Aug. 16—(AP)—The fire-charred body of a woman, said by a coroner's physician to have been burned to death, was found in a desolate moor three miles from here today.

Police say they believe she is "the woman who knew too much" of the West McHenry State bank robbery Monday at McHenry, Ill. They theorize that she was "taken for a ride" by members of the presumably Chicago gang which robbed the bank of $12,000.

It is their contention that she was the sweetheart of Angelo Francisco of Chicago, whose body was found yesterday in a bullet-riddled automobile in a corn field near Mt. Prospect, Ill.

Farmers near the scene heard gun shots at 1 o'clock this morning. They investigated at daybreak, found the body, and called the coroner and police

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:

So you've decided to buy yourself a Used Car. Mighty good dope I call it. You can hardly realize the usefulness of a car until you have owned one and then try to get along without it. A lot of people brand them as a costly proposition and sometimes as a source of trouble but my experience has been that if you buy wisely—that is a good car within your means, and then give the car the attention that any motor needs and deserves an automobile soon pays for itself in the conveniences and pleasures it gives you.

There are also people who are prejudiced against the Used Car but to the mind of many others the purchase of a good used car is a wise move. If you buy from a used-car dealer who is honorable and ethical a second-hand car that has been in good hands will give you everything, with the possible exception of ultra-modern style, that a new car will, and Minus the Depreciation of first-year wear.

The Leonard Brothers Garage, Inc., at the corner of Main and Walnut streets, have on hand at the present time a fine assortment of used cars. You will very likely find just what you want there. These cars are put into good condition before leaving the shop and are offered at inviting prices. Incidentally this is a good time of the year to get a used car, for many reason, among which I would mention that this is cleaning-house time in garages and that you still have many weeks of nice weather in which to enjoy motoring.

Remember that when you get your Used Car you should then call at Louis H. Arnold's insurance agency and get adequate automobile insurance. Then you can start out and drive in comfort and with a maximum of safety to your pocketbook.

Before I close I want to call your attention to something else. Watch the advertisements for Success Week at the Capitol Theatre all next week. Undoubtedly you will want to see again or for the first time some of the outstanding favorites of the greatest motion pictures.

Trusting you will find the car that you want at Leonard's and that it will give you excellet service, I am,

Yours, JANE.

HENRY FORD PAYS ANOTHER VISIT TO WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC. Aug. 16—Henry Ford, famous motor magnate, made another visit to this city today, accompanied by three of his associates, one of whom was W. W. Taylor of Sudbury, Mass., who assists Mr. Ford in collecting antiques of various descriptions for his museum in Dearborn, Mich. The party visited the Holland Silk company plant and looked over three pieces of machinery which Mr. Taylor secured some time ago for his employer.

Some time ago the Holland company arranged to do away with two Brown engines that had supplied power at the plant for many years, one of 60 and the other 100 horse power; a gear cutter, one hundred years old, made by the father of Mrs. Jane Holland, original owner of the local plant, and a generator which was one of the first made by the Edison company. The engine in the east plant was sold at that time to Mr. Ford for his collection and yesterday William J. Kenney of New York city, president of the local concern, and his son, Superintendent Edward G. Kenney, presented the engine in the west mill, the old gear cutter and electric generator to Mr. Ford for his collection. The party was in this city about a half hour, Mr. Ford remarking that Willimantic was a pleasant looking city.

Additional information in regard to the outing which the local Elks' lodge is planning for the children of this city has been given out by the committee in charge. The affair will be for the benefit of any child in the city between the ages of 7 and 14 years who has not had the benefit of a vacation this year or a visit to the seashore. The committee asks that each child planning to attend bring a bathing suit and towel, if possible. Bathing facilities have been arranged at Crescent beach and the Elks will supply each child with a box lunch. It is planned to start the cavalcade of cars from Elks' park on Pleasant street as near nine o'clock in the morning as possible. A state police motorcycle escort will be provided going to the beach and return. A doctor and nurse will be on hand throughout the day and women assistants will aid the committee in looking out for the girls.

As many members of the lodge who can do so will be asked to furnish automobiles and drivers in case they are unable to go themselves. However, the committee will be glad to accept any offers from other public-spirited citizens in the community who have automobiles available and are willing to help make the outing a success by accommodating all of the children who desire to go. Those who desire to assist in this manner by furnishing transportation facilities are requested to get in touch with Exalted Ruler Maurice S. Leonard or Esteemed Loyal Knight George W. Hickey as soon as possible.

Registrations for children at the J. C. Lincoln company store in person or by telephone will close next Monday noon as it is imperative that the committee in charge know by that time the number planning to attend. It is planned to have all of the children back home by six o'clock in the evening.

The injured, including a man and three boys, were brought to St. Joseph's hospital here by W. B. Belcher, a salesman for the United Music company of this city in an automobile belonging to that concern. They are Jacob Ohlstein, 54, proprietor of the Franklin Hill house at North Franklin, owner and driver of the car, who has a fractured collarbone and other injuries; Walter Cohen, 10, of No. 142 Meserole street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Isadore Kopel, 8, and Seymour Kopel, 7, of No. 634 Prospect avenue, the Bronx, New York, all nephews of Ohlstein. The boys sustained painful lacerations about the face and body. During the afternoon the boys were discharged from the hospital while Ohlstein is still a patient at the institution.

The three boys were among the guests at the Franklin Hill House and were coming to this city with their uncle. In turning out to allow another automobile to pass, it is said that the car operated by Ohlstein left the concrete highway, the wheels going into soft dirt, which caused the driver to lose control. The machine ran up a bank by the side of the road and overturned.

Haig Iskivan of Hampton was notified by Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley yesterday noon to appear before the local police court today on a charge of reckless driving as a result of an accident in which Iskivan's car collided with one driven by W. Elliott Flowers of Broadway, West Haven during the forenoon. Flowers was driving north on the North Windham road and Iskivan south. In passing an auto truck going in the same direction the Hampton man is alleged to have driven to the side of the road occupied by Flowers. Iskivan pulled to the side of the concrete but not far enough to avoid striking the other machine. The front of the West Haven man's car was badly damaged by the impact.

NOANK

POWERHOUSE EQUIPMENT IS SENT TO WISCONSIN

The red building at West View has been a power house for the trolley cars for the past 14 years. Now the trolleys have gone to the junk pile. The power house is no longer needed so all the transformers have been taken down by a large force of men, carried to the railroad station by trucks and put on flat cars bound for Wisconsin. It seems strange to go past the building and not see the house lighted up and the machinery going all night.

Miss Grace Fitzpatrick has arrived from New York to spend two weeks' vacation at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oles have returned from a visit in Millis, Mass., with relatives.

Clifford Phelps who plays in the national guard band at New London and will soon leave for camp in Pennsylvania, has a bass horn that has seen 45 years of service. He will take it with him to camp. It was given to him by member of the old Noank band, Charles Palmer and was made by the Boston Music company. Mr. Palmer was the best bass horn player in the village in those days. Now Long Wind Phelps has the horn shining like a fellow could shave in it. All the band men look it over and rub their eyes and wonder how it keeps so good, always shining. This making the third year that Phelps has taken the 45-year horn to Pennsylvania. He claims that many good notes are left in the old horn yet. Young Phelps is a band by himself—can play any kind of a horn or a drum in the band and he is called by his music pals the whole band of the army.

Mr. Bogue has moved his household goods from Hope Valley, R. I., to the village.

Dr. Lester E. Walker of Norwich is passing a short vacation with friends in Noank.

Noank fishermen go out every day to the fishing grounds off Block Island leaving the dock at 3 in the morning when the people are sleeping. It takes 4 hours to make the island. There are seven boats in the fleet. The skippers are on the lookout for the bodies of the four young students who lost their lives between Fishers Island and Watch Hill at the week end. Old fishermen think the strong undertow might bring them to the top of the water and some of the bodies might reach Block Island. The captains of the boats have told the mates of the fleet be sure to keep an eye on the water going to the ground or coming back.

A special meeting was held by the local carpenters' union, Wednesday evening at Sullivan's hall. After a short business session it was voted to hold the annual picnic at Lantern hill at the end of the week. Carpenters from Groton Long Point, Noank and Mystic are ready to help make the picnic the best the union has had in years.

Clarence Spink of Fall River spent Wednesday at his home.

Carl Ashcraft is visiting friends in Patterson, N. J., for a short time.

Fred Philips of Bridgeport is home for a few days.

A new eight-ton chain for the big shipyard ways is resting near the ways all ready to be put in. When a big steamer was to be hauled out, the old chain would break and give the steamer a ride back into the water. Several steamers had to go over to the Ship and Engine company plant in Groton to be hauled out. With the new chain in place that means work for the local shipyard carpenters, who find it hard to pass the time away with nothing to do but worry where the next job is coming from. About six menhaden steamers are to be hauled out for a general reconditioning.

OCCUM NOTES

Harry Marthers and Fred Champagne have returned from their vacation after visiting Coney Island and taking a trip up the Hudson river.

A TACTLESS REMINDER

Thus early there can be found those optimistic supporters of Mr. Smith who are ready to claim everything for him in the national election. There is a more moderate class who content themselves with the hope of carrying Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, in the New England states, along with New York, New Jersey and possibly Pennsylvania in November. These "moderate" democrats profess to bolster up their hopes by passing over the 1924 election figures and pointing out the smaller republican pluralities in the off years as the marks to be overcome.

Indirectly, however, their boasting brings to mind that President Coolidge polled some amazing pluralities in certain states in 1924, for which there was one very good reason in the defection of many democrats to the republican ranks. Of the states named Pennsylvania led them all in the plurality it gave to Mr. Coolidge, nearly a million, while he carried New York by nearly 900,000, New Jersey by 378,000, Connecticut by more than 136,000, Massachusetts by over 420,000 and Rhode Island by about 48,000. These were abnormally large pluralities, but there was a simple explanation to account for them. Friends of Governor Smith, resenting the action of the Madison Square Garden convention, deliberately knifed Mr. Davis, the candidate of their party. Only the southern democrats remained true to their party as usual.

In the democratic party in all these states there are many friends of Mr. Davis who have not forgotten the treatment he received from one element among the Smith partisans in the 1924 election, or if they had forgotten it, have now been reminded of it by the boastful predictions of the Smith enthusiasts. What they may do in the coming election is, of course, problematical, but it does not seem to have been good tactics, to have stirred them up.

CANDY WORSE THAN CIGARETTES

Dr. Anna M. Richardson, physician in general to the girl students at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., is quoted as saying that the smoking of cigarettes is not nearly so bad for their health as constant nibbling at candies. We imagine her experience with the Russell Sage Foundation has made it easy for her to get rid of some prejudices current among the older people of today.

It is estimated that of the graduates of this year at Smith two-thirds used cigarettes and 21 per cent. smoked more than five a day. But it is quite likely that 100 per cent. of the whole number were addicted to candy. Indeed, regardless of sex, the American trend towards candy and cigarettes since the war is notable. In some quarters this is partly ascribed to prohibition.

It was Dr. Anna M. Richardson who four years ago made a survey of the doctors in Kings county, N. Y., and found a third of them were fatter than they ought to be. Also that what they recommended to their patients they did not practice for themselves. A third of them, for example, drank less than four glasses of water a day. Sixteen per cent. of them averaged three cups of coffee apiece. Nearly two-thirds were smokers.

Reasoning on other people's habits has a certain value if the reasoner is sure of facts and reaches logical conclusions fearlessly. Dr. Richardson is taking a modern view of the modern habits of girls at Northampton.

A WISE NAVY RULING

The United States navy department order limiting the use of navy aircraft at public demonstrations, celebrations and exhibitions, which follows that of the war department, is a step which will be generally approved, even though its terms are drastic. In the past naval aircraft have often been used to help recruiting, to create interest in the naval establishment and to evoke sentiment for large appropriations. The dirigible Shenandoah was on the way to a county fair when it plunged to destruction.

This sort of thing is now to end. The navy will furnish aircraft for the dedication of airports and for features having military or naval significance, but not otherwise. No aircraft will hereafter be provided on Memorial day, the Fourth of July or other holidays. No admission may be charged at celebrations except to cover immediate expenses, and if any civilian aviator attempts to "stunt," except under legitimate regulations, naval aircraft will forthwith be withdrawn.

These regulations make for safety and economy. The navy's air establishment was not intended to provide Roman festivals for the crowds. The regulations, however, should be interpreted with a proper discretion, and under the right circumstances the navy department will doubtless find a happy issue out of its own rigid and altogether proper rules.

There is one paragraph in the new regulations which will seem to some rather petty. When naval aircraft are used at dedication of airports or at celebrations having military or naval significance, it is provided that the committee in charge shall, when practicable, pay for gas and oil, as well as for the personal expenses of naval officers participating. This will appeal to many persons as an erroneous and short-sighted policy. A civilian committee dedicating an airport or arranging a celebration of military or naval significance should not be required to buy gas and oil for United States aircraft, for which congress amply provides. The department might just as well require that where destroyers or cruisers or even dreadnaughts participate in celebrations a civilian committee should foot the bill. It would be absurd, after such craft have departed, for the admiral of the United States fleet to send to shore an expense account for some civilian board to meet.

FOR THE FARM VOTE

More than any other group of voters the farmers this year seem to hold a place where both national parties are striving to attract their vote. Mr. Hoover, in his speech of acceptance, elevated to first place the need of taking effective measures for farm relief and this recognition that there is an agricultural problem to be solved has brought a commendatory expression from former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois who for long has endeavored to have a farm relief plank inserted in the republican platform which would be satisfactory to the interests which he has represented. Mr. Lowden's statement regarding Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance is one calculated to hearten the republican organization and strengthen its belief that there will be no serious defection of the western farmers. Breaking the silence which he had steadfastly maintained since the Kansas City convention, the former Illinois governor said that Mr. Hoover had gone a long way in his frank recognition that the agricultural problem is the most urgent economic issue in the nation today; that Mr. Hoover's aspirations to bring the farm population up to economic equality with other groups have his heartiest approval. He adds, however, that he thinks it will be practically found that the stabilization corporation proposed by the republican candidate can only attain its objects if the cost of stabilizing the price of any commodity be distributed over the commodity involved and not taken from the public treasury.

While Mr. Lowden's statement was being issued and distributed, Gov. Smith was holding a conference with a group of representatives of the farm interests. The reports of that conference do not throw much light upon essentials of the relief they are seeking are apparently underway for a democratic-farmer alliance. From the agrarians themselves came the statement representing their views as expressed to Governor Smith and their appreciation of his interest in the agricultural problem and his understanding of it. From the governor came the statement that he and his callers were agreed as to the necessity of legislation to help America's basic industry; that he had assured them he believes the democratic platform covers the essentials of the relief they are seeking through legislation and that there remains only to determine the details to make these essentials effective. He added that he intends to discuss this subject fully in his acceptance speech.

So wages the fight for the farmers' vote.

THE HIGHEST CRITICISM

"Will you look," said Mrs. Hanson, "at what Jimmy brung home today?"

"Sploop!" replied Mr. Hanson, diving headfirst into the wash basin. It was evident that his wife had received a shock or she would have known better than to address him before he had finished washing. When a man is janitor to a 32-apartment building his nightly ablutions are important and protracted.

"You gotta do somethin', Chris, or that boy'll get you into trouble. Just look at it. An' he says Mrs. Spaulding give it to him. Huh! Nobody around here gives away things as good as that!"

Chris Hanson was not to be disturbed from his routine. He loosened the last layer of coal dust, mopped face and hands with cotton waste, and finished off with the roller towel. Red and gleaming, he turned his large, calm gaze upon the object his wife was displaying. For some time he said nothing, a reasonable procedure, for it required a considerable interval really to take in Jimmy's treasure trove. Considering that Jimmy was 10 and small for his age, it seemed incredible that he had brought home, alone and unaided, the framed lithograph his mother exhibited. Six feet long and three high, it portrayed the engine of a limited train under full steam. The artist had drawn somewhat upon his imagination for the coloring, but that in nowise detracted from the effectiveness of the work.

"It is—it is——" Hanson fumbled for the exact word. "It is—real purty," he concluded.

"Pretty? Huh! I guess you don't know much about painting. That's about the elegantest kind of picher there is. Look at how blue the sky is an' how red the fire looks. You don't see pichers like that every day. That's about the grandest picher you ever saw, Chris Hanson, an' all you can say is it's pretty!"

"It is," insisted Hanson.

"All right, all right. But what you gonta do about it? You know, Mrs. Spaulding never give it to him. That picher must 'a' cost all kinds of money. I wouldn't be surprised if it cost a thousand dollars." Hanson's eyes widened.

"Say! I could fix it over the piano. It would look—real purty."

"Swell chance!" Mrs. Hanson grunted scornfully, but the light of avarice gleamed in her eye. Already she could imagine herself inviting that stuck-up Larsen woman in and dazzling her permanently with this wonderful treasure. A wail from Jimmy interrupted her dream.

"Mrs. Spaulding gave it to me for my own. I want it in my room. I don't want my picture over the piano."

"Hush, Jimmy. You couldn't have understood her right. An' if she really did lend it to us we'll want it where it'll show, not stuck away back where there won't nobody see it. I'm gonta talk to her now. Maybe she'll let us keep it for a while. It'd be better here than in the storeroom, an' perhaps she hasn't room for it. It's a grand big picher, ain't it?"

Father and son gazed their fill while Mrs. Hanson hurried up to apartment 16B. They sat in silence, absorbing the crimson and emerald and orange. It was certainly a powerful picture, for even Chris Hanson looked up with a show of eagerness as his wife reentered their basement flat. Perversely, she picked up her sewing and sat down without a word.

"What did she say, mom?" demanded Jimmy.

"I never," announced Mrs. Hanson, "heard of anybody wastin' so much good time on a old picher. I don't want to talk about it any more."

"But she did give it to me, didn't she?"

"Why wouldn't she? It isn't always a person can find a fool boy to haul away her junk for nothin'."

"Junk? Why, it's a swell picture!"

"I guess you don't know about pichers."

"Isn't it worth," inquired Chris, "a lot of money?"

"Get sense! It's an advertisement. They used to give 'em away until folks wouldn't spare 'em house room. You gotta get rid of it tomorrow, Chris. Burnit up, or somethin'. I guess you don't know about pichers. But then," she added, indulgently, "most people don't."—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Methodist Declaration on Prohibition

Mr. Editor: The untruth of the claim of the "wets" that the declared attitude of the General Conference of the M. E. Church on prohibition, as expressed at Kansas City, in May, 1928, is an invasion of politics by "religion" in contravention of the constitutional declarations as to religious "test" for public office, may be fully demonstrated by the following verbatim quotation from the proclamation unanimously adopted by the conference. Certainly here is no effort at "an establishment of religion," nor application of a "religious test" for citizenship, but only a ringing declaration for sound moral truth and of civic responsibility thereto.

"Prohibition is the fixed policy of the United States of America. The 18th amendment to the federal Constitution incorporated in the basic law of a great nation the underlying convictions of its people.

"The American nation is no longer in partnership with the liquor traffic. It has deprived that traffic of the sanction of law and the protection of government. That traffic is an outlaw, which no longer has standing as a lawful institution in the statutes and the courts of the nation. This alone constitutes one of the greatest victories for civic righteousness recorded in modern times.

"This achievement represents the ripened conviction and the deliberate judgment of the American people after more than a hundred and fifty years of regulations, license, repression, taxation, government sale and attempted control, and every other method devised for the purpose of dealing with this nefarious habit and traffic.

"The social, economic and moral benefits of this law have been amply demonstrated in increased industrial efficiency, a larger degree of safety on the highways and in the factories, unmatched productivity, unparalleled savings, unequaled public health records, a remarkable decrease in the national death rate and unprecedented evidences of social and moral wellbeing.

"The conservation of the higher values of manhood, reduced sorrows of womanhood and mitigated wrongs of childhood, eloquently proclaim the success of prohibition as a sound policy of government, which has made it 'easier for men to do right and more difficult for men to do wrong.'

"Judged by all the evidence in the case prohibition with enforcement at its worst is shown to be better than the legally sanctioned beverage alcohol with regulations at its best.

"We serve notice on all concerned that our attitude on this vital question is resolute and irreversible; that we will not be lulled into inactivity by evasive promises, indecisive declarations; that we will not support uncertain candidates for state and national legislative and administrative offices, and that we will not willingly tolerate in position of responsibility those who do not sustain the law and the principle of righteousness which the law represents.

"We will not countenance anarchy under a banner of personal liberty and social license; and we support the right of a free people to govern themselves. In this strategic hour in the progress of this great reform there must be no minor note, no discordant sound, no equivocal stand.

"We face the issues before us with confidence and determination. We believe in the common sense of the American people. We believe in the triumph of right. We believe in the hand of God in our national affairs.

"We will not be stampeded; we will not retract; we will not cease to speak by tongue and pen and vote; we will not turn back; we have enlisted for the duration of the conflict, which will end only in the complete extermination of the beverage alcohol habit and traffic."

Can anyone point out wherein any portion of this declaration is out of consonance with the federal Constitution or sound American citizenship?

ALLEN B. LINCOLN.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—(AP) — State department folk look at the "outlaw-war" language of the foreign policy planks of both the Kansas City and Houston conventions with misgiving.

They detest the phrase as meaningless in fact and apt to create misunderstanding in the popular mind as to what treaties designed to make wars less probable actually do. But it's a fine sounding slogan and evidently is not to be dodged. It even got into the British acceptance of the Kellogg treaty signed by Sir Austen Chamberlain, who should know better.

Incidentally, the department did not stand idle when the foreign plank was in the making at Kansas City. One "Bill" Castle, assistant secretary of state and a good lad when a little fixing of that sort is to be done, was very much in evidence around the resolutions committee there. The plank may be said to have full state department approval except for that war outlawry tag end to its complete endorsement of administration foreign policy. But Castle or no Castle, Senator Borah was not to be denied a little canter on his pet hobby and in went the outlaw war tail to wag a dog otherwise irreproachable in state department eyes.

Houston, for obvious reasons was a more difficult diplomatic task for a republican administered state department. Yet there were possibilities. Frank Polk and Norman Davis both former democratic under secretaries of state and Polk probably the most popular man personally with the permanent folks at the department of all the political appointees from secretary down in the last decade or two, might be able to swing a little influence. Wholly unofficially, they were approached. But Polk didn't go to Houston at all and the outlaw war thing bobbed up there, even lacking a Borah to ride it through.

Anr that's that. Diplomacy and domestic politics may be on speaking terms at times; but they don't always see eye to eye.

Speaking of the state department, there is considerable gossip about Secretary Kellogg's personal plans. Many folk, in and out of the state department and diplomatic corps, are wondering whether he might not ride out of office voluntarily on the wave of accomplishment signalized by signing of the new peace treaty in Paris. Nobody blamed him for sitting tight when the democratic-liberal assault to oust him was going full blast just a few months ago. Who likes to quit under fire?

But things have changed a lot in the foreign relations field. Mexican relations have been Morrowized; Nicaragua Stimsonized, with General Feland Coy mopping up; China affords a tribute to Mr. Kellogg himself and his department and diplomatic advisers and, to crown it all, comes the peace treaty. There seems little left for his critics to carp about.

But those who know the secretary best believe he'll be still on the job up to March 4, regardless of who wins the election. They declare he hasn't another darn thing to do with himself and that he likes the job, for itself, if for no other reason.

STOMACH DISEASES

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York City, Member Gorgas Memorial

To inquire properly into the condition of the stomach requires approach from many different angles. The day of looking at the tongue, inquiring about the state of the bowels and writing out a prescription has already passed. Guesswork must be avoided and scientific investigation should prevail.

The first thing required is a thorough acquaintance with the history of the case, which embodies information relating to the outstanding complaint, family and personal traits, habits, and past medical record. The present medical records are then properly reviewed and analyzed.

The next requirement is a complete physical examination, which is concerned with the status of all organs of special sense, the glands, the mouth and throat, the chest organs, the abdominal viscera, the circulation, the nervous system and the organs of sex.

Following this procedure comes the employment of laboratory methods for the study of the excrementitious or eliminative material (urine, stool, and sputum); the secretory fluids such as saliva, stomach juice, intestinal juice, and bile; the blood fluid and blood constituents. At times mechanical methods of study are resorted to. Finally a X-ray study is made of the stomach, bowels and gall bladder.

For such an investigation, a correct interpretation of the condition of the functional or structural state is very likely made. The status of these organs should be understood in relation to the entire body and not only as pertains to each organ.

It is essential to recognize the existence of either normal or abnormal stomach functions. When an abnormal state is found to exist, the fundamental cause for its production should be ascertained. The abnormal state may be characterized by disturbances in any of the functions of the stomach which are secretory (elaboration of acid and ferments), motor (muscle movement), persistaltic (wave-like contraction), tonus (the state of muscle tension), and sensibility (sensitiveness of tolerance toward irritation). These disturbances in function may have an internal cause due to disorder within the structure of the stomach itself or an external cause having its source of irritability in the nervous system out of the stomach or in other outside organs.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Deaf But Dumb

He was a stranger in the neighborhoo and had been brought to a dance at the deaf-and-dumb hospital by an old friend, the doctor.

"How on earth can I ask a deaf-and-dumb girl to dance?" he asked, a trifle anxiously.

"Just smile and bow to her," replied the doctor.

So the young man picked out a pretty girl and bowed and smiled, and she bowed and smiled, and away they danced.

They danced not only one dance that evening, but three, and he was on the point of asking her for another when a strange man approached his partner and said, soulfully:

"I say, darling, when are we going to have anoother dance? It's almost an hour since I had one with you."

"I know, dear," answered the girl, "but I don't know how to get away from this deaf-and-dumb fellow."

Too Much Spanking

After Tommy's first experience riding in a small outboard motor racing boat, which went bounding over the little waves at a lively clip, his mother asked whether he had enjoyed it. "No," he replied frankly, "the boat spanked me too much!"

Example of Devotion

Austria pleads poverty, but one of the local churches has brought together funds to construct candelabra larger than any in rich, pre-war Austrian times. Sunday the hand-forged "Kronluster" was blessed in its place, hanging in the Rosenkranz church in Hetzendorf.

The candelabra set is 25 feet high and nearly 12 feet in diameter; it weighs a ton and a half. One hundred and twenty electric lamps are used in carrying out the idea of victory of light over darkness.

Money for the candelabra was obtained by popular collection.

Hold You. Glasses Up to the Light!

Are the lenses clear, or are the surfaces scratched and marked? Cleaning your lenses daily usually causes the surface to become scratched and marked, and these fine scratches often make clear seeing a strain on the eyes.

Perhaps you have worn your glasses so long that you have not realized that it is time to have your eyes re-examined.

Medical authorities advise yearly eye examination.

MYSTIC ART EXHIBIT HAS MANY VISITORS

The annual art exhibition being held by the artists of Mystic is proving more successful than ever. The exhibitions of this young society, made up for the most part of young artists, have been somewhat of an experiment, but with this summer's show has come the conviction that this stage has definitely been passed. More people have seen the exhbilition than ever before: additional associate members have joined the society: 12 small paintings and an illuminated manuscript have been sold to date.

Special notice is being taken of the excellent work being done by the Garden club in transforming the drab school corridor into charming and colorful places with gorgeous masses of flowers.

Four years ago the artists put on their first exhibition and left it for the public to decide whether they wanted it repeated. The strong support received led them last year to ask the public whether they wished the colony to have an art gallery of its own. Paintings were donated by the members and sold for the building fund. Associate membership were opened, and again the response was so great that a handsomely situated old house on the Post road was purchased and plans were started for remodelling it. These plans are still under consideration, and it is expected that before long the gallery project will become a realized fact. This will considerably broaden the scope of the society's activities. Exhibitions of a more varied sort can be held for longer periods of time and the artists will have a permanent headquarters where the people of the town and state can see what is being done in the Mystic colony.

MAN FATALLY SHOT AT GARDNER LAKE--ASSAILANT COMMITTED SUICIDE

Charles B. Schultz, 55, proprietor of a small amusement park at Gardner Lake, was shot and killed Thursday night by William Canow, 65-year-old proprietor of a general store at the lake, who then committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head. Schultz, fatally shot in the abdomen, died at 12:20 o'clock this (Friday) morning at the W. W. Backus hospital following an operation in an attempt to save his life.

The shooting took place in Canow's store along the lake shore. Schultz and Canow engaged in an argument in the store and Canow, who was back of the counter, suddenly reached for a single-barreled Hopkins & Allen shot gun, and leveling it at Schultz, pulled the trigger. Schultz was shot in the abdomen.

Canow then went to a small room at the rear of the store where he lived and, re-loading the gun, shot off the top of his head. He fell back onto a small couch in the room, dead.

The shots were heard by a Mrs. Earl Lathrop who resides about 100 feet from the store. Boy campers at the lake who also heard the shot investigated and found Schultz standing outside the store holding on to his stomach. He pleaded with the campers to let him die.

Schultz was rushed to the W. W. Backus hospital in this city by boarders at his house and a midnight operation was performed in an effort to save his life. His wounds were fatal, however, as he died at 12:20 o'clock this morning. He was conscious up to a few minutes before his death.

Mrs. Lathrop notified the state police barracks at Groton and state police officers were despatched to the scene. Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, first to arrive on the scene, discovered Canow's body on the couch in the room at the rear of the store. Other state police officers who rushed to the scene were Sergeant Albright and Officers Webber and Smith.

The cause of the argument is not known. Schultz and Canow, who had conducted the store for about four years, had been on friendly terms and the reason for the shooting is a mystery. It is understood that Canow had been acting queerly lately and it is thought that he was mentally unbalanced.

Coroner Edward G. McKay of this city went to the scene of the tragedy to conduct an investigation. Schultz is survived by a wife and two daughters. Canow, it is said, was divorced.

Schultz made an ante-mortem statement to Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve at the hospital. He said "It does not matter now. Canow has shot himself."

Schultz apparently knew Canow had shot himself before he walked out of the store.

Canow and Schultz were neighbors in Hoboken and both came here about four years ago. Canow had an apartment in Hoboken which he sublet and according to neighbors is well to do.

Canow had stayed at the lake the year round and had taken his meals at Schultz home.

Mrs. Schultz accompanied her husband and remained there until his death, then returning home. Money found in the store totaled $260 and the store was fully stocked. Canow, it is said, had several times threatened neighbors and campers and had driven several people from his store with a sledge hammer.

Dr. J. J. Donahue, acting medical examiner for the town of Montville, went to the scene to conduct an investigate. Coroner McKay gave permission to Undertakers Shea and Burke to remove the body.

The curbing on the sidewalk opposite the central fire station building on Chestnut street has been painted white for a distance of about 100 feet and at each end of the painted curbing no parking signs are in plain sight. MEDICINAL LIQUOR MAY BE INCREASED

The use of the new doctors' prescription forms provided by the prohibition enforcement bureau in accordance with new regulations recently formulated at Washington under the direction of Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran may permit the distribution of more medicinal liquor during the next three months than was possible under the old regulations.

Formerly prescription forms were issued to doctors every 90 days, but there was no set day when new form books were sent to qualified doctors, each doctor renewing his supply at the end of his own 90 days period. During this period he was at liberty to distribute prescriptions for 100 pints of liquor to persons sufficiently ill to require such a type of medicine. Under the new regulations, however, all old forms are invalid after September 5, and the new ones only may be used by doctors after September 1 in Connecticut and other New England states, which constitute the first prohibition enforcement district. It is quite possible that some doctors will therefore be able to write prescriptions for more than 100 pints of liquor during a given 90-days period.

The official orders recently announced at the office of Frank T. Putney, deputy prohibition enforcement administrator, stated that the 90-days period for the new regulations will start for all New England doctors September 1 "regardless of the number of prescriptions issued from the old books returned to the administrator."

NEW SERVICE FOR CHAMBERS IN STATE

The United States department of commerce has completed arrangements to make available the services of their bureau of foreign and domestic commerce to the chambers of commerce in Connecticut. This announcement was made recently in a letter addressed to the secretary from James F. Hodgson, district manager, as follows:

"We feel sure that you will be interested to know that, largely as a result of requests received from Connecticut manufacturers and exporters, the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce has directed this office to take over the servicing of the state of Connecticut for the department of commerce. It is believed that through the establishment of contact with the New York office of the department we will be better able to give efficient and prompt service to your members. In this connection, we shall be grateful if you will advise your members that they are invited to utilize the services of this office to the fullest extent and that a personal visit when they are in New York will be greatly appreciated. The writer anticipates the pleasure of paying you a personal call in the not far distant future."

DROVE SEDAN UP STONE WALL TO AVOID A COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, A. I., Aug. 16—To avoid a collision with a Ford car, about 7.45 Thursday evening on the Boston post road near Dunn's Corner, the Chrysler sedan operated by Allen G. Wellman, 299 Park avenue, N. Y., was driven into and upon a stone wall near the Dunn's Corner filling station. The Ford car coming out of the Weekapaug road was driven by Mrs. Edward Dennehey, of Trumbull avenue, Stonington. She was accompanied by Mrs. Samuel Wood and Mrs. Emily Eastwood, both of Stonington. The Chrysler, which moved large stones in the wall, was badly damaged. All occupants escaped injury. Police Lieut. George H. Champlin and Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison investigated the accident.

Emory Burdick was taken Thursday to the Westerly hospital where an operation for appendicitis was immediately performed by Dr. John W. Helffrich.

New Hair Measures

The human hair may now be measured and classed as accurately as an automobile part, Charles Nessler of New York, president of the American Master Hairdressers' association, exhibited at their convention recently two machines, one called a "metrescale," and the other an "adjustable square."

The adjustable square detects the quantity of hair on the head with great accuracy. The normal human head, the instrument shows, has from 100 to 130 square inches of hair covering the scalp. The number of hairs varies from a mere 100,000 up to 250,000, depending upon the texture. Human hair grows at the rate of half an inch per month.

The metrescale analyzes the quality of the hair. It has shown that chemically the composition of human hair has a striking similarity to wool, and, like wool, it shrinks. This machine detects the rate of shrinkage, which enables the permanent waver to tell what kinds of hair can and what cannot be waved.

STORRS HENS LAID 200 EGGS IN 41ST WEEK

The hens in the Storrs laying contest again eased off a bit, just as all laying flocks are wont to do at this season of the year. The drop during the forty-first week amounted to exactly 200 eggs, which after all is relative fact that it is distributed among 1,400 birds, thus amounting to only one-seventh of an egg each. The total lay for the entire lot of pullets was 4,905 eggs or a yield of 50 per cent. This brings the total average production to date up to 160 eggs per hen.

George Lowry and his White Leghorns from West Willington, Conn., are still going strong. Their winning streak is unbroken. The best part of it is that these birds are in apparently splendid condition and show no signs of cracking. These ten pullets were again at the top of the heap with a weekly score of 66 eggs. It's of more than passing interest to note in this connection that in the more than 30 laying contests in the United States this Connecticut pen is believed at the moment to be the best in the entire country. At the time of the last official report from the John Tarleton Agricultural college at Stephenville, Texas a pen of White Leghorns from Bowie, Texas led the Lowry pen by eight eggs, but during the past fortnight the Connecticut birds have forged ahead at such a terrific rate that they have probably left in the lurch the Leghorns from the Lone Star state.

Clarence E. Lee's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Auburn, N. Y., was second best for the week with a score of 59 eggs. Readers will recall that Mr. Lee's birds comprise the only pen of any breed or variety that ever made a perfect weekly score at Storrs by laying 70 eggs in one week. It's obvious from the way in which these birds have followed through that their stunt performance was not a mere gesture.

All the other pens that get honorable mention are Leghorns. The pen owned by George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich., made third place with a tally of 58 eggs. Globus Poultry Farm at Attleboro, Mass., and George Lowry's second string pen, his understudy for the pacemakers, tied for fourth place with 55 eggs each.

Two hens in the current contest have smashed to smithereens all Storrs records for consecutive laying. Rhode Island Red No. 436, bred and owned by George B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass., has not let up for one single day from April 17 to August 13, both dates included. In other words this pullet has laid 119 eggs without missing a day, and hasn't yet missed for that matter. She's the best in this respect out of over 18,000 hens that have been trapnested in the Storrs contest since the project was started 17 years ago.

It is doubtless not surprising to breeders to learn that Lowry's birds that have been leading the contest with such a splendid record naturally include some especially good individual performers. White Leghorn No. 663 in this star pen has not missed a day since the 28th of April or in other words she has come through with a total of 108 eggs without missing a stroke. Except for the Rhode Island Red mentioned above this record has likewise never been equalled.

NOT TO BLAME FOR LOSS OF FISHING GEAR

Lobstermen and other fishermen along the Connecticut shore will be interested in the navy's denial of responsibility for loss of fishing gear through maneuvers of navy vessels.

It should not be charged that naval vessels are "mainly responsible" for the heavy losses suffered by lobstermen through destruction of their equipment by boats, declares Admiral Charles F. Hughes, acting secretary of the navy in replying to a letter from Congressman Charles L. Gifford, protesting against wholesale damage to gear.

Congressman Gifford declared that he does not intend to let the matter drop and has written Thomas Cornell, Cuttyhunk, requesting affidavits from fishermen as to the amount of their losses and further facts regarding the losses.

The letter from Admiral Hughes says:

"You refer to previous correspondence of last year and in that connection I desire to invite your attention to my letter to you of Nov. 17, 1927, which covers the investigation of the commander of destroyer squadron nine and indicates that the losses of fishermen chargeable to naval vessels are greatly exaggerated.

"Touching on the broader aspects of the situation, it is well to take into account certain considerations which I set forth briefly as follows:

"The training of the personnel of the regular naval establishment and of the reserves who will be called into service in time of war requires constant exercises, year after year, in an area where weather and navigational facilities are best adapted to the work in hand. Long experience has shown that the area which we call the Narragansett bay are (including parts of ineyard sound and waters to the westward as far as Long Island Sound) meets these requirements. Areas from Cape Cod to the northward and westward are less suitable either because of weather conditions or lack of suitable bases easy of access from training areas. Moreover, it should be borne in mind that the entire coast of New England from Eastport, Me., to Long Island is utilized by lobstermen and that their buoys and pots are located throughout these waters even in channels and fairways approaching important ports. Indeed, it is difficult to enter many ports without encountering the gear of lobstermen. If lobstermen plant their pots in thoroughfares constantly used by the coastwise shipping, it is only reasonable to assume that some loss or damage to fishing gear is unavoidable. This fact is well known to all seafaring men, and lobstermen themselves are surely aware of the risks they take.

"It should not be charged that naval vessels are mainly responsible for losses incurred. Storms and so forth contribute their share. Coastwise steamers, sailing ships and tows with their reduced ability to maneuver and avoid fishing tackle doubtless account for a goodly portion of the damage done.

"The commanders of the naval vessels are being constantly cautioned to reduce interference with the fishing industry to a minimum and from information at hand, I feel assured that sincere efforts are made to comply with the department's instructions in this respect with the result that damages from naval vessels has been and is being greatly reduced.

"The department is in receipt of a large number of letters from New England communities asking that naval vessels be sent to various ports to assist in local celebrations. These requests in many cases come from governors, members of congress and other prominent officials. These letters undoubtedly represent the desire of a large portion of the population of sea coast communities. Whenever operating conditions permit, the department grants these requests but such action makes it necessary for ships to pass through seas habitually used by lobstermen.

"To deny these requests would result in great dissatisfaction among thousands of New England citizens, yet it would appear inconsistent to continue these visits and at the same time, deny to naval vessels the use of New England waters for legitimate training purposes.

"The department desires that naval vessels interfere as little as possible with the fishing industry. Instructions to that effort were issued to commanders afloat some weeks previous to the receipt of your letter as well as in previous years. The department believes that naval commanders are carrying out these instructions to the best of their ability."

"House full of MOTHS—Expello killed them all"

The Expello Corporation, Dover, N. H.

Gentlemen: A few years ago we purchased one of the oldest houses in Dover, and found it infested with moths. The old floors seemed to be full of them. I fought them with all kinds of so-called moth-killers, but without results.

WESTERLY GIRL MISSING SINCE LAST MONDAY

It was made known Thursday by James Savage, of Stillman avenue, Westerly, that his niece, Helen Lindsay, aged 17 years, has been missing since shortly before midnight last Monday. The girl has been employed by Miss Murphy, at the Elberon cottage at Pleasant View.

Last Monday evening Miss Lindsay is reported to have attended the motion picture show at the Roseland Casino at Pleasant View and after the entertainment was in the company of a Westerly young man until about 11:40 o'clock.

Gretna, La.—"After my first child was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition. I could not walk across my room at times, I was so weak. POLISH CLUB WINS SECOND GAME OF SEASON THERMOS BEING THE VICTIM

The Polish Citizens club barged their second victory out of 12 starts Thursday evening in the Industrial League at the Academy when Arico's single drove in Bush and Kozlowski in the sixth inning for the deciding tallies. It was an interesting tilt with the lead a very frail margin for both clubs the entire distance. The Citizens went ahead with two in the second but the Thermos tied things up with single markers in the third and fourth frames and then went one ahead in the sixth to have the tail enders decide the engagement in the last half of this inning.

Murray Ellsworth played a nice game for the Thermos especially in the field while Alex Arico was the hitting star for the Citizens outfit.

Eddie Kozlowski pitched a nice game for the winners, barring wildness in the sixth when he forced in a run. It was his first league start on the mound in some time.

This defeat practically removed the Thermos as a pennant contender.

Another Crucial Game

A game that may go a long ways toward deciding the pennant comes tonight in the Industrial league at the Academy camous with the Richmond Radiators and Y. M. C. A. in the main roles. The Ironmen now stand in a tie for first place with the United States Finishers while the Yers are but a few percentage points behind, so that it can be seen what importance tonight's tray holds.

The present standing of the three who are looked upon as pennant possibilities follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Richmonds	8	4	.667
U. S. F.	6	3	.667
Y. M. C. A.	6	4	.600

Should the Richmonds win this evening the standing would be:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Richmond	9	4	.692
U. S. F.	6	3	.667
Y. M. C. A.	6	5	.545

But should the Y be returned victor the standing would be:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
U. S. F.	6	3	.667
Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636
Richmonds	8	5	.615

So there's the whole story. Andy Kotch will pitch for the Ironmen while Esther Henry Couture or Lefty Lucier will pitch for the Y. The game will start at 6:15 o'clock.

The Legionnaires landed on Jenks and Cohen in the very first inning, scoring nine runs on six hits and several errors. The Duwells played very loose ball, making a total of 10 errors. The Duwells did most of their scoring in the first inning, counting four times on three hits.

Tonight's Clash

The Elks and the Y. M. C. A. will meet tonight at Hollyhock Island in the Junior Twilight league. Although, neither of these two teams are very near the top in the standing, they seem to be evenly matched and a good game should result.

Reardon and Bamber will probably work for the Elks, while Greene and Salinsky or Crowell will be the probable battery for the "Y".

TUNNEY SAILS FOR HIS EUROPEAN TOUR

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—Surrounded by uproar and camera-clicking as great as ever he experienced in the prize ring, Gene Tunney, "private citizen," sailed today on the liner Mauretania for a walking trip through Europe.

A few hours earlier, with none but the closest friends in attendance, Tom Heney, the New Zealand challenger in Gene's last fight quietly boarded a train for Vancouver, B. C., whence he will sail for his homeland next Wednesday.

With Heeney and three of the challenger's brothers was the American girl Tom married two days after he failed to lift the heavyweight championship from Tunney the night of the great financial fiasco in the Yankee stadium. Shortly before Tunney left for the liner he had lunch with his fiancee, Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, to whom he will be married either abroad or soon after his return to the United States in "time to vote for Al Smith."

Miss Lauder did not accompany him to the ship.

A crowd of youngsters and a throng of curious lined the pathway to the gangplank. Tunney attempted to avoid the crowd and photographers but was overpowered by the throng.

Tunney's party consisted of William O. McGeehan, sports writer, Leonard Hanna, of Cleveland, and William Powell, of New York. He is scheduled to meet Thornton Wilder, the novelist, abroad. They will tramp through several countries, unless Gene changes his announced plans and decides upon a wedding in England or Italy.

PIRATES POUND OUT 11 TO 6 WIN OVER ROBINS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Pirates made it three out of four from the Robins by winning, 11 to 6, here today as the Brooklyn team said farewell to Forbes field until next season. Jim Elliott and Watson Clark were hit hard, but Bill Doak entered the game in the eighth inning with a 6 to 6 tie confronting him. The Pirates then hammered the veteran for five runs and the ball game.

Burleigh Grimes was unsteady and wild to a degree, but weathered all the Brooklyn storms to score his 21st victory and his 21st complete game. Grimes has lost ten decisions and is far from the leader, Larry Benton, but he is now all even with the Giant ace in complete games.

Charlie Hargreaves retired after being hit in the face and painfully injured by a ball pitched by Elliott in the sixth. Hemsley, who relieved him, was ejected from the game by Bill Klem for something he said behind the plate, and the Pirates were forced to call on O'Connell, a rookie who reported two days ago.

YANKEES RECOVER SLUGGING FORM AND BEAT WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—Showing some of their early season skill, the Yankees easily defeated the White Sox by 11 to 1 today in the last game the Chicago team will play in New York this season. Gehrig and Meusel claimed the spotlight by the vigor with which they brandished their war clubs. Lou hit three doubles, drove in five runs and scored three. Lanky Robert pounded out a double, and two singles to send four Yanks home. Gehrig's feat placed him ahead of Ruth in runs batted in.

Waite Hoyt had an easy time winning his 15th victory, giving the White Sox but four hits. Blankenship and Cox pitched for Chicago.

The victory failed to change the standing of the clubs, as the Athletics hammered Detroit and remained just four and one-half games behind the champions. The Yankee game was one of the fastest of the season, being run off in one hour and 35 minutes, despite the high scoring of the victors.

ATHLETICS SWAMP TIGERS BUT FAIL TO GAIN ON YANKS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Athletics overwhelmed the Detroit Tigers 18 to 6 today and earned an even split for the series, but did not gain on the New York Yankees, who gave Chicago a sound drubbing.

The Athletics put today's fray on ice with a nine-run attack in the second inning that routed Vic Sorrell. Haskell Billings, who went to Sorrell's relief, was walloped for a total of eight runs in the next three innings.

Jimmy Foxx, who hit two doubles in the second inning, also hit a home run and figured in the scoring of seven tallies. Al Simmons, Hargrave and McManus also hit for the circuit.

O'CALLAGHAN CAPTURES ANOTHER HAMMER CROWN

DUBLIN, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Tail Teann games really began to look something like the Olympics of the Irish today, when the first victory by a native of Ireland was turned in. Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan, burly young Olympic champion, threw the hammer 170 feet, 1 inch, bettering by 1 foot 5 1-2 inches his winning distance in the Olympics.

Lloyd Hahn, Boston middle distance star, got some consolation for his defeat in the 800 meters yesterday by running off with the 1,500-meter event in an easy fashion. Three American victories were added to the list in the jumping events.

One of the features of the games so far has been the consistent success of the Canadian runners and they kept their record clear today by monopolizing the first three places in the 200-meter dash and winning the 1,200-meter relay.

CUBS DOWN GIANTS IN FAREWELL TILT AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Cubs took a parting shot at the Giants today as the New York team made its farewell appearance of 1928 at Wrigley field. Chicago batters pounded Vic Aldridge and Bill Walker for 12 hits to defeat the Clan McGraw by 6 to 2 for the second Bruin victory in the three-game series. The Giants won only two of their 11 games at Wrigley field this year.

Art Nehf, the former Giant southpaw, discarded three years ago by McGraw, was in rare form and chalked up his third victory of the season over his old mates. He was in trouble in only two innings, and at these points his support rushed to his rescue with great fielding.

"HAS BEENS" WIN FROM "NEVER WAS"

The "Has Beens" might have been good sometime or other, but it seems that some youthful energy was injected into their systems last night because they played great ball and took over the "Never Was's" to a 5-4 score at Taftville in the twilight encounter and made the poorest side like it.

The Taftville team was split up and several old timers, and almost ball players, were allowed to gambol around with them. It took one of the old timers, too, to bring in the winning run for the "Has Beens" and that was a beautiful double by none other than the inimitable "Chip" Dugas.

Walter Dabrowski started the game on the mound for the "Never Was's", but the old timers made it so hot for him that he relinquished his position in favor of the stellerite "Dinty" Moore, who turned in a good game although he too, was touched for quite a few bingles. Pete Finnski went the whole game in great fashion fro the "Has Beens" and although his opponents managed to eke out a few hits they were well scattered. In fact the "Never Was's" runs were made on a couple of errors and were utterly unearned.

The losers turned in rather a poor fielding game several errors being counted up against them, and then to think that Lefty Dugas got only one hit. All in all they certainly were lucky to get three runs in the fifth. For a time it looked as though the "Never Wns" might tie the score, but real playing kept them down, and in spite of the merriment and all round good time the fans witnessed a good game, and were pleased to see that the "Has Beens" after being as good as they were in days gone by can still go in there and resurrect enough spirit and energy to trim a bunch which, as the name implies, never could play ball.

After all, the teams were evenly matched and both teams turned in an interesting game although there was one or two of the old timers that confessed that they were tired after the game.

STAGG, VETERAN GRID COACH, CELEBRATES 66TH BIRTHDAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—(AP)—The "grand old man" of the gridiron, as the football world knows Amos Alonzo Stagg of the University of Chicago, celebrated his 66th birthday today by preparing for his 36th year of coaching with as much enthusiasm for the game as on the day when he first donned the moleskins for Yale 44 years ago.

Four years before the Western Conference was formed in 1896 Stagg was down on the Midway moulding the first University of Chicago football team. Today at 66 he sees more possibilities in the game than ever before. A day seldom passes on which the oldest of America's football coaches may not be found laboring over some new combination, some new play to spring on the opposition, for Stagg's teams do not play by a set system. Their style is based on what the Midway veteran terms "controlling factors."

Interested primarily in the development of youth, Stagg enjoys winning a game, but win or lose he is always the same. On the bench he is the same quiet individual that greets his friends in his home. Seldom does he call down a player and never before his teammates. There is always a word of praise waiting for the player who does well or "Better luck next time" to the one that does not fare so well.

Hale and hearty at 66 this gray-haired veteran of the football field would much prefer matching tennis strokes with his son, Paul, Illinois interscolastic champion, than taking a vacation. And the father-son combination is no mean pair to beat, the team going through to the finals in the University of Chicago summer tournament. Stagg played as usual with his son today.

Never optimistic over the outlook of his team, Stagg is looking forward to the current season with just a little more hopefulness than usual.

Like most coaches, he has had his ups and downs with the alumni for failure to produce a winning team, but as he said: "That was in the early days of my coaching and I managed to weather all such storms."

Six times Stagg's teams have won a clear title to the conference championship and once ended in a triple tie. His record of 112 wins, 45 defeats and 12 ties with Conference teams is one of the best in the Big Ten.

Stagg came to Chicago at the invitation of President W. R. Harper, after two years of successful coaching at the Y. M. C. A. college of Springfield, Mass., and a brilliant four year athletic career at Yale. Oftimes during his first two years at Chicago he ran out of reserve material and would go in and play in whatever position was vacant.

INDIANS COME FROM REAR TO BEAT RED SOX

OBSTON, Aug. 16—(AP)—Cleveland overcame a 7 to 2 Boston lead today to win 10 to 8. A four-run rally in the ninth finally turned the tables on the Red Sox. An error by Regan on J. Sewell's grounder with two out in the ninth let the visitors score the tying run. Four hits off Ruffing, who pitched one inning and assumed the burden of defeat, let in the other scores. Morgan drove a home run over the left field wall off Danny MacFayden's delivery in the eighth.

STATE ARMORY STRUCK DURING RECENT STORM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 16—Some of the ravages of last Friday's electrical storm were not revealed until Wednesday, when it was found that a bolt of lightning had entered the Rhode Island state armory on Dixon street. The regular Tuesday night drills of the enlisted men of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) stationed in this armory having been discontinued during this month less than the usual number of Batterymen have been in the building, or the visitation of Jove's bolt might have been discovered earlier. Alexander Aitken, janitor of the building, had occasion to visit the boiler room, which is kept immaculately clean, and his surprise was great Wednesday afternoon to find the clean-out door at the base of the chimney blown out and brick, cement, soot, dirt and general rubbish scattered all about. He then visited the roof and on the west side of the brick chimney which had been rebuilt and carried up higher than the front tower several years ago he found a brick dislodged several feet from the top and a large crack in the side indicating the place when the lightning struck and followed down into the basement. Building Inspector Thomas Wills reported that from the front windows of his home at the rear of the armory he witnessed the descent of the bolt and marvelled at the width of the flash it being the largest ever seen by him. The electric lighting fuses of the armory were burned out by the powerful electrical discharge and new fuses had to be put in by Mr. Aitken before he was able to light the electric lamps in the armory. Dixon street telephones were also burned out and trouble men of the Westerly Automatic Telephone Co. had to replace fuses. On the Railroad avenue side of the armory the electric telegraph fire alarm circuit was put out of commission for the night and Nelson Himes, superintendent of alarm service had to replace a fuse near the residence of Police Officer Frank Knight before the fire alarm boxes on the circuit were again functioning properly.

The funeral of Mrs. Rebecca Francis Place Netherwood, widow of John Netherwood, was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hannah E. Jones, 19 White Rock road. Rev. Henry C. Suter, Ph. D., pastor of Grace Methodist church conducted the services. Burial was at River Bend cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Dr. Suter. The bearers were James Woodmansee, John Fenner, William Read and Norman Edwards.

Italian-American Westerly and Pawcatuck residents plan to hold a celebration Sunday at the Stillman avenue grounds in honor of the Feast of the Assumption, which was observed in the church Wednesday in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The committee in charge has arranged a program that will start with a special mass at 10 o'clock at St. Michael's church and will concludel ate in the evening with a display of fireworks at the Stillman avenue grounds. For several years past the Feast of the Assumption has been observed by a like program of events as in their native Italy.

The committee in charges consists of Antonio Italiano, Joseph DiMarco, Salvatore Folise, Joseph Catafo, Nunzio Italiano and Joseph Cristina.

Favorable weather again permitted a large crowd to attend the eighth in the series of concerts in Wilcox park Thursday night when in the absence of Band Leader Charles O. Gavitt on vacation in Boston, Charles G. Cushman directed the popular program.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Chatterer Has a Lively Time

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who jumps, not knowing where he'll land,
Doth of his fortune lose command.
—Old Mother Nature.

Paddy the Beaver held his breath at what he saw. At the very instant that Chatterer the Red Squirrel leaped from the end of the little log floating in Paddy pond, Redtail the Hawk swooped at Chatterer. Paddy heard the whistling of the wind through the wing feathers of Redtail. From his position in the water it looked to him as if Redtail had caught Chatterer, and for just a second Paddy felt very bad indeed. Then he discovered that Redtail was once more beating his way up into the blue, blue sky with empty claws. Chatterer had escaped.

"I'm glad," said Paddy, and looked over to see if he could see Chatterer anywhere on the shore.

No wonder Chatterer had made that run and jump, his one thought had been to reach the shore. He hadn't looked to see who might be on the shore. Nothing could be worse than the position he was in. To have remained on that log a second longer would have been to furnish Redtail with a good meal. So Chatterer was satisfied to trust to luck that all would be well when once he reached shore.

Now, of course, when Chatterer jumped his sole thought was of those terrible claws reaching for him. His one idea was to escape those. He landed on a stick which leaned out over the water. He ran down this and jumped for what he took to be a stump. You see, he only looked long enough to see what he was jumping for. He was really trying to look behind him at Redtail the Hawk. His idea was to dart around to the other side of that stump, and then he was sure he could dodge Redtail.

It is a question which was the most startled

His jump was a good one. He reached the little black stump all right, and then he got the shock of his life. Yes sir, he got the shock of his life. Instead of landing on wood, he landed on something covered with fur. He landed on a black, hairy coat. It is a question which was the most startled—Chatterer or the owner of that black, hairy coat. Chatterer didn't stay there. No, indeed, Chatterer didn't stay there. He jumped again as quickly as ever he could. And the instant he jumped the owner of the black hairy coat jumped, too. Have you guessed who it was? It was Cubby Bear. Yes, sir, it was Cubby Bear! Chatterer had mistaken Cubby Bear for a little black stump. You see, Cubby Bear had been sitting up, back to him, when Chatterer jumped.

Now for just an instant Cubby was quite as startled as was Chatterer. But the instant he saw Chatterer, Cubby became angry. It often makes folks angry to be frightened. With a growl that made Chatterer shiver all over, Cubby sprang for him.

"I'll teach you not to play tricks on your betters!" cried Cubby. "You think you're so smart, but I'll show you that you're not smart at all."

Chatterer didn't wait to be shown. He dodged. Quick as he was, Cubby was almost as quick. One of those stout little paws of his all but came down on Chatterer. Chatterer dodged again. So did Cubby. Back and forth, this way and that, they dodged. Then Chatterer saw his chance and ran up a little birch tree. It was a young birch. It was too small a birch for Cubby to climb very far on it. It was a birch that stood all by itself. Chatterer ran to the very top and out on the little wee limbs. He knew that Cubby couldn't possibly follow him there. Then he glanced up hastily to see what had become of Redtail the Hawk. Such a relief it was to discover that Redtail had gone off about his business without stopping to find out what became of Chatterer.

EXTRA BIG BASS CAUGHT BY J. E. BITGOOD THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 16—Joel E. Bitgood, caught the father of Beachdale large-mouth black bass, Thursday forenoon, using a strip of pork rind for bait. The bass weighed six and one-half pounds, lacked a scant inch of being 24 inches long, measured 3 inches through the back and 7 inches from the dorsal to front belly fins. The pond is being drawn down that repairs may be made to the Tanner bridge.

Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan, was reported on the mend Thursday. He has been very ill.

The Malek block on Main street, was visited Thursday by a dozen plasterers, which indicates that the building is nearing completion. Contractor E. E. Gilbert's capacity with skilled workmen to change the old to the new is seen in the fine appearance of the block. The improvements and new work since the partial gutting of the building by fire are to cost $12,000.

Hot wave No. 10 put in its third day Thursday, which was an unqualified success. The mercury at 2 p.m. stood at 94.

Arthur Shea and Miss Anna Shea are spending a few days in New York.

Shea Bros. are receiving ice from Laconia, N. H., as the result of a short harvest and an exceptionally hot summer. The houses at Dorrville still contain more than 100 tons, with a reserve of nearly that much at Pachaug, where it was cut from the reservoir and stacked, Maine fashion, in the woods that fringe the shore near the Burton and Leonard coves. Mr. Chenette is using his reserve supply from Bissville which like the Laconia ice, looks like the local grade generally harvested here. Not in a dozen years has the local crop been as thin and as uncertain of harvest as the crop of last February. One must handle ice to appreciate the tremendous shrinkage. A car of 40 tons, coming here under a 90 temperature from northern New Hampshire has to be unloaded and delivered, with a melting and breakage shrinking of around five per cent. As evidence of the erratic conditions which govern the important ice harvest, five years ago the summer ended with 500 tons of 22-inch ice remaining in the big Dorrvill houses. The harvest was only 8 inches thick. Twice the time is consumed in filling the houses as compared to times when a 16-inch cut is made.

The United States civil service commission is to hold an open competitive examination for clerk in the post office service in Jewett City. The salaries for regular employes range from $1,700 to $2,100 per annum. As the receipt of applications will close Aug. 31, 1928, they must be filed with the district secretary at Boston on or before that date.

Rev. Edwin Lewis Thornton, pastor of Oyster Bay Baptist church, is to preach at the Baptist church Sunday next. His subjects will be morning "A Covenant Relationship; evening, Five Loaves and Two Fishes. While here he will be the guest of his aunt, Miss Ruby Thornton, of Pleasant View.

Miss Delphine Beauregard has returned, after two weeks at Old Orchard Beach, Me.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society and friends of the Methodist church held a very enjoyable picnic at the Bartlett farm Thursday afternoon. Grace Lockwood and Edith Kench whose home is with the Bartlett family, arranged a program of music and recitations. There was a picnic lunch during the afternoon.

BACHELORS ARE WINNERS IN SECOND GAME OF SERIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 16—The second baseball game between the married and single men was played at Ashland park Thursday night, the single men winning 11 to 6. Next Wednesday night the final game will be played. There will be a big parade and band. The game will start earlier, as the stores are closed all Wednesday afternoon. Prentice W. Chase has ably reported the actual playing of the games for both nights, and will furnish the write-up for the deciding game.

The Single men won 11 to 6, which pretty well tells the story from a standpoint of baseball ability. The married men were simply outclassed and the offerings of Chet Stafford were pounded to all corners of the lot and he was forced to give way to the mayor, Ed Jodoin in the last inning and judging from the job that Ed did it appears that he is the ace in the hole for the married men in the final game which will be played next Wednesday.

There were quite a few new faces in both lineups. Harold Jeffers took Hal Chase's position behind the bat for the married men and was later relieved by McKenna. Bill MacCluggage in right field was another newcomer. All three of these shaned up well, but the combination could not win.

The single men also had a number of new men in their lineup, including Han Blake, Roland Guillett, of diving fame, Bill Marshall and Carroll who did a good job of pitching, replacing the now famous Cozy Dol, an who watched the game from the sidelines.

Even the umpires of the first game were relieved of the attending dangers and the numerous announcements of George Tormey, umpire-in-chief were sadly missed.

As for the highlights of the game the single men furnished the most thrills. Captain Blake hit one on the nose early in the game that went to dead center for a triple. Bill Marshall also hit that old apple hard, as did Dick Dudkowski. The thirty-yard dash was won by Chester Budkowski, captain of the married men. Joe Barry was second. This happened between third base and second, in a rundown.

Cup Leclaire at third for the single men gave a wonderful exhibition of retrieving wild throws.

Bambino Hiscox nearly stole home once, but Eudor Leclaire fouled off the pitch. Hitch however earns the right to get his name in the paper on that one-hand stab of a high thrown ball by Dudkowski.

The fans are pretty well het up over the final game and many of them figure that this second game was a frameup just to draw the crowd for the final game. There are others however who figure that the married men burned themselves out in the first game game and that the third will be another walkaway for the single men.

Love and Service

It matters not how many years
We journey here 'mid smiles and tears,
It only matters how we live,
How much we love and serve and give;
And if we love then suff'ring bears
Upon the heart—it oft-times wears
A smiling face for men to see,
Yet, Lord, the pain is known to Thee.
And if we serve as best we may
With what is ours to give away,
Then life will grow more fair and clear,
For us will shine God's purpose here.

The growth of souls cannot be told
By length of days. By what they hold
God measures us — and judgment lays—
For love with Him all else outweighs.

The largest congregation of the summer was present at the Sunday morning service at the Congregational church to hear the farewell sermon of Rev. D. V. Waln. He preached from the text "My peace I leave with you." Mrs. Edith Isham sang "Oh love that wilt not let me go." Mr. and Mrs. Waln and little son left Thursday morning for Niantic, wherethey will remain a short time, sailing from New York for Portugal Aug. 28th, where they will remain a year studying the language. At the end of that time they will go to Africa asmissionaries. They have made many friends in their three years in Columbia, and it is with great regret that everyone bade them farewll and Godspeed.

"That, sir, is my daughter," replied the partner.

"Oh, sorry," said the colonel. "I didn't know you were her father."

"I'm not," replied the other, "I'm her mother."—Times of India.

THE CHANGING FARM PROBLEM

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

The low almost dead level floor of the valley upon which my front windows look is a little too wet for cultivation. But it is ideal meadow. What local farmers used to call "natural grass land." It produces luxuriantly and year after year large crops of sweet and tender wild grass.

The old farmers saved it with pernickety care, for their experience had taught them that cattle preferred it to high-toned timothy and "did better" on it. Various analyses of the agricultural chemists, made in more recent times, have corroborated that judgment by disclosing that the wild grass is richer in actual food content than timothy or blue grass or red top or any other of the orinarily cultivated grasses.

But not ten acres of the five hundred or so within my vision have been mown, this year,—or are going to be mown. Little of it was cut, last year. Some has already begun to grow up into alder swamp; some of it is being pastured; some of it is simply being abandoned.

My own small meadow acreage is included in this valley. And the grass on it has been of unusually heavy burden and high quality, this summer.

When the haying season approached I tried to make arrangements for haying my grass cut "on shares." Not by any means on a fifty-fifty basis. Oh, no; I offered it to any one who would put in my barn two tons to every ten he took himself.

They simply laughed at me. "Nothin' doin' ".

Then, as I wanted it cut for the sake of the meadows and their future possibilities, I offered it all to anybody who would cut it. I also agreed to take two tons and a half, when cured, at the market value and pay for it.

They laughed some more. Not a human being or feminist or prohibionist or Indian untaxed would cut the grass for it.

At last, by dint of persistency and appeals to neighborly helpfulness, I managed to get two tons and a half of the fifty or more on my meadows cut, dried and barned for the feeding of Old Dan horse, next winter. It cost me $19 in wages, cash down. Which is just about double all I could hope to get for the hay, IF I could find a buyer. Last winter a neighbor who had managed to save most of his own hay sold some of it for five dollars a ton, along in March, after trying in vain all winter to get a better price. So far as I can make out, new hay, freshly cut this season, isn't worth anything in the market. There are no buyers at any price.

I'm thus detailing a bit of my personal experience because it is just like that of practically all my farmer neighbors. There are thousands of acres of good grass in this single town which will not be cut this year.

It makes the heart of the old farmer bleed to drive past field after field, already drying and yellowing to inedible straw, dotted here and there with tall bunches of rank weeds which, in another year or two, will have taken possession of the whole area and turned productive soil into weed barren or alder swamp.

Yet how can the farmer afford to pay six or eight dollars a ton for having hay cut and cured, when there is no chance of his selling it for half that amount? If he still keeps horses he can feed out to them not more than a few tons.

Why not keep cows and sell milk, perhaps you may ask.

Why not, indeed!

The state of New York, in which it is my lot to live, has recently ordered killed about a third of all the cows in town, because they "re-acted" to an official tuberculin test, administered by officials who may or may not be capable and whose verdicts are currently suspected to be amenable to self-interest. At the same time, under the prodding of theorists on city healthboards, the restrictions built around the production of commercial milk are steadily becoming more and more inhibitory. There have been for years several farmers in my town who have been producing and selling milk from herds of six to a dozen cows. One by one they are going out of the business, finding it impracticable to meet the steadily stiffening legal demands from their already small profits.

A city family spending the summer months near me in their warm weather cottage, and needing fresh cows' milk for an infant daughter, find themselves compelled to drive thirty-two miles a day to get their two-quart supply. There are farmers nearer by who keep cows for their own families, but are forbidden to sell a drop either because the animals haven't been tuberculin-tested, or because they, the farmers, can't afford to put in the costly machinery required of all commercial producers by the latest fool law.

My local county paper only day before yesterday came out with an article headed, "High Prices Paid for Milk." The article stated that one of the big city milk dealers was paying $2.37½ per hundred pounds for three per cent. milk produced in this immediate vicinity, "with the usual freight, grade and butterfat differentials." At the traditional rate of a pound to the pint, this is equivalent to four cents and three-quarters a quart, a price which the county paper emphasises in capital letters as the highest ever paid at this season by the big city company.

Farmers who have had recent experience with producing milk at present rates for labor and feed, are not, in my neighborhood at least, highly enthusiastic over the profits to be got from selling milk at four and three-quarters cents a quart, subject to "the usual freight, grade and butterfat differentials."

These city companies advertise that they make only a fraction of a cent on a quart of milk. They buy it for four and three-quarter cents a quart and sell it for from fifteen to twenty cents a quart. Nevertheless, they assert, and defy inspection of their books to disprove it, that their profit amounts to only a fraction of a cent on each quart delivered to their city customers. They are careful not to call attention to the fact that this profit is made every day of the three hundred and sixty-five. It is not a fraction of a cent a year, but that fraction a day.

Assume that their profits is actually only an eighth of a cent on a quart; that all the rest of the difference between what they pay and what they collect is taken up and dissipated in cooling and aerating and sterilizing and pasteurizing and otherwise processing the milk and in labor costs of processing and distributing. A profit of an eighth of a cent a day on a quart of milk means a profit of 365 eighths a year or over 45 cents. Now, an annual profit of 45 cents on a quart of milk costing four and three-quarters cents seems to some of us quite all that the trade ought to expect. If the dairy farmer who provides the milk could be assured a profit of four and three-quarters cents on every forty-five cents put out, he'd think he was living on Easy street! And that would be only reversing the figures for his benefit instead of that of the city dealer.

——No, the day of hay-raising on the farm is past, for the present, anyway. Of course, some will still be cut for the feeding of a few farm horses and a decreasing number of cows. But the auto has reduced the number of hay-eating horses to its minimum, and the various city health boards and legislatures are doing their best to make the feeding of dairy cows unprofitable.

Nor does there seem much chance for relief in plowing such of the meadows as are tillable and putting them into potatoes. My last New York city paper reported Long Island farmers having to sell freshly dug new potatoes at $1.37 a barrel. A neighbor who has raised his own potatoes for many years and knows his costs told me the other day he had just bought a barrel from the local dealer for $1 "and that's cheaper than I can raise them on my own land," he added, "at present rates of farm labor."

The few neighbors I have who went into the hen business years ago have mostly dropped out of it or are getting out as fast as they can. Again, labor and feed costs more than use up the egg income. One who used to keep from three to five thousand fowls, now has a couple of dozen. He is raising several acres of gadioli and finds better profits in selling the flowers to city housewives to ornament their tables than he could possibly gain by supplying them with fresh eggs for the same tables.

Years and years ago, this particular John Farmer, after vainly struggling to make both ends meet by routine farming, went into the growing of garden truck in a small way, and eventually found much better business in the intensive cultivation of ten acres of truck garden than in the usual tillage of a hundred acres of farm crops.

I know nothing about the production of fruits, berries, apples, peaches, grapes, etc., and can't say whether there is any recourse in turning to their production. The prices the dealers ask are high enough, in all conscience, but how much of them the fruit grower gets I can't estimate.

Nor are New England soil and climate eminently suitable for such distinctively western crops as wheat and corn.

What is there left for the New England farmer to tackle with any reasonable hope of a profit or even of wages?

Well, that's the real "farm problem," and is up to each individual farmer to solve for himself——if he can. One of my neighbors is solving his by raising flowers. Another has turned what had become a loss-maker into a tolerable business by producing beef and veal, prices for both of which are high. I solved mine by turning the most eligible of my hundred acres into a truck garden.

Every one of these can be over-done, even as routine farming has been. But they offer lanes of escape for at least a few in each community. There are doubtless others. But practically all the old methods are unpromising under present conditions.

DANIELSON

PHEASANTS BEING SUPPLIED BY THE STATE COMMISSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, August 16—Pheasants are being distributed in this section by the Danielson Rod and Gun club and are being obtained by the club from the state department of fisheries and game and are not being purchased by the club members, from a pheasant farm, a pheasant farm, as was stated in this column several weeks ago. The information first printed relative to the distribution of the game birds came from supposedly reliable sources, but a letter received from John W. Titcomb, superintendent of the department of fisheries asks correction be made.

The birds released in local hunting sections were consigned to the local game club through the state department and were distributed by the members of the club. The state commission has purchased from John Butler of Rhode Island a quantity of pheasants, of which the birds received by the Danielson Rod and Gun club were a part. The game is being distributed on public hunting grounds to replace those, which were victims of last year's hunting. The local club is not purchasing from breeders any birds for private hunting grounds as was understood in the first item.

Supt. Titcomb, in his letter to George Kent, of Elmville, stated that the state game commission is making more liberal allotments of game birds to the hunting organizations this year than it has in previous years. Owing to the recent regulation on migratory birds by the United States department of agriculture, shortening of the season on woodcock, hunters are requested to refrain from the shooting of grouse because of the scarcity of this species of bird.

It was announced today by George Kent of the local club that a shipment of trout will be received here Friday from the state fish and game commission for distribution in the local streams. The fish will be placed in the Stony brook, in Brooklyn, Quondock and the Mashentuck creeks. Twenty cans containing 200 of the young fish in each cylinder will be received to stock the exhausted brooks.

The annual banquet of the headquarters detachment of special troops of this town was held Monday night at Rivelview Grill, Mago Point, near Niantic. The affair was one of military brilliance from the start to the finish. Major E. L. Darbie of Danielson, commanding officer of all special troops, was toastmaster with the following officers as guests of honor: Major General Payne, Colonel Bissell, Major Gates, Major Pierce, Captain Green, adjutant to Major Darbie, Captain Edward F. Perry, Captain Pledger and Lieutenant Bushnell. Lt. Gov Trumbull had accepted the invitation to attend but at the last moment was called to Hartford on official business.

The medical detachment of Danielson and the headquarters detachment of Hartford, were also guests. The banquet was served at 7 o'clock.

The 118th regimental band furnished music during the dinner. Following the banquet a number of sketches were given by the members of the Danielson detachment.

Other events taking place at the camp was a boxing match, held Tuesday evening in which Major and Breeney of the local outfit took part. The scrap was a series of punches though both showed excellent skill and form in the squared ring. Last evening a minstrel show was given by the local company with all the old amateur stage hands in the roles assisted by members from the other military bodies. A mock court-martial was staged in which a representative of the detachment was judge advocate of the evening. He also succeeded in gaining a victory, through the clever manner in which he presented his case to the court.

Word received from the camp today indicated that the local boys are enjoying good weather and another encouraging report to the folks back home, is that the morale of the Danielson troops is perfect. The soldiers will arrive in Danielson on Sunday August 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Gallup and Miss Edith Gallup have been touring through New York state, spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Decker of St. Remy formerly of Danielson. They made their return by way of the Storm King highway and crossed Bear Mountain bridge.

PUTNAM

SUPT. OF SCHOOLS FARRIN HAS COMPLETED HIS STAFF

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 16—Leon M. Farrin, newly elected superintendent of the Putnam educational system, has assumed his position in this city, succeeding Supt. Ralph C. Jenkins, who is now head of the Johnson Normal school of Johnson, Vt. Mr. Farrin has completed the role of teachers who will teach in the schools at the opening of the fall term opening on Sept. 5.

In the high school the faculty will be about the same as last year, only two new teachers have been appointed in the Latin and French departments, to replace Miss Nancy Judkins, Latin teacher, and Mrs. Owen J. White, French teacher, who resigned in June. In their places will be Miss Jeanette Jacques in the French department and Miss Belinda Snow in the Latin course. E. L. Robinson will return as principal, and Lauriston F. Noyes has been retained as sub-master, and the following members of the faculty, Miss Abbie H. Keith, Miss Irene R. Bernier, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Miss Marjorie McGillicuddy, Miss Sara Barber, Miss Edith Kent, principal of the Junior high, and Miss Winifred Duffy of Danielson assisting.

At the Israel Putnam school, Lewis F. Battey will return as principal, with the following teaching staff: Miss Etta M. Whiting, Mrs. Carrie B. Gasgoine, Miss Emma J. Dutton, Mrs. Earl Kent, Miss Natalie Dion, Miss Lucy M. Farrows. Miss Marion Mitchell of Woodbury, Conn., has been appointed to succeed Miss Ruth Gregg, resigned. Others are Miss Ethel Strahan, Miss Gertrude Warner, Miss Mildred Torrey, Miss Beatrice Wilbur.

The Smith street school faculty remains the same. Miss Ella Ballard, principal, Miss Ruth Fallen and Miss Edith Fox.

At the Sawyer district school, Miss Angeline O'Flynn, Mrs. Bertha French and Mrs. Helen Dodge will return to their duties in September. The country school in East Putnam will be supervised by Miss Clara B. Gibson.

Miss Marion E. Mitchell of Taunton, Mass., is to replace Miss Leonora Dougan of Webster, as supervisor of music. Miss Mitchell will be employed in the school system on a full time schedule, as voted at a recent meeting of the town school committee. The department of home economics, maintained in conjunction with the state trade school, will have as supervisors, Miss Ethel Spooner and Miss Hannah Pease, there being no change of instructors in this department.

Superintendent Farrin said this afternoon that a meeting of the faculties of elementary and high school, will be held at the high school on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 4, when all plans for the coming school year will be made, including a register of the teachers.

Superintendent Farrin also wished it understood that parents should send their children to school on the opening day, and a certificate of birth will be necessary before the beginners ma. be registered.

As the school board has rescinded the compulsory vaccination ruling, parents need not furnish vaccination certificates, as has been the custom in the past.

Parents desiring an interview with Superintendent Farrin may do so by appointment, since he has not taken up his residence in Putnam yet. Mr. Farrin today signified his intentions of co-operating with the parents and faculty to bring about better conditions in the schools of the city and in the schools in the rural districts, that are under his supervision.

A small Ford truck, the property of the Howe-Marot school of Thompson, being operated by Louis Lariviere of Mechanicsville, collided with a tree on the Providence road yesterday which completely demolished the vehicle. Sergt. George Liard of the Putnam police was called to the scene and upon his arrival he found the operator under the wreck. He succeeded in releasing him from his temporary trap and found him to be suffering from a fracture of the arm. Lariviere told the sergeant that he was about to make the left turn to enter the Thompson road when another speeding car came into sight and frightened him, causing him to lose control of the car. The truck crashed into the tree.

At the Day Kimball hospital the operator was given medical attention and was immediately discharged.

The state highway department today erected large warning signs at the dangerous cemetery curve south of Grove street which has been the scene of many serious accidents. Proceeding south an autoist is now warned of the hazard lying only a few yards ahead. The sign is about four feet square and has a diagram of the curve. On the Killingly avenue road there is also a sign similar to the Grove street warning.

FINED $50 AND COSTS FOR MANUFACTURING LIQUOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 16—Officer Royal V. Scranton of the Danielson state police barracks, conducted a single-handed raid upon the home of John Syzzaka of Wilsonville, late Wednesday afternoon, and took possession of a number of gallons of moonshine liquor. Continuing his search of the property, Officer Scranton came upon a large distillery where the intoxicant was being manufactured. After taking possession of the contents of the distillery, Officer Scranton placed Syzzaka under arrest and brought him to the Putnam police station, where he was held for his appearance in court.

In the town court in North Grosvenordale this morning Syzzaka pleaded guilty to the charge of manufacturing and keeping intoxicating liquors with the intent to sell. A fine of $50 was imposed and costs of the court. The man was financially unable to pay his fine and the amount was remitted. The property taken into possession of Officer Scranton will be disposed of through the usual channels.

Late Wednesday evening a large motor coach, bearing registration markers from Ohio, passed with difficulty through the business section of Putnam. The coach was about the size of the old trolley cars and was shaped in the same manner. As it proceeded across Bridge street, its gigantic size prevented it from successfully rounding the corner on to Main street until the silent policeman was removed.

L. Hector Lucier, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Lucier of Church street, has received word from the University of New York that he has successfully passed the state board examinations in optometry. Mr. Lucier graduated from the Rochester School of Optometry in June and immediately after took the examinations in New York to practice. He is soon to establish himself in business in Putnam.

Eighty-nine members of the Fresh Air party of youngsters from New York city arrived in Putnam shortly after noon today, to spend a fortnight in the country as the guests of Putnam. As the youngsters arrived on the station platform at Putnam, they appeared to be fatigued after their long ride from the "Sidewalks of New York." At the station they were greeted by the group of social workers who made possible their visit to Putnam. They went to the Israel Putnam school where a light lunch was served and then were assigned to their temporary homes. The Fresh Airs will remain in Putnam until Aug. 30, when they will be returned to their homes.

Friday will be Governor's day at Camp Trumbull in Niantic. As in the past the various companies in training will pass in review before Gov. John H. Trumbull, commanding officer of the National Guard outfits of the state. The headquarters company of this city will also take part in the review of the forces. The company will be commanded by Capt. John J. McGarry. A few of the members of the outfit were in Putnam today but returned to the camp to be present at the Governor's day exercises Friday.

Capt. William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police returned to duty today after a three-day vacation.

The Windham County 4-H club, an organization consisting of rural boys and girls, today entered upon the first of the three-day encampment period at Camp Woodstock. It was estimated that about 50 of the enthusiastic members of the club were at the camp. The outing is under the direction of Mrs. Marion Standen Watson, county director of 4-H club work. She has a number of assistants who are also at the camp to supervise instruction.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

"Good Morning, Doctor"

WE'LL venture to guess that you and your colleagues waste less money on bootleg gasoline and oil than any other class of citizens. That's one bargain no doctor can afford.

After all, your car comes pretty close to being the most important equipment a medical man has to have. Sick patients want the doctor quick—a crippled machine is no excuse. Also, you know something about diet. You don't expect human beings to thrive on second-grade food—same way with an automobile.

You deal with reputable drug houses as a matter of course, and you safeguard your transportation by insisting on good oil and gas. It's easy to pull up at the pump that has a reputation behind it—easy, and a lot safer.

Many states now require motorists to pass eyesight tests before granting driving licenses. Anybody with half an eye can see that the Socony pump gets most of the traffic—and keeps it moving.

ANOTHER SHARP ADVANCE IN PRICES OF STOCKS WAS WIDELY DISTRIBUTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—A reduction in the call money rate to the lowest level in three months, coupled with favorable trade news and improved crop prospects, formed the basis for another sharp advance in prices in today's stock market. Unlike many of the recent rallies, today's gains were widely distributed and included a representative group of rails for the first time. The day's trading ran close to 3,000,000 shares.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and dropped successively to 5 1-2, 5 and 4 1-2, with loans reported in the "outside market" as low as 4 per cent. A slightly easier undertone also was apparent in the time money market, with loans available at 6 1-4 per cent for the first time this week. The drop in money rates aroused hopes in some quarters that the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate might be decreased, but these proved to be without foundation. Today's ease in call money was attributed in some quarters to the placing of large sums in the market by wealthy individuals committed to the long side of the market.

The federal reserve statement on brokers' loans showed a decrease of $50,654,000, bringing the total to $4,223,230,000. Loans for own account decreased $77,050,000. Loans for out-of-town banks increased $30,319,000 and loans for "others" decreased $3,923,000.

The weekly federal reserve bank statement showed an increase of about $20,000,000 in bills bought in the open market. However, federal reserve officials insisted there had been no change in credit policy, which apparently has been aimed at a further reduction in brokers' loans. Rediscounts in the New York district dropped about $50,000,000, and there was a further small decrease in the federal reserve holdings of government securities.

Motor, steel, can, public utility, merchandising, copper and food shares all presented several points of strength in today's market. New high records for the year, or longer, were registered by such representative issues as American Can, Continental Can, American Smelting, National Cash Register, Inland Steel, Eaton Axle, Sears Roebuck, F. & W. Grand Stores and Kroger Stores.

Graham Paige became the new leader of the motor group by climbing 6 points to 39. General Motors ran up 3 points to 187 1-2 but lost more than half its gain and Chrysler was under rather persistent selling pressure, closing a point lower at 95 3-8 after having touched 94. American Smelting, with a gain of 8 points at 209 1-2, the highest price in its history, was the leader of the copper group. Atlantic Refining, closing 3 3-4 points higher at 165 1-4, was again in the forefront of the oil group. U. S. Steel common closed nearly 2 points higher at 146 5-8 after having crossed 147.

Texas & Pacific, closing 4 3-4 points higher at 172 3-4, led the advance in the railroad shares. Substantial gains also were recorded by Southern Railway, Rock Island, New York Central, "Nickel Plate," Gulf, Mobile & Northern and Bangor & Aroostook. Missouri Pacific issues were in good demand on expectations of an early announcement of recapitalization plans.

Wheat rallied about 1 1-2 cents a bushel and cotton about $1.50 a bale on buying influenced by reports of unfavorable weather. Coffee and sugar prospects showed little change.

With the exception of a further break of 32 points in Japanese yen to a new low for the year at 44.50 cents on selling presumably inspired by the Chinese situation, there was little interest in the foreign exchanges. Sterling cables held steady around $4.85 5-16.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week considerable progress was made on local building operations although there was a large amount of rain to hamper the exterior work on many projects. August looms as one of the big months of the year with a number of applications being filed with Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for permission to erect dwelling houses in the city. July was the banner month of 1928 when the estimated cost of the construction work outlined in building permits amounted to slightly over $300,000.

Two houses that are to be erected by Contractor H. Monty have the foundations all in and the work on the superstructure is to start this week. The houses are being built on Asylum street near Newton street and are being built for investmnt purposes.

The work on the new house of J. C. Mara is well along and is fast nearing the completion stage. This house which is an eight room dwelling with sunporch is located on Lee avenue in Norwich Town.

The work on the addition to the Thermos Bottle Co., on Laurel Hill is expected to get underway within a short time. The addition will give the plant about 3200 additional floor space and will be of brick and steel construction. The contractor is Archibald Torrence.

In many sections of the town work on the buildings has gone on with commendable progress with prospects that 1928 will see building operations in the town exceed those of 1927. In the city to the present date the building is under the 1927 mark. The erection of the new Masonic temple at the corner of Washington and Sachem streets is the largest project and Contractor Spencer is pushing the work along at a rapid rate.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were five sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to 16 sales during the same week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $26,150 and $161,240.

In New London there were 10 sales of real estate during the past week as against 16 sales for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $26,711 and $58,240.

Building Permits

Building construction activity in this state turned upward again during the past week, following a brief period during which the totals of building permits issued in the leading Connecticut building centers were exceeded by the 1927 figures. The week's total of 414 permits issued compares with a total of 374 for the like week of last year, while the total for the week of $1,951,997 in estimated building costs exceeds by more than $230,000 the 1927 total.

July Construction in Connecticut

July construction contracts in the state of Connecticut reached a total of $9,107,600, according to F. W. Dodge corporation. Last month's total was 42 per cent. in excess of the July, 1927, record, but there was a 16 per cent. decrease from the June, 1928, record.

Analysis of the July building record showed that $4,029,500, or 44 per cent. of the total, was spent for residential construction; $1,324,000, or 15 per cent., was invested in commercial buildings, $1,136,500, or 12 per cent. for public works and utilities; and industrial projects totalled $1,005,000, or 11 per cent.

During the past seven months there was $78,299,900 worth of contracts awarded for new buildings and engineering work in this state, being an increase of 35 per cent. over the amount contracted for during the first seven months of last year.

New London

For the first seven months this year the total estimated cost of buildings for which building applications were granted has been more than double that of 1927, according to figures compiled by Building Inspector William Gunn, Jr. From Jan. 1 to Aug. 1 the estimated cost of buildings was $1,563,725 as against $552,080 for the same period last year, a gain of exactly $1,011,645. The permits totalled 358.

This is considered by officials as a remarkable record. These buildings included enough to provide for 224 families this year, with 44 of them stores and business places. Also this included 98 private garages, 11 public garages and one gasoline station.

It is also interesting to note that 36 of the structures were one-family houses and 20 were two-family dwellings.

In January of this year 44 building permits were granted, with an estimated cost of $196,15, as against 19 permits with an estimated cost of $3,500 for last year.

In February of 1928 is found 39 permits granted and the estimated cost $121,400, while in 1927 for that month there were 19 permits and $27,600.

This year in March the city council approved 57 permits with an estimated cost of $286,800, while for the same month in 1927 there were but 45 permit, the estimated cost of the buildings being but $149,200.

According to Building Inspector Gunn, there were 80 permits granted in April of this year and the estimated cost of these buildings was $278,050 as against 52 permits and an estimated cost of $65,440 for last year.

In May we find that 45 permits were granted this year with the estimated cost of the buildings $162,750, while in 1927 there were 41 permits granted with the estimated cost but $72,570.

Coming to June in this year, Building Inspector Gunn states that this was the biggest month in the history of New London with 75 permits being granted and the estimated cost of the buildings being $475,000. Last year for this month 49 permits were granted with the estimated cost being $90,000, less than one-fifth of this year's estimated cost.

July of this year was lower than that of 1927, but this is due to the fact that the majority of the building permits were granted in August, because there were three weeks in July elapsed before the regular council meeting was held, it then taking place in August. or July of this year 18 permits were granted, while the estimated cost of the buildings was $44,500 as against 52 permits for July of 1927 and an estimated cost of $105,770.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16—Late this afternoon the management of the Style Shop, 128 State street complained to the police that a new pocket book and two packages had been stolen from the store. They stated that two Negro women had been seen in the vicinity of the store where the articles were, one tall and wearing a green dress; the other a short woman. Sergeant Murphy and Patrolman Tooker went on the case and after an investigation detained two women answering the description from a Hartford bus. They were taken to the Style shop where employes and the management could not make a positive identification. Accordingly the women were released.

That the New London police are determined to break up the practice motorists have of parking overtime on State street was proved when the following auto owners' cars were tagged today: Robert F. Norris of Bridgeport; Ernest Muller, New York city; Herbert Finch, West Virginia; Mrs. Fred Hardesty, Westerly, R. I.; Henry Mahen, Niantic and Fred Bowers of 97 Union street. All were released on a cash bond of two dollars, for appearance in the city court tomorrow morning.

Local police today arrested Annie Nelso of Waterford on a charge of fornication. She was brought to the station house pending the arrival of state police. This afternoon Officer Kennerson of that body took the woman in custody.

James V. Santoro of New York was arrested today by Patrolman Martin on a charge of speeding. He was released on bond and will be tried tomorrow.

An unidentified drunken man was arrested this afternoon by a special agent of the New Haven railroad upon whose property he was trespassing at the time he was noticed. He was brought to the police station and locked up. The man was in such a stupor that he could not answer any of the questions put to him.

Peter Peterson, of 59 Willets avenue, this afternoon complained to the police of a drunk hanging around the neighborhood in an offensive manner. Patrolmen Martin and Tooker went to the section and arrested the man. Upon arrival at the police station he was so intoxicated that his identity could not be learned.

SOME SIDE WITH MAYOR, OTHERS WITH CITY MANAGER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16—The tirade launched last night by Mayor James A. May against City Manager Holt and Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander over methods employed in collecting back taxes, particularly over the jailing of Harold S. Aberg, has created quite a stir around this city. Some take sides with the mayor, others with the tax collector. From all indications there will be a stiff argument over the matter at the next meeting of the council. The tax collector, the mayor states receives a 4 1-2 per commission for every dollar collected and this fact makes the department overzealous in running down delinquents. However, there is no question as to the legality of the procedure adopted in the Berg case.

With reference to the matter Mayor May says: "Through the attitude, forcibly expressed, when the members of the council voted in majority, several unfortunate incidents have happened since the campaign to secure the 4 1-2 per cent perquisite was organized. I could cite several incidents that have been called to my attention, pathetic ones in some cases."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Yes sir, "Say It Again," is a great picture. Richard Dix never had a better one, nor has Gregory La Cava ever turned out such a comedy knockout.

We are taken to Spezonia. As a point of information, this is not another Graustark. It merely serves as a setting for our story.

The war completed, Dix is swept back to New York, but can't forget his lost love. A year passes and he determines to find her or die in the attempt.

On board ship, he bumps into "Gunboat" now a steward. Otto, (Chester Conklin), heir to the throne, has been discovered, an exile from his country, running a delicatessen store. He is very happy in his new environment until he discovers that the fates of the Ottos have not always been similar to the proverbial bed of roses.

The prince becomes friendly with the two Americans and agrees to smuggle them into his country. They arrive in the promised land as Otto's guards. He gets nervous at sight of some anarchists, and makes a leap for safety. So—Richard finds himself hailed as ruler!

Chester Conklin reaches new histrionic heights as the long-lost prince. Miss Mills is effective as Elena. And—well, to paraphrase a current advertiser, "Only Dix is all Dix." Luther Reed and Raymond Harris wrote the story. Once more, we repeat, Paramount's "Say It Again" is a comedy knockout.

Also added to this bill is Milton Sills in "The Making of O'Malley."

New Hood Tire Service

With every Hood tire there is given a certificate for an entire year's service that covers everything that can happen to the tire. Should the Hood tire cut, stone bruise, blow out, run cut, chafe, underinflate, wheel misalignment, rut wear, treadwear, faulty brakes, or go out of service from any normal cause a new tire will be given at once.

Breed Theatre

Buck Jones has a colorful role in "Blood Will Tell," his latest feature for Fox films, which comes to the Breed theatre today for a two day showing. As the owner of an immense cattle ranch, Buck falls in love with Sally Morgan, who believes herself the rightful owner of Peter's ranch.

Buck finds himself under suspicion of being the instigator of numerous holdups in the vicinity. After a series of smashing climaxes, Buck is able to apprehend the real culprits, and restore peace to a much harassed community.

Buck is surrounded by an excellent supporting cast, including Kathryn Perry, Lawford Davidson, Harry Gripp, Harry Cording, Bob Kortman, William Caress, Buck Moulton and Austin Jewell.

Ray Flynn, directing "Blood Will Tell," has worked in nearly every phase of the motion picture industry. While still in his teens, Ray played in "A Fool There Was" with Robert Hilliard. From dramatics, Ray drifted into pictures and played numerous minor roles in New York productions. Eventually he answered the call of Hollywood and was given his first real opportunity in pictures.

Flynn's progress was very rapid. He was directing comedians on the Fox lot when he was selected to direct Buck Jones in "Blood Will Tell."

Palace Theatre

"Good Morning, Judge," which opened at the Palace theatre yesterday is a typical Reginald Denny vehicle made by Universal; it has rapid action, excellent comedy and a pleasing, romantic angle.

This time the star appears as a scion of wealth who can't pay his fine when brought before a judge, after participating as an innocent bystander in a fight. Someone has stolen his wallet.

A beautiful mission worker who believes that hardened crooks can be reformed advances the sum. Denny falls in love with her and, in order to become an inmate of her mission, confesses to a long list of crimes. Later, he saves her from some of the criminals whom she thought she had reformed. She finally learns his real identity, but this doesn't halt their romance.

"Good Morning, Judge," is the best picture the star has made. William A. Seiter, who has wielded the megaphone on most of Denny' hits, directed it.

Mary Nolan plays opposite Denny and Dorothy Gulliver, beautiful heroine of the "Collegians" has a prominent role. The hundreds of laughs are partly due to Otis Harlan. In the role of an unshaven bum, whose specialty is crashing the gates at prize fights, Harlan demonstrates a superb skill at comedy, provided enough funny scenes for an ordinary picture.

Others of the supporting cast were also outstanding. The company includes William Davidson, William Worthington, Bull Montana, Sailor Sharkey and Charles Coleman.

Father (wrathfully)—Your conduct has made you th talk of the town.

Daughter—Yes, but how long will it last? Some darn aviator will fly across the Pacific, or something, and I'll have to do it all over again.—Life.

Nurse Cohoon

Calls Sykes Comfort Powder "A Healing Wonder"

Franklin, N. Y.—"I am a graduate nurse of Binghamton State Hospital and have used boric acid, rice powder, and many others in my work, but I have never found anything equal to Comfort Powder to heal the skin. This little baby's sore, chafed skin was quickly healed by Comfort Powder after everything else had failed. In fact, I find Comfort Powder 'A Healing Wonder.'"—Mrs. I. W. Cohoon, Franklin, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. For twenty years it has been used and endorsed by physicians and mothers, and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

Stanislas Benac of Dion street, Edward Kelly of upper Merchants avenue, Frank Treckman of lower Norwich avenue and Napoleon J. Pepin of Norwich avenue left town Thursday to attend the convention of the American legion at Middletown as delegates from Peter Gallan post, No. 104. On exhibition at the barber shop of Napoleon J. Pepin in the Ponemah building is a giant cucumber which completely fills a Moxie bottle. The freak was grown by Edward Marceau of North A street who put the cucumber into the neck of the bottle when it was small. After the cucumber had grown to a size where the bottle could just about hold it, it was removed from the vine and the bottle securely corked. Many who see the freak wonder how such a large cucumber could have been inserted into the small neck of the bottle.

WOLF CUBS' JUNGLE DANCES AT M. E. PARSONAGE MEETING

The weekly meeting of the Wolf Cub pack was held at the Methodist parsonage Wednesday night with the Cubmaster Rev. George Warren Potter in charge. Following the opening ceremony a number of the jungle dances of the Cubs were practiced; they brought out the various characteristics of the animals of the stories told by Rudyard Kipling. Some of these are to be followed in the forming of real cub scouts and some are to be avoided. A new game originated by the cub master was played. Just before the meeting closed Wolf Cubs Walter Kelley and Leon Ladd appeared before the pack and successfully passed their tenderpad tests and were awarded their badges.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark and Miss Vira Smith of Niantic were callers at the Methodist parsonage Thursday.

CITY REPORT MUST BE FILED BY OCTOBER 8

The quadrennial report on the indebtedness and expenditures of counties, towns, cities, boroughs and fire district of Connecticut appears again this year and is due from treasurers of these municipal corporations at the state tax commissioner's office Oct. 8. This will be the 13th quadrennial report, and the sixth to be published by the state tax department. The forms to be filled out with this information have been sent out by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett this week.

The report, which shows detailed information on the indebtedness of towns, cities, etc., the per capita indebtedness, per capita tax burden, and details of receipts and expenditures, together with other information on the financial administration of these sub-divisions of the state over the last fiscal year preceding the report, is one of the most difficult the tax department has to compile. There will be 262 such divisions, including the 169 towns, making these reports to be arranged in the bound volumes for 1928, which will appear about the first of the year.

There are 94 municipal corporations, the majority of them school districts, which are not required to make this report. It is of interest to the tax commissioner that fire districts, collecting only about $400,000 a year in taxes, are required to report, while the school districts, collecting about $1,150,000 per annum in taxes, are not compelled to make this return.

The first of these quadrennial reports, required in accordance with Section 1256 of the general statutes, revision of 1918, was for the year 1880. Prior to that, from 1873 when the first bill was passed calling for such reports on indebtedness and expenditures, the report was annual and made to the secretary of state and printed by the comptroller. The legislature of 1879 changed the requirements from annual to quadrennial. In 1877 the law was changed requiring the returns to go directly to the comptroller.

The original law of 1873 required reports by counties, cities, boroughs, towns or other municipal corporations, which included school districts. The report on the school districts was never made, however, and in 1877 the law limited the report to counties, towns, cities and boroughs. It was not until 1903 that reports were required of fire districts.

The original law required the first selectman of each town and the treasurers of other municipalities to make the returns, but in 1905 treasurers of the towns were directed to make out the reports.

Not until 1907 was the law amended to make the reports returnable to the state tax commissioner instead of the comptroller. The tax commissioner was also given the burden of publishing the reports.

The report for 1928 is for the fiscal year ending next prior to Oct. 8, 1928, whatever it may be for each of the municipalities concerned. The law sets the second Monday in October, which this year is Oct. 8, and provides for a fine of $100 for failure to file this report within one month after that date.

TO PAINT INTERIOR McKINLEY AVE. CHURCH

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the McKinley avenue M. E. Zion church plans were made to raise funds with which to paint the interior of the church. It has been some years since the interior has been looked after and it is very badly in need of immediate repair and painting. To do this properly it was estimated that it would cost in the neighborhood of $300.

A gift of $25 in gold was contributed by a staunch and lifelong friend of the church and will be used for a foundation of the fund. The few members of the church are very enthusiastic over the project and have pledged from $1 to $10 toward the fund.

Contributions may be sent to Speed Evans, 118 McKinley avenue, Rev. Edward W. Gantt, pastor, 14 Grove place or anyone having properly signed papers. The campaign will be open until Oct. 14. Work on interior of the church is expected to begin within a week.

LOCAL LEGION MEN TO PARADE SATURDAY

Members of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, this city, will participate in the parade to be held in Middletown, Saturday afternoon, in connection with the state convention of the Legion. At the opening of the annual convention Thursday, State Commander Earle F. Richards of West Haven reported that the Legion has added 706 new members and two new posts in Connecticut since the last annual meeting.

Commander Richards' report followed an address of welcome given by Mayor Frederick Bielefield of Middletown and a response by Vice-Commander William E. Smith.

The total membership of Legion posts in the department of Connecticut is now 10,561 and there are 104 posts, the state commander said. The posts added since last year are in Groton and Saybrook. He also reported that the Stonington post had been revived.

Approximately 400 members of the Legion and several hundred guests were present as the convention was called to order.

NEW JERSEY BAND PLAYING REV. FATHER O'NEILL'S SONG

Concerning the pastor of St. Edward's Catholic church, Stafford Springs, the following item is taken from The Leader of Wildwood, New Jersey. Conway's celebrated band, to which the clipping refers, has an all-summer engagement at the new half million dollar music pavilion on the five mile beach at Wildwood. This special band setting was arranged by Pedro Lozano of the same band. The Leader says:

"It is a far cry from Stafford Springs, Conn., to Wildwood, N. J., but the distance was not too great for Rev. Felix J. O'Neill of that place who arrived in Wildwood on Wednesday last. Father O'Neill, who is widely known as the Poet-Priest, came to Wildwood solely for the purpose of hearing one of his compositions played by Patrick Conway and his splendid musicians. The composition, 'On the Miramichi,' was composed by Father O'Neill, who inscribed it with the following: 'Words and Air Written in my tents at the request of American Fishermen and Canadian Guides.' It was played for the first time on Wednesday last by Conway's band at Convention Hall, Wildwood.

"The visit of Father O'Neill to Wildwood was arranged when Director Conway notified him by wire of his intention of featuring the composition at Wednesday's concert."

Both words and air of the new song mentioned were written by Father O'Neill for the guides and fishermen and logmen on the Miramichi river, New Brunswick, Canada. A camping party of American salmon fishermen, whose names are prominent on both sides of the border, pitched on the only clergyman present, to write them, then and there, on breaking camp, a souvenir poem of the happy outing. No writing paper being in his tent, Rev. Father O'Neill scribbled the verses on five shipping tags hanging to his blankets and duffle bags, and on one Christmas envelope found between the lining of an old gripsack. Six stanzas on six tablets. Both words and air were done within thirty-five minutes by the wrist watches of Mr. Curtis and Mr. Kidder of Chicago, who had timed the writer secretly and who had imposed the stunt upon him.

The poem found instant favor with the Canadian papers and the spirited air quickly became a favorite with Canada's boating and marching men. For fife and drum corps it will keep step with the good old classics. College glee clubs, too, have found it a rousing male quartet and chorus. Staged with the costumes and properties appropriate to the singing characters the piece makes a rollicking action song.

VAGRANT SENT UP FOR THIRTY DAY SENTENCE

Three men, gathered in Wednesday night as vagrants by the local police, were presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning. One of them, Timothy Shea, 48, of Willimantic, who has been in court before, drew a 30-day sentence in jail, despite his plea for leniency. His court record was against him and he was sent to jail.

Andrew Slatkowski, 45, formerly of this city, now claiming New York, as his place of residence, was allowed his freedom. He told the court that he has a job, and he was allowed to go.

Frank Sullivan, 48, of Manchester, N. H., the third man, promised that he would leave town if given a chance. Judge Libby gave him the chance he asked for and the man departed.

DRIVER FINED $25 FOR PASSING STANDING TROLLEY

At the city court session Thursday morning, Stanley Dokton, No. 265 Yantic street, was presented and found guilty of a charge of passing a standing trolley car near the city line in Greeneville. He was fined $25 and costs, the costs amounting to $13.

It was a week ago that Dokton drove past the car which had stopped to allow a passenger to alight. His machine nearly hit the passenger. Complaint was entered and Dokton was summoned to appear in court. Witnesses who testified for the state were Joseph Luvon, Taftville, Walter Hindle, No. 216 Norwich avenue, Taftville, Charles Gardner, of this city, and Lionel Paradis, of No. 39 South A. street, Taftville.

Called For Chimney Fire

The fire department was called out Wednesday for a chimney fire at No. 20½ Washington street. A collection of soot in the chimney was responsible for the call. The house is owned by Dr. E. P. Brewer and is occupied by Hank Morin and Alex McGregor.

Auto Driver Fined

In the city court Thursday morning, Edward Rakosi, an out of town driver, was assessed $2 for violation of the local traffic rules.

SALEM COURT FREES DRIVER CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Edward Lawrence, No. 134 South Main street, New Canaan, was freed of a charge of manslaughter, Thursday, by Justice of the Peace Charles Beebe, in Salem town court. Mr. Lawrence was the driver of a machine which crashed into another automobile June 25th, at Salem Four Corners, junction of the Norwich-Haddam highway and the New London-Hartford turnpike, causing two deaths. The action of Justice Beebe in dropping the charge against Mr. Lawrence, followed a verdict of Former Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond, of this city, that Lawrence was not guilty of criminal negligence.

As a result of the accident John Davenport, 69, New Canaan, was instantly killed and Edward Rutledge, 65, also of New Canaan, died shortly afterwards at the Lawrence hospital, in New London. Four other persons were injured. They were Mrs. Constance Connelly and child, of New Bedford, Mrs. Leah Tripple, of Padmore, L. I., and Mr. Lawrence.

Lawrence was driving a LaSalle car which was headed toward Hartford from New London. As the car was approaching the corners, the auto which Mrs. Connolly was driving and in which were her child and Mrs. Tritt emerged from the Gardner Lake road and headed for the highway leading to Haddam. Just as Mrs. Connolly's machine reached a point midway of the intersection of the highways, the LaSalle auto crashed into it, between the front and rear wheels.

Hoover Has Cordial Background, Assert His College Chums

The real Herbert Hoover is a man of warm heart and friendly impulses say his former campus mates at Stanford university who attended the republican convention at Kansas City.

but got an opportunity to vote for his Hicks belonged to the Lowden camp old college friends when the Lowden candidacy was withdrawn.

By W. A. WELLS
(Associated Press Feature Editor)

KANSAS CITY, —(AP)—The Herbert Hoover old cronies know is not the Herbert Hoover whose portrait in the public mind is that of a somewhat asutere, unemotional, machine-like man.

Rather, they know him as a warm-hearted person, shy and reserved of manner, yet cordial in his friendly confidences. And the picture they draw of him dates back to the time when a slender, studious youth named Hoover was one of several "under dogs" at Stanford university who cooked their own meals over a kerosene stove in batten frame "shacks" that were built for working men employed at the university.

The "under dogs" were those described by the students in a god-natured way, as those who could not afford to live at a fraternity house, explained L. J. Hinsdale of Sacramento, Cal. Hinsdale was one of two delegates to the republican national convention who were members of the same class at Stanford as the man chosen republican presidential nominee.

"Hoover never lost his sympathy for underdogs, nor in after life overlooked an opportunity to lighten the burdens of those who had to struggle as he had to get an education," said Hinsdale.

"This trait of his, of always wanting to help the underdog, gives one his first glimpse of the real Hoover. I was unusually fortunate in being placed so that I could see into the heart of him, for he permitted me to play a humble part in his first big kindness.

"Hoover, after graduation, went to work in a Nevada mine. I believe he earned $30 a month. Then he was hired by Louis Janin, a French mining man, as a sort of roustabout. There was some mine litigation pending and Hoover helped in the gathering of technical mine data in a way that amazed his employer.

"'Why didn't you tell me you were a university graduate?' Janin asked, when he charged Hoover with possessing technical knowledge that no roustabout could be expected to have.

"'I was afraid you wouldn't hire me if you knew I was a green, college youth,' Hoover told me he replied to Janin.

"The employer showed his gratitude by recommending Hoover for a mission in Australia in the employ of the Bewich Moreing Co., involving a camel ride into the desert. He was just 23 and his salary was to be $500 a month and expenses! Many years later he declined a proffered salary of a half million a year, but I am not at liberty to talk about that.

BANKER IS AN AIRPLANE COMMUTER

A leading advocate of commercial aviation, Richard F. Hoyt, junior member of a New York investment firm, has purchased an amphibian "Air Yacht" to commute from his office to his summer home in Marian, Mass.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Richard F. Hoyt, junior member of the firm of Hayden, Stone & Co., investment bankers, is putting his reputation as one of the leading business advocates of commercial aviation in this country into actual practice by using a plane to commute between his Marian, Mass., summer home and his Broad street office. The East River provides a convenient landing place at this end of the journey.

The plane, a Loening amphibian "air yacht," equipped with a Wright "Cyclone" 525 horsepower air-cooled motor, has a luxurious cabin upholstered in broadcloth and saddle leather. Concealed lockers hold equipment for lunches and card games, permitting the banker to have breakfast en route to the office and relaxation with cards on the journey home. Windows are of unbreakable glass, while an engine muffler insures sufficient quietness for conversation. The plane has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour and top speed of 130, with quick take off, considering the load, on either land or water.

Mr. Hoyt, known as a sportsman as well as a successful business man, is active in the management of several airplane manufacturing and operating corporations. He is chairman of the board of the Pan American Airways, now operating between Key West, Havana and Santiago de Cuba and which recently was awarded the government mail contract for routes to Colon, Porto Rico and Trinidad. He is also chairman of the boards of the Wright Aeronautical Corp. of Paterson, N. J., and of the Keystone Aircraft Corp. of Bristol, Pa.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

CONTROLLING BLISTER RUST

White pine and sugar pine timber in the forests of the United States is valued at $550,000,000 and several million acres of young growth promise future values. These valuable trees are threatened with destruction. In Miscellaneous Publication 22-M, "Protect White Pine from Blister Rust," the United States department of agriculture pleads for their protection from th deadly blister rust, now widely prevalent from Pennsylvania northward, from Michigan to Minnesota, and in Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

White pine blister rust is a fungous disease of foreign origin, which has the peculiarity of being able to pass the infection from one white pine to another. An infected white pine is only capable of infecting the various varieties of currants and gooseberries, wild and tame.

The department says: "When the blister rust appears in a locality, owners of white pine should promptly apply control measures to prevent loss from this disease. Any white-pine stand can be protected from blister rust by uprooting all currants and gooseberries within infecting distance (900 feet) of the pines."

The European or cultivated black currant is a special case, because it is more susceptible to blister rust than other currants or gooseberries.

KALE CAN FLAVOR MILK

It has been found that rape and thousand-head kale, when fed to cows before milking, have a decidedly harmful effect on the flavor and odor of milk. However, these feeds can be given immediately after milking without injuring the flavor of milk drawn at subsequent milkings.

MILK PRODUCTION DECLINED

Reports from many dairymen in all parts of New England indicate that the average milk production per cow on Aug. 1 was 14.8 per cent. below that on July 1, according to the monthly dairy letter by the New England crop reporting service. All of the New England statessh ared in this decline, which is seasonal.

The average daily milk production per cow on Aug. 1 for New England as a whole was only 18 per cent. greater than that of a year ago. The average of 16.04 pounds per cow this year compares with 18.82 pounds on July 1, 1928; 15.99 pounds on Aug. 1 a year ago; and 16.23 on Aug. 1 two years ago. As compared with last year decreases of 4.6 per cent. in average milk production per cow in Vermont and 5 per cent. in Massachusetts were offset by increases of 1.5 per cent. in Maine, 3.1 per cent. in New Hampshire, 19.5 per cent. in Rhode Island and 5 per cent. in Connecticut.

The net price of milk for July as estimated by the statistician of the New England Milk Producers' association is 2.45 per hundred pounds compared with 2.15 per hundred, the average for June, 1928; 2.29 per hundred for July 1927, and 2.28 per hundred, the average for the past five years.

CONNECTICUT CROPS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

All important Connecticut crops except fruits and tobacco improved during July, according to the August crop report issued by the Connecticut department of agriculture.

The production of Connecticut potatoes is estimated at 2,111,000 bushels on Aug. 1 compared with 1,635,000 bushels harvested last year and 2,260,000 bushels, the five year average crop. For New England the prospects are for a crop of 47,055,000 bushels, compared with 45,598,000 bushels, the 1924-1927 average.

Present prospects are for an almost average commercial apple crop in Connecticut. Production is placed at 236,000 barrels, compared with 186,000 barrels last year and 263,000 barrels, the five year average. Of the varieties reported McIntosh is the only one which gives promise of a crop lighter than that of last year; all other varieties show better prospects than last year and in some instances better than the large crop of two years ago. Peaches in Connecticut give promise of 226,000 bushel crop, which is larger than last year and the average. Prospects for pears and grapes are about average.

In Connecticut the tobacco crop is placed at 33000,000 pounds or 14 per cent. larger than that of 1927. A material part of this increase is due to the larger acreage planted this year. The tobacco outlook in Massachusetts on Aug. 1 indicates a production of 10,548,000 pounds, compared with 8,683,000 pounds harvested last year.

A condition of 81 per cent. is reported for Connecticut corn on Aug. 1, [illegible] per cent. at this time [illegible] 84 per cent, the 10 [illegible] collection. Oats show [illegible] improvement over a month ago. The [illegible] of 92 per cent. forecasts a crop of 380,000 bushels, compared with [illegible] bushels harvested last year and 411,000 bushels, the average crop. For New England the oat crop totals 9,316,000 bushels, compared with 8,962,000 bushels last year and 9,[illegible]12,000 bushels, the 1923-27 averages. A bumper hay crop is indicated by the high condition in Connecticut this month. Production is placed at 545,000 tons, compared with 525,000 tons in 1927 and 457,000 tons, the average for the past five years. Favorable growing conditions have prevailed throughout all the New England states, making the outlook appear excellent for feed crops. Pasture condition in Connecticut is rated at 100 per cent.

FREE POULTRY FROM PARASITES

Now is the time to make sure that poultry and the premises they occupy are free from all sorts of parasites. It is possible to dip poultry in August to kill lice without much danger from colds. Chicken houses should be thoroughly disinfected, since many parasites multiply rapidly in hot weather.

FORCED TO PAY PRICE OF SHOT FIRED AT HIM

It is bad enough to be fired at, but to be compelled to pay the bandit who did the firing for the price of the bullet amounts to nothing less than insult heaped upon injury. So feels J. H. Edgar, member of the China inland mission, stationed at Tachienlu, Szechuan province, who has returned to Shanghai. Edgar on his way here traveled in a Chinese boat, one of a string of those proceeding down the Yangtze river. All in all not a moment of the whole trip, which takes about three weeks under normal circumstances, was without its thrill. At Lunchow a soldier-bandit appeared on the river bank and fired a shot at the boats, bringing them to a halt. Immediately the soldier made for his boat and started ejaculating "Cartridge, cartridge!" Edgar expected to be mulcted of at least $20, but no, the soldier merely wanted 20 cents to pay for the cost of the cartridge he had fired at the boat. Edgar paid him 50 cents and was allowed to proceed. The Chinese passengers, however, berated him soundly for paying more than he was asked. They said he was spoiling their game.

In the Stone Age

It is known that many of the mines now worked were worked by the Romans and that the Roman miners did nothing but continue work begun by the Gauls, who were habituated to the use of metals.

The first mining was done in the Stone Age. The mines of cobaltiferous copper in Spain date from a prehistoric time. These mines are distinguished by a singular arrangement of the ways of access. Instead of horizontal galleries along the sides of the mine there are vertcial chimneys, like wells, yards deep, ending in metal strata. The arrangement of these primitive shafts may have been planned to make it easy for the overseers of the mines to watch the slaves as they worked and also to prevent the entrance of wild beasts. That the mines were worked in prehistoric times was demonstrated by the discovery of 15 skleetons of men, who, presumably, were killed by a cave-in. Some of them lay under rocks. In their hands were very heavy tools, hatchets made of stone, and picks carved from the bones of animals. The skeletons were of great height and of powerful structure; the thumbs of the enormous hands were twice the length of the thumb of the modern workman. But though so tall, the men were of excessively narrow build, as was shown by the width of the places in which they worked. The veins of clay were removed by hand, as is shown by innumerable finger marks.

The Marmalade Steeple

In Buckinghamshire, England, recently they have been making marmalade at a parish rectory and applying the proceeds to the building of a church spire. Will that spire be known to future generations as "the marmalade steeple"? That is what happened across the channel, in Roune, France, where, in 1507, the second tower of the magnificent Gothic cathedral was finished, the money for it coming from the sale of indulgences for eating butter in Lent. Ever since then the name "Tour de Beurre" (the butter tower) has clung to it. Similarly, the old First church at Wethersfield, Conn., has been popularly known as "the church that was built of onions," because so much of the money that went into it was derived from the sale of that vegetable by parishioners.

Perpetual Electrification

Electrification that last for years—perhaps forever—has been achieved by a Japanese physicist, Prof. Mototaro Eguchi, at Tokio. He has taken a simple wax mixture, melted it, and allowed it to harden while in a strong electric field between two metal plates, with the result that the wax cake retains a strong electric charge permanently. Some of these cakes have kept their charge since 1919, and show no signs of losing it.

A complete rearrangement of the atoms in the wax is the secret of this, Prof. Eguchi believes. This may cause important changes in the theory of the atom. Some of the wax cakes have retained a surface charge of 120,000 volts to the square inch.

Speed-Burning Plants

An amazing plant that grows several feet in a few weeks has been discovered in the mountains of Thibet. It is a yellow sorrel, growing only at high altitudes around 15,000 feet, and a patch of the flowers can be seen a mile away, like candle flames, against the dark moors. The sorrel is buried under the snow until June, where it suddenly pushes its way through and reaches a height of 8 feet in a few weeks.

UNION

Hay weather has been long in coming, but farmers have been improving the hot sunshine of this week. It is such a great crop this year that some have their barns crowded full, and yet more grass to be cut.

Rev. and Mrs. Herbert K. Job and their daughter, Miss Muriel Job, of Columbia, S. C., and their granddaughter, Miss Joyce Job, of Newtown, were guests of Mrs. E. C. Barrows Monday. They were en route from Amston after touring Massachusetts New Hampshire and Canada. They will soon return to South Carolina, where Mr. Job is superintendent of nature study in the schools of the state of South Carolina.

Mrs. Charles G. Fogg and her son, Edwin W. Fogg, of West Gloucester, Mass., called on friends here this week. They are enjoying a vacation at their island camp on the lake north of Staffordville. Rev. Mr. Fogg will remain a short time after his family's return home.

Miss Eleanor Carpenter of Eastford has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. H. M. Lawson.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Coolidge, accompanied by friends from Leominster, Mass., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Coolidge in Ellington Sunday evening.

Mrs. Rinda Burnham and Mrs. Hattie Phillips of Southbridge, Mass., were guests of their sister, Mrs. Lottie A. Baker, for a few days recently.

Mrs. Howard G. Barber, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Walter Turning, and family, of Hartford, recently spent a day at Niantic.

Miss Helen F. Millard of New Haven is visiting friends in Sturbridge, Mass., and in Union for two weeks before returning to take up teaching in a model school in New Haven.

Miss Mary Agard, who has spent most of the summer in New Haven since graduating from the normal school in June, is at home for a brief vacation.

Miss Ida Blodgett of Holland, Mass., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles R. Webster.

VOLUNTOWN

The 4-H club girls of Voluntown enjoyed a ride down the Thames river on steamer Nelseco to New London and to Ocean Beach for the day Aug. 9th. A picnic lunch was eaten on the pier. Bathing and other diversions gave all a good time. Some enjoyed a sail on the boat Anna, which took them out close to the yachts and sailing vessels of the New York Yacht club. The return sail on the Nelseco to Norwich, with supper on the boat, was delightful. Lionel Marion and Charles Downing met the party and gave the use of their cars to take them to and from the boat. Those who went on the outing were Olive and Marion Fletcher, Dorothy and Helen Magrey, Arline and Beverly Downing, Joyce Dupont, Gloria Marion, June Kaufmann, Gladys Bergstrom, a guest from Sag Harbor, and Josephine Bebo. Those who chaperoned the club girls were Mrs. Charles Downing, Mrs. Henry Kaufmann, Mrs. E. R. Clarke, Mrs. Albert Dupont, also Mrs. Floyd Ray, who is to be the new principal of the Center school.

Thursday morning John Potts and George Greenwood, both of Jewett City, were presented before Justice of the Peace George Sheldon, the former on a charge of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, and the latter with being intoxicated. They were arrested Wednesday morning by State Policeman Scranton of the Danielson barracks. Both men pleaded guilty. Potts was fined $100 and costs, $50 of the fine being remitted, making his total payment $64.12. Greenwood was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $17.12. Grand Juror Thomas McDonald prosecuted.

Registrars of Voters Thomas McDonald and Leonard B. Kinne were in session Friday perfecting the caucus lists for the party caucuses for selection of delegates to the various conventions to be held soon.

The local Finnish-American band furnished music for a parade in Jewett City Thursday evening last and their playing received many favorable comments.

Wednesday, Aug. 15th, the Feast of the Assumption, mass was celebrated at St. Thomas' church at 5.30 a. m. by Rev. Father John D. Carey, pastor, for the accommodation of mill workers.

Mrs. Thomas McDonald spent several days the past week at the home of her son, John McDonald, at Pawtucket, R. I.

Miss Gladys Bergstrom of Sag Harbor, L. I., is the guest during her vacation of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kaufmann.

Miss Agnes McDonald of Providence is spending a vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald.

CHESTNUT HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dimon of Wethersfield have been spending their vacation with Mr. Dimon's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Dimon.

Albert S. Peckham has been staying with his son, Myron C. Peckham, in Manchester, for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Dimon, with their guests, spent a day with Mr. Dimon's sister in Providence recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Avery, former residents of Lebanon, have been spending a little time near Norwich, where Mr. Avery was taken critically ill. His daughter, Mrs. Lathrop, of Vernon, is with him.

Mrs. A. S. Peckham, who has been a patient at Manchester Memorial hospital since July 1st, expects to be removed to the home of her son the last of the week.

THE BOERS PREPARE TO TREK ONCE MORE

Another trek is on in Africa.

The Boers are ready to march again; 1,800 men, women and children, are getting under way with 340 wagons, and 1,500 oxen and other domestic cattle.

This time the Boers trek south. Usually they have moved north and west; from Cape Town north to Transvaal, from Transvaal to Rhodesia, from Rhodesia to Angola. But now their covered wagons will creak behind the slow-moving oxen plodding south from Angola.

Boer families have packed their goods and are ready to travel from 800 to 1,500 miles to new homes in South West Africa. In this territory, which has been taken over from Germany by the Union of South Africa as a mandate, 1,600 acres has been set aside for each Boer family that will trek from the Portuguese colony.

"The regal generosity of the government's gift of land is tempered by the geography of South West Africa," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Where it takes a good many acres to keep one cow in grass, as it does in arid South West Africa, 1,600 acres is not such a large farm. The acreage offered to the Boers, who are a colony that fled into Angola after the Boer war, is in the vicinity of the villages of Grootfontein, Gibeon and Gobabis, all of which lie in the uplands. Their coming will by no means crowd the protectorate in which live only 24,000 white people, scattered over an area one-third the size of the United States east of the Mississippi.

"Like eastern United States, South West Africa has a coastal plain between ocean shore and highlands. Unlike the eastern plain in the United States, Africa's plain is a sandy desert, wind-blown, dune furrowed, 800 miles long. However, a sufficient rain falls in the uplands to permit grazing. Yet there is not a forest in the whole 300,000 square miles.

"About 250,000 natives live in South West Africa. Of this number the Hottentots only have a reputation that goes far beyond the borders. White men listened to them talk. Their click language rattled along like conversation in any zoo monkey cage and the first explorers said it sounded something like hot-ten-tot. So Hottentots they became.

"Diamonds are South West Africa's staple product although the uplands support 600,000 cattle and some sheep. There are a few copper mines. But diamonds in the gravel deposits on the desert coast provide the chief income for citizens and for the government. A long search has been kept up for the mother lode containing the gems. A recent discovery may have disclosed the source of gems on the diamond coast.

"South West Africa is the site of the solar radiation station maintained by the National Geographic society in co-operation with the Smithsonian institution. Because South Africa's weather is nearly all one kind and that sunny and clear, Mt. Brukaros, a lonely pinnacle rising out of the Fish river valley, was selected as a solar observation post. Records of minute variations in heat radiated by the sun are cabled to Washington from this desolate country. Combined with observations from Chile and California, the figures obtained may supply the secret of long-range weather forecasts. Scientists are testing the theory over a period of years."

Golfing Around the House

The 34-stroke par of the Pierre (S. D.) Country club's golf course has been raised one stroke because of the obstinacy of a recluse who built himself a house on the links. The hermit had lived for years in a shack on the Missouri river bank, but when the city acquired the river front for a park it drove him out. The golf course is situated on a subdivision laid out 11 years ago and cut into lots. Nobody built on any of the lots and the Country club acquired them for links. Many of the owners lived in distant states and had all but forgotten the property. The recluse recalled that among his few worldly possessions was a lot on the golf course. He located it, and hastily constructed a hut. The next day golfers found it looming 30 yards from the tee of the fifth hole, squarely blocking the green. The owner asked too much for the lot. So the house will stay, the golfers will use a mashie from the tee, and par for the hole will be five instead of four.

The petrified skeleton of a frog which may have done its jumping in the Eocene period was found at a depth of 355 feet by workmen sinking a shaft in the construction of San Francisco's aqueduct system.

STEAMBOAT RACE ON OHIO RIVER THRILLS THOUSANDS

View of Ohio river stern wheelers, Chris Greene, right, a steel vessel, and the Betsy Ann, left, a wooden boat, racing from Cincinnati to New Richmond, O., thrilling thousands—the Chris Greene pushing into an early lead, and finishing a victor over the 26-mile course by two minutes. Antlers, won by the Betsy Ann, a 15-year-old craft, in past races on the Mississippi, now go to the four-year-old Chris Greene. Inset is of Frederick Way, Jr., left, president of the packet company owning the Betsy Ann, congratulating Captain Chris Greene, right. Captain C. H. Ellsworth, of Betsy Ann, is seen in center.

CHARGES ARE PILING UP AGAINST BROKER TOOMBS

Toombs Remains in Seclusion as Detectives Are Seeking to Serve a Warrant Charging Larceny of $85,000—New Warrant is One of Several Against Toombs, Who is Blamed For Placing the International Insurance Company on the Verge of Failure.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—(AP)—Roy C. Toombs remained in seclusion today while detectives sought the investment broker, banker and insurance executive on a warrant charging larceny of $85,000.

The warrant was one of several issued for the man whose financing as head of the International Life Insurance company of St. Louis and Toombs and Daily, Chicago brokerage firm, is blamed for placing both companies in circumstancies little short of failure.

The specific charge of larceny under which Toombs' arrest was asked today was placed against him by St. Louis authorities. Assets belonging to the company totalling more than $3,000,000 are unaccounted for and it was alleged Toombs had converted much of them to his own use.

Toombs was accused also of mishandling securities and assets of his brokerage firm in the petition which brought about its receivership this week. Federal authorities have begun an investigation of the brokerage concern, directed at possible frauds through United States mails. Liabilities of the company amount to more than $5,000,000, Edward J. Hess, U. S. district attorney said he was informed.

Toombs has denied he acted illegally in any of his transactions. He contended the charges were made against him in efforts to force him from control of the companies.

His counsel, Eugene L. McGarry, said efforts to extradite Toombs to St. Louis would be opposed. Extradition papers have been requested.

Toombs was arrested last Saturday at the request of St. Louis authorities but released a few days later under a writ of habeas corpus.

J. J. Lemen, assistant circuit attorney of St. Louis who brought the warrant for Toombs arrest, said he had had a telephone conversation with Toombs during which the broker said he would submit to arrest tomorrow.

ANDREWS TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE IN GOBI DESERT

PEKING, China, Aug. 17—(AP)—Encounters with brigands, terrific sand storms, a thickly populated fertile land of 20,000 years ago that is now a desert, and fossil remains of an enormous beast which ate itself out of existence, were described today by Roy Chapman Andrews and his expedition on their return from the great Gobi desert of inner Mongolia.

They returned laden with relics, some of them 150,000 years old, and others showing a remarkable stage of stone age culture. But they did not discover what was most sought, a trace of the ape-like stem of mankind, popularly known as the "Dawn Man."

Sand came nearer halting the expedition than did the brigands. Andrews, no tyro in Mongolian exploration said the weather was the worst he had ever encountered. Late in May and all through April they were besieged day and night for six weeks by terrific sand storms, the fine, flinty grains penetrating the tightest wrapping. At times it was impossible to leave the tents and the automobiles were almost buried in sand drifts. Conditions became so unbearable that some of the Mongols threatened to commit suicide.

The discomfort of the leader was increased when he accidentally shot himself in the leg. Sand got into the surgical and medical supplies, making it difficult to treat and dress the wound.

Brigands beset the explorers early in their drive westward from Kalgan in the northwest section of this province, appearing in the guise of friendly soldiers and inviting the expedition to a tea party. But the ruse did not work. When the motorized caravan rolled up to the spot selected by the brigands, the chauffeurs were stepping on the gas and every man who had his hands free grasped a loaded rifle. The brigands gave chase but were quickly outdistanced.

In the region of Erhlien the explorers found a new fossil area in ancient lake beds, and east of Erhlien they came upon the traces of the oldest inhabitants, known to scientists as "Dune Dwellers."

Thousands of relics were found, showing numerous phases of a stone age culture of 20,000 years ago. The country was more thickly populated then than now, and instead of the desert there were trees and lakes and plentiful annual rainfall.

REPORT VIOLENT ANTI-ITALIAN DEMONSTRATIONS

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 17—(AP)—Newspaper advices from Spalato and Sebenico today said that violent anti-Italian demonstrations had broken out in those cities and that in both cities had clashed with the police and gendarmes.

At Spalato the gendarmes employed bayonets to prevent the storming of a cafe where the Italian consul was dining and a number of demonstrators were injured.

The Italian minister has formally requested the governments to provide protection for Italian agents in Dalmatia.

Reports from Rome last night said that the Italian minister in Belgrade had been instructed to enter a formal protest concerning a demonstration at Spalato Wednesday night during which the Italian consul was slightly injured.

SOLDIER CONFESSED PLOT TO HOLD UP BANK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 17—(AP)—A plot to hold up the Fort Sam Houston bank, steal an army airplane and escape into Mexico was confessed today by Private Robert Carl Ellis of Rockwell field, Calif.

The soldier's plans for the daring coup went awry with his arrest on the charge of robbing a grocery store in California.

He told arresting officers he planned after holding up the bank to steal a military plane at Dodd field and fly into Mexico. He said he had had enough flying experience to get a plane off the ground and land it.

Army officers said Ellis would be returned to Rockwell field to face the grocery store robbery charge.

NEW YORK TO ROME PLANE IS AT BRAINARD FIELD

HARTFORD, Aug. 17—(AP)—The Bellanca plane, in which Cesare Sabelli, Roger Q. Williams and Piero Bonelli plan to fly from New York to Rome, landed at Brainard field early this morning and is in the hangar of the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company for another check on its Hornet motor. The plane has been flown to Hartford several times already and the reason being for further checks on the engine, although each time Count Sabelli has asserted that it was in perfect condition.

It was expected that the flyers will return to Roosevelt field, L. I., tomorrow.

BODY OF BOY TAKEN FROM WATER AT OCEAN BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17—Abe Yampolsky, 16, who had been residing with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watchinsky, 39 Summer street, was drowned in a mysterious manner at Ocean Beach this afternoon, for none of the bathers or those from the shore observed the young man in distress, and the first knowledge that a fatality had occurred was revealed when the body was accidentally found. Yampolsky went to the shore early in the afternoon and donned a bathing suit and then started to enjoy the bathing. What happened to cause his demise is not known, for when Kenneth Eddman, of Jersey City, N. J., was walking in water of the depth of about four feet, he stumbled upon the body lying on the bottom of the beach. He summoned assistance and the body was brought to the shore, where it was quickly identified. The body was taken charge of by the police until Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman had arrived at the shore, and with that official obtaining such facts as were obtainable concerning the drowning, permission was given to remove it to an undertaking establishment.

It is believed that the youth suffered an attack of indigestion, which affected the heart and that he sank from view without uttering an outcry. The boy's parents are in Europe where they have been for some time.

COOLIDGE HAS REPORT ON PUBLIC UTILITIES

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 17—(AP)—Evidence so far as obtained by the federal trade commission in its investigation of the activities of electric public utilities appears to President Coolidge to call only for state action and not for federal legislation.

Before finally determining, however, whether he will have any recommendations to make to the next congress regarding power companies, the chief executive will await the report of the federal commission and study the conclusions it will have derived from its inquiry.

As far as Mr. Coolidge knows the only connection which the federal government has had with the power concerns investigated has been that in certain cases permits for damming navigable streams have been issued by Washington. The interstate trade done by the utilities in question is very small, Mr. Coolidge has been informed, and the central government could not even interest itself in them on account of interstate commerce commission.

President Coolidge is therefore confirmed in the opinion he formed several months ago, when the investigation first opened, that the problems arising from public utilities could best be dealt with by the individual states through their own legislatures.

N. Y. POLITICAL PARTIES UNDER FEMININE CONTROL

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—The very thing that anti-suffragists used to hold up as a threat in the days before women got the vote happened in New York state this week.

The state's two major political parties, through removal by death and illness of their male leaders, found themselves under feminine rule.

Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, succeeds at least for the time being the late George K. Morris as chairman of the republican state committee in New York.

Mrs. Daniel O'Day, widow of a Standard Oil official, has become, through the retirement because of ill health of Lieut. Gov. Edwin L. Corning, chairman of the state democratic committee.

Here is the very situation, and during a presidential campaign, too, supposed to make any man's hair stand up on end.

Now that it has happened, nobody seems to mind it at all. By their masculine associates who have now become their subordinates both Miss Butler and Mrs. O'Day were taken quite as a matter of course today.

MADE HIMSELF UP AS OLD MAN TO COMMIT SUICIDE

BOSTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—Robert Noble, Boston actor, was only 25 years old but when he ended his life the other day he was taken for a man of 65. It was not until an autopsy was performed three days later that the lines in his face and his gray hair were discovered to be part of the actor's makeup.

Noble, who played character roles, was threatened with blindness, became discouraged and decided to end his life. He went to his rooming house, made himself up as an old man and turned on a gas jet. The physician who pronounced him dead never saw the deception and police failed to note that the lines of age were painted lines and that the gray hair was false.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Aug. 17—(AP)—Louise Groody, American musical comedy star, left the American hospital after being treated for injuries sustained yesterday while diving at the Lido pool. She had recovered fully.

COWES, England, Aug. 17—(AP)—The king's yacht Britannia collided with her escort the minesweeper Selkirk in Cowes Roads and was unable to compete in the Royal Victoria Yacht club's regatta.

WAIMEA, Hawaii, Aug. 17—(AP)—Captain James Cook, the British navigator who landed here in 1778 after seeking a northwest passage and made the Hawaiian islands known to the world, received international tribute here when a stone shaft was unveiled in his honor on the spot where he came ashore.

RAISING OF BRITISH SUB SOLVES NAVAL MYSTERY

LONDON, Aug. 17—(AP)—A naval mystery of nine years standing has been brought to light by yesterday's announcement from Leningrad that the British submarine L-55 had been raised in the Baltic, for apparently the British admiralty had never known just how the submarine was lost.

A brief communique was issued on June 12, 1919, announcing that an unnamed sbmarine, operating in the Baltic, was missing and that it was assumed that she had been lost with all hands. The relatives and next of kin were notified. That was all that the British public knew until yesterday's Leningrad news.

A Russian technical commission is making an investigation to establish whether the vessel was destroyed by Russian shell fire during fighting while the British were helping the white Russians against the bolshevists after the war, or whether she collided with a mine while submerging.

It appears, according to the Russian account, that when the conning tower of the L-55 appeared above the surface of the water, the Russian destroyers Azard and Gavril began to shell it. After a few minutes an enormous cloud of black smoke arose, a dull detonation was heard and the submarine sank.

SMUGGLERS BETRAYED BY GREED AND SPITE

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—Two very human if not very admirable attributes of mankind—greed and spite, are among the greatest aids of the government in checking the flow of smuggled merchandise from Europe, now at its annual peak with the rush of the summer tourist travel.

That the flow is checked is indicated by a recent annual customs report showing that in a year's time the government collected $500,000 in fines, seizures and forfeitures, about 75 per cent of that amount being paid by women.

The most recent victory of the customs agents was the arrest of Sender Horowitz, found to have $100,000 worth of undeclared diamonds when he walked off an ocean liner. He now is waiting action of the federal grand jury.

When Horowitz was arrested the official announcement was merely that agents had "acted on information supplied." Assistant Solicitor George Brewer was asked at the customs house today just who gives such information, and why.

TUMULTUOUS GREETING FOR HOOVER AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, republican presidential nominee, arrived today from his Stanford University home to receive a tumultuous greeting from thousands of Los Angeles citizens and a formal welcome from Mayor George E. Cryer at the city hall.

This was the third stop on the southern California itinerary, the first having been in the forenoon at Santa Barbara where he visited the ancient Spanish mission at a number of the great estates and gardens of Monteito, just outside that city.

Accompanying the presidential nominee were Mrs. Hoover, his son Allan, George Akerson, his secretary, and a number of political leaders, close personal friends and newspaper correspondents and photographers who came west for the notification ceremonies at Stanford University last Saturday.

APPROVAL VOTED OF NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

BOSTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—Approval of the New Bedford textile strike was voted by the American Federation of Textile Workers at the closing session of its 13th annual convention today. The federation voted to appropriate $200 for the general strike fund of the New Bedford operatives.

James Tesney, of Fall River was reelected president for the 13th time.

Others officers are: Vice Presidents William McNamara, Adelard Desnoyers, both of Fall River and Peter R Robitaille, Baltic, Conn.

ONE BANK ROBBER KILLED AND ANOTHER CAPTURED

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 17—(AP)—One robber was killed, another captured and two policemen were shot following the hold-up of the Pasadena National bank here today.

Motorcycle Policeman Fred Walker received wounds in the neck and chest which may cause his death when he met the robbers in an alley as they left the bank.

After shooting Walker the men took the highway to Alhambra but R. L. Schab, policeman, in a running gun fight with them, killed one and forced the other to surrender.

MARY GARDEN DENIES REPORTS OF ENGAGEMENT

NICE, France, Aug. 17—(AP)—Mary Garden tonight denied reports that she was engaged to be married to Pierre Plessis, a young French journalist and author.

"He is my friend but I am not getting married yet," the celebrated diva told the Associated Press.

Rumors in Paris were to the effect that the engagement had been announced at a dinner given aboard the yacht on which Miss Garden and M. Plessis are guests for a Mediterranean cruise.

NEW CABINET SWORN IN FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 17—(AP)—A new cabinet headed by Dr. Frederick Allardyce was sworn in today to succeed the Monroe government. Premier Monroe has a place in the new cabinet with Samuel Milley, Alexander Robinson, Michael Sullivan, William Walsh, William Howley, Samuel Foote, Henry Winter and James Ayre, minister without portfolio.

Crest Of Flood In South Has Passed

Toll Has Been Eleven Lives and Millions of Dollars Property Damage.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17—(AP)—Eleven lives and several millions of dollars property damage stood as the cost of this week's storms and floods in five southeastern states tonight as the flood waters drained toward the sea and cities, towns and communities emerged from isolation.

Ruin from raging waters stretched through the valleys of streams from northern Virginia to the Lake Okeechobee district of Florida. All of the dead except one were inhabitants of the Carolinas or Virginia. One man was killed in Georgia.

Crops, highway and railways suffered the most extensive damage, although property losses were severe in some sections as a result of cyclonic winds and inundations. Thousands of acres of growing crops virtually were destroyed and additional destruction was expected before the waters have passed off.

Asheville, N. C., tourist center, was among the cities, isolated by the flood, but quickly reestablished communications. Railway service was completely restored today and work on patching damaged highways progressed swiftly.

Macon, central Georgia city, had most of the communications facilities there open for travel, including the railways which have repaired washouts and restored usual service to all points today. Wilkinson county, Ga., emerged from its isolation, and Milledgeville, Oconee river town, saw the flood waters drop five feet, relieving acute situations there.

No estimates of the damage to highways in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were available, but Georgia officials announced that $300,000 would be required to restore highways torn by the flood torrents. Florida estimated a similar sum unofficially.

Meanwhile, the Savannah river which reached its full line at Augusta, Ga., was raging beyond its banks tonight as the crest of the floods bore down from the mountains. Hamburg, S. C., across the stream from Augusta, was inundated and several hundred inhabitants had fled to higher ground. Augusta, protected by a nine mile levee, was safe and dry. The weather bureau said the river was higher than ever before recorded.

Telephone and telegraph facilities had been restored to nearly all sections tonight, but some places will see no rail or highway traffic for a week, since extensive repairs will be necessary before traffic can move again.

SIX PERSONS DROWNED WHEN BOAT CAPSIZED

GUADALAJARA, Mex., Aug. 17—(AP)—Six persons were drowned including two children and two women when a boat capsized on Lake Chapala today. Two other children and the members of the cre wwere saved.

Cuba has accorded formal recognition to the Nationalist government of China.

Flight For Sweden Delayed By Weather

Hassell and Cramer May Take-Off For Greenland Today on Second Leg

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 17—(AP)—Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford, Ill., fliers bound for Sweden, were held on the ground today by stormy weather. If the weather is favorable they will take off tomorrow for Mount Evans, Greenland, on the second leg of their flight to Stockholm.

Their plane, the Greater Rockford, is all tuned for an immediate start. The gasoline tanks are filled and the runway is in good shape despite the rain.

Hassell and Cramer rested today as guests of Cochrane, and when ever they appeared on the streets were the center of admiring throngs. The first lap of their journey, the 800 mile flight from Rockford here, was made in 7 hours yesterday.

OFFICIAL COUNT WILL DECIDE PRIMARY CONTEST

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17—(AP)—Only the official vote as declared by the secretary of state after a canvass of the certified count by the 88 county election boards will determine whether Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, or Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati liberal, has received the democratic nomination for the short term United States senatorship.

A complete recheck of the vote, the majority of which still is unofficial, gave hunt the slender lead of 96 over Locher who had the endorsement of the Anti-Saloon league.

Hunt started out the day with a lead of 445, but corrections and revisions in the unofficial vote of many counties and the reporting of the official vote by others cut his lead down. The complete recheck gives Hunt 93,566 and Locher 93,470.

The contest is so close, the office of the secretary of state declared, that the final result can be obtained only through a compilation of the vote from the official abstracts which the county boards will mail in.

MRS. ERMA M. LYON GRANTED ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Erma Maier Lyon was granted an annulment in the superior court here today of her marriage to Captain Harry Lyon, Jr., navigator of the airplane Southern Cross. Lyon is en route to Paris Hill, Maine, to greet another wife, Mrs. Jane Lyon.

Sylvester J. McAtee, attorney representing Mrs. Lyon, testified that Lyon admitted in San Francisco six weeks ago that his first wife was living and that there never had been a divorce.

Lyon, en route to Paris Hill today denied he was the husband of the San Francisco woman. His mother and his wife, Mrs. Jane Lyon, joined in declaring at Paris Hill that Mrs. Erna Meier never had ben Lyons wife.

But marriage license records here bore out the womans claim and she was granted an annulment.

STRONG LANGUAGE IN REV. STRATON'S REPLY TO GOV. SMITH'S CHALLENGE

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 17—(AP)—Dr. John Roach Straton tonight made public a letter to Gov. Alfred E. Smith in which the pastor asserted that failure of the governor to meet him in joint debate in any place designated by Dr. Straton "will automatically brand you before the world as a bluffer, a Tammany trickster and a coward."

The letter is in reply to a communication from the governor demanding a "yes or no" answer to his request that Dr. Straton afford the governor an opportunity to answer in Calvary Baptist church the charge made by the pastor from the pulpit two weeks ago that Governor Smith "is the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

Declaring that his answer is "emphatically and unchangeably 'yes'," Dr. Straton reiterated his demand that he be permitted to choose the meeting place, which he has insisted shall be other than Calvary Baptist church.

The full text of Dr. Straton's letter follows:

Dear Governor Smith.

Your letter of Aug. 14 to hand.

You have challenged me to a debate, or a joint discussion of my allegations that your record proves you, as a candidate for the presidency of the United States, to be "the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

I have definitely accepted the challenge, and stand ready to meet you face to face and submit my proof and to give you every opportunity to reply.

As the challenged party, I stand on the time-honored privilege of naming the place for the discussion, and shall name a place that will not arouse sectarian bitterness nor drag the religious issue into the contest.

The vital point is that you have challenged me to a joint discussion of your record and not to a personal appearance in a church. You have asked whether I would meet you, and your last letter demanded a reply of "yes" or "no." My answer is emphatically and unchangeably "yes."

Unless you now stand up to your own challenge, your action in running to cover will leave me free to take whatever steps in the matter I may deem wise and right, and will automatically brand you before the world as a bluffer, a Tammany trickster, and a coward."

REPUBLICANS GATHERING FOR CURTIS' NOTIFICATION

Topeka is Gaily Decorated With Flags, Bunting and Insignia to Honor the Republican Vice Presidential Nominee—In His Speech of Acceptance Today "Charlie" Curtis Will Plead For a United Party—Exercises Will Start at 5 P. M. Central Standard Time—A Musical Program Will Get Under Way an Hour Earlier

TOPEKA, Aug. 17—(AP)—In the heart of America's farm lands where the party fought its pre-convention battle, republican hosts were assembling tonight to join with Kansas in its celebration tomorrow at the formal notification of Senator Curtis of his nomination for vice-president by the republican convention.

Kansas stood by Senator Curtis to the end in his fight for the presidential nomination and it is going to make the most of its opportunity to honor its senator as the vice-presidential nominee. Curtis offered the pipe of peace after his defeat for the presidential nomination when he took the platform at the Kansas City convention upon his nomination for vice-president and called for a united party. Tomorrow he will reiterate that declaration.

Arriving republican leaders from all sections of the country found Topeka gaily draped with flags, bunting and colorful insignia. While the national political leaders talked over politics generally they found the Kansans thinking principally of the prices for their bumper crops and the celebration for "Charlie" Curtis.

From almost every place of prominence hung a large picture of Senator Curtis. It is the same picture which predominated in this state in the republican presidential race and it still stands alone.

Next week when Herbert Hoover, the party's presidential nominee, travels across this state on his return to Washington, the Kansans will give him their attention. Senator Capper and David Mulvane, republican national committeeman for the state, will go with Mr. Hoover to Westbranch, Iowa, where he will expound again his views on agriculture.

While Senator Fess of Ohio, who will notify Senator Curtis of his nomination tomorrow, and a delegation of New Yorkers headed by Matthew Quay Glaser, reached Topeka today, the vice-presidential nominee gave his attention to meeting members of the family, who came from the east. He was at the station with a sister, Mrs. R. Colvin, of this city, to welcome another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann of Washington, and his daughter, Mrs. Leola Curtis Knight of Providence, R. I.

The exercises will start at 5 p. m., central standard time, although a musical program by several bands will get under way an hour ahead. Gov. Ben Paulen will introduce Senator Fess, who in a brief address will notify Senator Curtis formally of his nomination. In a speech expected to take about 30 minutes for delivery, Senator Curtis will accept the nomination and give his first expression of the pending campaign.

27 RADIO STATIONS WILL BROADCAST NOTIFICATION

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 17—(AP)—Twenty-seven radio stations will broadcast the official notification tomorrow of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas of his nomination by the republican party for the vice presidency.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio will inform Senator Curtis of his nomination. The nominee will be escorted to the state house at 4:30 p. m., and the ceremonies will be started at 5 p. m., central standard time.

Amplification devices will make it possible for those gathered in front of the state house to hear the ceremony, while the radio audiences will be served by the following stations:

SOLD ILLICIT LIQUOR TO INTERNAL REVENUE AGENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—Roger Radonan is an ambitious young salesman. Federal agents say he has peddled red wine, champagne, cordials and other illegal beverages to busy downtown business men. But Roger made one sale too many. It happened this way:

Radonan called on a prospective client yesterday with a likely line of samples.

"I'm sorry," said the man, "but I don't drink. However, I'll send you to a fellow you ought to see—Hugh McQuillan. You'll find him in the old Post Office building. And—he's always on the lookout for good stuff."

"All right," replied Radonan. "Thanks a lot." He was off for the Federal building.

"I want to see Mr. Hugh McQuillan," said Roger to attendants. He was directed to a small office on the mezzanine floor. There was no name on the door, but Mr. McQuillan was there just the same and received Roger cordially. In fact, he gave him an order for six cases of liquers to be delivered at an uptown address where one Edward Carrette would receive them.

When Radonan delivered the goods today he had no trouble finding Mr. Carrette. In fact, that gentleman was waiting for him—with a federal warrant. Only then did Roger learn that Hugh McQuillan is chief of the intelligence unit of the internal revenue office and that Mr. Carrette is an agent of that department.

The young man was held for a hearing.

DISCOVERY MADE OF PLOT IN JUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 17—(AP)—Belgrade newspapers today declared that the government had discovered a conspiracy for a coup d'etat, with headquarters in Zagreb. Thirty former Austrian officers were said to have been implicated.

The reports of a conspiracy were strongly denied by Croatian leaders at Zagreb.

Rumors of possible trouble in Croatia, even of civil war, have been rife in Belgrade since the death of Stefan Raditch, leader of the movement for an autonomous state in the Jugoslav kingdom.

The situation was more disturbed two days ago when the parliament at Belgrade, sitting without the Croat and Serbian agrarian deputies, ratified the Nettuno conventions with Italy which the absent deputies had bitterly opposed.

BUSY DAY FOR THE DEM. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 17—(AP)—Kept as busy as the old woman who lived in a shoe, Governor Smith was given a hot weather sample today of what it means to be governor of a great state and a presidential nominee at the same time.

The governor's activities for the day, as he turned from one detail of state or campaign business to another, ranged from posing for talking movies to political conferences with two party leaders—Senators Walsh of Montana and George of Georgia.

As he struggled to clear his desk, the nominee looked forward with relish to a relatively quiet week end, and a brief rest before the delivery of his acceptance espeech, which he has completed but has not memorized, from the east steps of the state capitol at dusk next Wednesday evening.

He has no conferences on his calendar for tomorrow or Sunday, and intends to take it easy, but probably will be called on early next week to talk over the political situation with various democratic leaders, as they arrive in Albany for his official notification.

TO BE SENTENCED FOR INSURANCE FRAUDS

NE WYORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—Assistant United States Attorney Mintzer said today that Daniel J. Kelly, who pleaded guilty during the insurance fraud trial which last night ended in the acquittal of six other defendants, would be arraigned for sentence before Federal Judge Coleman next Monday.

George M. Ruddy, former agent of the Underwriters' Salvage Co., will be put on trial in September on an indictment which followed the Pittsburgh Dry Goods Co. fire, Mintzer announced. In October, according to the prosecutor, Ruddy will be tried under the indictment in the Mirabelli factory and warehouse fire case, to which yesterday's acquittals related.

The Mirabelli brothers, Mario and Michael, who did not plead guilty although they acknowledged taking part in unlawful acts when they testified for the government, will be tried immediately after Ruddy's October trial, Mr. Mintzer said.

WORLD ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD FOR MOTH PLANES

HENDON, England, Aug. 17—(AP)—The world endurance flight record for moth planes was almost doubled when Capt. Hubert S. Broad, veteran British airman, landed tonight after 24 hours aloft during which he had read three novels while guiding his plane.

His time in the air surpassed by 11 hours the record set by Captain Bert Hinkler on the first stage of his flight to Australia last February.

Captain Broad managed to eat enough sandwiches and drink enough coffee to constitute several meals. This morning one of his friends took the air in another plane and buzzed along near the endurance flier, but Captain Broad was so absorbed in reading a book that it was some time before he noticed that he had company.

HUGE CHEESE PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 17—(AP)—A huge and holey cheese, which took 2,000 pounds of milk to make, was presented to President Coolidge today by the Swiss cheese producers of Green County, Wis.

SEVERAL FINED AT CITY COURT SESSION

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 17—The police court session this morning was a busy one with four cases on the docket. The session was interrupted by several recesses and the necessity of securing an interpreter for one of the cases. The first case was that of Haig S. Iskivan of Hampton, charged with reckless driving, who entered a demurrer to the charge through his attorney. Judge Foss overruled the demurrer and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, the fine being remitted, leaving an assessment of $16.35. Iskivan's machine was in a collision with one driven by W. Elliott Flowers of Broadway, New Haven in North Windham Thursday afternoon. Both machines were damaged.

Walenty Tokarzo, 58, was charged with assault on Paul Wasylak. He stated through Mrs. Sarah Heller as interpreter, that he was not sure as to whether he was guilty and the court entered a plea of not guilty in his behalf. Testimony was to the effect that there was an old trouble between the Tokarzo and Wasylak families who reside as neighbors on Ashland street. When Wasylak left his home to go to work at 7 o'clock this morning he said that Tokarzo rushed out of his own home and after knocking him (witness) down he bent and kicked him. Two women neighbors who saw the fight said that they had not heard any argument previous to the assault. One witness said that Wasylak's persistency in passing over the property of Tokarzo in going to his garden was the source of the wrangle. The women testified through interpreter Charles Lucas. Tokarzo said that Wasylak wanted to fight Thursday night and when they met in the morning he decided to give him battle. Wasylak was quite badly scratched up but his opponent apparently escaped without injury. Tokarzo was fined five dollars and costs, amounting to $12.95 which he paid. The other cases were for intoxication, the accused being transients who were taken to the county jail at Brooklyn when they failed to pay the fines.

John Davidson, 77, of 30 Chestnut street was painfully hurt late Thursday afternoon when he was run down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Maude Beauchamp of Potter street while he was on the crosswalk at the junction of Main and Union streets, opposite the J. C. Lincoln company store. Witnesses stated that the aged man started across the street and stopped, turned back and then started back into the path of the automobile. He was knocked to the pavement where his head struck, inflicting a scalp wound that bled profusely. Mrs. Beauchamp took the injured man to the hospital and after receiving treatment he was returned to his home.

CAMP GROUND NOTES

Eight or ten years ago, all the chestnut trees were cut down because they were diseased or dead. Many pines have grown up to take their places. Now many of them are dying at the tops and by cutting off the dead rusty portion we find white worms in the wood, similar to chestnut worms. And for a month or more ends of branches of the oaks have been falling which were eaten off by either insects, beetles or animals. They have ceased falling and we infer they have had their day for this season, but walnuts, maples and birches appear to be all right.

SHARK TEARS THROUGH NET LETTING FARE OF FISH GO

The boat Skat, Capt. Jake Burns and Mate Fred Langson, went out to the fishing grounds Thursday morning early for flat fish. This boat has met with hard luck for the last few weeks, the engine would break down, or the boat would hit a buoy under water and would loosen up a plank. Mate Langson said "We can't have that kind of luck all the time!" Putting the net overboard for the first drag, it would take several hours before the net was pulled on deck. Capt. Burns looked and saw something coming fast in the water toward the boat. It proved a mad shark, making for the fish. The craft could not steer away from the monster. The net was loaded with fish, all the boat could lift.

The 30-foot shark made a dive for the net and tearing a big hole and getting all the fish he needed. At first they thought the shark was coming aboard after getting all he wanted and spoiling a new net worth $75. The crew, sadly disappointed had to come back home without any fish.

Setting a glass container that held 2 gallons of water in the back of the truck on a new rain coat that had only been worn three times, he went back to the market for five minutes. When he came out he saw smoke coming from in back of the truck. He could not see the jar and found the rain coat afire. The blaze burned a hole as big as a stove cover and spoiled the raincoat. The sun beating through the jar of water had set the raincoat afire, showing Chief Park what the sun did. Benoit got only the horse laugh. The coat was shown to the crowd that came into the store during the day.

Arthur Scott was raking his lawn over at his home on Shore avenue and heard a noise in some high grass. He did not pay any attention to it, keeping right on raking, with his back to the noise. Something came out and make a spring toward Mr. Scott. William Franklin cried "Look out for the snake!" which was right on its tail. With a swing Scott sent the snake into dreamland, never to return. It was a 3 1-2 foot red snake, a kind seldom seen in the fishing village and deadly poison. When Scott put over that swing that killed the snake, as he is a great golfer he thought it was the 19th hole which he was trying to make.

DANIELSON

4,000 TROUT RELEASED IN KILLINGLY STREAMS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 18—Approximately four thousand brook trout were received here this morning from the state fish and game commission, and were released by members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club in the various streams in this locality, many of which were fished out by the scores by anglers who fished in the local streams, during the season just closed.

Twenty-seven cans, each containing about two hundred of the speckled trout, ranging in size from one to four inches in length were received, and were immediately released, according to instructions from the game commission, in the following brooks: Brickyard brook, 4 cans, Pine brook 4 cans, Coffey's brook 4 cans, White brook, Mashentuck and Half Hill brooks received 5 cans each and in Blackwell's brook ten cans of the fish were placed into the stream.

The trout placed in the Brickyard brook, were released at the crossroads near the Weaver farm.

This assignment of trout is one of the largest ever placed in the local streams, and if all mature, anglers should experience no trouble in booking the "big ones" next year.

Sidney W. Bard, treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank was in New London Thursday evening attending a regional meeting of the Connecticut Mutual Savings society of the member banks of this section of the state.

The ice harvest, reaped in Danielson during the winter months, was so small that it has been necessary for the ice dealers of the town to purchase a part of their demands from other ice companies in Massachusetts, to prevent the supply becoming exhausted before the close of the summer season. Each week 32 tons of ice is being forwarded to Danielson for use of a local ice dealer, who in turn distributes to the public.

A tool and stock building was brought to Danielson this morning on the truck of the Southern New England Telephone company and was within the course of a few hours erected on the company's premises on Mechanics street. The building is of considerable size, and was transported in sections to Danielson. It is of a steel construction and will be used by the local branch to store supplies and to house tools.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in the Allenhill district, Brooklyn, for Alfred C. Webb. The services were held at the home and were conducted by Rev. J. R. Pratt of Brooklyn. The bearers were Oscar Atwood, Fred Mellor, Irving Frink, and Marshall Frink. Burial was in the South cemetery in Brooklyn, with Mr. Pratt officiating. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy of Danielson.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward conducted a lengthy session of the borough court this morning when three cases were presented for settlement. John Anderson, a resident of the borough was arrested by State Officer Strand, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100, with half of the amount being remitted.

Peter Karas, Photos Poceiel and George Geher, all of Norwich, arrested several weeks ago by Chief of Police McFarland of the borough police were finally given a hearing after a series of continuances. Through their counsel they entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of illegally distributing religious literature in Danielson and further asked that the court session be continued until Saturday morning. The request for a continuance was overruled and they were found guilty and fined $5 and costs of court. Through their counsel they appealed to the superior court, opening in September in Willimantic.

Less than a half a mile of road construction remains to be completed on the new concrete highway through Attawaugan as the result of the fast work of the construction gangs. Today the giant cement mixer nearly reached the Attawaugan bridge, when the day's work ceased. Little delay to passing traffic is being caused, as the road is opened on one side the entire length of the stretch. With the present weather conditions, and the passing of another week it is believed the work of laying the concrete will be completed.

Brooklyn children will be afforded a school house marked with complete renovations and added improvements when they return to school in September. A new room has been added to the structure to provide seating for the increased number of pupils. Electric lights and lavatories have been installed and also a heater to replace the old stove heat used in past years.

In Brooklyn as well as in many of the other surrounding rural sections the country school house of the former days is fast disappearing and is being supplant by educational buildings much similar to the school buildings of the city.

Progress on the Brooklyn highway continued today. The large steam shovel was moved to this position and today was cutting its highway path towards the Danielson line. The building movers have completed the task removing the Sidney H. Bard house and the colonial dwelling of over a century old has been placed in its new position, with no damage being caused the property as was forecasted before the attempt was made.

The remaining members of the service battery with their trucks and gundles will leave the borough on Sunday morning for the 192d field artillery firing range and camp in Tobyhanna, Penn. At Norwich the trucks will board a train and will make the remainder of the trip by rail. 20 men are included in the detail. The advance detail, which embarked for the camp early Wednesday morning was expected to arrive in camp Friday evening. This detail made the entire trip by motor.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM BOYS RESCUE FRESH AIR CHILD FROM DROWNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 17—At the risk of their live, Stuart Sabin and Malcolm Tourtellotte, both of Putnam, safely brought to shore Nora Conley, 10-year-old "Fresh Air" child, from the Five-Mile river in Putnam late Thursday afternoon, after the child started on her third trip to the bottom of the deep swimming pool.

Sabin is 16 years old and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sabin of School street, and Tourtellotte is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Tourtellotte of Chapman street and is 15 years of age. Both left their homes about 7 o'clock Thursday evening to go to the Putnam Heights creek, known as the "Five Mile." While sunning themselves on the bridge their attention was attracted to a little child in the water who had ventured out into the stream too far and was screaming desperately for help. The two boys watched the little crop of golden curls disappear into the water and together they leaped from the bridge to attempt a rescue. Sabin went to the bottom and grasped her feet, while the other youth clutched her about the waist. In her struggle, she gained a death hug about Tourtellotte's neck, nearly sending both to the bottom, when Sabin released his hold on the desperate girl and freed Tourtellotte.

The two boys again secured rescuing holds and swam a distance of about 15 yards to the shore with their supposedly lifeless victim. On the shore, the boys applied artificial respiration and soon restored the child's breathing to normal. As Nora revived she asked for her sister, Margaret, who was close by and who was overjoyed when the two heroes had brought her sister "back to life."

The little girl, still in a terrified manner, thanked the boys and left with her guardian, Joseph Chenette, of Walnut street.

Both Tourtellotte and Sabin were termed by those who heard of their deed today, as heroes. They were very modest in relating their rescue this afternoon, both saying, "It was nothing but our duty."

Nora Conley arrived yesterday afternoon with the fresh air kiddies from New York. When told she could go swimming, it was perhaps taken as a treat and with her guardians she left for the creek in Putnam Heights. That she will be able to return to her parents in New York when her associates leave Putnam on Aug. 30 is due to the manner in which the two Putnam lifesavers went to her assistance.

The feat was witnessed by a number of Putnam people who related the incident, since both Tourtellotte and Sabin made little comment on their deed.

A car operated by James Spielman of Putnam collided with another car owned and operated by Addolord Roy of 103 Arch street, Putnam, Thursday evening at the Pomfret four corners near the Dr. Overlock estate. The accident was investigated by Officer Strand of the Danielson state police barracks. As a result of his investigation, Officer Strand placed Spielman under arrest and charged him with operating a motor vehicle with improper brakes.

In the Pomfret town court this morning, before Justice Laura Pike of Danielson, Spielman pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5 and costs of the court, which he paid. It was estimated by an observer that about $100 damages were inflicted upon both cars. Neither driver was injured as the result of the crash.

The theory advanced that Mayor Richard would appoint a committee of three aldermen that would constitute the city water commission was proven false today by one of the special water committee of the council. He said that the new water commission, which has not as yet been chosen, will consist of men who are familiar with the duties that will face them when they are appointed as a water commission. It has also been said by the committee assisting Mayor Richard in choosing successors to the resigned commissioners that they will satisfy everyone concerned.

A special meeting of the city council is to be called on Aug. 21, and it is thought that the new commission, if the roll is completed, will be sworn into office. It was whispered by some that Mayor Richard had the new commissioners picked several weeks before the present commission resigned their office and the new commission would be appointed immediately, but the mayor disappointed many when he failed to act.

Ernest Durand of 94 Battey street, Putnam, reported to the Putnam police last evening that his car had been taken from its parking place in front of the Gilman furniture house on Main street, Thursday afternoon, while he was in one of the business houses. Durand described the car as being a black 1926 Ford sedan bearing the registration combination of Z-776. The case was taken in charge of Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police who made a thorough search of the city without success. Police alarms were dispatched to every police department in the state. Until late this afternoon, search for the vehicle was fruitless.

Police Sergt. George Liard, Mrs. Liard and their son, Robert, left this morning for New Bedford, where they will vacation with relatives in that city.

Joseph Bernache, for many years a resident of North Grosvenordale, died at his home in that village this morning at the age of 61 years. Mr. Bernache is a native of Canada. In his early life he came to the United States and was employed in the textile plants of many of the larger cities before he located in Grosvenordale. He is survived by relatives in Canada, who came here to complete arrangements for the funeral.

Mrs. Anna Albee of 181 South Main street died at the Day-Kimball hospital this morning following a long period of illness. Mrs. Albee has been a resident of Putnam for a number of years. She was engaged in the practical nursing profession and devoted much of her time to her profession. She is survived by one daughter.

A number of complaints have been received by cautious tourists who make frequent trips to Putnam from Thompson by way of the Mechanicsville curve. This morning one complained to the police of the inadequate warnings that are at this dangerous point. It was stated by the motorist it was her intention of being the instigator of a drive to summon attention to this point of highway.

It is known as the Mechanicsville curve and has been the scene of many accidents although fortunately none have been fatal. Approaching from either side one is unable to obtain a clear view of the road ahead due to the embankment on the left. Many collisions have been narrowly averted at this point and little attention has been devoted by the town officials as to installing warning devices.

Armand Gagne of Westerly, R. I., is spending a few days at the home of his parents on Woodstock avenue.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Memorial chapel in Grove street cemeter for Mrs. Forrest Washburn of Center street, Putnam, who died Tuesday evening in a Worcester hospital. Burial was in the Munyan cemetery in Putnam Heights, with services at the grave, conducted by Rev Fuller.

Sanitary Engineer W. R. Copeland, a member of the state water commission, will be in Putnam Saturday to confer with City Engineer George W. Perry, relative to the sewage measuring plant that has been erected at the sewer outlet on Arch street. Mr. Copeland and Mr. Perry supervised the construction of the crib that will measure the amount of sewage passing into the river. There is still much work to be done on the plant before the recording apparatus can be placed into operation. As previously stated, the plant will be in operation for a period of one year and at the end of this time engineers may know by the reading on the gauge the exact amount of sewage passing into the river from Putnam and will be in a position to determine the size of filtration plants to build which will eliminate sewage from the river.

Plainfield has lost another Civil war veteran: only three remaining, due to the death of Thomas J. Brown. Mr. Brown had been in ill health for three years. When a boy of 15 he ran away from home and joined the United States heavy artillery. He served during the remainder of the Civil war and was in many important battles. After the war he was stationed on a surveying vessel. After his discharge from company M, 3d Heavy Artillery, April 3, 1867, he returned to his home in Packer and worked in the mill for a while. Later he purchased a large farm where he resided until the death of his wife. He inaugurated the recognition of Memorial day at Packer and was always a prominent figure at the exercises. Mr. Brown was born in Canterbury June 20, 1848. He married Anna Johnson of Jewett City on New Year's day, 1870. About this time he joined the Baptist church at Jewett City being baptized by Elder Curtis Kinney. Upon returning to Packer he joined the church there and was for many years superintendent of its Sunday school. Mr. Brown was postmaster at Packer for twenty years, the third of his family to hold that position. A brother, William H. Brown, was the first postmaster at Packer. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Henry and Isabelle died in recent years. Mr. Brown leaves four grandchildren, Hazel and Thomas Brown of Waterbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Batholic of Plainfield and Charles S Husband of New York. There are six great-grandchildren, a sister Mary Eliza died in early life and his brother William of Jewett City died in February of this year. Mr. and Mrs. William Bartholic with whom he lived have given him the most devoted care.

JEWETT CITY

DANIELSON MAN'S CAR RUNS AWAY AND JUMPS WALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 17—Walter Musgrave of Danielson, bound up the state road this morning, stopped at Whalley's corner in Sylvandale to get water for the radiator, leaving his Cadillac coach in the road, just at the brow of the hill. The brake must have worked loose, for straightway the big car started off down the steep incline toward Norwich, backward on its own account. Terry McGovern, delivery man for the Jodoin market, was at the corner with his arms full of packages to be delivered at Mr. Whalley's.

Out of the corner of his eye he saw the Musgrave car start to move. Seeing no one at the wheel, Terry dropped his bundles and started in pursuit. The big Cadillac must have been going some, for he couldn't catch up with it. At the bottom of the hill, at the point where the next south ascent begins, the machine left the road and went over the wall. Fortune favored north-bound traffic on the state road, including a Providence coach filled with passengers which was coming down the other hill toward the truant car.

Drivers here claim that dodging a runaway car or a greased pig amount to about the same thing.

The umpires' names were omitted in the report of the ball game Thursday evening between the married and single men. They were William McGovern and Andrew McNicol.

Don't forget the August clearing sale at Arremoney's store is still on, offering you a reduction of 10 to 50 per cent. We carry nothing but the best and our prices are lower than the rest.—Adv

Local radio owners report exceptional reception Thursday evening after 10. The forecasters over the wire all day had been giving warning of showers of one kind or another. No shower showed up and with the air entirely free from atmospheric disturbance, stations in the short wave lengths, hardly ever received here before, came in clear and with good volume.

E. H. Hiscox has a dozen castor bean plants, two of which, the Zanzibarensis, are respectively nine and one-half and ten feet tall, with no show of the blossom buds yet.

A fine bouquet of dahlias grown by Edgar Knox has been on exhibition at B. R. Gardner's. Notable among the blooms for size and beauty were the Vivian and Mabel Thatcher. It is easy to believe that the young man must have inherited something of the skill in dahlia culture possessed by his father, William Knox.

Local amateur botanists are meeting the classification problems of collecting the 260 odd flowers that bloom in Griswold, from arbutus and houstonia to the last fall aster and witch hazel, which completes the list. Joe Pyeweed and several of the local goldenrods are out in fine array. A couple of dozen species of golden rod will blossom here before frost comes, hence careful analysis is necessary to classify them correctly. On the upper Stone Hill cross-road toward Pachaug the lanceolata variety will be in bloom in late summer. With its flat topped clusters of blossoms it is unlike any other member of the family, and has even been confused with tansy. This variety is not common, while solidago Canadensis, colors all the local fields with bright yellow.

GOVERNMENT'S MORAL SIDE

One feature of Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance has met with universal commendation regardless of partisan differences. Its persistent and emphatic demand that statesmanship and democratic government recognize and respect moral and spiritual responsibilities has gone straight to the hearts of the American people. Although an engineer—or perhaps because of his engineering training and his experience as organizer and administrator—Mr. Hoover realizes, among the highest ficiency of mere material success. The problems facing the United States, he says, are more spiritual and moral than they are economic.

Equal opportunity, abolition of undeserved poverty by means of steady and remunerative employment, further emancipation from drudgery of has on its programme such topics as health, women in industry, education for women in the professions, and in departments of government, reduction of rates of infant mortality and infant women in city and country through mechanical appliances, extension of educational facilities, better protection of childhood and more effective promotion of public health—these are, as Mr. Hoover realizes among the higher responsibilities of government. Mr Hoover looks to the women of the country, because of their deeper sense of service and their fresh enthusiasm, for special support of all proper efforts made in these directions by governmental agencies.

Organizations among women are largely for the purpose of educating the members in and for the duties of citizenship. Social welfare, particularly child welfare, interests them profoundly. The Pan-Pacific women's conference, for example, now in session at Honolulu, and presided over by Jane Addams of Chicago, the foremost settlement worker in the world, women in the professions, and in departments of government, reduction of rates of infant mortality and infant morbidity.

The women of China, Japan and India have much to learn from their American sisters on such questions. Even the American, Canadian and Australasian women are far from having attained their moral and social goals. But with a great party's candidate for president of the United States stressing so strongly the moral and spiritual responsibilities of government it becomes apparent that women have good reason to feel their power in helping to make a better world through united action intelligently directed.

THE OHIO PRIMARY

The runaway race of Representative Theodore E. Burton, the seventy-six year old veteran of numerous political campaigns, for the short-term senatorial nomination in Ohio was the chief feature of Tuesday's primary election in that state. The prohibition issue also played a conspicuous part in the contests, which brought out the record number of 850,000 votes. Unofficial returns indicate that most of the "dry" republicans who sought state offices held safe leads. But the "wet" democrats, in a determination to make their state and national tickets harmonious, succeeded in routing most of the candidates endorsed by the anti-saloon league.

Representative Burton, who will be the running mate of Senator Fess in the race for Ohio's seats in the senate, has a long and distinguished record in public office. He served in the house of representatives from 1888 to 1909, and in the senate from 1909 to 1915. After a few years in private life he returned to the house in 1921, from which he is now seeking to step into the senate to take the place left vacant by the death of Senator Frank B. Willis. His appointment as chairman of the inland waterways commission by President Roosevelt, and as a member of the debt funding commission, by President Harding, are only two of numerous instances in which his statesmanship has had notable recognition. In the recent pre-convention campaign he was one of the most ardent and influential supporters of Herbert Hoover in Ohio. His nomination undoubtedly strengthens the entire republican ticket in that important state.

KEEPING HIGH WAGES

Why every wage earner should be keenly interested in the result of the coming presidential and congressional election is shown by Leslie M. Shaw former secretary of the treasury. He believes that a democratic victory would bring a cut in the American industrial payroll of $100,000,000 a week. He speaks from experience. Twice the democratic low tariff bills have reduced the national payroll twenty per cent. This year the democrats are promising to do nothing to disturb business and are trying to convince the country that their partial conversion to the protective principle, if woefully belated, is at least sincere.

But why should anyone with a stake in the national prosperity vote to give them a chance to tinker with the tariff? Their record on this subject is against them. No one has the slightest doubt that if the republicans are retained in power, the protective tariff will be revised in a manner to preserve its full vitality. The democrats are eager to do some more experimenting. If the best-paid wage-earners in the world are wise, they will vote to sustain the policy which has made their high wages possible and will insure their continuance by protecting them against the competition of the cheap labor of foreign lands.

MADE IN AMERICA

The American Trade-Mark Association has embarked on a campaign similar to that conducted for many years by labor organizations seeking patronage for merchandise bearing union labels. Its purpose is to interest people in American products and have them examine merchandise for the "Made in U. S. A." stamp. Chiefly its objects are to inspire an appreciation of the high quality of products made in America and to develop consumer preference for them; also to promote among American manufacturers the use of the American trade-mark emblem; to advocate the use of the trade-mark on all first quality products made in the United States; "to oppose and expose fraudulent use or infringement of established trade-marks and the mis-branding, substitution and other misrepresentation of products;" to oppose the sale of prison-made goods in what is called unfair competition with free labor, and "to keep America employed and prosperous by safeguarding the domestic market for products made in U. S. A."

Officials of the organization argue that Europe presents a market for certain of our products that do not come in direct competition with foreign-made goods and that the same condition exists in this country, thus insuring a large volume of imported products at all times. Where they desire the line drawn is between two products of the same class. In such cases it is their purpose to persuade the consumer to buy the American product rather than the imported article.

FARM EDITORS FOR HOOVER

The indorsement of Mr. Hoover's farm-relief programme by the editors of farm papers in ten states is of great political significance. These influential publicists appeal weekly or monthly to millions of readers who have confidence in their intelligence and their judgment. The livelihood of these readers depends upon successful farming. The livelihood of these editors depends upon their retaining the confidence of these readers by the presentation of sound information and advice regarding their problems. In fairness it is to be said that there are farm papers which are supporting Governor Smith, in accordance with their natural partisan affiliations. But these indorsements of Mr. Hoover's candidacy, directly inspired by his address of acceptance, constitute a most impressive showing, and their bearing upon the campaign cannot be minimized.

These experts sincerely believe that Mr. Hoover has evolved the most practical programme for farm relief yet presented. One says it has made him 'the logical candidate of all farmers.' They are impressed not only by his plan, but by his demonstrated ability as an organizer to put it into effect. Without doubt Mr. Hoover has shed new light on this difficult problem, particularly with his exposition of the many-sided nature of the farming industry, each phase requiring its special treatment. There may be complete confidence that his capacity for constructive statesmanship, as shown by his dealing with this question, will be extended to all other national problems demanding his attention.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

A little over two months ago, poor, weak humanity was "listening" to the proceedings of the republican national convention that was holding its sessions at Kansas City. After this considerable lapse of time one is not quite sure whether he was more interested in what was said and done on the floor of the convention than in the amazing fact that he could hear what was said. One could even hear the applause and could almost feel the electric thrill that pervaded the vast auditorium. It certainly seemed that we were in an adjoining room, and only a curtain separated us from the vast throng. When television becomes a practically established fact, who, aside from the delegates, will want to go a thousand miles or more to one of these great national conventions? Of course the daily press showed its ability and energy in giving us all the details. But it could not give us the speakers' voices or make us feel the living thrill.

The fact that we could so readily hear with our own ears what was going on in that convention was not by any means our only feelings of astonishment. One could hardly fail to admire the manner in which the necessary business was conducted. Unimportant details were rushed through with lightning rapidity, while more important matters were given due deliberation. "First things came first" in the order of emphasis. Doubtless a thousand little petty matters were dealt with, and mostly disposed of in committee meetings. One was also amazed with the part many of the female delegates handled. One will not soon forget that cogent legal argument by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willibrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States, in the matter of the contested delegations, and the practically unanimous vote that was given to her side. If some of the great legal minds of the past were "listening in" —what did they think?

This is clear evidence that some things very clearly are just as they ought to be. Sensitive humanity is very apt to lament that things are not what they ought to be, and doubtless in many instances this is entirely true, but there are some cases, at least, in which it is not true. Hence it is very refreshing to see that justice is being done today where once it was woefully indifferent, that is in recognizing the ability of woman in doing some of those things that were supposed to belong exclusively to man. Why was it for so many centuries that the matter of sex was looked upon as the proper criterion for doing certain things rather than ability and consecration? If a woman has a legal mind why should she not study law just as well as man who has a legal mind—and sometimes hasn't? As a general thing she makes a better nurse than man. If she has an aptitude for politics, why shouldn't she be a politician, it couldn't be possible for her to be any worse than some men.

The reasons set forth by the Presbyterian church for expanding the work of religious eduction bring out in painful light the utter inadequacy of present methods. One of the reasons urged for this new movement is the utter collapse of religious education in the home. But this is not altogether due to lack of home interest in religion. It is almost entirely due to the pitiless demands that are made on the home today. Another reason given is the increase of state universities where religion is not taught because it will be sure to arouse criticism. This seems strange because no university would allow sectarianism to be taught. If the time has come when the major tenets of Christianity cannot be taught in any institution of learning the criticism is against those who object. Another reason is that the work of the Sunday school is not adequate.

As a great people are we advancing along the general lines of development, or are we tumbling down into the slums of perdition? Well, if we follow some writers and some newspapers in this matter we might reasonably come to the conclusion that we are headed in both directions but as a cold matter of fact neither is absolutely true. We are undoubtedly developing rapidly along some lines, and notably in the direction of the applied sciences. There never was a time when so much was made of practical inventions. The good housewife of today living in the city or large town ought to be a much happier woman than her grandmother who lived in the small town fifty years ago. The opportunities for advanced education have gone on with amazing strides since this new century began. The crowded condition of our leading colleges is evidence of this. But it is a question if human happiness has correspondingly increased in the meantime.

Every new feat of aerial flight brings this new mode of transportation a little nearer to practical usefulness. That it is destined to become such in time no one who has carefully followed the successive stages of its development will be inclined to deny. For long distant non-stop flight thus far the Southern Cross with Capt. Kingford-Smith, pilot, and three companions at present hold the world's record of 3,200 miles from Honolulu to the Fiji Islands, the entire distance of the flight from Oakland, Cal., to Brisbane, Aus. being 7,300 miles. This makes the longest of the great lanes of travel to be conquered by air navigation. Nearly every day some new surprise is being brought to our notice from this source. But a short time since much was made of the first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane. Very likely soon we will be thrilled with the news that some little one has been born in the air between the continents.

Let us be thankful that in these days we are recording the victory of science as applied to means of locomotion, rather than giving the details of battles in which human beings are slaughtered with no tangible benefit to the parties engaged. Now and then a few lose their lives in some airship accident, but it is all tending to perfect one of the world's greatest inventions and benefactions. But in some Waterloo, fifty thousand, and in some Balaklava twenty-three thousand, are among the killed and wounded, and what for? Is the world any stronger and better because the young manhood of so many nations were blotted out? Let it be supposed that both Waterloo and Balaklava had some reasons back of them, is it not also true that if reason had taken the place of anger, the differences that made such carnage possible would have been averted? When will the nations learn that no questions are permanently settled when the price paid is precious human blood?

During these vacation hours, in which some of us—perhaps, a great many of us, at least, I hope so—are getting some real rest from our ordinary toil, our minds recall the wide scope of activities which we were interested in during the first six months of this present year. Does it occur to you, as it does to the writer, that we attempt to do too much? And as a natural result we are doing a vast amount of things too poorly. Take for an illustration the religious side of our lives as seen in our church activities. Is there not more truth than poetry in the statement that we have divided and sub-divided and then re-subdivided our religious work, until the daily task has been reduced to a sort of hop, skip and jump performance?

MR. QUEERIE STRIKES OIL

"Have you $7?" asked Mrs. Queerie at breakfast.

"For what?," demanded Mr. Queerie.

"For 'Paris Frocks in Fifteen Minutes.' It's a book describing a new system of dressmaking."

"Seven dollars!" Mr. Queerie hammered his cup with his spoon. "Don't you see it's impossible to learn in fifteen minutes what these Paris what-you-callems spend their whole lives at?"

"But this is a new system," pointed out Mrs. Queerie.

"New system!" Mr. Queerie banged his cup on the saucer.

"Yes, new," repeated Mrs. Queerie. "You needn't sneer at that. Look at Jonas Hanway."

"Jonas Hanway? Don't know him."

"He was the first Londoner to carry an umbrella," explained Mrs. Queerie. "It was new, so the mob pelted Jonas Hanway with cobblestones and cabbages. Yet today our umbrella business has an enormous overheard. It ranks just after the arctic pie and ahead of the Belgian hare industry."

"Um, ah," said Mr. Queerie.

"When Bell invented the telephone," continued Mrs. Queerie "the populace yelled 'Louder,' and Edison produced the phonograph. Last year we exported six phonographs per capital.

"Capita," corrected Mr. Queerie.

"Henry Ford," Mrs. Queerie kept remorselessly on, "gave us a new system of transportation, and what did the mossbacks shout after him on the street? Get a horse!' Today there are 27,076,875 Fords in circulation."

"I'd better be circulating, too," said Mr. Queerie, pulling on his ulster.

"Goshmigosh!" groaned Mr. Bobble, sinking into a chair in Mr. Queerie's office. "Goshmigosh! Blue Sky Oil's brought in a gusher, and I kicked their salesman out of my office this morning!"

"Yes," said Mr. Queerie, "he was also in here."

"And I supose you booted him along too."

"No," said Mr. Querie, "I bought a thousand shares at 3 cents."

"At 3 cents!" Mr. Bobble groaned again. "And this afternoon they're at $9! How did you ever come to buy them—a hunch?"

"Speaking as a business man," replied Mr. Queerie, "I don't believe in hunches. I bought them because I thought of Jonas Hanway."

"Never heard of him," said Mr. Bobble.

"He carried the first umbrella," explained Mr. Queerie. "It was new, so the mob pelted him with cabbages."

"He knew his vegetables?" suggested Mr. Bobble.

"He did," said Mr. Queerie. "Today we export more umbrellas than we do Belgian hares. And then," he continued, "I thought of Edison. When Edison invented the telephone, what happened? Why, the mob shouted 'Get a horse!'—no, that was Ford but it's the same thing. Look at Ford today!"

"I wish I had your knowledge of history," sighed Mr. Bobble, "and your logical way of applying it. 'Blue Sky' will hit fifteen tomorrow."

"I just keep my eyes open," Mr. Queerie modestly replied, "and apply a little common sense. After all, everything's new once. That no oil was ever found within 500 miles of Blue Sky's holdings was no proof it couldn't be."

"Ethel," said Mr. Queerie that evening, "drop into Spiffany's tomorrow and pick out something nice for yourself. I put over a juicy little deal today."

"Oh, Jim!" exclaimed Mrs. Queerie. "You have such a wonderful head for business! And you saved me $7 this morning. That dressmaking book was no good, Winnie told me."

"I keep my eyes and ears open," admitted Mr. Querie. "And by the way, how do you come to know so much about Ford and Edison and Jonas Hanway?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Querie, "it was in the ad for the dressmaking book."—Exchange

Sunday Morning Talk

Follow Him.

Wherefore God hath highly exalted Him, and given Him a name which is above every name. Phil. 2:9.

It is far more important that as student of Christ's life we should catch His thoughts and purposes rather than to know where and when this or that event in His life occurred. And it is still more important that we catch some of the zeal of Christ that we can fully understand His teachings. He was far more than a philosopher, as that term is usually understood. He was a revealer of the thoughts of God. And He was in His own an embodiment of the character of God. And He declared Himself to be the Resurrection and the Life, John 11:25, and many other things, all of them implying that He possessed power or force. Even as the "shepherd" caring for His sheep, or as the "Lamb" submitting to slaughter, the gentleness of Jesus does not obscure His personality but adds to it.

It was to lift man up to His level that Christ came down to man's level. It takes tremendous power to uplift human beings. Those philanthropists who, taking their impetus from Christ, have tried it, have found the need of strength, and have found that no sufficient strength can be brought to bear to accomplish so great a task without the help of Christ.

But how efficient He, our Lord has proved in uplifting men we only need to look about us with prejudice to see. See what the religion of Christ has done for the world, and especially those nations which have to some extent accepted it. See what it is doing for individuals in proportion as they allow it to influence their lives.

Nevertheless, it is difficult for any of us to come to a true appreciation of what Christ has done for the world. The results of His life and teachings are so all-pervading that we cannot know what the world would have been without them.

These results of His life and teachings have become so largely and so intimately a part of the scheme of things with which we have to do as to give meaning to those words "in His we live and move and have our being."

We belong to a professedly Christian nation, and to a Christian era. What would life be like without the influence of Christ? We take our blessings for granted when we ought to thank God every day of our lives for the blessings Christ has bestowed upon us in bringing that gospel to us which if it was followed, might mean so much more to this world. If it were put into practice it would mean peace and plenty and at last, a "well done, enter into the joy of the Lord."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Just how much of the hullabaloo in Smith and Hoover camps about raiding the other fellow's pet electoral vote preserves is to be taken seriously has not yet appeared.

It won' until Messrs. Raskob and Work get the warchests of from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 of which they talk so lightly and begin alloting it to states where it can be expected to do the most good. Yet if Work has reason to believe the solid south will turn up Hoover electoral votes, or if Rasko' seriously expects to collect electoral votes for Smith in the corn belt things political are mighty mixed this year.

It seems more likely from the Washington point of observation that both are gesturing about popular rather than electoral votes. Reduction of previous enemy popular majorities of long standing in any state is a satisfying accomplishment, but that butters no presidential parsnips. It's the electoral vote, not the popular plurality, that puts men in the White House. Surplus majorities in any state are just excess political baggage.

So it may be well for a political speculator planning to enjoy a few "I told you so" triumphs after election to take republican shouts of invading the solid south or democratic feints at the corn belt farmers with a pinch or two of salt as yet. Time enough to form fixed opinions when Great General Headquarters campaign strategy on each side is more clearly defined.

A case now before the supreme court on appeal—the celebrated St. Louis-O'Fallon railroad matter—conceivably could reset the whole political stage so far as the farm problem is concerned. Not, of course, in time for the November fight. The highest legal tribunal does not exceed the speed limit that way. But the case has the makings of a freight rate decision that would make the farm surplus disposition political tangle mere child's play.

Should the supreme court make this a test case of the dispute over interstate commerce commission methods of physical valuation, as some government experts seem to think possible, a new jump off in American railway regulation would have been reached. The roads and the commission differ by about ten billion dollars in the aggregate as to value of carrier property on which the 5 3-4 per cent guarantee of earnings should apply, railroad figures being that much in excess of the commission findings.

A railroad victory might mean boosted freight rates all around. On the other hand, the St. Louis-O'Fallon case proper is a government recapture suit aimed at alleged excess earnings. A government victory presumably would confirm claims to about a half billion involved in similar moves against "fat" railroads. Either way, the thing looks to break into politics once the supreme court has acted.

Concierges Guard Homes and Hear Gossip

PARIS—(AP)—Kings come and go, governments fall, but the French "concierge" has ruled for a thousand years.

The concierge, in his present lowly state, is still an important person, in charge of a hotel, an apartment house, or an estate. He is hired by the proprietor, gets much of his income from the tenants, often works with the police, and sees that the tax collector gets his due—unless his palm is well greased.

At the height of his power, in the feudal days of Hugh Capet, in the tenth century, the concierge was akin to a glorified sheriff, doing much of what ruling was done in Paris. His functions diminished, but his numbers increased through the ages until several centuries ago he became the guardian of a building. He still holds that job.

Inside the big front door of every apartment house in Paris and most other cities of France the concierge with his wife or her husband is installed in a one or two room apartment, with a rope, wire or electrical connection to open the door at night. The front door is closed at 9 p. m. as a rule and a tenant or his visitors, entering after that hour must ring for the door to be opened, close the door and then call out the tenant's name in passing the concierge's "loge," as the small apartment is called.

Rent, payable quarterly, is given to the concierge with whom the proprietor leaves receipts. The tenant gives the concierge a tip of 20 to 50 francs each quarter and "etrennes" on New Year's day. Etrennes equal or exceed the total of the quarterly tips. With a dozen tenants in the building, free lodging and a small salary from the proprietor, the concierge frequently has a comfortable living.

The husband invariably has outside work, for even if he is the titular concierge he leaves his wife in charge. The wife's duties, besides tending the door, is to receive the mail, watch, even during the day, to see that the building is properly protected against thieves and keep the sidewalk, hall, stairway and the brass door handles clean and shining.

Old time concierges recognize the ring and the footsteps of their tenants. In their half-sleep they cause the door to open, switch on the light, where there is electricity, and wait for a name to be announced. If there is any irregularity, an experienced concierge rarely fails to waken completely, arise and demand an explanation. This guardianship, onerous as it may be to foreigners unaccustomed to such restrictions, keeps out prowlers.

In the days when the police were more of a secret, unlicensed power, active in politics and intrigue, the concierges often were their spies. Many of them are reputed to be on police pay still. Certain it is that the police get much useful information from the women who know, in one way or another, all that goes on in the house. They know what friends one has, what mail comes and from where, and get gossip from the servants.

Chatterer is Sent Flying

How often confidence is shocked
And self-complacency is mocked.
—Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was in the top of a small slender birch tree near the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver, deep in the Green Forest. Standing upright below and glaring up at him was Cubby Bear. Cubby couldn't possibly climb out on those slender branches where Chatterer was, and for the moment Chatterer felt quite safe. He made a face at Cubby. Yes, sir, he made a face at Cubby! He just couldn't resist the temptation.

Cubby was hopping mad, as the saying is. He was fairly dancing up and down with anger. He knew it was useless to try to climb that little tree. He could get partly way up it, but he couldn't possibly get up there where Chatterer was.

"You think you're smart, don't you?" sputtered Cubby Bear. "But you're not nearly so smart as you think you are. It is true that I can't get up where you are now, but it is also true that you can't get away from this tree. There isn't another tree that you can jump to. If you jump down to the ground, I will be waiting for you right where you land. There is nothing for you to eat up this tree. I am going to keep you up there. I'm going to stay right here until you come down, or jump down."

Chatterer didn't know what to say to this so he said nothing. He made another face, a disagreeable face, at Cubby. You know Chatterer is very saucy. He is one of the sauciest and most impudent of all the little people in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows. Of course, that didn't improve Cubby's temper any. He even started to climb the tree, but thought better of it and backed down. Then he sat down to keep watch of Chatterer.

Chatterer was worried. He was more worried than he would admit even to himself. He was a prisoner up in that tree. Sooner or later he would have to come down. If Cubby should be patient enough, he would be in trouble. But perhaps Cubby wouldn't be patient. Chatterer knew a little bit about Bears. He knew that Bears were not like members of the Cat family in the matter of patience. He know that they seldom stuck to any one thing very long. So he had hope—a great deal of hope—that Cubby would grow tired and leave. He wasn't really as much worried about Cubby as he was about being discovered by Redtail the Hawk or some other member of the Hawk family. So he made himself comfortable in the top of the tree and amused himself by making faces at Cubby, which of course was not at all a nice thing to do.

Now it began to look as if matters were going to turn out just as Chatterer hoped they would. Cubby became uneasy. He began walking about. He walked 'round and 'round that little tree. Occasionally he would sit down, but it would be only for a few moments. Chatterer chuckled to himself. Yes, sir, he did so.

It was right in the midst of one of those chuckles that something happened. It happened so unexpectedly that it quite took Chatterer's breath away. Cubby suddenly stopped walking around that tree. He stood up on his hind feet and took hold of that little tree with his forefeet and began shaking it. The very first shake almost sent Chatterer flying, but he managed to hold on. Back and forth, back and forth, harder and harder, the top of that tree swayed. You know, it was a very young tree and a very limber tree. Cubby saw right away that Chatterer was in difficulty.

Chatterer was in difficulty. He was having all he could do to hold on. Every instant he expected to be sent flying through the air. He was frightened now. My goodness, how frightened he was! But Cubby was having a good time. This was fun! He almost forgot that he was trying to catch Chatterer. Harder and harder he shook that tree. And then suddenly Chatterer went sailing through the air. He had lost his grip.

RAIN CAUSES SEVERAL MINOR AUTO CRASHES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 17—A slight rainfall shortly after 6 o'clock this evening caused an epidemic of minor automobile accidents, mostly from skidding. It kept the police busy for two hours, conducting investigations. One of the more serious of these accidents was a collision at the corner of High and Main streets about 6:45 o'clock between a sedan, driven by Fred LeClair, High street truckman and a motorcycle driven by Frank Kallis of 18 Lafayette street, this city. The automobile was being driven easterly on Main street and was making the turn into High street while the motorcycle was proceeding westerly on Main street. The right front wheel of the sedan collapsed and the motorcycle was somewhat damaged. Kallis was thrown to the ground and suffered from a lame leg. The police were seeking to establish the identity of the driver of a small coupe that crashed into a telephone pole on Windham road near the home of Charles Ellis, No. 89, about 6:30 o'clock. The registration of the car, which was driven away with a bent fender, was given as 18-182.

Mrs. Harry W. Auwood

(Contributed)

In the passing of Mrs. Harry W. Auwood, of New London, her many friends have met with a great loss. Her life was one of unselfish devotion, her thoughts being more of others than for herself. Her's was a life of service.

From her girlhood days, spent in Montville, the thought of others came first. For many years she had been a member of the Montville Congregational church but after moving from that community she was unable to attend the service. However, her interest in and love for the Montville church was unfailing. For many months she had been a great sufferer but in her illness she manifested remarkable patience.

MISSING WINE AND ARGUMENT OVER CIGAR CAUSE OF TWO DEATHS

The death of Charles B. Schultz, 55, and suicide of his assailant, William Canow, in Canow's store at Gardner lake, Thursday night, was the result of an argument over a quantity of wine missing from a barrel and the price of a cigar it was learned Friday. Schultz it is said went to Canow's store with William Horner, 12, a boarder at the Schultz home at the lake. Ice cream was purchased for the Horner boy and Schultz took a cigar for himself.

Schultz started to argue over the price of the cigar and Canow, understood to have been drinking, became enraged and grabbing the single barreled shot gun, shot Schultz in the abdomen. Canow, then going to the small room at the rear of the store, re-loaded the gun and shot himself, blowing off the top of his head.

It was learned Friday that Schultz and Canow had been at odds over two barrels of wine. Each owned a barrel of wine and the trouble between the men developed when it was discovered that some one had drawn off a quantity of wine from one of the barrels. The wine was stored in Schultz' cellar.

Some time ago Canow measured the wine in his barrel and found that it was very nearly gone. He claimed that Schultz had taken the wine from the barrel, but Schultz showed Canow a small hole in the barrel, where he claimed that the wine had leaked out. This argument had apparently been settled, but a bad feeling evidently still existed between the two men.

Coroner Edward G. McKay of this city, has appointed Milo Light, owner of the land on which Canow's store stands, to take charge of the store, pending action of the probate court.

Canow is said to be divorced. He lived alone in the room where he committed suicide. Schultz is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Charles (Martha) Sweet, of Lebanon, and Mrs. Joseph Adelizzi.

FORTY NORWICH SCOUTS AT CAMP WAKENAH

Camp Wakenah, the Boy Scout camp at Gardner lake, closed for the season Friday afternoon when the 80 scouts there for the sixth week packed up their duffle and left the camp by automobile. Scout Executive F. E. Burdick, director of the camp and his staff of leaders will remain at the lake for a day or two storing away the cots and other equipment for the winter.

The camp this year had 212 different boys who spent a week or more there. Of these 172 were from New London and 40 from Norwich the Norwich scouts going to Camp Wakenah this year for the first time. On the basis of each week spent in camp being termed one boy-week there was 478 boy weeks this year. This shows the average time of each boy to be a little more than two weeks at camp. As a matter of fact the majority of those who attended camp went for that period.

BULLETIN ON NEW LIST OF GRADES

There is now available from the office of the commissioner of agriculture at Hartford a bulletin giving information on Connecticut grades for eggs, bunched vegetables, and strawberries, effective August 1, 1928. The bulletin also contains specifications for standard containers.

"Increased competition with out-of-state products particularly in the higher grades of eggs and perishable vegetables makes it necessary for the Connecticut farmer to carefully grade and pack his products in conformity with standard grades and packages to command the top prices on the Connecticut market," says the new bulletin. "In order that New England consumers may properly recognize local products of the highest grades, a New England label has been adopted by the six commissioners of agriculture for use in their respective states. A farmer or cooperative marketing organization to use this label must first apply to the commissioner of agriculture of his state."

CAMP MEETING OPENS AT WILLIMANTIC TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug. 17—The beautiful grove of the Willimantic camp ground is taking on new life today as the annual camp meeting opens this evening. Since 1860 this ground has been a special center of attraction for many people for one week in August each year set apart as the time for this gathering. The matter of running a camp meeting and making it successful has presented many new difficulties in the past 25 years. All over the country this has been evidenced and some formerly very successful meetings have been discontinued.

These problems have been met successfully at Willimantic each year however in one way or another. For several years it was combined with the Epworth league institute. Now as it seems an advantage to the latter that it meet earlier in the summer, the camp meeting is having to stand again on its own merits. It is self evident that such a meeting must be run upon a different plan now than in a former period. Rev. Myron E. Genter, district superintendent and president of the camp meeting association for the past three years, is the leader under whom this camp meeting was able last year to attracted the largest attendance for many years.

The program for this year promises to be even better than the one last year and will include speakers of national reputation. The plan this year includes a daily program as follows.

6.30 rising bell, 7.30 breakfast hour, 8.15 service of praise and worship, 9.30-10.30, lecture period, 11-12 lecture period, 12.15 dinner, 2 p. m. inspirational service, 3.15-4 children's service, 4-5 recreational period, 5.30-6 supper, 7.20 song service, 7.40 illustrated addresses and sermons, 10 p. m. retiring bell.

Among the speakers to be heard are the following: Dr. Philip L. Frick, Schenectady, N. Y., will give a series of six lectures at 11 a. m. each day, Monday to Saturday on the general topic, "Finding God". He will also speak on at least two other occasions. Dr. Charles L. Goodell, noted evangelist and lecturer, will have the lecture period at 9.30, Thursday to Saturday and will give the addresses at 2 p. m. the same days.

Justin Lawrie, opera tenor, known as a radio singer over WEAF, will sing at all the services Sunday. Dr. C. E. Spaulding of New London will deliver an illustrated lecture tomorrow evening. Madame Ida Davenport, coloratura soprano, voice artist and instructor, New York city, will sing at all the services of Sunday, Aug. 26. Mrs. Florence Manuel, director of the Whitman Concert company will act as musical director the entire week.

Howard T. Pierce, accomplished artist in piano and organ, of New London will play at the services.

Six of the young preachers of Norwich district will conduct the devotional services held at 8.15 a. m. as follows: Monday, Rev. J. Scott Connor; Tuesday, Rev. Floyd O. Burtacker; Wednesday, Rev. George W. Potter; Thursday, Rev. J. Garland Waggoner; Friday, Rev. Luther Ballou; Saturday, Rev. M. Hollis French. Miss Marjorie Stephens of Vernon, Con., will be superintendent of children's activities, including the religious services and the recreational activities. The attractive this evening will be the recital given in the tabernacle by Justin Lawrie of New York the notable tenor singer.

"Victorious Songs" is the name of the song book which will be used at the services.

Mrs. W. J. Stephens of Vernon will be in charge of the camp meeting office in the building next to the tabernacle and formerly owned by the church at Tolland.

Daylight saving time will prevail and all camp meeting announcements will be made on that schedule.

Recreation activities will play an interesting part in this year's gathering. Among the attractions will be hikes, tennis, baseball, volleyball, quoits and other games of mass play. These will be in charge of J. S. Penlepacker of Niantic, Mrs. W. J. Stephens of Vernon, and Paul G. Genter of Norwich.

As in past years, there will be no admission fee charged to enter the grounds. The morning classes and most of all the other services also are free to the public. Such a programme however is costly and the association has spared no pains to make it both valuable and attractive.

The expense is to be met by free will offerings and it is hoped that the public will find pleasure in these and respond generously. Offerings will be received at all the afternoon and evening services.

I., a guest for the past 16 seasons at the Pleasant View house at the beach, was fatally stricken with a heart attack while dancing at the hotel with her husband at 9:35 this evening. STATE TO RE-ESTABLISH OLD HIGHWAY LINES

Considerable interest has been aroused of late among residents along Connecticut's state roads by the work of highway department surveyors. At no little expense the state is undertaking to establish the original highway boundaries many of which have been lost or obliterated in the course of 150 years.

The surveyors are finding in many places that property owners have encroached upon the state's right of way, taking for their front lawns or pastures land not rightfully belonging to them. It will be found that the lines when re-established by new concrete markers will cross through private flower beds, front yards and even houses. In case the time comes when the state must widen these roads some of these people who have unintentionally occupied state property may suffer for not examining more carefully into the land records and titles before building or setting up hedges and fences.

Highway department surveyors are at present going over the Guilford and Durham turnpike. In this case and with most of the other state highways there is no immediate prospect of having to widen the road; the boundaries are merely being definitely established for future reference, to the advantage of both the highway department and property owners along the way. Definite lines will also materially benefit the towns through which the state roads pass, the town engineers and planning commission.

This work of re-establishing the boundary lines is being accomplished not only through a great amount of surveying but also only after exhaustive study of all the oldest land records, statutes and charters granted by the general assembly to the private corporations which played such a prominent part in building the early "turnpikes of Connecticut." The Guilford-Durham road now being surveyed was laid by just such a corporation, and the research among the acts of legislatures of 125 and 130 years ago to determine the rights of this and similar "turnpike companies" recalls one of the most interesting phases in the development of Connecticut's great system of highways.

JEWETT CITY MAN ESCAPES FROM JAIL

Walter Magruda, 37, of Jewett City and R. F. D. No. 4, Norwich, who was serving a 20 day jail sentence and working out the costs of his fine at the New London county jail this city, escaped from the jail Thursday afternoon, after being incarcerated there for only two days. How he made his escape from the jail could not be determined Friday. No trace of him has been found since his disappearance.

Magruda was taken to the county jail Tuesday morning, after he had been sentenced at the Griswold town court Monday evening by Judge John T. Barry for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The accused was arrested earlier in the evening by Officer Henry Vegiard of Jewett City after a complaint had been lodged against him.

The arrest followed an accident in Lisbon, when the machine he was driving crashed into a telephone pole and an occupant, John Ziemba, 35, of Jewett City, was injured. Magruda and Ziemba went to the office of Dr. F. E. Rainville in Jewett City, where the latter was attended by the doctor for a deep gash, about two and a half inches long on the chin and extending to the ear. Four or five stitches were taken to close the wound.

A few days previous to Monday Magruda was before Justice of the Peace Walter Drew in the Lisbon town court charged with reckless driving and operating a car with defective brakes. A continuance was granted in order to allow him an opportunity to pay the fine, which was imposed. Magruda at that time was arrested when he narrowly escaped hitting a state officer with his machine on the Norwich and Newent highway.

FREDERICK IRONS HELD FOR EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

Frederick Irons, 19, of Versailles was arrested this (Saturday) morning by Sheriff John J. Woodworth of No. 751 Williams street, New London, near the lower Occum switch about 3 o'clock Friday evening. The accused drove away without ascertaining the extent of the damage. FULLER PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME AGAINST "Y" IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

Fuller, twirling for the Elks, entered the Junior Twilight league's hall of fame, last night, holding the Y. M. C. A., without a hit or run in six innings winning 4 to 0. The Elks pitcher was in fine form, the only men to reach first, getting there on errors by the Elks infield and one on a pass. Fuller fanned four men while turning in his hitless performance. Greene, the "Y" pitcher also pitched well allowing but five hits, and fanning eight.

The Elks tallied twice in the first. Reardon singled and was forced a moment later by Bowne. Geer fanned, but Lynch came through with a long triple to center scoring Bowne. Moran then hit an easy grounder to Greene, who for some unknown reason threw to the plate to catch Lynch. The latter scored on the play and Moran was safe at first. Fitzgerald closed the inning with a fly to Serafin. The Elks added another in the third on an error and a double by Lynch and brought their count to four in the next frame, adding a single tally on several errors by the "Y" infield.

Lynch led the hitters with a double and triple out of three tries. The score:

Game This Afternoon

The Junior Twilight league will play one of its postponed games at Hollyhock Island this afternoon when the Elks and Jewett City are scheduled to play. Rain halted these two teams earlier in the season. Jewett City is now right in the race for the pennant and with a win today will be tied for second place with the Rotary club, who are only one-half a game behind. Taftville, the present league-leaders, The Elks, if they play anything like they did last night against the "Y" should afford stiff opposition for the Legionnaires so a good game should be insured. The probable batteries are Bernal and Pizzo for Jewett City and Reardon and Duras for the Elks.

MCWEENY BESTS BLAKE IN PITCHING BATTLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—(AP)—Doug McWeeny bested Sheriff Blake in a hard fought pitchers' battle here today, and Brooklyn took the opening game of the series from the Cubs, 1 to 0. For eight innings the teams battled on even terms, but in the ninth, Flowers opened with a single to left, reached second on Herman's sacrifice, and scored the lone and winning run on Bressler's one base drive to center.

McWeeny was wild, issuing six passes and hitting one batter, but he was invincible in the pinches. The Cubs had two men on base in the ninth with only one out, but McWeeny fanned Beck and then tossed out Maguire to retire the side. Score:

PIRATES DOWN PHILLIES IN BOTH GAMES

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17—(AP)—Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia in both games of a double header here today, 10 to 3 and 9 to 1. The Pirates collected a total of 32 hits and outclassed the Phils in both contests.

Pie Traynor was the outstanding player of the afternoon, the Buccaneer third baseman making sseven hits and two sacrifice flies. Three of his drives were three baggers and one a double.

Kremer and Willoughby worked the entire first game and Brame went the route for Pittsburgh in the second. Philadelphia used Sweetland, Milligan and Walsh in the nightcap. Scores:

LANMAN REACHES FINALS IN CANADIAN AMATEUR

MONTREAL, Que., Augi 17—(AP)—For the first time since 1914 the final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship will be in international contest between an American and Canadian player.

W. K. Lanman, of Columbus, Ohio, sole survivor of an American contingent that originally numbered 17 players, seven of whom qualified for the match play, will meet C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., winner of the title in 1926, in the final 36 hole match over the Summerlea golf course tomorrow.

Lanman entered the final today with a sweeping victory over J. H. Mountified of Edgerton, Alta., 10 up and 8 to play.

Somerville defeated F. J. Hoblitzel, of Toronto, 3 and 2.

"Y" KNOCKS IRONMEN OUT OF FIRST

The Y. M. C. A. dropped the champion Richmond Radiators back into third place in the Industrial league pennant scramble Friday evening at the Academy campus by a 12 to 3 score. With a strong bunting attack the Yers piled up an early lead and never thereafter were seriously threatened. Squeeze plays on Andy Kotch, Richmond pitcher, played a big part in the victory. The Y scored three each in the first two innings, one in the fourth, four in the fifth and another in the sixth and last frame.

The threat of rain kept the attendance down for what was regarded as a crucial game.

Lefty Lucier pitched nice ball for the Y, and although hit hard, was tight in the pinches.

Kotch was the hitting star with two doubles while he lost another hit on a line running catch by Leo Morin in center field. A throw by Jarvis to cut down Brown at the plate on a call that went through the left field gate was another feature while Leo Hamil's work at bat with two neat sacrifices and a triple with the bases loaded was a bright light in the Y win.

Greeneville has at last come into its own with a strong representative ball club. The Bleachery's general success in the league race so far has taken well in that section of the city and every last one who calls himself a fan is out rooting hard for the Finishers. However, the pennant has by no means been decided as yet and the Finishers may be knocked from the top and the Y. or the Radiators move in at any time.

The game scheduled for next Friday, the 24th, between the Bleachery and Thermos, a mighty important one, will be played at the Academy while the Insilcos and Y. M. C. A. will meet at Hollyhock on this same night. The Thermos has been the especial jinx of the leaders so far this season and this coming engagement should be interesting. Monday night the Finishers face another tough battle in the Insilcos at the Academy, at 6:15.

FIERCE BATTLE EXPECTED IN THERMOS-THAMES TILT

Local baseballdom will be treated to a real old-fashioned slam-bang ball game Sunday when Bill Hastedt's Thermos Bottlers clash with "Pop" McGuire's Thames A. C. club at Hollyhock Island diamond. The Thermos club according to "Pop" made a grave error when they challenged the Thames team. The Thames A. C. promptly and almost gleefully took up the challenge and now has as fast an aggregation of ball tossers as the city can produce. "Pop" McGuire, being not only interested in the game for sport alone but in a monetary capacity as well, has emphatically stated that a defeat will mean absolute and complete ruin so he has forfeited and insured himself against any such calamity by acquiring what he considers the best possible taem in the country.

The pitchers for the Thames club and Thermos will remain a secret until the announcement is made by the umpire and the fans can rest assured that they will be real hurlers and not any boys. The officials handling the game will be Chick Staney and "Ironman" Paul Zemke. The lineups with the exception of the pitchers will be:

Thames Club—J. Burns c, Burke 1b, Hamel 2b, L. Hamel 3b; Busch ss; Leffingwell lf, Koslowski cf; Byington, rf.

Thermos club—Paul c, Green cf, Lemieux 3b, Berghinzo 1b, Ellsworth ss, Driscoll 2b, Mullin lf, Howard rf.

WANER CREEPS UP IN BIG SIX RACE

(By The Associated Press)

Paul Waner changed the complexion of the race for National league and Big Six batting honors all in one rousing afternoon which saw him pound various Philadelphia pitchers for two doubles and four singles as the Pirates took two games from the Phils yesterday. This outburst lifted the elder Waner's average to .368 at the exact moment Rogers Hornsby picked to sink three points to .376 with a hitless day in Chicago.

Waner also scored three runs to push his total to 101, qualifying him for a place beside Ruth in the century club of scoring.

The Babe and Ty Cobb were idle yesterday, and Frank Frisch went hitless, falling three points to .313. Harry Heilmann got two safeties at Washington to rise to .297, a three-point gain.

The standing to date:

Hornsby, Braves	96	338	64	127	.376

FEATURE PRO MATCH AT STONINGTON MANOR SUNDAY

What is expected to be one of the best of the professional best ball matches of the season is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Stonington Manor course. Tom Donohue, pro at The Manor, is paired with Massie B. Miller, pro of the Norwich Golf club against Durham Burt of the Shenecosett club and Charlie Brooks, the New London country club pro. The match is one of youth against age and experience, Miller and Donohue being the youngsters while Burt and Brooks have the age and tournament experience. In the last match at the New London course Miller and Donohue won 2 and 1 with Miller setting a new course record of 68 in a brilliant round of golf.

STAFFORD SPRINGS GOLFERS HERE THIS AFTERNOON

The golf team representing the Stafford is bringing down about 20 of the best club wielders and is confident of administering the first defeat of the year to the Norwich team. A number of close matches are expected as Stafford has some mighty fine players—and Norwich has some too.

TAFTVILLE VS. BRISTOL ENDEES TODAY

This afternoon at 3.30 the Taftville A. A. will take on the Bristol Endees for the third time this season and the second time at the home grounds. If the fans will hark back to that last encounter between the two they will remember what a whale of a game was put up, and Taftville had a mighty hard time winning. They won the game in the last few minutes to go and sent the Bristol boys home a sadder but wiser ball club, although the latter let Taftville know that they had been in a ball game. In fact it was on a few errors that gave the A's the game and Bristol will be right in there today to seek revenge for the last trimming.

It was a dreary day the last time the teams got together and the pitchers had a hard time getting warmed up. In fact, Thorpe, at that time doing the work for Taftville, was taken out after Bristol hammered him quite hard, and Lloyd Jarvis went in to finish the game. Commerford, for the Endees started off and went along great until the last of the ninth, when, after weakening, and allowing Taftville to obtain two runs, made way for Goodridge who was unable to get going until after the game was won by Taftville.

It turned out to be one of the best, if not the best game of the season. It was certainly the best state league encounter that Taftville has played, played.

The up-state team is coming down today with exactly the same lineup and with the addition of one of the best moundsmen in the state, to wit; "Baldy" Baldwin who the Endees claim, will stand Taftville on their heads notwithstanding their reputation for being sluggers.

Taftville has again shown their feelings toward Lloyd Jarvis and have requested the management to allow him to take the honors on the mound to see if again he cannot turn in a shutout game for which he is getting famous. Behind Lloyd will be the regular Taftville team enhanced with the presence of Bob Christy, who has not played for the past two weeks.

Sunday, Taftville will journey to New Britain and take on, for the first time this season, the Falcons, one of the fastest teams in the state, bar none. Considering the two tough games that Taftville has scheduled over the week end, they will have to put forth their greatest efforts to come out on top, which they hope to do.

SUBMARINE BASE PLAY AT ASHLAND SUNDAY

The undefeated Ashland Accos of Jewett City have booked the best attraction of the season for this Sunday at Ashland park.

The team has piled up an enviable record this season and the fans have been clamoring for stronger opposition and as a result Manager Sekula has booked the strong Submarine base team.

Realizing that the sailor boys are the strongest team they have yet to tackle the Accos have secured Lefty Smith, Providence College hurler, to do the mound work. Although Smith has pitched very little in this vicinity and is perhaps not so well known to the fans he is however a finished performer and with the Accos presenting their full strength in the field the visitors will have to travel some to break the local team's winning streak.

The game starts at 2 p. m. with the following lineups:

Sub Base—McCann ss, White cf, Carson 3b, Sneider 1b, Johnson 2b, Litmer p, Hambsch lf, Connors rf.

Ashland Accos—Takman ss, Jaber 3b, Sawicki 2b, Gaudette lf, Lefty 1b, Sekula c, Raille cf, Skocyzlos rf, Miller p, Smith p.

MISS WILSON LOOMS AS MENACE TO MRS. PRESSLER

INDIAN HILL CLUB, Chicago, Aug. 17—(AP)—Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago, a slender young woman with a sunny smile and modest bearing that belies the wonderful power of her golf shot and the exactness of her approaching and putting, stands between Mrs. Harry Pressler of Los Angeles and her second successive western golf championship tonight.

Miss Wilson scored five successive birdies, and narrowly missed two more, in defeating Dorothy Page, University of Wisconsin coed, 5 and 4 in the semi-finals.

The champion meantime was edging her way to the last struggle by defeating Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City 2 and 1 with golf that was somewhat spotty, but still good enough on compared scores to make her only two down to the sub-par game played by Miss Wilson.

VALUABLE TROTTER RACED WHEN CRITICALLY ILL

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 17—(AP)—Fireglow, the cyclonic trotter valued by his owner, William Bradford, at $100,000, stepped his last race during the Grand Circuit meeting Wednesday while seriously ill, according to Dr. William M. Sprengle, veterinarian who performed an autopsy after the horse's death today.

Fireglow was taken down after the Cleveland meet and the autopsy was performed to determine whether he had been poisoned. Dr. Sprengle found no traces of poison but discovered that the animal's entire digestive system was inflamed and had been in that condition when he raced Wednesday.

FARMER HILL TO MEET EDDIE ADONIS AT HARTFORD

Farmer Hill, the slashing Firpo-like middleweight of Westerly, will feature the regular Monday night card at the Hartford Velodrome meeting Eddie Adonis, the Athol, Mass., boxer. This bout should prove especially attractive to Norwich boxing fans as both Adonis and Hill are well known here, Adonis having boxed several exhibitions in Norwich while Hill has been performing on cards in the eastern part of the state.

ENTRY BLANKS OUT FOR DUWELL AMATEUR SHOW

According to an announcement of their boxing committee, the Duwells will hold another amateur outdoor boxing show at the Duwell field next Friday evening, Aug. 24th. Entry blanks have already been sent out, and although it is not known as yet what boxers will make up the card, a show every bit as good as the first one held a week ago is assured.

GIANTS REDUCE CARDS LEAD TO 2 1-2 GAMES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17—(AP)—The Giants reduced the first-place margin of the Cardinals to two and one half games here today when they shaded the Red Birds by 3 to 2 in the first of three engagements which have all the ear-marks of being crucial. The clan McGraw, because of having played fewer games than the leaders, can step into first place by three percentage points on two more victories, even though remaining technically half a game behind.

The New York victory was scored over the veteran southpaw spitballer, Clarence Mitchell, who entered the game with a record of three straight successes over the New Yorkers since his assumption of Cardinal livery some two months ago. Mitchell hurled another strong game, keeping the Giants away from the plate through the first six innings which saw the visitors register eight safe hits.

Mitchell hardly could be blamed for the manner in which the game was lost. Each side hammered out two runs in the eighth, but the Giants had a previous lead of one scored in the seventh on Andy High's three base wild throw of Andy Reese's grounder and a sacrifice fly by Leslie Mann.

Fred Fitzsimmons held the Cardinals to four safeties in seven innings only to weaken in the eighth after the Giants had given him a lead of three runs. Singles by Douthit, Bottomley and Hafey, mixed with a pass to High, scored two in this round and left two on with only one out, and Fitz gave way to Jim Faulkner. The young southpaw passed Blades, a pinch batsman, and Larry Benton rushed to the rescue to retire five men in order and enter the game into the books as a victory for Fitzsimmons. The score:

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The resurrection of the old bucket fire engine of Norwich Town was an interesting item for the readers of the Norwich Bulletin fifty years ago. The engine was found in an old lumber shed near the B. Arnold's residence and had been in use for over 60 years in that section of Norwich. The fire fighting machine was built over 100 years ago in England. Other news items of note contained in the files of The Bulletin of 1878 are as follows:

Monday, Aug. 12, 1878—A game of baseball played at Yantic on Saturday between the Yantics and the Enterprise club of Lebanon resulted in a score of 8 to 1 in favor of the Yantics.

An eight year old Noank boy was drowned Thursday in a creek in Noank while bathing. He had gone clamming with his father, Ira Beebe, who gave him permission to bathe. The young boy fell off the bank into the mud and water and was drowned.

The old bucket fire engine of Norwich Town that was in use in that part of Norwich for over 60 years, has been resurrected from an old lumber shed near the site of the B. Arnold's residence and placed among the archives of the city hall. It is probably the most ancient instrument of its kind in America. Thursday, Aug. 15, 1878—The members of the Eighteenth regiment, C. V., to the number of 75 or 100 men, held their annual reunion at Willimantic yesterday. The elections of officers resulted in the choice, for president, of William Caruthers of Norwich; for vice president, of Gordon Wilcox of Norwich; for recording secretary, of Charles E. Case, also of Norwich. H. M. Durfey of Norwich was appointed to act as commissary of the regiment and Thomas Jourdan to act as his assistant. The meeting was in charge of Col. Peale of this city, who acted as president in the absence of Major Mathewson.

Palace Theatre.

Critics and general public alike have acclaimed "The Legion of the Condemned," Paramount's screen play of another angle of the war from the air, which opens at the Palace theatre for a run of four days beginning Sunday.

"The Legion of the Condemned" is filled with romance, the daring and the excitement which surrounded those birds of war for which no mission was considered too dangerous. It is chock full of unique thrills taken from the cockpits of the airplanes.

Here is a tale of a young American newspaperman, who, believing that his sweetheart has passed out of his life forever, punges into the "Legion of the Condemned," whose personnel consists of men who want more than anything else to die. Each and every one of them have pasts, and, according to their philosophy their sins may be expiated only through death.

He is torn between two fires, however, when he is confronted with the problem of transporting the girl he loves over the German lines as a spy.

"The Legion of the Condemned" comes from the pen of John Monk Saunders, author of the famous road-show "Wings," and was directed by William Wellman, who handled the megaphone on "Wings." The latter was a member of the Lafayette squadron during the war.

The cast consists of Fay Wray, who leaped to fame through her performance in Paramount's "The Wedding March," after being "discovered" by Eric Von Stroheim, Gary Cooper, as the leading man, and Barry Norton, Lane Chandler, Francis McDonald, Vera George, Freeman Wood, E. H. Calvert and Chariot Bird.

The pilots of the "ships," a crew many of whom assisted in the filming of "Wings," incude many world famous names in the world of flying. Among them are Captain S. C. Campbell, third ranking British ace, Ted Parsons, of the French, and Lieut. Rudolph Schad, a member of Baron Von Richthofen's flying circus.

The same technical work, which made "Wings" such an outstanding hit, was employed in the making of this newest picture of the air. The camera is taken aloft by the pilot, and flies right along with him in the cockpit, undergoing the same reaction the fighting pilot receives. The unusual film sequences in the air were obtained by employing the use of automatic cameras placed at advantage angles on the "ship."

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Rain Crow

Can freckled August, drowsing warm and blond
Beside a wheat shock in the white-topped mead,
In her hot hair the ox-eyed daisies wound—
O bird of rain, lend aught but sleepy heed
To thee when no plumed weed, no feathered seed
Blows by her; and no ripple breaks the pond,
That gleams like flint between its rim of grasses,
Through which the dragon fly forever passes
Like splintered diamond.

Drought weights the trees, and from the farmhouse eaves
The locust, pulse beat of the summer day,
Throbs; and the lane, that shambles under leaves
Limp with the heat—a league of rutty way—
Is lost in dust; and sultry scents of hay
Breathe from the panting meadows heaped with sheaves.
Now, now, O bird, what hint is there o' rain,
In thirsty heaven or on burning plain,
That thy keen eye perceives?

But thou art right, thou prophesiest true,
For hardly hast thou ceased thy forecasting,
When, up the western fierceness of scorched blue,
Great water-carrier winds their buckets bring
Brimming with freshness. How their dippers ring
And flash and rumble! lavishing dark dew
On corn and forestland, that streaming wet,
Their hilly backs against the downpour set,
Like giants vague in view.
The butterfly, safe under leaf and flower,
Has found a roof, knowing how true thou art;
The humble bee, within the last half-hour,
Has ceased to hug the honey to its heart:
While in the barnyard, under shed and cart,
Breed hens have housed. But I, who scorned thy power,
Barometer of the birds, like August there,
Beneath a beech, dripping from foot to hair,
Like some drenched truant, cower

—Madison Cawein.

A WORD FROM THE EDITOR

Probably most of the Social Corner members know by this time that it is one of the rules in writing for a newspaper to write only on one side of a sheet of paper, never on both sides, and to use white paper in preference to tinted or colored paper. Most of them follow these regulations, but occasionally a writer transgresses in one particular or another, and the Editor is moved to address these few lines to the Corner members this week because of a letter which imposed considerable extra work upon the Editor, since it broke about all the rules of a printing office.

In the first place, it was written upon letter paper of grayish tint and in ink so light in spots that it would be especially hard to read under an electric light. As most of the typesetting is done under electric light, this is an important matter. In addition to this, the writer used all four sides of the folded letter sheet. This would have been handicap enough, but the writer increased the difficulty by not following the pages consecutively, but skipped back and forth and even twisted the paper sideways, so that on some pages the writing ran across and on others it ran lengthwise.

The letter was a good one, too good to be tossed aside in exasperation at the extra work entailed to make it possible to put it in the Corner this week, so that the Editor arranged to have it copied on the typewriter before handing it over to the printers. But if there were many such letters, the Corner would miss seeing them many times, for the Editor would not have time to copy them all.

Please remember the rules and cooperate as much as you can with

THE EDITOR.

CAREFUL ABOUT MILK

Dear Social Corner Members: It is about time I let the members know that I am still on deck. I am not a slacker, but so many things come up in a person's life that we let the writing go until the last.

The weather is a riddle, even the learned and high and mighty are puzzled, but have to give out something to the public so to keep up their reputation.

It's a good plan to take winter coat when out riding, also rubbers, raincoat and umbrella, for no one knoweth what the day will bring forth.

Artificial Flowers: I also agree with you about the milk cans and bottles. I always turn milk from the milkman's bottle into my own. I am then sure the bottles are clean. But am not sure the milk is pure. Most of the diseases are in the cities where the water supply is from ponds where everyone bathes and boys are apt to make a cemetery for cats and rats. We never know what we are drinking. The lime that is used to purify the water makes our bones brittle and rusts our kettles and sinks, so the plumber is a yearly visitor.

Time we had a gathering of the clan and hope the god of the weather will favor us the 29th. So all come and make Auntie No. 1 twice glad.

I have not had a vacation this summer, so I need a change, if only for one day.

I hope the Social Corner editor will lay aside his busy, facile pen and join the young and old, for we would like to meet all the members that day.

I will send in a nice recipe for pickled beets—can't beneath beets, put in cold water to remove skins; make a syrup of one cup sugar one cup vinegar, one cup water. Let boil, then add beets until well heated through. Seal up hot and be sure jars are full. If done whole, prick with fork before putting into the syrup.

My sympathy to all shut-ins and the afflicted and wish we all could be well and happy.

Every time for the Corner.

THE VALUE OF A FRIEND

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long time, seems to me, since I wrote a letter to the Corner, but I do enjoy reading the other letters and know there are a good number of faithful sisters to write. But I fear if they were all like me in writing the Corner would not be very interesting. Well, who do you suppose I have been entertaining this summer? Arbutus and dear Silver Locks. Arbutus is one of my dear friends I have known ever since I was a little girl. Isn't it lovely to have our friends? There is nothing that can quite fill the place of a true loving friend. I am sure glad you enjoyed your visit with me, Arbutus, and won't you come again soon?

Silver Locks, of course, has always known me, indeed, she was "Pal of My Cradle Days," although we did not have a cradle as I remember of, but she rocked us all in the cradle of her dear arms. She is in Lebanon, Ct., this summer with an old schoolmate of hers. I fancy they enjoy each other exceedingly, talking of bygone days of long ago. Perhaps you may have guessed by now that Silver Locks is my own dear mother, and isn't it wonderful to have one like her? She knows I love the Black-eyed Susan, the name I first chose for my Corner name, but I found I was choosing a name already being used, and so I chose Yellow Daisy. Silver Locks went out on the common or green in Lebanon and got me a big root of these daisies, and going down the road toward the old mill she found me another one. We brought them home in our car and hubby planted them in our back yard and you should see them grow and bob their pretty heads as the wind blows them. They are beautiful. I have been very busy this summer getting my tea room going. I call it "The Elm Tree Tea Room" in honor of two lovely elm trees in front of our home. We are doing very well here and just love the work. My daughter helps me; in fact, it would be very hard indeed to do without her.

We are looking forward to a visit of my sister and her hubby from Pennsylvania. I visited there last summer and I did have such a love'y visit and hope we can make it just as nice here for them, too. Maybe my brother will come, too. My sister and hubby are coming in their car, and maybe they will bring him along. I hope so and then Silver Locks and we all will be together once again. Well think I have written a long letter this time, so will stop for this time. Best wishes for the Corner.

TRUTH WITH DIPLOMACY

Dear Social Corner Members: What trying weather we have been experiencing! It seems as if it has taken all my strength to live.

There, I think I have told a lie, at that! It has not taken all my strength. I have some strength left.

The above leads to the question Cosmos put to us concerning "Telling the Truth." Now, that is a hard question to answer. Perhaps as old as the violin itself is the story of the man when asked if he could play that who, when asked if he could play that instrument, said: "I don't know: I never tried." How many have tried to tell the truth and nothing but the truth in one day, and having been thrown with different people, meeting different kinds, and tending to business, Susie comes in. "I have a perfectly darling hat. You like it?" You don't like the hat at all but say "Yes. I think it is very pretty." "Do you think it becomes me?" Now, what are you going to say, "No?" Then in walks Jennie with her hair bobbed. "How do you like me with bobbed hair? Do you think I look nice? You don't like it at all but do you say "No"? There are Harry's relations. Do you know, I hate that crowd. Don't you think Irene is impossible? You like Irene and yet you hate to go against her. Would you say "No"? I tell you it is easy enough to tell the truth concerning some things. What if one asked me how much I paid for a piece of land or a house? I should say I prefer to keep that to myself, and as far as the girl asking me if her hat was becoming, after she had spent her money for it, what is the use of making her dissatisfied? I would say (and have said): "The hat is pretty" and if she says no more, why, we don't have to; but if she asks if it is becoming, I always say "Well, you were a better looking girl in the other hat, but I wouldn't wonder, when I get used to you in this, I may like it." But I tell you right now you have got to be diplomatic to get through a world and not lie.

It is very easy to tell the truth about goods you are selling. But if you want to lay anyone in a lie, as that party did you, then it was hard for that party on account of wanting them to think different they said you lied. Well, I believe that truth crushed to earth will rise again.

It takes courage to tell the truth and use diplomacy. That is why we are told to teach courage (never use the word "afraid") to children. Teach fearlessness; courage is the bulwark of personality. Teach them to make self supreme. Never to fear God, but to love Him. You know a baby, the little child fears nothing until it is taught to fear. A great many times a child will lie through fear of a whipping.

You know the story about the boy who owned up he cut down his father's tree. That boy had courage; he had been taught to have courage fixed in his mind so that nothing in the heavens, in the earth, or under the earth, would inspire fear. Every child is a royal child. The universe is the child's plaything, its battlefield, its kingdom of honor and glory, and I do believe that every lie that is told there is a coward back of it. Cowardice is sin.

My dear Social Corner sister Cosmos, don't let that worry you one bit. I don't think there is another family living that has had more lies told about them than we have, not by children, but as I say through fear cowardice. They were afraid to tell the truth and they would say plain lies terrible lies; of course, in politics you expect it, but it isn't pleasant. As long ago as when Peter denied Christ we had these lies and Peter lacked courage, for he went out and wept.

I want to assure you I think truth told at all times, used with diplomacy will come out all right; the time will come when you will see what I tell you is so. I truly don't believe in white lies. A lie is a lie, and you can't make it into the truth.

It seems as if the mind was making better things. What wonderful, masterful, glorious teachers the world has had! They builded highways of knowledge through the world's wilderness of ignorance. Selflessly and undaunted they climbed the pathless mountains of obstacles and led their generation to eminence, to achievement and to far-reaching heights of wisdom and honor. Let me tell you it never could have been done with lies, either black or white business lies. They did it by courage, by the supreme command of mind. No, you can never get anywhere with a liar, you can watch a thief but not a liar. So I think above and beyond all that has been the call comes to us to discover higher planes of knowledge and courage to unfold nobler truths.

Oh, teacher, in your little red schoolhouse far back in your obscure corner of the earth, sitting before you in every child is the unfolded, latent, pulsing, throbbing, supreme positive mind to teach courage that gave Abraham Moses, Daniel, Shakespeare, Milton, Washington, Lincoln, Greeley, Emerson, Holmes, Peabody and the endless line of mental giants to the upbuilding of truth.

CRIMSON RAMBLER GIVES TIP

Dear Cornerites, one and all: I must do my bit, or else be deemed a slacker. What weather we are having. J. E. T.: I was very glad to hear you have returned from your vacation. I heard you had been on a tour sight seeing. Could you find any saur-kraut with pigs knuckles? Black-Eyed Susie: Glad to know you captured a yellow slip on 'Threading a Needle.' It was very good. Still, let me go you one better. Next time you are down town go into the Singer machine office and get a needle threader; only costs fifteen cents, you can thread a needle in the dark, no light needed. I bought one ten years ago. They have three little hooks and by careful usage they will last you a life time. I only paid ten cents when I bought mine but now they are fifteen. I would not take five dollars for mine if I couldn't get another. I always use mine when threading my needles.

Now let me pass on a tip to the sisters that will help others as it has often helped me. I have never seen one only the one I have. Make a little pin cushion pad two and three quarters inches wide by four inches long. Make an eyelet at one end in the center then slip it on to the spindle holding your spool of thread and put pins and needles into it and see how handy it will be. Always a pin handy when one is needed, always a place for a pin when taking one from your work as you sew, and not holding them in the mouth as many do; also saving a step. How many times one must hop up for a pin! If you have a pad that will save many minutes especially if you are in a hurry. Try this sisters and see how handy it is. I slip my pad to the back, then it is never in my way when filling my bobbin, etc.

R. L. M. Your letter received and will answer soon. How you must have to step on the gas these warm days.

Where, oh where has Interested Reader gone to? She must have wandered a way somewhere without leaving any word as to her whereabouts. I was sorry to hear Tatting is in the hospital. Hope she is much improved by this time and well on the road to recovery. Paula: I hear you too, have gone into the rug industry. Hope you make good at it. I find it very hard on the hands, still the money is very good and when I am spending mine I forget how it hurt especially my right hand while earning it.

Hope all who have been sick are now better and able to be out and around. M. B. What a jolly surprise! Where did you go to learn how to spring such ones. You certainly are very keen at the business. How is the invalid? Was glad to hear she is on the gain.

Have you been able to gain possession of that silk quilt? I hope you have, if you don't forget what I told you. Mine is all finished and looks nice but it was started many moons ago.

WANTS CORNERITES TO VOTE

Dear Social Corner Friends: As I gave the Bulletin a hasty once over while preparing dinner today I was attracted by this heading toward the end of Hoover's speech of acceptance.

"Responsibilities of Ballot"

What follows is so true, so important, that I hope our editor will allow me space to quote a portion of what Mr. Hoover says on this subject.

"One-half of our citizens fail to exercise the responsibilities of the ballot box. I would wish that the women problem in citizenship as peculiarly their own. If they could apply their higher sense of service and responsibility, their freshness of enthusiasm, their capacity for organization to this problem it would become as it should become, an issue of profound patriotism. The whole plane of political life would be lifted, the foundations of democracy made more secure."

I fear that it is only too true that considerable carelessness exists among women today when it comes to living up to the privileges and duties that should go with suffrage. So many women still neglect to be made voters and some of the excuses they offer are very flimsy. It would take much more to keep them away from picnics for example. When election day arrives, and it is not far distant, it will do no good to say, "Oh, I do wish I had braced up and been made a voter. Then I could have cast my ballot today." What a fine thing it would be if all the Social Cornerites were alert on this subject. I am confident most of them are and perhaps all the few tardy ones need is a bit of encouragement and help and encouragement and help are always to be found in the Corner.

Let us not forget what it cost to win suffrage for women and let us show our appreciation now by remembering that, with privilege goes duty. Glad to hear from Mr. Peck again. The sisters' trips made good reading. I believe all preachers enjoy extending a hearty welcome to new members.

JACK-IN-THE-PULPIT

SHEETS BY SIZE

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have always been bothered by not knowing what size my sheets were when they came out of the laundry or the closet. I have now one less thing to worry about, for each sheet is marked so that I know at once whether it is narrow, medium or wide. With a tape measure I measured every sheet I owned and sorted them into three piles, narrow, medium and wide. I left the narrow sheets unmarked. I marked the medium sheets with one cross in red marking cotton over the edge of the hem and I marked the wide sheets with two cross-stitches in the same place. My sheets are now in three piles in my linen closet and I know exactly what size sheet I am getting when I take one from the closet. I can tell at a glance which pile the sheets belong in after it has been laundered.

WATCHES FOR CORNER LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: I have just finished reading letters that were in Saturday's Bulletin.

Every week they seem more interesting and I should surely miss the Bulletin if I did not have it.

First of all I wish to thank Firefly and McDuff for their kindness in sending the rhymes I asked for. Those are the ones I meant. I knew them years ago, but they have most escaped my memory.

Arbutus: Yes, I was very sorry I did not see you the day you were at Yellow Daisy's. I was there a few days after you were and she told me you called. What a nice visit we had the day I was at your house and how good that veal tasted.

Rose of New England: Yes, as Arbutus said, "get busy with your pen." If she can't send you ink enough I will send you some. How I would love to see you and those two little Roses.

Best wishes to all. I am the same old

SILVER LOCKS

RECALLS OLD CUSTOMS

Dear Ladies of the Social Corner: I believe you are the only group who will appreciate what I have to say!

In suggesting a few improvements lately, I have recalled a few thoughts which often occurred to me. Many times on climbing hills, so-called streets, I have noticed the sad need of repair and mentioning that condition to land-owners nearby they have gravely informed me that the conditions have existed for years, but there is no money for repairs in the treasury!

Sad, isn't it? That is why I come to you for sympathy.

I remember one office holder particularly, you all know him—I cannot go too deeply into details, for I will incur wrath surely—but we all greeted him on his appearance with the hearty salute, All Ready, Mr.—

Well, he held a prominent position in town and he would join his working force, many a time he would be working, (?) hoe in hand, as I passed them, always he had a cheery smile and good morning greeting.

In those days, if a man wanted a barn built, his neighbors would join and help. If a woman wanted quilts made, they would have a quilting bee.

And nowadays, say it amuses me to see people let the roads and buildings go to wreck and ruin when they are every bit as well able to pitch in and do their bit now, as well as their forefathers could.

Believe me, it certainly would not hurt them. We may be considered old-fashioned, but the old people were never afraid of work.

THE BANSHEE

USES FOR LEMONS

Dear Social Corner Friends: The other day I was asked what lemons were good for. Well, there are a hundred different things they are good for. They are good to take with you into the fields in case of insect bites and stings. For an irritating cough squeeze the juice into a glass, thicken with sugar and take a teaspoon of it now and then. Lemonade is fine for the grip.

For callous places on the feet bind on the pulp three nights in succession and they will soften and can be removed. I killed two corns that way 40 years ago.

Lemon Shortcake: One cup sugar, egg, juice and pulp of one lemon. Put all to boil on the stove and boil until clear. Have your short cakes opened and well buttered, spread with the lemon and it makes a nice dessert.

Old Fashioned Lemon Pie: One cup sugar, juice and pulp one lemon, one egg three milk crackers rolled fine. Mix all together and beat. Take deep pie plate lined with nice crust, add to the mixture one coffee cup of water, put in plate with top crust and bake in not too hot oven.

NONESOPRETTY (club No. 4)

INVITES CLUB No. 4.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: We are certainly having some peculiar weather. Hope it don't last long, it is so uncomfortable.

Yes Aggie: Yes, I think your plan a fine one so I will invite Club No. 4 to East Killingly Aug. 22. Hope there will be members from all the other clubs. Bring goodies as usual. Plains says there are dishes, a table and other things, but those that bring their own dishes will be sure. I hope it will be a fine day. It is to be in the valley church. The yellow bow will tell you all. I do hope there will be some one kind enough to bring Adam and Aries. It would be so nice to have an old soldier to grace our picnic.

I hope there will be plenty of cake, pies, and salads and other good things to eat. There will be the usual jolly after dinner hour. I hope Twice Twenty will make up the program for the social hour. All remember the date, Aug. 22. Hope there will be members from each club. We will try and make it as pleasant as we can and all will receive a glad welcome. Watch for the yellow bow.

Hope all the sick members are better. I pray God they are.

LIKES LISBON TOWN

Dear Social Corner Friends: Well, here I am in the house by the side of the road, just around the corner, and I can say with the poet "The little town of Lisbon is good enough for me!" Such a lovely weather as we are having. Now before I forget it (like Tate) I will thank the editor for the yellow slip which I received last week as a most delightful surprise, and I do know I'd be glad to give more than a dollar for an onion if I got into a hornet's nest, to use for first aid. Today, Sunday, Aug. 12, has been one perfect day, for everybody, I hope—another thing to be thankful for. I attended the re-dedication of The Haven in the little town of Abington (my home town), Saturday and enjoyed every minute of the afternoon; met many old friends, also many new ones. The speaking by all was fine and the music excellent. The matron of that institution is certainly a wonderful woman to be able to carry on the good work of which she is so capable. Although quite a near neighbor of mine, I had never met her before. May her life be spared to do this good and noble work of which she is so willing and capable is the wish of

GOING THROUGH SORROW

Dear Social Corner: The last time I met with you was at Marigold's. I had a lovely time. Just after that my daughter was taken sick and in five days passed away. I have not felt like going since. I have one of her dear little ones with me. He is a comfort to me as I feel I am doing for her when I am caring for him. I am now going to try and brace up and go some if I can. I want to thank Marigold for the nice letter she wrote me in the time of my sorrow.

How are Theoda and Effie M? We surely have had some hot weather. My sympathy to all that have sickness or sorrow.

SHORE LINE CLUB PICNIC.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: The Shore Line club will hold a pincin at Atlantic Beach Tuesday, the 21st. Little Rhody and Crescent of Club No. 6, will be the hostesses. Each member is requested to bring their own dishes, some kind of food and furnish their own drink.

BEFRIENDED SICK WOMAN

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Have been pleased to see the page filled and many letters that interested me. O. D.'s experience and others of that nature should be exposed. Kind friends carried me to Storrs college for a day, where I met some of the instructors of our farm bureau group. Also saw Milky Way, Sumac, Firefly, Soma, Mila and a few others of Club No. 6. Last year when I was there the church was not completed and it was a pleasure to visit it and we wanted to stay for the organ recital but one of our party had an engagement necessitating our being home early. I had the pleasure of attending the first picnic at Bay State's. Also been to our Sunday school picnic, Daughters of the American Revolution and our women's Bible class, and this Saturday expect to attend the grange picnic.

There have been other picnics to which I was invited that I could not attend. Two friends from Washington, D. C., made us a shorter visit than usual this summer, but we were carried with them to East Rock, New Haven, where we viewed the rose gardens and other flowers and had lunch on the top, where you can get a wonderful view of the city. My better half went on to the Park City for a visit with old friends, and he saw many changes and the rapid expansion of the city we lived in 26 years after our marriage. I have had an experience that I never expected to have and am truly thankful that in spite of poorer health was able to do a Christian deed and receive thanks from the relatives and many friends. A sister of a neighbor six weeks ago, knowing we have a large house and furnished rooms not occupied, asked to come here and stay for two weeks while she got her household goods out of storage and went to housekeeping near us. She succeeded in getting me to let her come and, knowing she was an excellent woman, with a cheerful disposition, and good company, I looked forward to seeing her settled in her own home, but it was not to be. The second day after she came she went to bed sick, and I looked after her best I could and she tried not to make me any trouble, but she grew worse so fast in a week I commenced to realize she was seriously sick. A nurse took charge of her case and a doctor made regular visits. I had to assist the nurse in this work, stay with her if she went out and while she had her meals. Some of her relatives and friends urged her to go to the hospital and she positively refused and made me promise her that I would never ask her to leave here, and the way she clung to me I could not break my word. She was so anxious to live and did not give up hope until a doctor from the city met her doctor here for consultation and it was decided the time had passed for an operation and she couldn't live more than two to four weeks, but she gave right up after the consultation, failed rapidly and lived only three days. She was conscious up to within an hour and expressed her appreciation to the nurse and myself. The last two nights we were obliged to get another woman, but we were alone when she passed away, for the end came quite suddenly and peacefully. While I had not known her personally, I knew her brother's family and of her for several years. She said: "I was a stranger and ye took me in and may you be rewarded." She was taken to the undertaker's and I attended her funeral, and she looked so peaceful resting in a beautiful metallic casket, and I hope to be able to visit her grave and place flowers on it. Unlooked for opportunities come to us in life when we can be a comfort and a blessing.

Glad to know Firefly has found her plate and used it. Will try to write again.

An ENJOYABLE MOTOR TRIP.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I was asked to write about my recent trip to Vermont and Canada. It was such a hurried one there does not seem much to write about. I was accompanied by my son and two daughters, the two older ones doing the driving. We left home on a Thursday evening, drove all night and reached my sister's in Vermont about noon Friday. A thunder was blowing up when we left home but we soon left that behind us but were not as fortunate about the rain. It rained hard nearly all night. We went to East Hartford and from there followed the Connecticut river through Springfield, Greenfield, Brattleboro, Windsor and White River Junction. Instead of going to Barre and from there to Hardwick, as we have other times, we went to St. Johnsbury then to Hardwick, avoiding most of the flood stricken places. Either way the scenery is beautiful but the detours between White River Junction and Hardwick were very bad on the Barre route. We rested Friday afternoon and night and Saturday started for Canada, going through Newport, Vt., and over the Derby line through Stanstead, Lennoxville and on to Sherbrook. It was sweltering hot there and I was glad when we started back. Sunday morning we left Vermont for home as my daughter had to be at work Monday morning. We have taken several trips on Sunday that we enjoyed very much over roads that were new to us. One trip was from Westerly to Norwich from there to Jewett City, Plainfield, Danielson and then over to Washington, R. I. We went down a hill that was a real sure enough one and then also travled over some of the new Victory highway. We enjoyed it so much we are going that way again sometime.

A long time ago I saw something about waterspots on silk crepe dresses. Try rubbing between your hands or draw your thumb nail over them edgewise. I tried it on a brown one that water had been spilled on and it took every one out.

ENJOYED CORNER PICNIC

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to tell you what a nice time I had at Tuny Cum's picnic Aug. 8th. The first I have ever attended since I joined and all the good things we had to eat. Some of the sisters I knew and some I didn't but they were all very sociable.

Lebanon was my birthplace and lived there until ten years of age, then moved to another place.

Am well acquainted with Silver Locks and Yellow Daisy also Biddy, Auntie No. 1 and perhaps several others I have not had the chance to meet yet. I hope I shall be able to go to Auntie No. 1 Aug. 30.

Long live the Social Corner as it certainly is a great help to me.

GREETINGS FOR MANY

Hello, Social Corner Editor and Members: As I am going to be called a slacker if I don't write will get busy. I was glad to see the nice letters in Saturday's paper. I cannot even believe September is so near, but must, I suppose, as the calendar says so, think the writer who predicted this would be a year without a summer was right, for with frost and hail and so much rain it seems more like spring. When mowing I found brakes that had been frosted but nothing in the garden touched.

Pisces: I was so glad to get your nice homey letter, such letters bring sunshine and happiness. Hope you have nice pleasant day for the Corner gathering.

Aries: Your card received, many thanks; will answer soon. Glad to hear you went to Ekonk Corner meeting and got a ride home. I would have liked to have been there and heard the organ you played, but live in hopes to hear some of your playing some day when the busses get to running over the new road. Hope you are feeling better than you were those hot days.

Joan: Sorry you are not feeling well. Hope you are better before now. How are the plants and flowers? You certainly have some nice ones.

Nonesoprettv: Letter received. Thanks for love'y card. Will answer soon, often think of you, have been so busy have neglected letter writing. Went down two days and gave Violet a helping hand. She is far from well yet and Thomas Andrew has been sick but is better now. He grows so fast.

Crimson Rambler: Yes, I do owe you a letter. Beg pardon, was away so much that time I did not get time to answer it, but will soon now. Don't you feel so disappointed now, ha, ha. Cheer up, remember what you wrote me. It is raining hard and severe tempest out but the sun must shine again. How are the plants? I haven't many house plants this summer, mostly hardy ones. The shoo-fly plant is getting pretty now, but grows so large and tall. Suppose you are busy like the rest of us and trying to hay it.

J. E. T.: Was glad to read your letter in the Corner and know you are with us; hope you are all well.

Fleurdelis: You came near being a slacker, I should say. Write again. Yes, I was at Violet's and helped her a lot before and after Thomas Andrew was born. She had a lovely nurse and doctor or we wouldn't have her with us now. Have you had any chicken pie without chicken you sent to the Corner years ago. I would like a piece of it right now, but law is on chicken and squirrels now, so will have to wait awhile. I suppose you are busy and forget you owe me a letter. How is the radio? Wish I was there to hear the nice music; it is great. When you write please sign your name, I won't tell. Ask N. B. A. and Shasta Daisy if I will.

Shasta Daisy: You owe me a letter. No little guineas, a dog killed her at her nest setting. I am so sorry but no use to cry over spilt milk, you know. Did the plants live? Some time since I heard from you. How is A. C.? I been in bad shape.

Violet: How are you and family? Busy I suppose as usual. Did Alice come to see you? said she would. The apples were fine, ate three since I started this letter; no slacker eating apples if I am writing. I hope the little boys have a nice time at short course at Storrs. Have you seen the twins late? When is who? I am real sorry for them, but I can tell them apart.

B. M.: Sorry to hear patient not so well; wish I could run in and help you a few hours, distance prevents me from coming but I send out best wishes and thoughts for help from God the Father of all who can give strength and health to all, but His will not must be done. He knows best. Will write soon. Think I will ask the twins to help me out answering by letter.

Cecil Bruno: The package received O K. Many thanks. I did enjoy the contents so much, so kind of you. Glad you had such a nice trip, tried to get you over phone, but no one answered, so said you must be out. Your letter was so nice and funny it made me think of 46 years ago when I was there working. Nice when one can go back to the old home again and find it the same after so many years. I would like to take that same trip; a beautiful drive in the summer. I often recall the pageant and good time there and those I met the first time in many years. It soon will be fair time, 17 years since I was there at a fair, went one evening to see the fireworks with a friend 11 years ago; it was nice. Best wishes to the sick and those having lost dear ones, and to Kitty Lou, and hope she is feeling better. I will ring off with best wishes to all.

SUN PRESERVE STRAWBERRIES.

Dear Social Corner Members: Well I've really got started on a letter at last. I've been trying for several weeks but got busy doing up all my curtains and just put it off from one day to the next and first thing I know it's several weeks now. Sunday I was sure I would get a letter written but just as I was about to start I had five unexpected visitors so had to call it off as part of them stayed to the next day. It's 10 p. m. now and I've just finished making my dress and must get a few lines written before I'm a slacker.

Silent Partner — I haven't used the plaster that long yet for repairing but expect it will dry up in time. My bands haven't dried up on me yet because my cellar is pretty damp and think that's why we keep our rubbers, rubber boots and raincoats in the cellar as it's too hot and dry upstairs in summer.

I've had rubber bands dry up and break that's been packed away in trunks upstairs where it's very hot in summer. Also a nice toilet case to carry comb, brush, soap and wash cloth. It was stuck so tight together that I never got it open and was as stiff as iron. I felt real bad as I had never used it and had it given to me. I suppose it was packed in too tight.

Some time ago one of the sisters asked for a recipe for sun preserves and here's a recipe I found in a book I sent away for. I got the address on a box that the Good Luck jar rubbers come in. I had to send 10 cents for it but it's a very nice book on canning. Two of my neighbors borrowed it last year.

Sun Preserve Strawberries—Select firm ripe berries, wash and hull, place in a shallow platter in single layer, sprinkle sugar over them. Pour over berries a thick syrup; cover the berries with a glass dish or a piece of window glass. Let stand in the hot sun eight to 12 hours. Fill your jars, place rubbers and caps in position, semi-seal and process for 16 minutes (water bath) remove jars and seal. When cool wrap in paper to prevent bleaching.

We had our first blueberry pie last week. I only wish I could have enjoyed picking them as I used to when a child. Father, brother, sister and myself used to go to Mt. Wachusetts and would bring home all we could carry. We lived at Leominster then and would take the first trolley for Fitchburg in the morning. Once we took the ice cream freezer full of ice cream and brought it back full of blue berries. We camped out over night on the mountain and that was the last time we were there. Father picked berries and told us to go enjoy ourselves so we found an old Indian trail and followed it, not knowing where we were going but at last came to the very top and there was a good sized lookout house where you could see for miles around. We came back by the road which was a new one and very wide. That was around 1911 or 1912 if I remember right.

Aunt Susie—I would be very glad to have those books you speak of as they are new to me. I haven't found any new patterns yet as I've been very busy and will be for the rest of this month and the first week of September. After that I won't be so busy.

I wonder if any of the sisters are saving empty spools. I have a few and would gladly save all I use if I could give them to some one. I had nearly a bushel but they got so dirty in the cellar that we burned them up as my husband didn't get a chance to use them.

I've been saving all my pint vinegar bottles and ketchup bottles till I have enough now to make five gallons of root beer. I made half the recipe and used corks instead of caps and it would have been fine if I had used a little more yeast cake. Will ring off now as it's after 11 p. m. and must arise early in the morning. With happy dreams to all.

UNDER THE SIGN OF VIRGO.

Dear Editor: Here we are all safe and sound with a new moon and a new sign of the zodiac. Virgo (The Virgin) begins about Aug. 21st and ends Sept. 21st each year. This month is ruled by Mercury and is called the neutral sign of the earth Triune; corresponds to the solar plexus and digestive organs in the physical body. The colors are amber, gold and black. The tribe is Benjamin, meaning "power." The gems are onyx and cornelian. This is the feminine sign, the women being especially brilliant and aggressive. There is astrong resemblance between Virgo people and Leo people as Joseph and Benjamin were the only two sons of Rachel. Being of the earth element many Virgo people are materialistic of mind, discriminating of eye, which makes of them good literary critics. Usually fond of music, they like order and make fine scholars, but are inclined to be selfish. "When they are good they are very very good and when they are bad, they are horrid." The vibration is supposed to be more favorable for Virgo people the week beginning May 10th and the week beginning Dec. 28th any year.

I wanted to describe a piece of work that is on view in one of our shops. It is in form of a bust of Uncle Sam, standing about 4 feet high and is composed entirely of pieces of quartz rock. The base is star shaped covered with the crystals. Then another square resting on the star; then the bust is built up, in perfect likeness. The eyes are small electric lights and the tall hat forms a lovely flower pot in which is growing a sultana. The pieces of crystal are fawn shaded to white and seem to be held onto the form by cement or putty which is entirely covered from view. I understand the work was done by Mr. Constantine of Almyville.

Shall we all conserve strength and money so as to be able to attend picnics Aug. 21st and 29th, after which I think it would be agreeable to meet at East Killingly as suggested by Try Again. I agree with the sisters who advocate telling the truth as a half truth is said to be no truth at all. Either refuse to speak at all or speak truth as you see it. "Be sure you are right, then go ahead."

We regret to read of the passing of Sister Gloria, Mrs. Grace Tague. Our sympathy to the family.

Violet — Thank you for lovely photograph. The baby is splendid. I put my shoulder out of joint so I can't write as I would like to do.

Nonesopretty — The box was intended as a birthday gift, but a little too soon.

Pisces—Glad you liked the geranium slips. The postage on view cards is one cent one.

Comfort, and others—Isn't it about time you wrote to the Corner page?

INVENTION OF PLAYING CARDS

Dear Editor and Members: The invention of playing cards has been variously attributed to India, Arabia, and Egypt. There seems to be but little doubt that they originated in Asia, and were introduced into Europe by the Saracens about the close of the thirteenth century. There is historical mention of the game of cards in Germany in 1275, in Italy in 1299, but not in France until 1393. An active trade in cards sprung up in Germany as nearly as the fifteenth century, where they were manufactured for other portions of Europe. One hundred years later we find the manufacture of cards a flourishing business in England, and under Edward IV. their importation was forbidden, thus protecting the home industry.

Owing to their supposed immoral influences they were at times prohibited by various European governments. The marks upon the suits of cards are believed to have been to represent symbolically the different classes of society. Thus, the hearts stood for the clergy, clubs for the soldiery, spades for the serfs, and diamonds stood for the merchants.

In the early French cards the kings were pictures of David, Alexander, Caesar, and Charlemagne, representing the monarchies of the Jews, Greeks Romans, and French; the queens were Argine, Ester, Judith and Pallas. The number of the cards, the ace, and the knave, were probably based on similar ideas. The suits of the earliest German cards were designated by hearts, bells, leaves, and acorns. Italian cards had swords, batons, cups, and money. The court cards at first were the king, chevalier, and knave. The queen was first substiated for the chevalier by the Italians. The English cards in the seventeenth century were embellished with heraldic designs, the king of clubs bearing the coat-of-arms of the Pope of Rome and those of hearts, diamonds and spades being adorned respectively with the armorial device of the kings of England, Spain and France. The club of modern cards derived its form from the trefoil, a French design. A pack of Hindustan cards in the possession of the Royal Asiatic society of England is supposed to be fully 1,000 years old. It consists of eight suits of divers colors. The kings are mounted on elephants; the viziers, or second honers, upon horses, tigers, and bulls; and some of the common cards have such curious marks as a pineapple in a shallow cup, and a something like a parasol without a handle, and with two broken ribs sticking through the top.

KNEW THE "OLD DARNED MAN"

Mr. Editor and Readers of the Social Corner: Since reading the story of the Old "Darned Man" by Ann Tenna, I have wondered if there were more than one Old "Darned Man."

His characteristics as Ann Tenna has drawn them are perfect, and the same as the one I knew. He was sick at our house for more than two weeks, requiring the attendance of a doctor. My father went to Canterbury Green for Dr. Joseph Palmer, the town's doctor, to attend him. This was in the spring, some time in the early fifties, more than 70 years ago. My mother attended him as faithfully as she would one of her own family. After being at our house more than a week, he told my mother he had been a great care to her, and he thought he was able to be on his way.

Mother and father both insisted that he stay a few days longer and get more strength. He said no, he would take his time and would stop and rest occasionally and would make a visit at Mr. Cunningham's or Thomas Safford's, as he should go that way.

An hour or more after he left our house father put up a load of grain to take to the grist mill. He had occasion to go via Fort Ned. As he was ascending the hill beyond the factory the oxen shied quickly to one side; wondering what was the occasion, father looked over the fence; there he saw Old "Darned Man" lying helpless on the ground. He told my father he had seated himself on the fence to rest and the rail gave way and he fell and wasn't able to get up.

Father took him in his arms and put him into the cart and went on his way to the Safford mill. Arriving there he carried the helpless old man into the house. Mrs. Lucretia Hatch, Mr. Safford's daughter served him with a cup of tea, his favorite drink, with toast. When the grist was ground the old gentleman (which he was) was put into the cart and brought to our house, where he was again attended by Dr. Palmer for another week or more. Through rest and good nursing he gained strength and was better able to go on his journey than before.

The next and last time I saw him he was seated in a chair by the door of Mrs. Henry Hatch, darning some article of clothing with needle and thread furnished by Mrs. Hatch.

Well I remember the tall hat he w

EARLY MARKET WAS STRONG WITH FINAL QUOTATIONS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—A flurry from 5 to 7 per cent in call money rates figuratively upset the apple cart of speculators for the advance in today's stock market. Early gains of 1 to 9 points were rapidly cut down, or wiped out, and in some cases replaced by losses, leaving final quotations irregular. Trading, which had started at a brisk pace, fell off on the decline, the day's sales again falling just short of the 3,000,000 share mark.

Encouraged by the reduction of more than $50,000,000 in brokers' loans and the decline in call money yesterday, operators for the advance started a broad buying movement with the opening gong. Before the end of the first half hour, nearly a score issues had been lifted to new high records. Several blocks of 10,000 shares changed hands.

Fixing of the call money renewal rate at 5 per cent stimulated the recovery. The demand for funds quickly exceeded the supply and when out-of-town banks began calling loans, which totaled $50,000,000 before the day was over, the call rate advanced successively to 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2 and 7 per cent, the last three increases taking place within an hour. This seemingly confirmed official intimations yesterday that the drop from 6 1-2 to 4 1-2 per cent in call money was artificial. A slightly easier undertone was apparent, however, in the time money market where funds were again available at 6 to 6 1-4 per cent as against a ruling rate of 6 1-2 earlier in the week.

There was no overnight change in the business situation which, in the main, continues favorable. Directors of the International Nickel Co. increased the annual dividend from $2 to $3, coincident with the announcement of an offering of 200,000 additional shares of stock at $60 a share on the basis of one new share for each ten now held. The department of commerce announced that July exports of $352,000,000 were the largest for that month in any year since 1920. July imports were $316,000,000. The net loss of gold for the month was placed at $68,659,000.

Motor shares were again among the leaders in speculative activity. Graham-Paige retained the leadership assumed yesterday by climbing nearly 6 points to a new high at 44 3-4 and then slipping back to 41 1-8. Chrysler ran into further profit-taking and closed 1 1-4 points lower at 94 1-8 after having dipped to 92 1-2. General Motors, selling ex-dividend 1 1-4, showed a net gain of a point at 185 1-2 after having sold as high as 187 3-4.

U. S. Steel again received strong buying support, rallying nearly 3 points to 149 12 and then easing to 147 3-4. Republic Steel ran up 3 points to 56 1-2. American Smelting was bid up to a new high record at 215 1-2and then slipped back 2 1-2 points on realizing. Other issues to move into new high ground included American Can, Kroger Stores, First National Stores, Eaton Axle, R. H. Macy, Sears Roebuck, Tidewater Oil, Savage Arms, International Nickel and Texas & Pacific. A brisk demand for Westinghouse Electric aznd Columbia Gas featured the late trading.

There were several new soft spots. Foundation Co., broke 4 1-4 points to a new low at 37, and fresh weaknesss cropped out in Cluett Peabody, Calumet & Arizona, Motor Products, National Wheel and Manhattan Electrical Supply.

A drop of about $2 a bale in cotton prices featured the commodity markets. Active grain futures eased slightly. Coffee and sugar showed little change.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firmer undertone. Japanese yen rallied about 15 points to 44.65 cents, and sterling cables were quoted slightly tighter around $4.85 7-16.

THE WILL OF RALPH H. MELCER PROBATED FRIDAY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17—Confirmation of William H. Reeves as sole executor of the will of Ralph H. Melcer, at his death president of the Palmer Bros. company, was made today at a hearing upon the will before Judge Arthur E. Calkins, in the probate court.

After numerous bequests to relatives and friends the will left the residue of the estate to Virginia and Theodore Palmer, children of the late Frank Loomis and Louise Townsend Palmer. The first provision of the will provided for an annuity of $3,000 to his mother, who lives at the Hotel Mohican, this to be paid in monthly installments of $250.

To his brother Alfred Melcer of Berkeley, Cal., he bequeathed $10,000. To Miss Alice Hughes of London, Eng., a cousin, he gave $2,000. The same amount was bequeathed to Arthur Morris Collins, Jr., of Hartford, a godchild. He bequeathed $2,000 to his friend, Rev. C. C. Tibbets of Jersey City and to James Hughs of Fairbury, Neb., he gave $1,000.

In regard to the bequests the will states: "I direct that the gifts in the foregoing six sections of my will be paid in full, without deduction for inheritance, legacy or succession taxes of any sort."

Mr. Melcer further devised that after the payment of all debts, taxes and etc., all personal property of every sort and description was to be distributed as follows:

One share to Miss Elizabeth H. Melcer, a sister, now living in Paris, France, the share to be hers absolutely. The other share to the National Bank of Commerce, in trust, for the following uses, the trust to hold, manage, invest, reinvest and care for same and collect the income therefrom and to turn over the same to his mother, in quarterly payments, so long as she lives: "At the death of my mother, I give and direct the bank to deliver the principal amount, discharged of all liability, to the residuary legatees, or legatee named in the following section, to be theirs absolutely."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Smilin' Thru."

Smilin' Thru, the world famous comedy drama written by Allen Langdon Martin and made famous by Jane Cowl on the stage and Norma Talmadge on the screen, will be presented by The Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre startingthis Monday evening. Miss Helene Wesley, beautiful leading lady of the company, will be hostess at a tea party which she is giving to all patrons of the Tuesday matinee performance. Every Tuesday thereafter, each member of the company will act as host and hostess.

Smilin' Thru, the sensational piece which brought Jane Cowl into outstanding fame, is based on a love tragedy occurring fifty years back. On the night of her wedding, a beautiful young bride-to-be is shot and killed by a rejected suitor who also intends to kill the man she was to marry. She vows that she will come back in spirit to undo the wrong. And, as time passes, a boy and girl of the families, out of the present generation, fall in love and are separated by their elders, her spirit returns to aid them in their romance.

Between laughs and tears, this beautiful fantastic tale of a great romance, winds its way onward and upward to gripping climax. There is all the elements combined to make the perfect stage production woven and twisted into a play such as the theatre has never before known. A great love story beautifully told by your favorites.

Broadway Theatre.

The thrill which talking pictures brought to a sophisticated audience at its debut in the Warner theatre in New York two years ago, will be understood by the people of Norwich when the Broadway theatre introduces Vitaphone.

In "Glorious Betsy," the second Warner Bros. picture to have a synchonized accompaniment and dialogue, there was an increase in the number of line spoken by the characters in the picture. Where "Tenderloin" had but 20 per cent of dialogue "Glorious Betsy" was voluble for 35 per cent of the picture. Then, too, there was a greater fluency in the delivery of the words.

It was, perhaps, in "The Lion and the Mouse" a Warner Bros.-Vitaphone picture that the greatest stride yet was made. Throughout 65 percent of the picture the characters conversed and the marvelous voices of Lionel Barrymore, Alec Francis, May McAvoy and William Collier, Jr. were heard. A famous play of 25 years ago came to motion pictures enhanced the scenic beauty which the legitimate theatre could not have given it.

And then Warner Bros. startled the motion picture industry and the lovers of the screen. Within two years after its inception, Vitaphone was to be heard throughout an entire feature picture, a reality due to the genius of Vitaphone and the daring Warner Bros. In "Lights of New York" the Warner Bros.-Vitaphone picture the motion picture industry saw And heard the first All-Talking motion picture. For seven reels the voices of the players resounded through the theatre synchronized perfectly with their actions and gestures. "Lights of New York" marked a new era in the history of motion pictures.

It is not only in the synchronization of sound and motion in feature pictures that Vitaphone has established itself as the greatest invention of our age. In the field of short subjects, Vitaphone has reached a perfection that is unsurpassable. The people of Norwich will be delighted and amazed when they hear and see the stars of the operatic world, the variety stage and the legitimate theatre in the Vitaphone presentation programs at the Broadway theatre.

Breed Theatre.

Ramon Novarro—as a philandering young English lord with an infatuation complex that gets him into many a peck of trouble—is the central figure of the latest whimsical romance of the screen, in which the star makes his bow in an early new guise, in "A Certain Younb Man," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle coming Sunday to the Breed theatre.

Ramon is introduced with moustache and monocle, in the very height of fashion in London, but after he meets THE girl he discards both and tries to live down his past—with results that land him in many trials and tribulations. In his escape from these a real love story comes in, as charmingly romantic as any he has ever appeared in, and all done in an ultra-modern vein. The story would do credit to a Barrie—it more than does credit to Novarro.

It starts with the adventures of a young boulevardier whose flirtations are the talk of staid old London, and when he goes to Biarritz and other southern France playgrounds to escape too many pretty women the real romance develops. Marceline Day is the heroine, and Carmel Myers and Renee Adoree play the rival charmers. Huntley Gordon, Bert Roach and others of note are in the cast, and Hobart Henley, past master of sophistication, and famous for "The Auction Block" and other plays, directed it.

Novarro in a modern dress suit proves even more romantic than in a uniform, and probably will make modern flappers' hearts throb at an even livelier rate than in his costume pictures.

The elaborate reproductions of London town houses, British castles, the gorgeous pavilion at Biarritz, and other colorful backgrounds are elaborately constructed for the picture, one of the most ambitious Novarro vehicles of the present season.

A girl thinks the wisdom of Solomon insignificant when compared with the smart sayings of her first beau.

Two 46 year old generators, purchased from the Falls Cotton Co., Lantic street, this city, for Henry Ford, were shipped to Dearborn, Mich., Friday. Some time ago Mr. Kelles gave up the management of the concern and the store was run by Xenophon and other sons of the founder. Of the liabilities, $62,941 only $1,286.58 is listed as secured claims.

A large attendance is indicated at the national convention by the number of special trains that have been arranged for by delegations from various parts of the country. One way rates will apply on all railroads for the convention trip to Indianapolis and return.

RIFLE MEN TO BE AT TAFTVILLE RANGE TODAY

Members of the Norwich and Taftville Rifle clubs and their friends are to be present at the Taftville range this (Saturday) afternoon to practice for the coming Labor day and Camp Perry rifle matches. There are to be several prone, standing and muzzle rest targets in operation, the shooting distance to be 100 yards.

That these clubs are fast developing some of the leading shots of the state can be attested in that four of the members have been selected after numerous tryouts throughout the state, to shoot on the Connecticut state team at Camp Perry this year, competing against the best marksmen in the country.

WILL NOT SOUND ALARMS ON COURT HOUSE BELL

As the ringing of the fire alarm bell in the court house has proved a hindrance to the fire apparatus, in that large numbers of automobile drivers rush to fires, the bell will no longer be struck by the police department. Notice to this effect has been received by Chief George Linton rom the fire commissioners, Paul Zahn, Charles Hagberg and Amiel Brosofski.

The automatic strikers in the fire stations, at the Community house, Church street, at Thamesville, Greeneville and the West Side will still sound, but these bells are only heard in the district in which they are located.

NORWICH GIRL FAINTED WHILE IN BATHING

While in bathing at Atlantic beach Wednesday Miss Irene Burns of this city fainted. She recovered in a half hour after being attended at the casino and was able to return home. It is said that Miss Burns was given a push by a friend and fell into shallow water in a faint. She had gone to the beach with members of the Mooseheart Legion auxiliary of this city, who held an outing there Wednesday.

FIREMEN RESCUE CAT FROM McKINLEY AVE. TREE

A cat was removed from its lofty perch in a tree in front of No. 59 McKinley avenue by Squad A and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft, who responded to a call at 2:12 o'clock Friday afternoon to rescue the animal. The residents in that section claimed that the cat had been in the tree for the past two days and had disturbed them by its meowing. The name of the owner of the cat was not learned.

GOVERNOR'S DAY AT NIANTIC CAMPGROUND

The governors of Connecticut and Rhode Island, with a representative of the state of Maine, arrived at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, just before noon Friday for the Governor's day exercises of the units of the 43rd Division, encamped there for intensive training.

Despite the intense heat beneath a sweltering sun, there was a huge crowd on hand for the big day. At exactly 11:15 o'clock, Gov. Norman Case of Rhode Island arrived at the camp by automobile. He had been escorted from the Connecticut line by a detachment of state troopers.

As the official car entered the camp grounds, the 118th Engineers' band and battalion of the regiment met Governor Case and with military honors escorted the chief executive of "Little Rhody" to the headquarters, where he was met by Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne, commander of the 43rd Division, and members of his staff. The governor's salute of 19 guns was fired.

Fifteen minutes later the roar of a 43rd Division observation plane was heard overhead. It was bringing Gov. John H. Trumbull, Connecticut's flying governor, to the camp, with Maj. William F. Ladd, commander of the 43rd Division Observation squadron, at the broomstick.

As the plane circled widely, the field piece again boomed out 19 times. When the machine landed, the 118th Medical Regiment band met the governor and escorted him to the headquarters.

A few minutes later General Hanson, representing the state of Maine, arrived by auto and was officially greeted. Vermont sent no representative to the camp.

In addition to Major General Payne at the camp are Lieut. Col. Thomas E. Troland, assistant chief of staff, and Capt. Alfred Ligourie, aide-de-camp to the major general.

The Rhode Island chief executive was the guest of the 118th Engineer regiment at lunch. Governor Trumbull was the guest of his division staff.

The demonstrations were executed most cleverly and they were interesting maneuvers. The 118th Medical regiment set up a hospital in the field, exactly as is done in war time. The 43rd Division Headquarters company set up field telephones and radio, stretching wires before the huge audience.

The following units took part in the review: 43rd Division Headquarters and staff; 85th Infantry Brigade Headquarters and staff; 43rd Division Headquarters company; 185th Infantry Brigade Headquarters company; 118th Engineers of the 43rd Division; Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Special Troops; Signal company, Special Troops; Tank company, Special Troops; Military Police company Special Troops; reserve officers and entire staff and corps department officers of each state.

The review was one of the most spectacular ones ever held at the camp. It was different from the reviews of the infantry regiments, in that the parade comprised so many different kinds of units.

SHIPPED BEER TO FORMER NORWICH MAN?

Another of those mysterious freight car loads of high power beer consigned to responsible parties who disclaim any knowledge of the shipment was discovered by railroad police and confiscated by federal prohibition agents in the Cedar Hill yards, New Haven, when a car billed as containing 80 barrels of tar consigned to A. W. Bushnell, state highway commissioner in that city, was found to contain so many barrels of beer.

So far as could be learned there is no such person in or near New Haven who bears the name A. W. Bushnell and the nearest approximation to it would appear to be A. W. Bushell, divisional engineer of the Connecticut state highway department, with offices at 30 Whitney avenue, New Haven, and formerly divisional engineer in this city.

Attempts to reach Mr. Bushell by phone in order to learn whether he had any knowledge of the freight car load of so-called "tar" failed. Federal agents suggested that this was probably another case similar to the last freight car load of beer they confiscated, in that case the consignees were Ford brothers, who knew absolutely nothing about the case until informed of it by the agents.

The carload of "tar" was shipped from a point in Pennsylvania, the shipper's name being unknown to the federal agents. A leak in one or more of the barrels caused railroad police to become suspicious of the character of the "tar" and they tipped off the agents. Upon investigation the barrels were found to contain beer of a high powered nature valued, according to an estimate, at between $3,000 and $4,000.

STOECKEL DISCOURAGES USE OF CANADIAN GUEST STICKERS

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel is endeavoring to have Canadian motor vehicle commissioners assist in the discouragement of the use of windshield stickers for automobiles.

In letters to two Canadian officials Wednesday Commissioner Stoeckel referred to the fact that the use of stickers is a violation of Connecticut state motor vehicle laws, and stated that it is likely that such tourist stickers as those labeled "Guest of Canada" may cause some embarrassment to motorists passing through this state. An effort is being made to have the practice of using such stickers abandoned.

CALLED FOR FIRE IN TANK AUTOMOBILE

The fire department was called outshortly after 12 o'clock Friday afternoon for a fire in a Texaco tank automobile in front of No. 242 Broadway. The department was notified by LeRoy Walker, who saw the machine coming along Broadway with smoke issuing from it. Walker informed the driver of the fire and he stopped the machine and sprayed the blaze with the contents of a tank of chemical. The blaze was practically extinguished on the arrival of Engine Co., No. 3, Squad A and Chief Howard L. Stanton. The fire is believed to have been started from a gasoline soaked rag filling upon the muffler of the machine.

MONTHLY SURVEY OF BUSINESS IN NORWICH

Building permits for construction work costing $317,745 were issued in Norwich during July, the monthly business survey of the city, compiled by Secretary Walter Pilcher, of Norwich chamber of commerce, shows. The survey is prepared monthly for the Connecticut chamber of commerce. According to the state chamber's survey general business conditions in Connecticut during July this year, compared favorably with July, 1927. While substantial increases in certain lines of business were reported by some communities, however, others reported decreases in the same lines.

Retail business and industrial conditions were reported as generally satisfactory for the majority of the communities surveyed.

Increased activity in building was noted in several cities, there being a gain both in the number and value of permits this July over last. Norwich reported a gain of 332 per cent. for this year. Norwalk, Greenwich, Bridgeport, New Britain, Waterbury and New Haven also showed increases in value of building permits.

In only one or two of the reporting communities was the consumption of gas and electricity less this July than last. In a few communities, however, there was a falling off of bank clearings and debits and postal receipts.

More real estate was sold this July than last in several sections. Hotel business continued good. There was, however, a decline in life insurance sales in the state, the report from nearly all of the insurance companies writing life insurance in Connecticut giving the total sales for the state as $11,042,000, a 3 per cent. loss in comparison with July, 1927.

Secretary Walter Pilcher, of the Norwich chamber, reported as follows: Postoffice receipts for July, 1928, amounting to $10,655, were 6 per cent. greater than the $9,418 in receipts for July, a year ago. Building permits for July, this year, showed a 332 per cent. increase over the value of building permits issued a year ago. The value for July, 1928, was $317,745, the number issued being 45, and for July, 1927, $645,39 having been issued. The permits last month include one for a new Masonic temple. Bank debits for last month totaled $55,114 and for July, 1927, $56,905, a decrease of 1 per cent.

Savings deposits amounted to $36,884,555 on July 31, 1926; $40,645,537 on July 31, 1927, and $42,590,544 on July 31, 1928, the latter amount being a 7.2 per cent. increase over 1927. Gas consumption totaled 12,072,000 cu. ft. for July, 1927 and 12,920,000 cu. ft., for last month, an increase of 7 per cent. Electric consumption for July, 1927, totaled 605,676, K. W. H., and for July, 1928, 710,474 K. W. H., a 17 per cent. increase. There was no increase in telephones a year ago, but there were eleven gained last month.

Secretary Garipy, of the New London chamber, reported as follows: Retail business in New London during July, 1928, was about the same as July of last year. The local factories are operating the same as last month, about 70 per cent. of normal. Building inspector reports 18 permits an ounting to $4,430, a decrease over July, 1927, which records 52 building permits amounting to $103,775. Postoffice receipts for July, 1928, amounted to $15,950.43, showing a decrease of $1,008.33 over July, 1927.

The number of real estate sales remain about the same as July of last year with the prices about the same. For July, 1928, 1,462,476 kilowat hours is reported and 21,666,300 cu. ft. of gas, an increase of 174,027 kilowat hours and 485,700 cu. ft. of gas over July, 1927. Electric meters totaled 10,539 and gas meters 7,480, an increase of 57 electric meters and 202 gas meters over July, 1927. A decrease of 25 telephone installations is reported over July, 1927.

NORWICH TOWN

FIRST CHURCH OUTING HELD AT OCEAN BEACH

The annual picnic of the First Congregational Sunday school Thursday at Ocean Beach was a success in every way under the supervision of the committee, Mrs. Carlos Ricker, Charles Barber and Clyde M. Beebe. A special trolley car left the church at 8:30. About 100 attended. While at the beach, the order of the day comprised a basket lunch, bowling, bathing and the merry-go-round. The children were also treated to ice cream and popcorn by the committee. The party left for home shortly before 5 o'clock. Mr. Beebe and Mr. Barber, representing the committee, also the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, were included among the adults. Several family parties went to the beach also by automobile, and joined the church school there.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Sterry of Joliet, Ill., accompanied by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harvey, of Leeds, South Dakota, who have been guests for the past ten days of Mr. Sterry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Sterry, of Lee avenue, left Friday morning by automobile for their respective homes. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey expect to stop en route for a few days' visit at the home of their son-in-law and daughter in Illinois, where the party expects to arrive Sunday afternoon. Mr. Sterry, a former Norwich Town young man, has been most successful since locating in the west. He and Mrs. Sterry come to Norwich Town about once a year for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Floyd and family are to move soon to their newly constructed home, beautifully situated on Harland road. For about a year the family has occupied the upper apartment in the former General Harland house on Sentry Hill. This house, now the property of Frederick Armstrong, has during the early spring and summer undergone many improvements, interior and exterior. Among the features is the cutting down and removal of two mammoth trees around which the old veranda was built. A new and wide veranda has been built for the occupants of the middle and upper apartments, and adds much to the appearance of the building.

Having concluded a visit of two weeks in Adirondack and at Glens Falls, N. Y., where they visited among Mr. Floyd's relatives, Superintendent Floyd, Mrs. Floyd and children, Culver, Marjorie and Albert Floyd, returned Wednesday evening to Sentry Hill. The trip was made by automobile. While at Glens Falls, the Floyd family were guests of Dr. and Mrs. James Floyd and at Adirondack, they visited at the home of his father, at the Floyd homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Ricker and little daughters, Harriet and Joyce, returned Thursday evening to their home in Norwich Town, following a three days' automobile trip through the New England states. They stopped at several points of interest, among them Lake Sunapee and Lake Winnipiseogee. The Ricker family left home Tuesday morning, remaining over that night at Manchester, N. H. Wednesday night they were overnight guests at Keene, N. H.

The Norwich Town letter carrier, Frank E. Sterry, who has been having his vacation of 15 days, expects to resume his duties Friday, Aug. 24. During his absence, James Lynch is covering the route.

Men have been at work this week cutting and curing the grass in Lowthorpe meadows, from which a substantial crop of hay is being carted away.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb of Town street were visitors in Colchester and Salem Thursday.

Mrs. C. R. Horan of New Haven was a caller Wednesday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lamb. From Norwich Town, Mrs. Horan motored to New London that evening.

POETRY

Good-bye, My Dear

Goodbye, my dear. . . . The silence fold.. between
Your life and mine, though just awhile ago
Our paths lay parallel, and merged, serene,
As we went forward cheerfully. . . . We grow
Into the way of losing what we had
And taking what is given instead. . . . How blest
That one whose pathway leads him far or near
With lov., unbroken, his—prized and possessed—
Goodbye, my dear.

Goodbye, my dear. . . . For just a little while
We shared the same perspective, hope and plan;
We learned to dream again, and jest and smile,
As travelers on a pleasant journey can.
But ther. are shadows often that befall
When hope is brightest—shadows vague and queer,
That blur the sunlit summits for us all—
Goodbye—goodbye, my dear.

—Grace E. Hall.

Opportunity

What are you going to do today,
What are you going to do?
It is morning now, and the day is here,
And the choice is up to you.

Are you going to idle and loaf and yawn,
In the way of the lazy man,
Or are you going to labor and scheme
And strive and struggle and plan?

Are you going to look for an easy job
And dawdle and dodge and shirk,
Or are you going to tackle what comes,
And finish some useful work?

Are you going to stop every now and then
And take a long time for rest,
Or are you going to stick to the job,
Trying always to do your best?

It is morning now, and the day is here,
What are you going to do?
And the choice is up to you.
What are you going to do today?

HOW CURTIS WOULD DEAL WITH THE FARM PROBLEM

The Republican Vice Presidential Nominee in His Speech of Acceptance Suggested That a Joint Congressional Committee Be Named to Solve the Farm Problem on a Non-Partisan Basis—Senator Curtis is En Route to Keep a Speaking Engagement Thursday at Rocky Point, R. I.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 19—(AP)—Leaving the agricultural situation to the immediate care of Herbert Hoover republican standard bearer, Senator Charles Curtis, vice-presidential nominee, set out tonight to carry the party colors on the eastern front.

The train bearing Mr. Hoover to conferences with farm leaders in Iowa this week was just appoaching the western Kansas border as the vice-presidential nominee departed for the east tonight to keep a speaking engagemen on Thursday at Rock Point, Rhode Island.

Senator Curtis left behind the suggestion offered in his speech of acceptance yesterday that a joint congressional committee be named to solve the farm problem on a non-partisan basis. The proposal, however, was frowned upon today by one farm leader here, Ralph Snyder, president of the Kansas State Farm bureau.

Like Kansans generally who participated in the celebration yesterday for the senator who has represented this state in congress for 33 years, Mr. Snyder regarded the address of Curtis as "fine," but referring specifically to the proposal for joint congressional committee action on farm relief, he said:

"Two committees already in congress are fairly representative of the agricultur interests. I can't see anything but delay in that suggestion. I con't see where any benefit will come from that course."

But Kansas seemed more interested in the fact that their senator was the republican vice-presidential nominee. They gave him a hearty ovation as he spoke yesterday from the statehouse steps, formally accepting the nomination.

Mr. Snyder said today:

"Curtis personal influence, if nothing else, will carry this state for the republicans in the election."

Party leaders at the ceremony lauded Curtis enthusiastically. Snyder was not sure whether he would be able to join some of the state political leaders who are going to the Iowa farm conferences with Mr. Hoover. Senator Capper and David Mulvane, republican national committeeman for Kansas, will join the the Hoover train at Dodge City and go to the West Branch, Iowa, meeting. Senator Pine, of Oklahoma, is another going from here to the farm parley.

"It is my opinion," Snyder said, "that a large percentage of the people of Kansas, all interested in agricultural problems, feel there is at least as much possibility for constructive legislation under Hoover and Curtis as under Alfred E. Smith. We appreciated the interest shown by Mr. Hoove and by Senator Curtis in their speeches of acceptance. Hoover followed that up with the idea that the problem must be worked out by the farmers through their co-operatives and that is discouraging. We have been trying that method. But we believe something constructive will be worked out because we recognise Hoover's ability.

Senator Curtis expressed regret at his inability to go with Mr. Hoover to Iowa but explained he had previously made the speaking date for Rhode Island and he is a man who believes in keeping dates.

Last night he and Mr. Hoover exchanged telegraphic greetings and the proposal then advanced by the presidential nominee that Mr. Curtis sit in the cabinet in his capacity as vice-president if the republicans win the election was cordially accepted by the Kansan.

Rested from his strenuous hours of yesterday the senator visited at home today with his family while packing up for the return east. Throughout the day messengers brought telegrams of congratulation to the Curtis residence.

Papers throughout the state and this section generally gave the notification exercises their first page display. Topeka newspapers referred to it as "Charlie Curtis Day" and it seemed to be. Everywhere were pictures of the senator. Almost every coat lapel carried a badge reading "Curtis for vice-president," pinned with a button carrying his picture. There was a picture of Herbert Hoover at the stand on the statehouse grounds from which the senator spoke.

Today, Curtis turned his thoughts to the approaching campaign. As republican leader of the senate for the last three years and a member of congress for 33 years, party leaders believe him well qualified to speak to all sections of the nation and so, until early September, Curtis will wage the republican battle on the eastern sector, which is regarded by some party chieftains as the battleground of the campaign.

GOV. SMITH HAS COMPLETED HIS REPLY TO EDITOR ALLEN

By PAUL F. HAUPERT
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19—(AP)—Governor Smith has completed his reply to the attack of William Allen White on his legislative record, and it will be laid before the country Tuesday, the day before he formally accepts the democratic presidential nomination.

The governor had planned to give out his statement for publication tomorrow, but last minute revisions forced a day's delay. It has been released for newspapers use Tuesday morning.

In shaping up his rejoinder, which is aimed not only at the Kansas editor but at other critics of his public career, the nominee studied dozens of old legislative journals to refresh his memory as to just how he stood on various proposals dealing with the saloon and commercialized vice.

White, who is now in Europe charged some weeks ago that the governor, while a member of the New York assembly, favored the liquor and gambling interests and was lenient in his attitude toward prostitution. Last week he cabled from abroad that he had not "retracted" those charges applying to gambling and commercialized vice, but simply had suspended judgment.

Among the critics the presidential nominee has embraced in the field at which the reply is directed is the Rev. John Roach Straton, New York Baptist clergyman, who recently from his pulpit described the governor as the greatest foe of the forces of moral progress in the country.

This charge led the democratic standard-bearer to demand the right to answer in the minister's church, but arrangements for that meeting have fallen through and there will be no Smith-Straton debate.

Neither is the governor expected to have any more correspondence with Dr. Straton, as he feels nothing could be gained by a further exchange through the mails.

MISS IVY HAWKE SWAM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

DOVER, England, Aug. 19—(AP)—Miss Ivy Hawke swam the English channel from Cape Grisnez, France, to Dover, completing the order early this afternoon after being in the water 15 hours and 16 minutes.

Miss Hawke whose home is at the beach resort of Brighton, is the fourteenth to accomplish the swim since Captain Webb's conquest of the channel in 1875.

She started from Cape Grisnez at 5.46 o'clock last night under the most favorable weather conditions. Soon she was overhauled by Frank Perks of Birmingham, who took to the water at 10.00 o'clock. Perks, however, became exhausted and abandoned the swim at 1 o'clock this morning.

Miss Hawke swam a slow but powerful stroke and her crossing was uneventful except when she suffered a cramp for a time. The hardest part of the feat was after she had entered St. Margaret's bay under the cliffs of Dover, when contrary currents forced her to extend herself to the utmost to make land, as she touched the rocks at Hope Point, east of Dover, she fell back exhausted but quickly recovered when she was taken aboard a tug. When the tug reached Dover Miss Hawke was able to land and walk unaided up the pier

HOOVER TRAIN PASSING THROUGH NEW MEXICO

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 19—(Hoover Train En Route to Dodge City, Kas.)—(AP)— Crossing the Arid Highands of New Mexico today, Herbert Hoover was informed by republican party leaders that his fight for the electoral vote of that state was likely to resolve itself into a battle of personalities, with the wet and dry issues constituting a two-edged sword cleaving party lines.

These leaders, men and women to the number of nearly a hundred, who journeyed across the state to confer with their chief in his passage eastward, reported that a close contest was in prospect. They expressed confidence, however, that a republican victory would be registered in November.

Colorful scenes greeted the republican presidential candidate as his special train made brief stops at the little towns which dot the state at far intervals. Sun-tanned men of the desert pushed forward to grasp his hand, while stolid Indians, wearing heavy blankets in the face of an almost stifling heat, watched the proceedings with a flicker of curiosity.

While adhering to his rule against public political discussions on Sunday, Hoover had a word of thanks for the reception given him along the line, and referred briefly to his residence in New Mexico earlier in his career as a young miner engineer.

COOLIDGES FOLLOWED THEIR REGULAR SUNDAY ROUTINE

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 19—(AP)—Following their usual Sunday routine, President and Mrs. Coolidge attended church this morning at the Little White Washed chapel at Brule. They again listened to John Taylor, the blind lay preacher that ministers to the small Brule congregation, delivered a straight-forward sermon exhorting his hearers to follow devoutly the teachings of Christ.

John Taylor chose the life of Daniel today to exemplify the faith and steadfastness which all men should display even under undesirable duress.

The weather remained very warm and close today, and Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge once again appeared to thousands of tourists which still gather weeks at Brule in their summeriest clothes. In the church itself the heat was very great, but although one woman in the congregation felt faint and had to be helped out, neither President nor Mrs. Coolidge showed any signs of discomfort.

John Coolidge was not present today as he is spending the week end in Madison as guest of President Glenn Frank of wisconsin.

O'Rourke.

Police arrested O'Rourke on a charge of reckless driving. He claimed to be moving at a moderate speed at the time of the accident. Osborne was taken to his home where a doctor stated he was suffering from shock due to the fatality.

PERJURY INFORMATION OBTAINED BY ABDUCTION

DENVER, Aug. 19—(AP)—The Denver Post says today that the perjury indictment against Henry M. Blackmer, multimillionaire oil operator, is based upon information obtained by government agents through the abduction for questioning of Miss Martha Thompson, former secretary to the wealthy fugitive.

That the tactics alleged to have been by the federal agents in obtaining Miss Thompson's statement will form the basis of a bitter court fight in the event Blackmer is brought back from France to face the indictment seemed certain, as Attorneys Tyson S. Dines, of counsel for the oil man, has cleared the decks here against the government's next move.

Blackmer has been in voluntary exile in France since the federal investigation into the Teapot Dome case started several years ago, and it is upon this indictment that extradition proceedings will be instituted.

The Denver paper says Miss Thompson was accosted by a secret service man in an automobile one morning early last June, while on her way to work; was asked to ride to town, but instead of being left at the offices of the Midwest Oil and Refining company, was whisked away to the offices of U. S. District Attorney George Stephan. There she was subjected to a grilling by Oliver Pagin and a man named Delbert, special government agents from Washington.

When asked about certain of Blackmer's income tax returns upon which her name appears as notary, the young woman is alleged to have told a story which belied certain statements Blackmer is said to have made therein.

While Miss Thompson wa sbeing questioned, writs of attachment calculated to tie up eight and a half million dollars of Blackmer's wealth in the United States were served here and in New York.

U. S. WELL EQUIPPED TO FIGHT A CHEMICAL WAR

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 19—(AP)—The United States is better equipped industrially than any other nation in the world to fight a chemical war, H. Edmund Bullis, executive secretary of the National Association for Chemical Defense, stated today at the close of the American Chemical Society institute at Northwestern university.

The World war proved that chemical weapons are the most effective, the least expensive, and at the same time the most humane weapons that have yet been developed, he said.

Bullis predicted chemicals and gases will be used "in that war of the future, even though a treaty might be ratified prohibiting the use of gas in warfare." The probability of a breach of treaty becomes greater as the effectiveness of the weapon increases, he said.

ELECTION OF NEW GRECIAN PARLIAMENT HAS BEGUN

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 19—(AP)—Polling for election of a new Grecian parliament was begun today and authorities declared that calm existed throughout the country.

There was a pre-election disturbance last night when one of the followers of General Theodorus Pangalos, former dictator of Greece, fired into a crowd in front of the Pangalos headquarters and wounded four supporters of Premier Eleutherios Venizelos.

A report reached Athens today that five armed Bulgarians had entered Greek territory and fired on two Greek soldiers. They were also reported to have captured a third whom they carried across the Bulgarian frontier and liberated.

The electoral campaign was marked with extreme and counter charges of proposed election frauds.

Financier Toombs Fears Kidnaping

At His Own Request Toombs is Under Guard of a United States Marshal.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—(AP)—Roy C. Toombs, Chicago and St. Louis financier, was under guard of a United States marshal today, at his own request, for fear that otherwise he might be kidnaped.

If he were free, Toombs explained, the "gang" would be likely to take him to Missouri without extradition proceedings. He blames the "gang" for the disappearance of $3,500,000 in assets of the International Insurance Co. of St. Louis, of which he is president.

Under the protection of a federal writ of ne exeat and an officer, Toombs declared this "gang" was trying to fasten on him the blame for their own acts.

"I am solvent; there is nothing wrong," Toombs said in a statement issued by his attorney, Eugene McGarry. "There will be no loss to any investor or creditor. I think I demonstrated yesterday at the informal hearing before the receivers the attitude of wanting to help, but I do not want to go to St. Louis. My reason must not be misconstrued. I will not go without federal protection."

Officials of Missouri rushed papers to Springfield, Ill., today in an effort to expedite extradition proceedings, but Governor Small is not likely to act on the matter for several days, it was believed.

A statement of reassurance that the State Bank & Trust Co. of Downers Grove, a suburb, was in apparently good condition was issued today by State Auditor Oscar Nelson. No investor or depositor of the bank should lose, Mr. Nelson said. Toombs was president of the bank until last week, when he resigned.

FOUND DEAD MAN SITTING IN WRECKED AUTOMOBILE

NORWALK, Aug. 19— (AP) —A wrecked automobile, with Philip Troncon, 24, sitting alone dead in the passenger's seat, resulted in a search for the driver and the arrest of Georfie Miles, 23, today. He told a story that he awoke in his home six hours after a "big flash" and remembered nothing else.

The machine, of light make, was traveling at 35 miles an hour, according to Miles, who took the wheel on their return from Saugatuck when Troncon complained he was sleepy. It is believed Troncon was unconscious when the machine bore down on a telephone pole and died immediately after it struck, from a broken neck. The pole was snapped 12 feet from the base.

Four bottles of alleged beer were found in the wreck, two of which were broken. Miles will be charged with manslaughter and evading responsibility.

Troncon was employed as a hatter here. His brother, who fought in the ring under the name of Frank Smith, was formerly state amateur featherweigh champion.

HUERTA MAY BECOME PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19—(AP)—The Los Angeles Examiner says that reports current in Spanish-American circles indicate that Adolfo de la Huerta, formerly provisional president of Mexico, and for the last four years a political exile in Los Angeles, may again become provisional president of his native land when President Plutarco Calles' term expires in December.

A group of friends of both the Calles government and the de la Huerta faction said to have approached both leaders in an attempt to settle differences existing during the last four years. The article says that negotiations are reported to have been so far successful that de la Huerta and his exiled companions in Los Angeles are considering returning to Mexico.

De la Huerta was quoted as declaring that he had not received communications from Calles and that he had not had any conversation with Juan Platt, close political advisor of Calles who was in Los Angeles today.

RELIEVE STEAMER LOST WITH 14 MEN IN STORM

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Aug. 19—(AP)—Reports that the steamer William S. McKeneny was lost with 14 men during a storm off the California coast gained credence today when the motor ship Santos, of the Johnson line, arrived and reported losing Second Officer Karl Tsacson, who was washed overboard during a heavy sea encountered off the California coast.

The current was very strong and the captain of the Santos was convinced that Tsacson perished almost immediately after he was washed overboard. The fury of the elements was so great the captain said, that the ships engines had to be stopped, and the Santos drifted helplessly until the storm abated the next day. Though showing signs of her battle with the storm, the Santos was able to continue the voyage to Hull, England.

RADIO STATION WLW WAS CALLED UPON TO EXPLAIN

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A deluge of letters today called forth from radio station WLY further explanations of why "It's the Boloney" went on the air within a minute after the station had finished broadcasting the acceptance speech of Senator Charles W. Curtis.

Immediately after the expression had been uttered, William Storess, the announcer, hastened to explain that "It's the Boloney" was the title of an organ recital next on the program, and not a jest at the expense of the republican vice presidential nominee.

Officials at the studio today said the organ solo had been arranged on the program weeks ago and could not have been intended to reflect on the Curtis ceremony.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Early results in the Grecian parliamentary elections from Athens, Piraeus, Salonika, Patras and Jannina, gave large majorities to the followers of Premier Eleutherios Venizelos.

Explosion Of Still Followed By Fire

Nearly 200 Persons Were Made Homeless in Mining Village in Washington.

RONALD, Wash., Aug. 19.—(AP)—While residents of this Cascade mining village were raising a relief fund for nearly 200 persons made homeless by fire last night, deputy sheriffs today were attempting to trace members of a supposed moonshine ring, the explosion of whose still caused the devastating blaze.

Bert Pellegrine, owner of the still died in a hospital last night of burns, muttering interminably "I've got to get out the hundred gallons today."

The flames, after destroying 32 homes and several business buildings swept into virgin timber toward Roslyn, two miles distant, and were checked by 2,000 men a short distance from a powder house in which were stored explosives for mines of this region. The smouldering embers were watched today by a forest patrol.

While $100,000 probably will cover the loss, the destruction of the miners' homes and their only visible wealth caused much suffering. Their families were being cared for by neighbors while fraternal organizations of Ronald and neighboring mining towns were raising a relief fund.

Pellegrine was fatally burned by the explosion of a 250 gallon still which he was attending in a cave under Falcon hall, a pool room and dance pavilion which he purchased eight months ago. From the still officers found a hundred yard tunnel leading to a subterranean chamber beneath a commercial garage, which Pellegrine also owned.

Here liquor was cached, and a shaft equipped with an elaborate system of block and tackle led into the garage, where officers surmised he loaded trucks with moonshine for delivery in Seattle, 100 miles west of here. Investigators were attempting to find persons associated with Pellegrine in his illicit enterprise.

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT OF UNITED STATES RUBBER CO.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The United States Rubber Co., in making its semi-annual report, issued today, wrote down its inventories by $14,147,659 as of June 30 in order to devaluate its stock of crude, finished goods and goods in process to meet the drop in rubber prices from 41 to 19 cents.

Crude rubber inventories were written down to 20 cents a pound, which amounted to $7,810,279, and inventories of finished and unfinished goods, were devalued on a similar basis, which totaled $6,337,380.

S. Rubber Plantations, Inc., bringing the total to $5,338,702.

Interest on funded indebtedness amounted to $3,061,559 and provision for estimated depreciation of plants plants amounted to $2,213,772, leaving a net income after all charges of $63,391.

RASKOB CALLS UPON ALL CITIZENS TO VOTE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—(AP)—Declaring the campaign now in progress to be the most stirring in American history John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, in a signed statement today called upon all qualified voters to exercise their voting privilege this year.

"Nothing is more important to the future of America," said Mr. Raskob, "than that our citizens manifest their own interest in its future by voting. We must deplore the fact that in the last presidential election, of 54,000,000 qualified voters only about 50 per cent. cast their votes.

"This year it is anticipated that there will be 56,000,000 qualified voters in the country, and I hope and urge that the great proportion of these will take advantage of the voting right."

AVIATORS ON FLIGHT TO GREENLAND LONG OVERDUE

The Last Message From Hassell's Monoplane Greater Rockford Was Received at 3 A. M. Sunday—The Plane Was Due to Arrive at Greenland at 8 A. M. Sunday—Message From Greenland Last Night Said There Had Been No Sign of Hassell's Plane.

ROCKFORD, Ills., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A radio message—"No sign of Hassell yet. Long overdue. Etes," received tonight from Mount Evans, Greenland, by the Rockford chamber of commerce, apparently rang the knell of the flight of the Greater Rockford, piloted by Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer.

The message was signed by Elmer Etes, plane mechanic sent ahead of the flight to await the Greater Rockford's arrival.

NO RADIO SIGNALS FROM THE GREATER ROCKFORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Radio operators at the Burgess Battery station, Madison, Wis., and amateur radio operator shere had received no signals from Bert Hassell's monoplane Greater Rockford at 2 p. m. central standard time. The last message believed to have been sent from the plane was received at 3 a. m. today, when Don Mix and W. H. Hoffman, operators, thought they heard the plane signal K H A H and signal R, indicating that the plane was about 75 miles off Cape Chidley. The plane was due at Mt. Evans, Greenland at 8 a. m. today.

The hour of arrival at Mt. Evans is based on his flying time averaged during Saturday told by a pre-arranged plan of radio signalling which called for a report from the plane every 100 miles of the flight. The operators, Don Mix, who accompanied Commander Donald B. MacMillan into the Arctic a few years ago, and W. H. Hoffman at Madison, Wis., believed they heard from the plane at 3 o'clock central standard time this morning. The letter R sounded together with the plane's call letter K H A H. The letter R designated the plane as about 75 miles off Cape Chidley.

Continuing the alphabetical order of calls and divided into 100 mile stations, letter W. or Mt. Evans, Greenland, was to be reached at 3 a. m. standard time.

No message was heard from the plane although weather conditions were said by operators to be perfect for reception.

MRS. HASSELL BELIEVES HER HUSBAND IS SAFE

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 19—(AP)—While a restless citizenry fretted by a sleepless night, stands massed and silent before newspaper bulletin boards, Mrs. Rosalie Hassell, wife of Bert Hassell, stays quietly in her little home, caring for her two children.

She was secure today in the belief that her husband is safe.

"You wait and see," she told anxious neighbors, "you won't hear anything for a while, and then there will be a radio from Greenland that he landed safely."

She knows she must not worry—that was her husband's command to her yesterday in a telephone conversation from Cochrane, Ont., just before he hopped off toward Greenland.

"Don't worry, darling," he told her, "I'll make it all right."

Mrs. Hassell, as the wife of a man who has been flying since 1915, knows something of aviation. She found hope in the report that the plane was 75 miles off Cape Chidly at 3 a. m.

"He has reached Greenland by now" she declared. "Planes that fly as long as that don't stop suddenly. If they were going to have trouble with the motor or plane, it would have happened earlier on the trip.

"When they got to the coast of Labrador, their troubles were behind them. They had plenty of gas to go through, because my husband said he would not leave Labrador if there was any question of the gas supply being insufficient to reach Mount Evans.

"There's no need to worry—Bert said not to."

ATTEMPT TO COMMUNICATE WITH McMILLAN IN ARCTIC

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 19—(AP)—An attempt to communicate with Comdr. Donald McMillan in the wastes of the Arctic was being made this afternoon by Don Mix and W. H. Hoffman, operators of the Burgess Batters Radio station here, in an effort to check on the progress of the Greater Rockford's flight.

Mix said he believed McMillan possibly had heard Parker Cramer's signals, if the plane's flight was not interrupted by accident.

No word had been heard from Hassell since Mix believed he caught signals at 3 a. m. central standard time today.

At 5 a. m. today Mix heard faint signals, but was unable to detect whether they came from Hassell and Cramer.

IDEAL FOR LANDING, BUT NOT FOR TAKE-OFF

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 19—(AP)—The Norwegian Arctic explorer Helge Bangsted, who returned today from Greenland where he visited the proposed landing ground of the Greater Rockford at Mt. Evans, declared that it was ideal for landing but not favorable for a take-off.

If the Greater Rockford can take off for its flight to Iceland with a comparatively light fuel load, he said, there will be little trouble. If a heavy load is needed he fears the machine will be unable to get in the air.

Goebel will attempt to better the trans-continental flight record of 26 hours and 50 minutes held by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly.

The fliers planned to follow the southern route through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The plane carried a capacity load of 450 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil. It can attain a maximum speed of 175 miles an hour and if weather conditions are favorable Goebel hopes to complete the flight in less than 20 hours.

SPECTACULAR GASOLINE FIRE IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 19—(AP)—A spectacular gasoline fire, caused by the explosion of an underground tank at a service station, injured one man and burned for several hours here early today before firemen could control the flames.

Two additional tanks at the station ignited, but did not explode, and for a time three tanks filled with 18,000 gallons of gasoline were threatened.

Burning gasoline ran through sewers into a nearby creek and before the fire could be checked, the flaming fluid had flowed almost a half mile downstream. Several hundred of the thousands of persons attracted to the scene narrowly escaped injury when they were driven into near panic from a small bridge by the flames leaping from the water.

Abraham Morgan, attendant at the station, was blown through a door by the explosion, but was not seriously hurt. The cause of the blast was undetermined and the loss was estimated at $10,000.

STABBED SIX TIMES WHILE DEFENDING WOMAN

WINDSOR, Conn., Aug. 19—(AP)—While defending Mrs. Agnes Chmaj from a jealous attack by John Pankiewich, a former boarder at her home, Steven Sidorenko, 38, a railroad worker of East Hartford, was stabbed six times early today and is dying in the Hartford hospital. The woman was also knifed in the neck but not seriously. Their assailant escaped.

SISTER CORINNE TO OBSERVE 50TH ORDINATION ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 19 — Next Tuesday, August 21, Sister M. Corinne who has charge of the office at St. Joseph's hospital will observe the golden jubilee of her ordination into the holy order of the Sisters of Charity of Our Lady, Mother of Mercy and the dedication of her life to the service of mankind. Sister Corinne plans to observe the event quietly and in prayer. She was born in Ireland, July 12, 1862 and was educated in St. Clair's secondary school in England. She then entered the novitiate in Tilburg, Holland, and was ordained in the mother house August 21, 1878, half a century ago. Sister Corinne came to St. Joseph's Convent of the order in this city in 1880 and after teaching for four years in the old parochial school on Valley street was transferred to the Academy of the Holy Family in Baltic where she taught and was mistress of the residence house for 27 years. Her health failed in 1911 and in September of that year she was granted a vacation in Europe remaining there for eight months, or until she had recuperated. When she returned from Europe in July, 1912, she was again assigned to St. Joseph's convent and given charge of the hospital office, a duty which she has performed with admirable efficiency to the present time. Sister Corinne ranks second in years of service with the local convent which was established in 1878, the year of her entrance into the order. Sister Onuphrie, who came here with the first group of sisters sent to the local parish from Holland, holds the longest record. Announcement of Sister Corinne's golden jubilee celebration was made at the various masses in St. Joseph's church this forenoon and many of her friends and former pupils took the occasion to congratulate her on her long and faithful service. In an interview this afternoon Sister Corinne recalled with pleasure many of her former pupils both in the local parochial school and at the academy in Baltic whom have attained prominence in several lines of endeavor. "When I think that I probably was of some influence in the shaping of the useful careers of these men and women," she said, "I feel assured that the devotion of 50 years of my life to God and to mankind has not been in vain."

Measurements taken by Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley showed that the car driven by Girard, the property of the Bancroft Hotel garage Worcester, had travelled 263 feet after the crash and the Peterson car had stopped on the extreme right. Girard furnished a bond of $100 for his appearance in police court Monday morning. The damage to Girard's car consisted of a wrecked left front wheel, demolished fender and running board. WESTERLY

C. G. BOAT FROM WATCH HILL AIDS NOANK CRAFT ON REEF

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 19—Capt. Amos E. Broadmeadow and crew were called on Sunday morning from the Watch Hill coast guard station to assist in getting off a 50-foot fishing craft, Capt. John Haynes of Noank, which ran upon the reef known as East Clump. It was after midnight when the fish boat left Fishers Island with 12 passengers, all colored men, who had acted as waiters at a Fishers Island Golf club function. Word was sent Capt. Clarence E. Peckham of the Fishers Island coast guard station and the men were taken in a coast guard boat through the fog to their Noank destination.

Sunday morning, Captains Peckham and Broadmeadow, with the aid of Fishers Island 30-foot life boat and two picket boats of the coast guard service, No. 2323 Sec. Base 4 boat on duty at the Watch Hill station while its regular boat No. 2319 is at Newport for the boat races, hooked on to the fishing boat, which was piled high on a rock. The boat had to be pulled astern and then sideways to dislodge it from the rocks. This boat, No. 2383, was then towed by the life boat to the Noank shipyard and the Watch Hill coas guards returned to their station.

The Westerly delegates to the 116th annual Seventh-day Baptist conference held at Riverside, Calif., the last of July, last year's being held at Westerly, have returned to their homes. Saunders, Mrs. Alexander Austin; and from Ashaway, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wells and Frank Hill, president of the Riverside conference, his wife and Miss Helen Hill. Miss Elizabeth Hiscox, a Westerly delegate, remained in Chicago to visit with her brother, Morton Hiscox, at Oak Park.

William A. Burk of Elm street, treasurer of Westerly band, observed his 83rd birthday Friday. A committee from the band, Charles O. Gavitt, Lewis Solomon, John McCaffrey and Charles G. Cushman, called on Mr. Burk and presented him a basket of fruit. The committee also gave him a special invitation to attend the annual outing of the band, Sunday, Aug. 26.

Among the 56 candidates for Brown university football squad who will return for practice on Sept. 11 is Arthur Novogroski of Westerly. Novogroski was captain of the Westerly high school football team in 1926. He also played with the Brown freshmen last fall.

All records for automobile traffic through Pawcatuck and Westerly, were broken Sunday when up to noon there was a constant procession of motor vehicles bound in an easterly direction. The traffic seemed equally divided in the influx of cars over Liberty street on Route No. 17 from Norwich and West Broad street on the Boston Post road from New London. Special Traffic Officer Rouse Clark was on duty under the Westerly Broad street railroad bridge at the junction of Liberty and West Broad streets, and he reported that he had never before seen so many autos converging at that point, with many of the machines bearing Massachusetts markers.

Connecticut state troopers at the peak of the traffic delivered two convoys of soldiers returning from Fort H. G Wright, Fishers Island, the first comprising seven large motor buses of the New England Transportation Co. filled with soldiers. The second was made up of army motor vans with more soldiers and much camp equipment. The buses were met at the Pawcatuck river bridge by Rhode Island state troopers who convoyed them through to a point a mile outside of Westerly, to permit them to again make up their formation which had been lost by auto traffic breaking in. At Dixon square, Officer Leroy H. Norman held the east and west-bound traffic signal beacon on the green light for extended periods of time to care for the long lines of constantly approaching autos. A local operator reported that it took him 20 minutes to go from Lester avenue in Pawcatuck through Dixon square. Many motorists, knowing of the traffic congestion between the West Broad street railroad bridge and the Pawcatuck river bridge, elected to pass through Stillman avenue and over the Stillmanville bridge, but even these wise ones were delayed on High street in getting through Dixon square. In the delays many operators accepted the situation with resignation, while at times others vented their nervous energy in a sounding of horns which at times drowned out conversations in autos and on streets.

DANIELSON MAN TAKES LIFE AT DAVIS PARK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 19—Officer John Gebert looked down upon a ghastly sight about 6 o'clock this morning when he went to the bandstand on Davis park to ascertain the condition of a man reported lying on the floor of the structure. He found Henry Knight, dead, with his throat cut and lying in a pool of blood. It was plainly a case of suicide for near the feet of the body lay a knife with a long blade, smeared with blood.

Riding along in his car, Francis Quinn was first to observe the body and he notified the borough police. Chief McFarland, who also was on duty at the early hour, ordered Officer Gebert to investigate. Ascertaining that the man was dead Officer Gebert returned for Chief McFarland. The officers notified Medical Examiner Dr. George M. Burroughs who lives near the park and he viewed the body giving permission for its removal by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

Information that came to the officers soon after the finding of Knight's body established that he could not body established that he could not hour when his body was discovered. He had been at a lunch cart in the business section about five minutes before five o'clock and had a breakfast of doughnuts and coffee. At the time he had just left the Danielson inn, where he had a room.

As late as 5.30 he conversed with Joseph Gamache, another early riser, who had known him for many years and who stopped for a chat. This also was in the busines ssection. Knight appeared in normal mood and gave no hint of his intent to end his life. Yet it appears clear that he went directly to the bandstand and slashed his throat, severing the windpipe, with a bread knife that appeared new and which he is believed to have procured for the purpose of doing away with himself. Indications were Chief McFarland later said, that Knight had sat down on a section of the benches provided for musicians slashed his throat and plunged forward on his face.

Knight had lived here practically all of his life and years ago, was quite a prosperous business man and a considerable figure about town. Reverses came to him and he had no occupation for years past, but lived from a small income. His wife has been dead for years.

The deceased had been a resident of Danielson practically all of his life and was 72 years of age. He leaves a twin sister, Mrs. Henrietta Ames, of Danielson.

NOISY AND BOISTEROUS YOUTHS ARRESTED SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 19—A group of youthful roisterers who, according to the police, became so noisy and boisterous in the business section this morning shortly before five o'clock that it was deemed advisable to lock the mup and let them tell the judge anything they may have to say in extenuation Monday morning. Six were given cells at the police station just enough to provide an occupant of each of the steel dens.

Four of the youths are from Providence, two from Jewett City. The Providence group is made up of John Mendolo, Joseph Scorpio, Earl Tomasso and Joseph Bruno. Everett R. MacCluggage and John McCarthy, the two latter of Jewett City, complete the sextet. It was indicated this afternoon that all will face charges of breach of the peace in court Monday morning. Also appearing at the same session of court will be Domenico Mielle, driver of the dilapidated small touring car in which the Providence group arrived here in the early hours of this morning, having left Prvidence, they say, at midnight last night. Mielle, is to come to court because he had no registration for the car he was operating and no driver's license. Chief McFarland and Officer Gebert locked up the youths, who were making a great din, took the car away from Mielle and stored it in a local garage.

Promising further business for the court on Monday were other cases having to do with violation of the motor vehicle laws.

Mrs. Mary King, was back with her husband in East Putnam this afternoon after having been held at the police station here over Friday night and during Saturday while a checkup relative to her was being made. Mrs. King has been identified as a person who was at the Norwich State hospital last fall, after she had become mentally deranged, and who was released some time since in view of her improved condition. Accompanied by a dog that proved a formidable protector of her when officers or others approached her, the animal threatening to attack anybody and everybody, she and the dog eventually were lodged in the police station here and held until more about the woman could be established. It has since developed that she ran away from her home and was wandering along a highway when apprehended. State officers handling the case have seen to it that she was returned home, where she will be allowed to remain undisturbed unless she again develops an inclination to ramble. Mrs. King, who at one time lived in a tumbledown old place close to an abandoned brickyard site near Attawaugan crossing, was in a deplorable condition physically and mentally when brought to the police station here.

Bronzed and physically hardened up members of the headquarters and medical department detachments stationed at the Danielson state armory returned here today from two weeks of field service at Camp Trumbull, Niantic and the majority of them will again be persuing their normal occupations Monday morning. This year's encampment afforded no outstanding experiences for the local soldiers, all of whom were kept busy with the steady routine of training intended to school them in the science of arms.

Rolling northward today on motor trucks and in other motor vehicles were members of the headquarters of Putnam, a unit that also has been at Camp Trumbull the past fortnight.

Today's rotogravure section of a Hartford paper contained illustrations of the exeterior and interior of St. Gabriel's church at Windsor, this state, and of the pastor, Rev. John F. Quinn. The edifice has just been completely remodeled under the direction of Fr. Quinn and with the fine co-operation of the members of his parish. Fr. Quinn's parental home was in Danielson, where his sisters, Misses Catherine and Nellie Quinn are still resident.

Up to mid-afternoon today only one motor vehicle accident had been reported as occurring in local territory over the week end. This accident involved cars driven by Theodore Pelletier of Plainfield and Carl Shanke of Hampton and occurred early this morning on the highway near Wildwood park. Occupants of the machines were not injured, though the cars were considerably damaged.

WEDDING

Burchard-Chase

A pretty wedding Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Chase on Oak street was that of their daughter, Miss Sarah Alice Chase, and Byron Burchard of Sterling. About 50 were in attendance for the ceremony which was performed in the parlor of the home under a floral arch at 2 o'clock by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church. The bride was attended by Miss Edith Magnuson of Hartford as maid of honor and the groom by his brother, Walter Burchard.

The wedding music was played by Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney, pianist, the selections in advance of the ceremony being O Promise Me, and I Love You Truly, with Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional, I Would Be True during the marriage, and Mendelssohn's wedding march for the recessional.

The bride's gown was of crepe satin and she wore a veil, en train, caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower arrangement of bride's roses and baby breath. The maid of honor wore a gown of nile green taffeta with picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. John Clapp, a nephew of the bride, wearing a modernized Lord Fauntleroy suit of velvet was the ring bearer. Miss Ethel Smith of Malden, a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

A reception followed the marriage and refreshments were served. The gifts to the bride were numerous and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Burchard are now away on their wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Danielson.

PUTNAM

NATIONAL GUARD UNIT RETURNS FROM 15-DAY TOUR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 19—The headquarters company of the 43rd division, Putnam's national guard unit, returned to the city today after a 15-day tour of active field duty at Camp Trumbull in Niantic.

The soldiers arrived in Putnam about 1.30 p. m., on the special deluxe coaches of the New Eng and Transportation company. Each member of the outfit seemed to have enjoyed his vacation at the expense of the government and others remarked that it was altogether too short. The company was in command of Lieut. C. A. Woodward, as Captain McGarry will not return to Putnam until Tuesday morning.

Today marked the close of the fourth encammment of the Putnam military outfit since it was organized in 1924.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St Mary's church, announced at all the masses today, that the new exits at the front of the church are nearly completed and will be ready for use on next Sunday. Father Bellerose conceived the idea of constructing the additional outlet from the church through the large numbers attending mass on Sunday, and at the close of the service leave the edifice through the vestry. In the future those in the fore part of the church will be able to leave through the new doors. The new plan will also eliminate any panic hazard, in case of fire, as the church may be emptied now within a few seconds. Father Bellerose announced that an exit similar to the one being constructed on the east side of the church will be erected on the west side.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCollough and Henry Welsh were among the visitors at Camp Trumbull Friday to witness the Governor's day fete.

Statistics indicate that married men furnish the best material for diamond artists, since many contests between the love victims and the single men have always closed with the laurels resting upon the brows of the married gentlemen. Such was the case Saturday at Union, when these two classes of baseball gladiators clashed at the "Old Home Day" exercises.

The married men and their single brothers teams consisted mostly of the natives of that little forsaken village several country road miles west of Putnam. The married men had a slight advantage over their opponents when they engaged the services of Superintendent of Fire Alarm Charles T. Thayer of Putnam. Supt. Thayer is a Putnam star of the days now gone by, yet his old form returned to him Saturday, when in the ninth inning of the game he came to the plate, bases full, score tied, crashed out a real "Babe Ruth" over the fence hit, and circled the bases for a home run and a victory for his teammates.

Union's annual old home day, always brings back to the little village those who have strayed away, and the custom was repeated Saturday to the delights of many, who really enjoyed the thrill of seeing Putnam's one time ace slout a spitter that would envy any big leaguer. Supt. Thayer was also accorded a greeting because of his timely act by Lieut. Russell Harmon of the Stafford Springs state police barracks, who figured in the pitching duel. Supt. Charles made it clear to his single opponents that the married man is not always hand tamed.

A slight accident occurred this morning in front of St. Mary's church involving three cars, one owned by Camille Dufault of Putnam, another that of Salvadore Peansoliel and a third the property of Harry Burgess, both of Putnam. Dufault told Captain Jarvis he was cranking his car, which was in gear, when suddenly the engine started and the vehicle came forward, striking the Peansoliel car and sending it into the Burgess car, which received the greatest amount of damage.

Dufault narrowly escaped being struck down and probably seriously injured, as his car started towards him. He steped aside, barely in time to avert being pined between the two vehicles. No arrests were made as the result of the accident and little damage was inflicted upon the property.

Delors Dumas of Battey street, Putnam, sustained a fracture of the rib yesterday afternoon as the result of an accident near the children's home. He was proceeding west with a horse and shay and was about to enter the state highway, when a Whippet sedan, driven by Graham Bell of East Putnam, crashed into the combination vehicle, knocking Mr. Dumas from the seat. The horse was not injured and Mr. Bell escaped with a few scratches. Mr. Dumas was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where the fractured rib was relocated and he was later allowed to go to his home. The collision was investigated by Officer Gordon, of the state police barracks in Danielson.

Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the state central committee of the republican party, will be hostess at a luncheon at the Wauregan hotel in Norwich Wednesday. On Thursday Miss Byrne will be in Darien, where she will speak at a women's gathering of the party and will again be heard in Stamford in the evening. Her visits to both cities will be in the interests of party organization.

Frank Larrow of East Putnam, former Putnam high basketball star and a graduate of the school, class of '27, has entered the service of the U. S. navy. Larrow is stationed at the naval training station in Newport.

Gutters overflowed and streets became miniature lakes in Putnam Saturday afternoon as the result of the rain that came in the form of a deluge Friday evening and continued until Saturday afternoon. The rain came as a relief to the dry crops, farmers said today. At the underpass on Front street, traffic was held up for several minutes, because of the flooded condition of the street. In other low area districts of the city streets were flooded, but no washouts were experienced.

Mrs. Virginia Benoit of 7 Marshall street, died at her home Friday evening at the age of 9 years. She is a native of Canada. Mrs. Benoit came to Putnam at the age of 13 and has lived here since. She is survived by two children, Mrs. Louise Dubois of Southbridge and Adjuster Benoit of Putnam and several grandchildren.

DIES FROM PARALYSIS ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 19—John J. Grunland, for over 3 years a resident of North Grosvenordale dropped dead on his doorstep Saturday afternoon, succumbing to a paralytic shock. He was visiting in Putnam and left for his home on the 2.45 bus. As he was about to enter his home, a number of townsmen who were engaged in making preparations for the Swedish lawn fete that was to have been held in the evening noticed Mr. Grunland drop to the ground. They summoned Dr. Robert C. Paine of Thompson, but before his arrival the man had died.

Saturday's rain storm halted work on the new state road at Attawaugan and no further gain was made towards completion of the stretch. The road is now past the four corners, and indications are that both sides of the stretch will be completed with the passing of another week. It was learned today that the road work is to be finished before the contractors begin operations on the new bridge that is to be constructed. With the entire stretch of road opened on one side little traffic delay was experienced on Sunday.

Mrs. Joseph G. Page of Marshall street is confined to her home with illness. Her condition was regarded as improved today.

One young woman had a cut knee, the others miraculously escaping injury. Two young men and two young women were in the machine, and after attending the dance at Wildwood park were on their way to Beach pond to visit friends, it is said. The road was slippery and the machine skidded and went off the bank near Goldstein's house, turning upside down. The party went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Brown and Dr. H. T. Thurber of Voluntown was called. He took three stitches in the girl's knee. The party remained at the Brown home and Sunday afternoon, relatives from New Bedford came for them in another machine, taking the wrecked car in tow.

He was driving around the curve at Woodard school house, on the Pachaug road, early Saturday evening ran off the road and ploughed along one hundred and forty-three feet. He hit a stone smashing the windshield, cutting himself, his wife, child and Veronica Kargul with flying glass. The machine was taken to Barber's garage.

Sunday afternoon at quarter of three, two machines came together at the junction of Ashland and Main streets. George Helm, R. F. D. No 4 of Norwich was driving up Main street when his machine was struck by a machine coming out of Ashland St. owned by John Kozut, of West Warren, Mass., and driven by Albert Vyzaga, of Chicopee, Mass. Two doors and two fenders on the Massachusetts machine and a fender and wheel were smashed on the Connecticut car. Officer Veglard directed one way traffic for some time until the two drivers came to an agrement. The Connecticut machine was towed to the Jewett City Auto Sales garage.

SENATOR CURTIS ACCEPTS

When Senator Charles Curtis was officially notified at Topeka of his nomination by the republican party as its candidate for vice president, he stood among his home people, his friends and neighbors, and gave them a straightforward message of his political faith. His was not the part to sound the clarion call for the campaign, but he impressed his hearers with his grasp of the problems he discussed and the soundness of the support which he will accord to the presidential candidate with whose principles he announced himself in accord.

As a legislative representative of the greatest wheat-growing state, it was natural that the condition of the farmer should bulk large in his mind and when he spoke of what had been done for agriculture, he was on familiar ground for he had been in the thick of the fight in the legislative halls. He holds out the encouragement to the agriculturists that the day of the solution of their difficulties is not far off and that the republican campaign pledge upon farm relief is one which he believes offers no great difficulties toward accomplishment.

In his acceptance speech Mr. Hoover had said in effect that he intended in this campaign to use words to reveal, not to conceal his meaning. The Curtis pronouncement upon prohibition may well have taken its cue from these words of his chief. Senator Curtis declared: "I am opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment or of the Volstead act." He could not have been more explicit.

Economy in governmental expenditures, reduction of the public debt, encouragement for the participation of women in government affairs, and the development of waterways were items to which he gave special emphasis among the fourteenth principles which he enunciated in declaring his sound Americanism.

MOTORS AND HIGHWAYS

Growth of the automobile industry and the fact that millions of motor cars are in use daily has been both a hindrance and a help to the railroads. Figures prepared by the interstate commerce commission show that practically every steam road in the country reports a loss in passengers hauled, because of the use of automobiles, and motor trucks also have made serious inroads in the short haul freight business.

Viewing the situation in another light, it is shown that the tonnage of gasoline and oils handled by the railroads has increased 398 per cent. in the last fourteen years, and this has been due largely to the motor car business. The automobiles must have gasoline and oil, and these fuels and lubricants are brought to the cities in tank cars for distribution to the filling stations. There has been an increase of 53 per cent. in the tonnage of stone, sand and other road making materials, as a result of the demand for better roads, which is stimulating a highway construction programme in practically every state. The decline of the horse has brought about a corresponding decline of 35 per cent. in the amount of hay handled by the rail lines.

It would seem that many of the railroads have virtually given up the thought of competing with automobiles for passenger hauls except for long distances. Passenger and Pullman rates are now so high that a man may take his family in a motor car and travel almost as fast as a railroad train and at the same time reduce his transportation costs far below that charged by the railroads. He may not figure depreciation and other costs for each mile traveled, but he argues that his car would have been in use anyhow and that it involves little extra expense to take the family somewhere.

SIGNING THE TREATY

Secretary Kellogg is on his way to Europe where he is to join the ministers of the other great powers in signing the multilateral treaty renouncing war. Representatives of fifteen countries, including the great divisions of the British empire, Germany, France, Italy, Japan and signatories to the Locarno treaties, will sign this pledge not to resort to war in settlement of difficulties which may arise among them. The fact that they are willing to give such a pledge is in itself an indication of a "will" to have peace which has unfortunately been absent in the past.

The treaty renounces and denounces war as a means of settling disputes among nations. There is nothing in the treaty that would prevent one of the signatories from defending itself if attacked by one of the other powers. It is in no sense a league of nations and no supergovernment is involved. It is merely a voluntary declaration to abstain from war as a means of settling international disputes. It does not make war impossible, but it makes it more improbable and is a great step in the moral ascendency of the world.

To become effective, after it has been signed in Paris on Aug. 27, it must be ratified by the nations in accordance with their constitutional provisions. This means that it must have the approval of two-thirds or more of the senate of the United States. Already signs of opposition to ratification of the treaty have appeared. Some of these opponents may be those who still look upon war as an ancient institution not to be abandoned, while others may profess to see in the treaty such an entanglement with European affairs as the United States should avoid.

This is not the view of President Coolidge, who is giving the treaty his support and will seek to convince the American people and the senate of its value. The ratification of the pact at the coming session of congress which will be the last during the administration of President Coolidge could rightly be regarded as a crowning achievement of his term as president.

COSTA RICA'S INQUIRY

It is to be suspected that Costa Rica has fallen into a misconception regarding the Monroe doctrine when that country sends an official communication to the council of the league of nations requesting that the league interpret the Monroe doctrine before this nation of Latin America decides whether or not to accept the council's invitation to resume membership in the league. The Monroe doctrine was promulgated by the United States, which has never surrendered its interpretation to the league or any other body, so that the proper place to direct such an inquiry would be to Washington.

Occasions have not been rare when official interpretations of the Monroe doctrine have been given. No longer than five years ago the American Bar association heard Mr. Hughes, whose position as secretary of state gave official weight to his words, define what the Monroe doctrine is not and agree with President Wilson's assertion that it is a purely national policy. As to its interpretation, Secretary Hughes made the declaration that "as the policy embodied in the Monroe doctrine is distinctly the policy of the United States, the government of the United States reserves to itself its definition, interpretation and application."

It is the right of any country to ask us for an interpretation at any time, for we have no moral right to announce and enforce a policy so vague that no nation can understand what it is. But our right of interpretation goes along with our right of adopting such a national policy. Such an understanding apparently leaves the league nothing to do but to refer Costa Rica to America's own official utterances on this policy from its original announcement on Dec. 2, 1823. Why should a non-American authority be asked to assume a quasi-judicial role on this matter? The power of modification, curtailment, extension, or even abandonment of this great doctrine lies with its creator, for it is not a fixed legal principal or a part of international law. America assumed it as a moral obligation, but because it has proved beneficial, she has retained it, applied it, enforced it and at times developed it. At every stage of its development and application she has stood ready to explain its scope and its import.

SELLING PROGRESS BY PICTURES

Last year, according to a writer in the American Review of Reviews, the United States supplied Europe and the rest of the world with 232,000,000 feet of motion-picture films. Indeed, American producers are said to derive about 35 per cent. of their total revenues from the European market for motion pictures. Restrictive measures have been tried in European countries, not without some success, but in the main the invasion of American films has not been checked.

Organs of the motion-picture industry affirm that American films displayed in foreign countries are exerting influence in a hundred directions not at all connected with entertainment. They are said to be Americanizing the world without consciously escaping any propaganda role, but their action is indirect, subtle, psychological. Thus, it is alleged, that, because of American films, foreign nations are buying in steadily increasing quantities various American commodities the desire for which is created incidentally by the American films. Among such articles are office furniture, shoes, bungalows of the California style, swimming pools, lighting and ventilation systems, and labor-saving appliances.

The commodities which American films help to sell abroad deserve their popularity. Foreign films sell commodities in the American market in the same inoffensive fashion. Motion pictures properly play the part of unifiers and distributors of progressive ideas and other elements of culture the world around.

EDITORIAL NOTES

One way to keep cool in hot weather is to avoid talking politics.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cook vegetables of mild flavor in as little water as possible, or steam them.

French and Italian chestnuts are served in place of vegetables.

All fried food should be drained on brown paper when removed from the fat.

Waxed paper wrappings from bread make good cleaners for hot irons.

Milk may be pasteurized by cooking it 20 minutes in a double boiler.

When frying food in a pan, the grease will not spatter if a little flour is sprinkled in it.

Sprinkle a little salt on the smoky gas mantle and see if it does not improve the light.

Thin batter will hold its slightness only a short time, therefore it should be baked immediately.

A door or drawer can be made to work easily by rubbing a cake of soap over the edges.

Before serving, fill baked apples with ice cream cheese and brown sugar, then sprinkle lightly with cocoanut.

Table oilcloth will wear and look better if, after being washed, it is occasionally rubbed with liquid wax.

Use a tablespoonful of milk in which a little brown sugar has been dissolved to glaze cakes or pastry.

Bread is best for toast when one or two days old. Toast should always be served as soon as made.

Three parts of ice to one part of salt are the proportions used in preparing ice for freezing creams and ices.

When baking apples, prick them with a fork before placing in the oven and they will not break while cooking.

Keep a buttonhook near the stove to pull forward hot pans in the oven.

Try pasting the oilcloth on your kitchen table. It will not slip when washing.

Half an apple in the cake-box, the other half in a covered dish with the cheese will keep both cake and cheese fresh indefinitely.

A DISH BUMPER

If you continually break dishes against the kitchen spigots, why not invest in the rubber taps that can be bought very cheaply at any hardware store? They fit over the ends of the spigots and give just the protection needed.

Wooden kitchen utensils should be washed in warm water to which just a small quantity of soap or soap flakes has been added. Dry thoroughly as soon as they are washed. If allowed to soak or left to stand about while wet, the wood will become discolored.

WRAPPED ICE

For the icebox that is old and not so scientifically perfect as it should be, newspapers wrapped around the ice keep it from melting.

COFFEE CUSTARD

Coffee thickened slightly with cornstarch and cooked in the double boiler makes an inexpensive dessert served with a little whipped cream.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

It is a wise woman who is careful how she makes up her face in the daylight and does not overdo it. Artificial night lights can stand much more make-up than pure sunlight—then a heavy make-up is just poor taste.

A source of expense that goes with the joys of the afternoon swim is medicants for sunburn. If none of these special lotions are available cocoa butter could be used and is a splendid protection against sunburn.

For children, after the 8th year, all fruits, fresh or cooked, may be introduced gradually, provided they are sound and perfectly ripe. It is well to postpone somewhat the use of strongly acid fruits, except in diluted form.

When your nerves are upset, or just before retiring, you will find the warm bath soothing, particularly if you go right to bed, and rest for at least half an hour—well covered.

COOKING REMEDY

If white stock is needed in a recipe and it is not at hand, simmer a few pieces of carrot, onion and celery in some milk and water until the liquid is well flavored.

Soup that is being thickened with oatmeal or pea flour must be continually stirred while being brought to a boiling point and not left afterward or it will probably burn.

INDIAN PRINT BEDSPREAD

An Indian print, suitable either for a bed or for a wall-hanging, has a black background and many birds and tropical animals disporting upon the surface.

PAPER NAPKINS

Intriguing and inexpensive new sets of paper napkins and table cloths are on the market that will save mother time and trouble. They have modernistic designs, in lovely colors and some even have ruffled edges.

HAMMERED SILVER

Made by master craftsmen, table silver of hammered silver has a charm all its own. The candlesticks that accompany the set are unusually high.

TO KEEP CHEESE

To keep cheese moist and free of mold, rub the cut part with butter, wrap in oiled paper slightly buttered and cover with a thin cloth.

SPICY CANTALOUPE

Serve cantaloupe or honey dew melon with grated ginger and lemon. It gives a delectable tang and is decidedly "different."

JAMMED WINDOWS

To move a window that sticks, take hold of the ropes at each side, and draw them as far as possible, then let them go with a snap.

LIME TASTE

Serve iced tea with a slice of lime and a slice of orange for a change. The lime gives a piquant taste that is cooling.

TO CLEAN A GAS STOVE

To keep a gas stove always looking well, after it has been thoroughly washed and cleaned, rub it with a cloth wet with a few drops of cooking or olive oil.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Off-white shades find indorsement. Plain ivory satin takes to sequins for an evening gown.

A scarf of cream silk is covered with red polka dots and edged with red fringe.

Geometric designs in velvet appliqué are used effectively on chiffons and very delicate fabrics.

Japanese prints, whose color is their strong point, look doubly well in red, blue or yellow frames that are lacquered in gold.

Most becoming little rompers for the youngest member of the family are of silk poplin in delicate colors and have wide frills of white, hemstitched and pleated.

Many of the smartest tiered skirts scoop up in front, but show a closely molded belt and hip line, the belt much lower in the back than in the front.

Interesting developments in fall millinery are seen at one of the avenue shops. Fur or velvet trim felt chapeaux, some trimmed with fur flowers, others wearing bows of fur.

The vestee is decidedly in again. New ones, in flesh and white, ash green and pale blue have frills, tucks, hand work and tiny buttons for trimming.

The Arizona scarf of narrow pieces of silk sewed together or, as in copies, with the stripes printed, is fashionable and smartly worn with the point in front and tied in the back.

White washable gloves are favored by metropolitan women for wear with summer prints. Simple white pull-on gloves of washable suede and cotton chamois cloth, hand stitched, are both seen in great numbers.

The three-piece tweed suit with the short jacket is meeting with popular favor far in excess of the two-piece sweater suit. The tweed sweater suit with long belted coat gives indication of being favored into the fall.

SMART HATS

Openwork designs of one sort and another are used on many of the new hats. One way to gain this openwork effect is to make the foundation of the hat of hair braid, and then to cover parts of it with cut-outs of satin or felt.

Another way is to cut out designs of flowers or leaves from a felt hat, cut them down half an inch all around and set them back with an edging of hair braid, used somewhat in the manner of entreneux or fagotting.

SPANISH SHAWLS

If you've a Spanish shawl, and you're wondering whether there isn't some new way to wear it, why not do as many smart women are doing—remove the long fringe, and make a couple coat out of it that will look very effective with light summer evening gowns.

THE TUCKED FROCK

A thoroughly satisfactory little frock suitable for afternoon wear or informal daylight dining is made of pinky beige chiffon, completely covered with graduated tucks. The skirt is circular and dips into round points at intervals around the skirt.

NEW FALL HATS

The outstanding feature of the new fall millinery is the artistic effect achieved in the crown of the hats through self fabric appliques and inlays. The best fabrics are felt, soleil and a rough material called scratched felt.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To keep flat irons in good condition, wash them occasionally in hot water to which a generous amount of soda has been added.

If you put a tiny bit of coloring in the rinse water when undies are brand new, they will never fade out completely and always look fresher than if you wait until they are nondescript.

Chiffon is easily washed in warm, soapy water. Do not have the water hot, otherwise the color will wash out. Rinse well in clear, warm water, fold smoothly and put through wringer. Avoid wringing with hands. Open out flat and press with a warm iron on the wrong side.

Nothing is so effective for removing iron rust stains as the juice of a lemon and some salt. Cover the stain with the juice, then sprinkle on the salt, and put into the sun todry. If any of the stain is left, repeat the process until it is all gone.

TESTED STAIN REMOVERS

Boiled vinegar will remove paint stains from glass.

Black lace will look like new if dipped in black tea.

Use a piece of velvet to remove dust from silk or straw hats.

An ink-incrusted pen may be cleaned instantly by dipping it in ammonia.

To remove scorch stains, wet and rub with soap and bleach in the sun.

Faded silk shades may be brightened by rinsing in gasoline, to which a little oil paint of the right color has been added.

TO GET ONION JUICE

The onion is capable of giving five different flavorings, according to the way in which it is used. To get onion juice, cut a thick slice, from the root end of the onion. Do not peel it, simply push back the skin and then tear the onion on a coarse grater. Press it against the grater and the juice will quickly drop. After you have taken the juice from one grating, tear it again against the grater and so continue until you have the desired quantity of clear juice.

DRAIN VEGETABLES

Drain boiled vegetables as soon as they are tender. They become soggy if they are allowed to stand undrained after cooking. The water drained off may be saved for soup stock. Most vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water because part of the mineral salts dissolves in the water and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole when possible.

SUMMER BREAKFASTS

Since appetites often fail in the middle of hot days, breakfasts are more important, in some ways. With an iced fruit drink first, children like hot cereals and milk. Grapefruit juice is nice, for a change from oranges.

LEFTOVER BERRIES

Berries are rarely good the next day when they have been sweetened. Simmer leftovers on stove while you wash dishes and use as sauce over puddings.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The rights of women, in everything except unrestricted suffrage, are recognized in the new federal civil code which is to come into effect next September.

Out of the 70,113 nurses who are members of the American Nurses' association in the United States, New York state leads with nearly 10,000.

Miss Viola Smith of Los Angeles has established herself as an authority on Chinese commerce and trade in Shanghai.

The Countess of Chambrun, formerly Miss Clara Longworth, of Cincinnati, has been made a member of the Legion of Honor by France.

The Ladies' Physiological Institute is the oldest woman's club in Massachusetts and the second largest woman's club in the United States.

CRUST FOR TWO PIES

When you make pie crust, make twice the quantity needed. Pie crust rolled in a damp napkin and put in the refrigerator will keep perfectly for several days.

RECIPES

Fruit Cocktail: Peel some grapefruit separate into sections, remove the membrane and cut out the sections into two or three pieces. Cut some pineapple slices into small triangles. Let the fruit stand in its own juice, which has been colored green with the fruit coloring. Add green maraschino cherries and serve in toll glasses. If desired, an attractive variation is to serve the cocktail in double cocktail glasses and instead of coloring the fruit either pour colored water around the ice in the outside glass, or if you have electrical refrigeration the water may be colored green before the cubes are frozen. Have the glasses in place before the guests assemble, as they add to the appearance of the table.

Fig Omelet: Separate the yolks of four eggs from the whites. To the yolks add half a teaspoon of salt and four tablespoons of water. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Beat the whites until stiff, then fold them into the first mixture until they have taken up the mixture. Place a tablespoon of butter in a hot pan, add the egg mixture and cook at a low temperature. Place in a hot oven to brown the top. Cover the top with six whole figs drained from the syrup and chopped. Fold, and turn on to a hot platter. Serve immediately.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, (AP)— There has just bobbed to the surface a belated angle of the American occupation of Vera Cruz during the Mexican-American troubles of early 1914 that throws an interesting sidelight on that expedition as it was viewed by President Wilson.

Funston, the Kansas volunteer soldier whose dashing activities in the Philippine insurrection brought him fame and a regular army generalship, commanded the hastily organized army force dumped into Vera Cruz from Texas to relieve the navy bluejackets of the shore job.

It seemed possible at one time that a relief expedition for Americans in Mexico City might be necessary and Funston had informed Washington he was ready to jump off over the mountains at the word if only he had transport. His wagons and the like were still in Texas, and this, he argued, rendered him virtually immobile. He pleaded urgently for trucks, wagons, horses, mules and other transport necessities.

That request was duly taken to President Wilson. His answer was, in substance: "If there is any way to render Funston more immobile than he now is, do it." And Funston was left, willy, nilly, to stew in the heat of Vera Cruz hobbled by lack of transport and the Washington administration conception of the whole affair as merely a demonstration in force; a diplomatic, not a military matter.

General "Black Jack" Pershing was to find himself in a somewhat similar situation in Mexico in the 1916 days of the punitive expedition in pursuit of Villa. He was deep in Mexico with a small force and increasing hostility about him, seemingly fostered by Mexico City. There were several times when security of his force and prudent military conceptions easily could have justified a liberal interpretation of his instructions from Washington. He had the issue of war or peace with Mexico in his own hands and no doubt believed, as the vast majority of military folk did, that complete intervention in Mexico would be the wisest course.

But Pershing was, and is always Pershing, a soldier with high ideals of soldierly duty, of discipline, of moral responsibility to carry out not only the letter but the spirit of his orders regardless of his own views as to their wisdom. He held his hand.

Right there you have the compelling reason for the selection of this junior republican general by a democratic administration to head the great adventure in France when America entered the World war. He had fully earned the absolute trust and confidence then imposed in him. He carried his load of almost overwhelming responsibility amid a crossfire of domestic and international politics of bewildering complexity with never a quiver from the strict path of soldierly duty.

Perhaps Pershing might have made political capital out of less grim adherence to his conceptions of duty either in Mexico or France. Who can say he might not have been president? Yet even in this good year of 1928, when the republican convention had closed at Kansas City, there appeared on the street before a hotel there a row of big packing cases. They bore an outbound address which left no doubt as to what they were. It was the Pershing presidential boom, assembled by his friends, going back to storage, unopened.

Stories That Recall Others

Easy

Raymond had just begun to go to school.

One morning his teacher was trying to impress upon her pupils the idea of self-reliance. It so happened that a certain small boy had been late on that particular morning. His excuse was that his mother had overslept forgotten to call him, and breakfast was late. Hence the lecture on self-reliance.

"You have fathers and mothers to work for you now," concluded the teacher, "but what will you do after you're grown up? Who will work for you then?"

Raymond's hand shot up.

"Our wives, of course," he replied.

Luncheon Dainty

Young Marjorie returned from a luncheon party full of enthusiasm. "And, mother" said she, recounting the features of the occasion, "we had tuna fish in camisoles."

"Importing" Plants.

The Leningrad Institute of Applied Botany is organizing a series of expeditions to tropical countries for the purpose of importing the seeds of cereal plants which do not exist in United States of Soviet Russia, but can be successfully cultivated. Prof. Burasov is at present studying the cultures of potatoes, tomatoes, maize sunflower etc., in the western Andes of South America. Prof. Voronov is at work in the Brazilian mountains, studying the types of rubber trees that can stand severe climate.

Church Uses Amplifiers.

A Lutheran pastor in Emden, Germany, tired of preaching in a church whose accoustics were so bad that not more than a third of his flock could hear his inscired words, has had amplifiers installed. As a result church-going has again become popular in the town, and the attendance is two or three times greater than ever before.

Use of Electricity.

In 64 cities and towns of this country every house has electric light. Salt Lake City, Utah, is the largest city reporting its homes to be 100 per cent electrified.

Washed in the MAYTAG in 2 to 7 minutes

SUCH remarkable washing speed was unthought of before the Maytag originated the Gyrafoam washing action and the heat-retaining cast-aluminum tub, yet it washes the daintiest garments as carefully as if done by hand—washes by water action alone—a torrent of water passing back and forth through the meshes of the clothes.

This effective but careful method washes the stubborn edge-dirt from collars and cuffs, the ground-in dirt from play-clothes or overalls without hand-rubbing. An average washing takes about an hour.

The New Roller Water Remover

The Maytag Roller Water Remover has large rolls, the top one soft, the bottom one hard. They exert equal pressure on all parts of the garment regardless of folds, lumps and seams, remove both soap and water evenly from all parts of the garment and spare the buttons.

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with inbuilt gasoline motor.

PHONE for a Trial Washing

You may use a Maytag for your next washing without cost or obligation. You will find that it brings washday happiness. You will discover why it won world leadership. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

The Safety Feed, the automatic tension adjustment, the self-reversing drainboard and the instant safety release remove the last bit of effort from the weekly washing.

ANEMIC BOY GAINS 11½ POUNDS

To McCoy Laboratories:

The benefits derived through the use of your Tablets by my oldest son have been so remarkable that I feel obligated to let you know of them.

My son, who is sixteen, due to arduous studies at high school and to a too rapid growth, became thin and pale and did not gain the necessary nourishment from his food until he started to take McCoy's Tablets. In a little over two months he has gained eleven and a half pounds and feels and looks one hundred per cent. better than he did before starting to use them.

Several others to whom I have told this story have used your Tablets with almost equally as good results and I have no hesitancy in recommending their use to anybody in need of a good tonic and body builder.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 60c boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two $1 boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co. or any drug store in America.

WESTERN GIRL STRENGTHENED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Manchester, So. Dakota.—"I was in a terribly weak and run-down condition when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it and after a short time I felt better. We are a family of five and live on a 360-acre farm, so I have quite a good deal to do both indoors and out. At first I was unable to do anything and had to have a girl, but after taking the Vegetable Compound I finally gained my strength back and also gained considerable in weight."—Mrs. Otto J. Geyer, R. OPPOSED TO INCREASE OF AUTO INSURANCE RATES

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Boston Post will say tomorrow that Gov. Alvan T. Fuller thinks an increase in automobile insurance rates in Massachusetts is unwarranted and that he will ask Insurance Commissioner Wesley E. Monk to explain why "he has fallen in so readily and vigorously with the views of the insurance companies."

The Post quotes the governor as saying that the argument of the insurance companies is based upon the assertion that large claims have been made against them. Rates are not based upon claims; they are based upon awards.

"I never knew any insurance company to pay an illegitimate claim. They are slow enough about paying legitimate awards.

"I am surprised to see the insurance commissioner of Massachusetts fall in so readily with the desires of the insurance companies. I shall be at my office at the state house Monday morning and my first official act will be to call the insurance commissioner before me to explain why he has fallen so readily and vigorously with the views of the insurance companies."

HEAVY PRODUCTION OF TOBACCO IN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, Aug. 19—(AP)—Tobacco production in New England this year promises to exceed by several million pounds the amount raised last year on the basis of acreage and crop conditions on August 1, the New England crop reporting service announced today.

The forecast places the production in Connecticut at 33,000,000 pounds or 146 per cent. greater than that in 1927 due mainly to larger acreage under cultivation. In the Connecticut valley, when only cigar types are grown the acreages total 32,300 this year as compared with 30,700 last year.

FUNERAL
Charles B. Schultz

The funeral of Charles B. Schultz of Montville, who was shot and killed by William Canow, also of Montville, at Gardner Lake Thursday evening, was held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon a the funeral parlors of Undertakers Church & Allen, Main street. The services were conducted by R. H. Dodd, chaplain of Oxoboxo lodge, F. and A. M., of Montville. There were relatives and friends present and the floral tributes were beautiful.

Burial was in West Plain cemetery, where the Masonic burial service was conducted by Master J. J. Dodd, Senior Warden C. D. Allen and Chaplain Dodd of Oxoboxo lodge. The bearers were C. O. Manchester, Charles Hope, Charles E. Ramage, Robert Paton, Hubert G. Dart and Eugene Chapman.

A Tribute

"A Neighbor" at Gardner Lake requests The Bulletin to publish the following words of appreciation from one who deeply deplores the tragedy which has ended the career of usefulness and helpfulness of Mr. Schultz:

When Mr. Schultz came to the La Count farm at Gardner lake several years ago, the property was in a dilapitated condition. Mr. Schultz and his family have worked untiringly. His farm now is an unusually attractive place. New buildings have been erected, gardens, orchards and mowing lots have taken the place of brush and bull-briar, and through swampy ground he has laid a good road to his lake front, and has made an excellent beach.

The influence of Mr. Schultz and of his fine family brought improvement beyond his own property.

Mr. Schultz has been an open hearted, generous neighbor and his home reveals what he was.

To have as good and valuable a neighbor cut down by the insane act of a man whose attacks of mental disturbance were well known is a cruel and needless loss.

OBITUARY
Mrs. George W. Parsons

Mrs. Emeline P. (Green) Parsons, 87, widow of George W. Parsons and mother of George E. Parsons, clerk of the New London County superior court, died suddenly Sunday afternoon about 5:15 o'clock at her home, No. 50 Ann street. Mrs. Parson's death was the result of heart failure brought on by an attack of indigestion.

Mrs. Parsons, who was one of the best known residents of the West Side section of the city, was born in Unity, Me., June 27, 1841. At Dixmont, Maine, about 1861, she was united in marriage with George W. Parsons, whose death occurred in August, 1914. Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Parsons made their home at Newburgh, Maine until 1875 coming to Norwich in that year. Mrs. Parsons had resided here since that time and for about 25 years had made her home at No. 50 Ann street.

Mrs. Parsons was a member of the old Central Methodist church. She followed the teachings of her church and was a splendid type of Christian womanhood. She was ever ready to lend aid to those in distress, and in her quiet, unassuming manner, performed many charitable acts. Her kindly and sympathetic nature and her thoughtfulness of others gained her many life long friendships. The news of her death came as a decided shock to her numerous friends and acquaintances who extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving family.

Mrs. Parsons is survived by two sons, George E. Parsons, of Fairmount street, clerk of the New London county superior court and Adrian J. Parsons, Providence, R. I., a brother, William L. Green, Biddeford, Me., one sister, Mrs. Ida Russell of Nashua, N. H., a granddaughter, Doris C. Parsons of Providence and nieces and nephews.

Mrs. John W. L. Coit

After a lingering illness, Adelaide Grace Jeffery, widow of John W. L. Coit of 42 Broadway, died in this city Sunday morning. She was born in New London, Jan. 30, 1843, the daughter of Capt. Samuel Jeffery and Grace Rogers Jeffery. Her early life was spent in New London and after her marriage she came to Norwich to live where she has since resided.

Mrs. Coit was a great lover of her home and all of her interests centered there. She was always ready to lend a helping hand and her many acts of kindness will not be forgotten. The community has suffered a great loss in her death.

Mrs. Coit is survived by two sons, S. Jeffery Coit and Edwin F. Coit; two grandchildren, Mrs. Howard P. Benjamin and Jeffery V. Coit, and four great-grandchildren, Donald and Joyce Benjamin and Dorothy and John W. L. Coit, all of this city.

John Ahearn

While being taken to his home on John street Saturday morning John Ahern, 73, died about 8 o'clock in the automobile owned by William Brosofske, shipping clerk at the Atlantic Carton company. Mr. Ahearn had gone to work as usual Saturday morning at the Atlantic Carton company plant and upon complaining of feeling ill, early in the morning was advised to go home. The body was examined by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, who pronounced death due to heart trouble, induced by hardening of the arteries.

Mr. Ahern was the son of John and Johanna Ahern and was born in this city on April 1, 1855 attending the local public schools. Surviving him are a wife and daughter, Miss Nellie Ahern, a sister, Margaret Ahern of this city and a niece, Mrs. F. W. Kalinowske. He was a member of St. Patrick's church. ALLEGED BOOTLEGER, FLEEING ARREST CAPTURED AT POINT OF GUN: BRIDGEPORT GIRL ALSO HELD

Carlos Duarte, Portugese, 35, alleged bootlegger, was captured at the point of a gun by the local police late Sunday afternoon, after a chase during which two shots were fired by Officer Clifford Crary. Lena Montanero, 20, of Bridgeport, who it is claimed has been living with Duarte as his wife at No. 121 Summit street, is also held by the police. Duarte is charged with transportation of liquor and seduction and the girl is charged with seduction. It is said the couple have been living together as Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

Earlier in the afternoon Charles Montanero, Bridgeport, brother of the girl, complained to the police at police headquarters that she was living with Duarte as his wife. He gave the police the address at which the couple have been living.

Captain Thomas P. Murphy detailed Sergt. Myron O. Morgan and Officer Clifford Crary to go to the house and arrest the couple. The officers found the Montanero girl at the house and arrested her. As Duarte was not at home, the officers lay in wait for him.

A short while later Duarte drove into the yard at the house in a Stevens car. As the officers made their appearance to arrest him, he jumped from the machine, ducked through the yard, down Bills avenue, through a yard on Ward street into the nearby woods. The officers set chase after him and as Duarte failed to heed orders to stop, Officer Crary fired two shots in the air.

Rushing into the woods, Duarte ran behind a ledge and ducked into the high weeds in that section in an effort to hide from the officers. Drawing his gun, Officer Crary ordered him to surrender. Once under arrest Duarte gave no further trouble and after being questioned at police headquarters was locked up in default of $2,500. The Montanero girl was locked up in the woman's detention room under bonds of $1,000.

A quanity of liquor was found in Duarte's machine and several bottles and glasses were found in the house. The liquor, bottles and glasses were taken to police headquarters as evidence of the liquor law violation.

FRANK T. MAPLES IS BACK FROM TOUR

Frank T. Maples, who has been on a tour through Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire, in search of attractions for the New London county fair, has arrived back in Norwich. Last Thursday Mr. Maples attended the annual New England sheep dog trial sat Fillmore Farm, in the heart of the Bennington valley. Several thousand people representing New England and western states were in attendance. A delicious menu was served and a special programme of entertainment was arranged for the guests.

In the sheep dog trials Sam Stoddard's dog, New Hampshire, was the strong favorite, as he had never been beaten. The test was to take sheep that had been turned into a 20 acre field, through two gates then around to the barn, stopping on the way to drive them into a pen, 10 feet square, with a four foot opening, then out and on to the barn. Mr. Stoddard's dog, Scotty, took 21 minutes for the test. The winner, a cross betwen a Scotch and an Old English shepherd, did the trick in six minues flat. This dog received the $50 cup which it must win twice more to hold permanently.

The dog's owner, John B. Andrus of Pawlet, Vt., was greatly pleased with the performance. Mr. Maples is in communication with Mr. Andrus, and hopes to secure the dog as an attraction at the New London county fair.

REV. GEO. H. STROUSE SPEAKER AT C. E. PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union was held at Ledyard Center Saturday afternoon and was well attended in spite of the inclement weather. The afternoon was devoted to games and contests under the leadership of Orrin Naples of Bozrah society. At 6 o'clock all gathered around the tables for a basket lunch. The Ledyard society very generously provided the lemonade.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Jacob R. Speerli of Fitchville. Rev. John Smith of Preston City entertained the group with several of his humorous stories. At 7 o'clock all adjourned to the church where a praise service was conducted by Rev. Ralph Krout of Ledyard, who also read the devotional service. The attendance was then taken, showing members present from Norwich Town, Fitchville, Bozrah, Taftville, Ledyard and Preston City. The president of the union, Harold Muttart, extended a vote of thanks to the Ledyard church and Endeavor society for their hospitality. He then introduced Rev. George H. Strouse, of Bozrah formerly of this city, the speaker of the evening. Rev. Mr. Strouse spoke on the topic, Who Is Christ and What Is the Church? For 19 centuries men have been thinking over these questions. Matchless pictures of Jesus are given by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Matthew records Christ as a King, Mark as a servant, Luke as the ideal man and John as the matchless Christ. We are to think of the church as a body of Christ and we must concentrate our ideas and our passions towards Christ and the church. Christian Endeavor stands for Christ and the church. The service closed with the singing of Blest Be the Tie That Binds and the Mizpah benediction.

DISTRICT SUPT. GENTER OPENS CAMP MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug 19—Willimantic Camp meeting opened Saturday evening in the Tabernacle. Rev. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich, president of the association, made the opening address in which he set forth some of the features of the week's program. Rev. John Pearce offered prayer. Rev. Mr. Genter then introduced Justin Lawrie of New York and he proceeded to render a program of vocal solos. Miss Roberta Bitgood of New London acted as accompanist. Mr. Lawrie gave a variety of songs, including among others the following "When the Day Is Done," "Picturesque Even," "Love Song," "The Bagpipe," "Mother of Mine," "Mother Machree" and "Come Back to Mandalay." The wonderful range of his voice was fully manifest and the encores were loud and enduring.

Mr. Lawrie spoke for several minutes during an interim which occurred in the middle of the program, giving a portion of his Christian experience.

On Sunday at 10:30, the hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King," was sung in opening the service. Prayer was offered by Rev. O. E. Tourtellotte of East Hartford and the Scriptures were read by Rev. L. P. McLellan of Old Mystic. Justin Lawrie sang very sweetly and impressively "How Beautiful Among the Mountains," and "The Ninety and Nine." The hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," was heartily sung as a fitting prelude to the sermon on Prayer delivered by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Spaulding of New London.

The sermon was based on a clause found in I Samuel 3:10—"And I said, Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth." The speaker narrated the remarkable circumstances surrounding the childhood and birth of the prophet Samuel which led up to the prayer sentence of the text. This determines that prayer which is of the genuine sort, is an adventure with God. Not all of us would dare to tell God to ask us to do something for him but when Samuel offered this petition he became great. Many have thought of prayer as a teasing of God to do something for us. Not so did Samuel. He proceeded to offer several incidents of Scripture worthies who became great, each following the other with panoramic effect and leading to a powerful plea to his hearers to consecrate all to God. Mr. Lawrie sang impressively the selection, "God Is Calling."

Rev. F. W. Gray of Burnside presided at the Sunday afternoon service. Prayer was offered by Revs. J. W. Carter of Jewett City and the Scriptures were read by Rev. F. O. Burnett of Hockanum. Mr. Lawrie sang Teach Me to Pray, and My Task. The preacher was Rev. M. E. Genter, district superintendent. His subject was The Greatest Invitation in All Ages, and his text was Matt. 11:28, Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.

Among other things he said that this invitation was so extensive that none were excluded because of race, nationality or color. The little boy who mourns because of some deformity that he can never be like other boys, who feels that he is shut out of some associations which he craves, is not excluded by this invitation. This invitation does not suggest that we are to wait to prepare ourselves. Jesus bids us come as we are. He urged it to be the part of the church to extend this invitation to all mankind and in closing stressed the obligation and work of the individual in bringing others to Christ. Mr. Lawrie followed the sermon with a solo, Come Unto Me.

At 7.30 Dr. Spaulding gave an illustrated lecture on Mexico and Mr. Lawrie was again the soloist.

Monday's program will include the following: 8.15 a. m. morning watch service in charge of Rev. J. I. Pennypacker of Niantic. At 9.30 Howard T. Pierce of New London will lecture on The Sacred Ministry of Music. At 11 o'clock Dr. Philip L. Frick will give the first in the series on the general topic "Finding God", this one being "Finding God in Non-Living Things." At 2 p. m. Rev. M. E. Osborne of Rockville who has been a missionary in India will give an address, the service being held under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. Mr. Osborne will appear in costume and in some parts of the service will be assisted by his two sons. At 7.30 Dr. Spaulding will give the second in his series of illustrated lectures on missionary work in the countries south of us.

Children's services will be held each day at 3.15 p. m. in the Epworth chapel. These services will be followed at 4 p. m. by a recreational program at the playground every afternoon except Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stephens of Vernon were called away on Friday by the death of Mr. Stephens' father, Edwin R. Stephens at his home in Waterford, N. Y. He was a local preacher. The funeral took place at his late home on Sunday.

Rev. W. D. Woodward of Manchester arrived at the grounds Saturday. He supplied the pulpit at Trinity church Norwich on Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Stephens will have charge of the office on Monday and until the return of her mother Mrs. W. J. Stephens.

Howard T. Pierce, the camp meeting pianist was in his place Sunday morning and he presided at the piano at all the services Sunday. Mrs. Florence Manuel, the musical director, led the singing on Sunday and already several have enlisted in the camp meeting choir Miss Roberta Bitgood who served as accompanist at the recital Saturday evening was highly praised for her excellent work.

It was announced at the service on Sunday evening that Mr. Lawrie had accepted an invitation to remain on the grounds until Monday evening and that he will sing at the services on Monday.

Dziggetai of Job

It is thought that the dziggetai, or Kiang horse, approaches as near to the primitive horse as any now found in a wild state. This is believed to be the animal so graphically described in the Book of Job.

The home of this creature, which formerly ranged farther west, is now the high plateaus of Chinese Turkestan between Lake Lob Nor and the mountainous region of Tibet. This plateau is covered with a growth of short grass on which the wild horses graze. The climate is very cold, the mercury in winter sinking to 40 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

The Kiang horse is a shaggy animal, having bodily somewhat the aspect of a donkey except as to the tail and ears. It is, however, a genuine horse, having rather delicate legs and feet and ears by no means resembling those of a donkey or mule. The color of the head and of the upper part and sides of the body is a reddish tan shading to a bay and, though this color grows lighter from above downward, it contrasts strikingly with the pure white of the inner side of the forelegs.

Along the spine runs a well defined strike of thick blackish-brown hair extending to the root of the tail. The hair is long and shaggy and protects the horse against the cold of winter.

The dziggetai, like all the other wild horses, live in bands or herds of 100 to 200 individuals, each presided over by an old male. This leader gives the signal when any danger approaches. These animals are preyed upon frequently by wolves, but their most terrible enemy is the ounce or Turkestan panther.

A Prehistoric Structure

The recent unearthing of the remains of a prehistoric wooden structure near Ipswich, England, has led to the belief on the part of some scientists that ancient man may have attained a greater state of civilization than has been previously thought. The flint implements characteristic of this period were quite capable of shaping wood, according to J. Reid Moir in a report to the British scientific journal, Nature, since he has tried the idea experimentally himself. By means of flint tools flaked with a quartzite hammer he bored through a board, sharpened stakes and sawed through an elm branch. The work requires patience and time, he says, but is not difficult. Many of the flint relics of the stone age are admirably suited for this purpose, according to Mr. Moir, and probably represent an insoluble residue of prehistoric industries of which the more perishable products have disappeared during the ages that have elapsed since they were made.

GIANTS WREST FIRST PLACE FROM CARDINALS IN TIGHT GAME AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19—(AP)—The Giants stampeded the promised land in full view of 33,000 alien spectators at Sportman's park this afternoon as the Cardinals fell before the cunning of Larris Benton by 3 to 2 for their third defeat in as many days by the identical score.

The latest advance of the clan McGraw left the New York forces still half a game short of the most advanced National league trench on the games, but the palm went to the Giants on percentage, .606 to .603 because of their having played fewer games and suffered fewer defeats than the Red Wings.

The victory was Benton's twentieth of the season and his twenty-third game. It gave him a record of saving one game and winning another outright as the Giants assaulted the citadel of the Cardinals in three successful skirmishes, the sorrel top having saved Fitzsimmons in the first engagement only two days ago.

The Cardinals collected nine hits off Benton against the seven the Giants scored from the left arm of Willie Sherdel, but the New York ace seldom was in difficulty. After New York had taken a lead of three in the fourth, the Cards bunched singles by Wilson and Thevenow with Sherdel's infield out for a run in the fifth and picked up another when Ernest Orsatti, Minneapolis recruit, opened the sixth with a drive into the left field seats for his second home run in two days.

Benton retained the upper hand through both of these flurries, and was the coolest man in Sportman's park in the ninth when the Red Birds filed the bases with two out in their dying bid to save first place. Hafey opened with a single, Holm and Harper popped out. High, batting for Thevenow, then singled to center, and Blades, pinch batsman for Sherdel, walked to fill the bases, but Benton forced Douthit to hoist a fly to Mann.

Benton fanned five men and gave only two passes. Sherdel walked nobody but struck out only two. Both pitchers received almost flawless support. Thevenow's inconsequential error on Hogan's roller in the second being the only misplay of the game. The teams played a cautious game in the field and seldom achieved brilliance, but Frank Merriwell Frisch could not be restrained from his usual flashing performance.

Sherdel pitched excellent ball save in the third round when the Giants bunched two doubles, a single, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice for all their runs. Score:

BECK'S SINGLE IN 9TH GIVES CUBS VICTORY

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—(AP)—The Cubs made it two out of three from Brooklyn by taking the final game of the series, 3 to 2 today. Beck's single in the ninth inning with the bases filled and two out sent Hartnett across the plate with the winning run.

Three successive doubles by Statz, Flowers and Herman accounted for the two Brooklyn runs in the first inning, but thereafter Charlie Root permitted only three scattered hits. Doak allowed the Cubs but six hits but errors by Bancroft and Herman and his own wildness cost him the game. The score:

MEYER WINS 200-MILE AUTO SPEEDWAY CLASSIC

SPEEDWAY, Altoona, Pa., Aug. 19—(AP)—Lou Meyer, leading continually from the half way mark, hung up his second major victory of the season today when he piloted his automobile home ahead of the field in the 200 mile International Sweepstakes at the Altoona speedway. His time for the race was 1:42:54 an average of 117 miles an hour.

Bob McDonogh, who led at the 100 mile post but lost his advantage when he blew a tire, finished second in 1:43:43. Cliff Woodbury, who took Fred Comer's place at the wheel of the latter's machine when a flying splinter shattered Boomer's goggles, was third in 1:44:55.

Billy Arnold was fourth and Dave Evans, Ray Keech and Babe Stapp hit the wire in the order named. Nine of the sixteen starters failed to complete the 200 miles, having been forced out by mechanical trouble.

BIG CROWD SEES YANKEES SPLIT DOUBLE PROGRAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—(AP)—Spurred by the slump of the Yankees, more than 65,000 fans turned out today to see the champions divide a double header with Cleveland. The Indians won the first game by 3 to 2 in ten innings while the Yankees came back strong to take the second by 10 to 2.

The even break technically left the relative standing of the Yankees and the Athletics the same, with the champions leading by five games, but the net result of the afternoon was slightly in the advantage o the runners-up, who remained idle. The Yankee lead now is measured by a difference of six in the winning column and of only four on the losing side, which means that the Mackmen in the reckoning of ball players, are four games behind.

Cleveland won the opening game when Martin Autry touched Freddy Hemiach for a home run in the tenth with Morgan on base. The Yanks came back to score one run in their half of the tenth, driving Hudlin from the box in favor of Bayne, but were unable in the end to match the Cleveland total after getting three on with only one out.

Henry Johnson gave Cleveland only six hits in the second clash and never was in any real danger. The Yanks pounded Uhle, Miljus and Underhill. The scores:

REDS RETAIN HOLD ON FOURTH PLACE; BEAT BRAVES

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19—(AP)—Cincinnati remained in the first division today by defeating Boston 4 to 3. Boston leaped on Ray Kolp before he got firmly settled on the pitching mound in the first inning and scored three runs on three successive singles and a triple after two were out. After that Kolp pitched great ball holding the visitors to three scattered singles. Cincinnati rallied in the third and scored three runs due mainly to a long triple by George Kelly and went into the lead in the fourth.

Palmero, who reported to Boston here Friday, started the game for the Braves. He was bought from Toledo.

Cincinnati increased its double play total to 144. Score:

SOCONY PROVES TO BE MASTER OF THE VELVETMEN

In a full nine inning game the Socony of New London proved conclusively that they are masters of the J. B. Martin club Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin diamond winning 6 to 2. It was a free hitting game with the Oilmen gathering twelve hits off Russ Fisher which they turned into six runs. The Velvetmen were unable to do much with the pitching of Taylor with the exception of the sixth and seventh innings when they scored their runs. Taylor received fine support from his team which played errorless ball. Eddie Murphy proved the hitting star of the game having a perfect day at bat. The score:

BALTIC DOWNS MOOSUP IN TIGHT ENCOUNTER

Sunday at Sayles field, Baltic, the Baltic Social and Athletic club defeated the Moosup A. C. club in a well played game by the score of 3 to 1.

Pepin, in the pitcher's box for the home team, would of had a shut out only for a wild throw on the second baseman's part. The Moosup team only made 3 hits off Pepin with two of them counting in the third when they scored their only run.

Baltic scored two runs in the first on two hits, base on balls, batter hit by pitcher and a sacrifice, and their third run on a force out, a sacrifice and an error by the left fielder when he dropped the ball hit by Laliberte.

A fair crowd turned out and the manager hopes to see more at the next game. Score by innings:

TAFTVILLE SHUTS OUT FAST NEW BRITAIN CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW BRITAIN, Aug. 19—Playing brilliant ball behind Tony West the Taftville A. A. shut out the New Britain Falcons here this afternoon 3 to 0. it being the Falcons' first defeat in 15 games. West had the local team under control at all stages of the game and although he fanned only one he kept the six hits so well scattered that only two men reached second base during the game.

Taftville scored in two innings, the fifth and seventh, getting one run in the fifth and adding two more in the seventh. Moore bunted and then went to second on a wild peg from where he scored on Dabrowski's single. In the seventh Moore was passed and went to second while Dabrowski was being thrown out at first. West came through with a crushing double which scored Moore. A moment later West crossed the plate when Normandin singled. This ended the scoring. The score:

FAST GAMES IN JUNIOR LEAGUE THIS WEEK

With but two weeks to go, the race in the Junior Twilight has developed into a three-cornered fight, between Taftville, the Rotary and Jewett City. At present Taftville enjoys a one-half game lead over the Rotary who in turn are only one-half game in front of Jewett City, in third place. The games this week will again be played on the new field on Hollyhock Island. Tonight, Taftville will have a chance to strengthen their hold on first place when they meet the last place Duwells. But one can never tell what will happen in baseball and the Duwells may pull the unexpected and hand the leaders a beating. Tuesday, one of the banner games of the season will take place, when the Jewett City and the Rotary clash. This game will mean a whole lot to both teams, and it is certain that both will be in there fighting for a victory. Wednesday, Taftville plays again, this time against the Elks, while on Thursday, the Duwells will meet the Y. M. C. A.

Tonight's game is scheduled to start at 6:15 p. m. and the following batteries are scheduled to work. Raymond of Paradis and Fontaine for Taftville and Jenks and Monty for the Duwells.

THAMES A. A. HAS BETTER ARGUMENT WITH THERMOS

The Thames A. C. had a slight edge on the Thermos Boilers in the game on Sunday afternoon at the Hollyhock Island diamond, winning by the close score of 2 to 1. As predicted the game was a real old fashioned game of baseball. The Thames club went to work and planted a run early in the fourth inning when Hamel singled, stole second an scored on Busch's single to center. The Thermos knotted the score in the seventh when Finn doubled and Labensky brought him across with a single. The score remained even until the ninth when Burns broke through with a scratch hit triple and then trotted home on Kozlowski's single. Manager McGuire is highly satisfied with his club and has booked the Willard A. C. of New London for next Sunday. The game was featured by nice pitching, Nevins doing the hurling for the Thames club while Dudek was in the box for the Thermos. Byington featured both in the field and at bat.

MILLER AND DONOHUE TAKE MATCH FROM BROOKS AND BURT BY 2 AND 1

That weight, height and brawn is not essential to good golf was again demonstrated by Massie B. Miller Sunday afternoon in a four-ball match in which he, paired with Tom Donohue, pro at Stonington Manor, defeated Durham Burt, of Shenecossett, and Charlie Brooks, of New London Country club, 2 and 1, at the Stonington Manor course. Miller, the diminutive little pro who only tips the scale, at the flyweight limit, showed the way to his brother pros, who towered above him in height but not in skill, getting a gross of 73, one over par.

Massie in his battle with Old Man fought a draw in the outward nine, getting a neat 36, and then starting the second nine he had the Old Man groggy, shooting in two fast on the 10th and 11th holes. With the venerable gentleman hanging on the ropes Massie kept pounding away until the 14th when the Old Man dealt the youngster a cruel blow with a six on the par four hole. Miller held his own for the next three holes. On the last hole of the match, Old Man Par emerged with a slight shade on Miller when the latter took a six to give him a 73.

Miller played brilliant golf during the entire match and with the exception of the 14th and the 18th where he took sixes, he was shooting par golf into which he sprinkled three birdies, one on the second, one on the tenth and the last on the 11th. Again yesterday Miller surprised the gallery with his long driving, his longest drive being on the 15th where he drove a full 350 yards, his ball falling short of the green by about 25 yards. It was Massie's superb driving and iron shots that kept the gallery breathless when they weren't battling the mosquitoes.

The real thrill of the afternoon's match came on the 16th, a 135-yard hole, when Charlie Brooks came withing a grass blade of getting a hole in one. Brooks, using a niblick, lifted the ball high and as it settled there was a sharp intake of breaths among the gallery. Down came the ball hit the lip of the cup with a little back-spin and settled to rest within three inches of the edge. It was a beautiful shot well played. When Burt shot the crowd also got another thrill for Burt laid his ball dead to the pin and little over a foot from the cup. Both Brooks and Burt were down for birdie twos.

Donohue who finished second with a 78 turned in two birdies, one on the ninth and the other on the 18th. Again yesterday Donohue demonstrated his superior power in getting out of trouble. On two occasions his drives come to rest in places that seemed almost impossible to recover from but he put his 200 and some pounds into it and the ball sailed straight and true for the flag.

Brooks was rather sour on the first nine but he came back strong on the second, cutting seven strokes from his 45 for the outward trip, to give him an 83. Brooks on the second nine took a 38 with two birdies, one on the 12th and the other on the 16th. His partner shot steady golf, his drives going straight and true and his iron shots screaming for the pin. His was a nice exhibition but was slightly overshadowed by the more spectacular play of Miller. The scores:

FINISHERS CLASH WITH INSILCOS THIS EVENING

The United States Finishers, who now lead the Industrial league, face the first of a series of crucial tests this evening when they meet the Insilcos at the Academy campus. The Bleachery outfit must win this evening if they are to continue to set the pace so tight is the scramble for the leadership between them, the Y. M. C. A. and the champion Richmond Radiators.

The present standing of these clubs is as follows:

	W	L	Pct
U. S. F.	6	3	.667
Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636
Richmonds	8	5	.615

A Bleachery loss tonight will make it:

Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636
Richmonds	8	5	.615
U. S. F.	6	4	.600

A win for the Greeneville club will result:

U. S. F.	7	3	.700
Y. M. C. A.	7	4	.636
Richmonds	8	5	.615

The case simply is that the Bleachery will drop to third place by losing this evening while a victory will place them in a fairly strong first position.

The game starts at 6.15 and

WEEK'S BUSINESS DEVELOPMENTS PORTEND A PROSPEROUS AUTUMN

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—(AP)—Business was maintained at an unusually high level of activity during the past week, and developments continued to favor a prosperous autumn.

The past two months of hot weather have relieved merchants' shelves of burdensome stocks of seasonal goods and left them clear for fall stocks, for which, with increased purchasing power in the agricultural areas, orders are being placed with confidence.

The textile industry remained the outstanding weak spot, although a better tone prevailed in cotton cloths, with a renewal of buying from some influential sources. The number of active spindles in July was the lowest for that month since 1912, and it is hoped that continued curtailment will eventually elevate prices to a profitable level. The New Bedford strike has resulted in a further closing of mills.

Apprehension continued to be felt in some quarters over the credit stringency, but time money eased somewhat during the week. Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, took the side of optimism, predicting that the commercial paper rate would rule around 5 1-2 per cent in the fall, compared to 6-6 1-2 per cent last week.

Steel, automobile and building industries remained, as they have for some weeks, the most glowing part of the picture. Rather than showing signs of yielding to the seasonal August slump, steel mills actually speeded up as prices for finished lines for last quarter delivery improved. Ingot production of the United States Steel corporation in the last week rose from 76 per cent of capacity to 80 per cent, a gain such as this season has not seen in many years. Production of independent manufacturers also showed similar gains. Big iron and non-ferrous metals showed some improvement.

The automobile industry is apparently having the best summer in its history. Production for July exceeded 400,000 automobiles and trucks, substantially in advance of July, 1926, which was the industry's record year. Employment at Detroit for the second consecutive week surpassed all records. Out of 19 automobile manufacturers reporting earnings for the first half of the year, 12 showed good gains over last year.

The petroleum industry reported further price advances and a decrease in daily average production for the last week, but some uneasiness over the problem of keeping down production was felt as restrictions at the Little River pool in the Seminole area were temporarily lifted, and indications were for higher production in California.

The crop outlook became in most quarters even more pleasing, and opinion was freely expressed that the summer estimates of the department of agriculture would be generally exceeded. The Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, however, suffered a rather serious setback from storms, which caused a firming of cotton prices.

Car loadings showed a substantial increase over the previous week and the corresponding week a year ago, but still were under 1926. Business failures registered a distinct decline, and bank clearings were down to normal, showing for the first time in months a decrease from the corresponding week last year, in part reflecting high money rates.

Russell Davenport, a soldier, stationed at Fort Wright, Fishers Island, was charged with intoxication and breach of the peace but he received leniency from the court as judgment was suspended. Davenport came to New London Friday afternoon and started to drink. He finally went to the union station where he was obnoxious and when he was ordered from the platform he attacked Special Agent Harold Swanson, New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The officer dealt the soldier a blow on the head with a blackjack that opened up Davenport's scalp and the next that the latter realized was that he was occupying a cell at police headquarters. He returned to his post this morning but with a disfigured appearance.

Jack Batchelor, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $10 and costs. He went to the New York Coffee Pot, shortly before Friday midnight and created a disturbance. Patrolman John Sullivan arrested him on complaint of the proprietor, D. P. Lekas. In court Saturday a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

Joseph Ketilus, another sailor, went to Ocean Beach, Friday night and had been drinking. He annoyed about everyone in the vicinity of Bentley avenue and the car terminal until Patrolman Thomas Lyden took a hand in the affair. When Ketilus refused to board a trolley car and make his absence conspicuous, he attacked the officer with the result that he was arrested and given a cell in the police station for the night. Saturday he was compelled to pay a fine of $10 and costs, the aggregate amount that he paid into the city treasury being about $19.

SEASON'S BIGGEST CROWD AT OCEAN BEACH SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 19—As the season advances the throngs that go to the shore appear to become greater. Today there was probably the largest number of people at Ocean Beach that has been there at any time during the summer. All sections of the state were represented in the mass of visitors. The beach itself was lined with young and old in bathing costumes and in street garb, while the board walk and all the roads to it were crowded with humanity. There was no accident, nor was there any disorder and the police had little to do but direct traffic.

Work on the excavation for the home of New London lodge of Elks is progressing rapidly. The power excavator attracts attention of all who pass along Washington street. The building to be erected will cost about $70,000 and will, it is expected, be ready for occupancy in the winter or early spring.

Jay street is avoided by all automobiles at present for the work of widening and rebuilding the highway has made the road almost impassable. There is no entrance to Franklin street from Jay and the hill to Huntington street is in such condition that few motorists will venture to make use of it.

New London's birthday anniversary Sept. 9th, is approaching but no special recognition of it will be made.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

It was not so long ago that the first real epic of the war in the air swept across the motion picture horizon, establishing itself as the forerunner of its kind and leaving no doubt in the minds of the general public that here, truly, was a screen story that would live.

Paramount, however, took up its own challenge and produced "The Legion of the Condemned," called the companion picture to "Wings," now at the Palace, and judging from the reaction of the first night audience, "The Legion of the Condemned" is more than a companion it is a pal.

Into this group is projected young Gary Cooper as the American newspaperman who wishes to die because of supposed faithlessness on the part of his sweetheart. The high spot in the story comes when Cooper is forced to carry the sweetheart (Fay Wray) across the German lines as a spy.

In many of the flying sequences the spectator is carried along in the cockpit of the "ship" living really the life of the aviator in battle. And the men who handled the "planes" were those pilots who had made names for themselves as aces during the World war. Capt. S. C. Campbell, of the British; Ted Parsons, of the French, and Lieut. Rudolph Schad, of the German Air corps, take part in the production.

Fay Wray, as the spy-sweetheart, and Gary Cooper, as the young American newspaper man, give performances which are excellent.

The sensational stage piece which brought Jane Cowl into world prominence, "Smilin' Thru," will be presented by the Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre tonight and tomorrow.

This fantastic comedy-drama is the story of the spirit of a woman who returned to help a pair of young lovers achieve the happiness she had been thwarted of 50 years before.

On the eve of her wedding night she fell victim to a bullet meant for the man she was going to marry. The shot was fired by a rejected suitor and over the ages a great hate has existed between the two families. The spectacular manner in which the boy and girl of the present generation are united and find their happiness is a thrilling and gripping climax to the series of incidents which precede.

This comedy, which has all the sentiment without the sentimentality of the great stage piece, has played to packed houses on both sides of the Atlantic for several seasons. It came as one of the outstanding plays of several years, catching and winning huge audiences by its wistful appeal and sincere charm.

Art Director Edwards will execute a most wonderful scenic background for this great play.

Breed Theatre.

"A Certain Young Man" is truly a moving picture. It is an example of just what can be done with the camera toward the development of a separate and distinct art, that neither depends upon inherited mechanics of the stage nor title to emphasize its points. It is for this reason if for no other that "A Certain Young Man" is one of the finest comedy dramas of the year. This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture began a three days' run last night at the Breed theatre. It is a Hobart Henley production starring Ramon Novarro.

It is by far the finest picture that Hobart Henley has ever directed not excluding "His Secretary," "Exchange of Wives" and "The Student Prince." Every scene is rounded out with an "art that conceals art." Though his production is the very essence of sophistication and cleverness, the mechanics are never apparent to the audience, nor is one's mind allowed to supersede the action as to the inevitability of a situation. Henley is not to be compared with any other director, for with this picture he has put himself into a class by himself.

Ramon Novarro, who stars in the production as Lord Jerry, has never given a better account of himself.

Needless to say, this role will, without doubt, increase his fan mail by leaps and bounds, for it is the type of part that allows a great display of personal magetism.

The cast includes Marceline Day, Renee Adoree, Carmel Myers, Bert Roach and Huntley Gordon.

Napoleon's Handwriting

Interesting and exhaustive studies have been made in France of Napoleon's chirography. When a young man Napoleon did not write a bad hand, although like some other eminent men, he couldn't learn to spell. When he was an artillery officer his writing was simple and direct, but when the Corsican Capt. Bonaparte distinguished himself at the siege of Toulon and became the French Gen. Bonaparte, his writing took on what was called a "furious illegibility."

Curiously enough, from that time there seems to have been a gradual degeneration, until, profoundly discouraged and utterly humiliated, he scratched an undecipherable, mispelled scrawl of submission to the prince regent on July 14, 1815.

It is said that this change from a simple to a confused writing began at a certain date, namely with a report, skillfully garbled, of the part he took in what Carlyle called the "whiff of grapeshot that spoke from the steps of St. Roch on the 13th Vendemaire." (October 5, 1795.)

The culminating eccentricity of his tortuous strokes of the pen was exhibited in the letter "P". This letter showed plainly the mental changes of the man who would unhesitatingly declare war against the first comer; who would divorce the wife he loved; who would propose a kingdom of Haiti for Louis XVIII; who would freeze nearly a million upon the steppes of Russia. This letter "P" became of strange and abnormal form. It was excessively developed. For 20 years the great general used this extravagant and, according to the investigators, accusing letter, especially noticeable in his later unroyal signature, "NP."

Tuning Church Bells

It is said that an English clergyman was the first to call attention to the fact that bells are rarely in tune and that fault can be remedied if a church bell was originally in tune with itself. According to his theory, a bell must have at least five tones at correct intervals to form a perfect musical chord.

At first the work of tuning was done with a hammer, a chisel and a file, and a magnificent tenor bell in Norfolk, England, was thus reduced three-quarters of an inch in diameter; but modern bell foundries employ a machine with a revolving cutter that shaves the metal near the crown of the bell until the tuner, aided by a tuning fork, has hit the right pitch.
